TWO FAMOUS WOMEN BORN IN SAME YEAR

Queen Victoria and Lydia E. Pinkham

MRS. ANNA McHENRY
1005 E. PLUM STREET, MARSHALL, ILLINOIS

In the year 1819, two babies were born whose lives were destined to have a far-reaching influence. One was born in a stern castle of Old England, the other in a humble farmhouse in New England.

Queen Victoria through her wisdom and kindliness during a long and prosperous reign has become enthroned in the hearts of the British people. Lydia E. Pinkham through the merit of her Vegetable Compound has made her name a household word in thousands of American homes.

Marshall, Illinois.—"After my second child was born, I never saw a well day for five years. My father was telling his druggist about my condition, and the druggist insisted that father take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have me try it, as it had helped his wife. I had given up, but to please father and mother, I commenced taking your medicine and in a week I had begun to feel better. When I passed through the Change of Life, I was taking the Vegetable Compound and I had no trouble of any kind."—Mrs. Anna McHenry, 1005 E. Plum St., Marshall, Illinois.

Another Woman Helped

Philadelphia, Penna.—Mrs. Caroline Nagy, of 2717 Sears St., in a recent letter to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., says that after her child was born she was in a very weak condition. She could not seem to regain her health and went to her mother for advice. She told her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it had helped her when in like condition, and it has helped her mother also. So Mrs. Nagy started taking it. She felt better after taking the first bottle.—after taking six bottles her weakness and other troubles disappeared, and she is never done praising the Compound.

In some families the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GEO. CURTIS MORGAN'S BARKING DOGS GET HIM FINED IN NEW LONDON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 14.—If every dog has his day, the dogs of George Curtis Morgan, an attorney of this city, certainly had their time this morning. They were not in the police court, but their owner was and he was there as an accused person rather than as an attorney for a defendant. There has been trouble brewing for Mr. Morgan for a considerable time because complaints have been frequent to the police that the Morgan dogs have become a nuisance to persons residing in the vicinity of the Morgan homestead at Broad and Channing streets. When the police informed Mr. Morgan that his neighbors protested against his dogs barking the attorney represented that he would remove all cause for complaint. Indeed he was only too anxious to bring peace of mind to the distressed and to insure sleep for them that a sonnos powder would not bring to them. Still the complaints kept coming in and they multiplied as the days and the nights came. The complaints a few days ago took the form of a petition and that led the prosecutor to send a conference in which the militant opponents of Mr. Morgan's dog nuisance should meet face to face in the office of the prosecutor. Mr. Morgan was invited to meet his accusers but he would not go that, stating that he did not want to face them as we might not control his temper. So there was nothing for the prosecutor to do, but to issue a complaint on the arrest of Mr. Morgan and the prosecutor in so for failing to comply with an order issued on the petition of police and demanding the abatement of the dog nuisance.

This morning Mr. Morgan appeared in court and set up his defense when [illegible] The accusation was [illegible] and counsel for it was produced [illegible] a representative of some 20 people on the Northwest. Col. William [illegible] Mayor Rose Quaker H. Howe, the Rev. Baptist church, Mrs. [illegible] Burns, Coons and others were [illegible] their [illegible] and testified as they [illegible] the [illegible] Mr. Morgan [illegible] to tell of [illegible] to the Morgan premises to [illegible] of the disturbance. [illegible] Mr. Morgan's appearance on the [illegible] an aggravation [illegible] Morgan. The [illegible] testified [illegible] and [illegible] that [illegible] at 5 o'clock in the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] were moderate as a rule. Mr. Morgan pleaded the cause. Questioned, but the replies were [illegible] the [illegible] words as the questions [illegible] the turn of witnesses or unwarranted aggressiveness. After the case had left the witness stand the attorney added to him as "a military dictator" and that brought a hot reminder from the court, to whom the attorney referred as a man who should be the last to call names in which he lived. He reminded him that he had been born in the city hall, referring to the inauguration of Col. Mercer as the first attorney to finance the city under the city manager form of government. Mr. Morgan accused Mr. Mercer of having the city manager shooting about the premises of Mr. Morgan at last, but this was not proved. Col. Mercer said he saw the manager in the neighborhood, but could not say that he was not there at the time of any one that he knew of.

Miss King, a nurse, gave testimony that as along the lines covered by Mr. Morgan. She described the Lowe and the barking of the dogs. Mr. Morgan inquired whether she had ever heard a dog sing when she had told the barking of the animals. Miss Waite also told of the barking of the dogs and their whining as if in distress. Mr. Morgan intimated that Miss Waite was "tickled to death" to sign the petition, but the witness only denied that purpose and left the case a little embarrassed. Miss Grace Cook repeated in substance what had been said in testimony by others, as did Grant E. Edgar and Clark Edgar, neighbors of Mr. Morgan.

William H. Guest, another neighbor, told of the annoyance he had experienced from the dogs. Mr. Morgan took him in hand and endeavored to have the witness explain in the fullest particulars. He asked him whether he "was apt to kick at anything" but received a negative reply. Mr. Guest fired back that he kicked at such a nuisance as the Morgan dogs were.

The witnesses for the defendant were Mrs. Russell, Mrs Harold Brand, Mrs. Ellen Parker Tyler, Thomas A. Reddien, Arthur Lenyard and Mr. Morgan himself. The witnesses never had heard the dogs bark, nor were they in any way annoyed by the animals. Mr. Morgan explained the means he had employed to abate the annoying conditions complained of and related what he had done in the way of erecting wire screens and even to putting one of the dogs in the house. He declared that other dogs came into the neighborhood and that then his dogs barked. He referred to a dog owned by Sam Hyde as a first cousin of the Morgan dogs and said the Hyde animal was a frequent caller on the Morgan dogs and seemed to the their company. Mr. Morgan was in excellent good nature and fought his way along against strong odds.

Judge Prince, however, decided that Mr. Morgan had not complied with the order given to him to abate the nuisance and then fined him $50. Mr. Morgan appealed from the decision and will take recourse to the common pleas court. Attorney Clayton P. Smith made the argument for Mr. Morgan and Attorney Max Beyer assisted in the cross-examination of witnesses.

Breed Theater

Time as the greatest jester of life, whose whims change the destiny of men, is the theme upon which Time, the Comedian, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which is the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today is founded.

The grim humor which time transmutes situations and emotions gives birth to this production which was directed by Robert Z. Leonard with Mae Busch and Lew Cody in the leading roles.

The grim humor which based time of the 20th centuroy and becomes a chronicle of the life of a woman whose husband commits suicide when he learns of her intention to run away with his friend. Time as the comedian of life weaves the lives of these two in such a manner that confronted by the grim mockery their search for happiness becomes futile.

The picture is reported to be one of the finest of the many successful productions that Leonard has directed. Lew Cody and Mae Busch are said to be at their best with a fine supporting cast that includes such well-known players as Gertrude Olmstead, Creighton Hale, Roy Stewart, Robert Ober, Nellie Parker Spaulding, Paulette Duval, Shannon Day, Rae Ethelyn, David Mir, Templar Saxe, Frank Elliott, George Periolat, Lillian Langdon, Jacques Abbott, Gertrude Bennett, and Mildred Vincent.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an educational comedy.

Strand Theatre

A story of love and loyalty pitted against hate and avarice in the great north woods opens Friday at the Strand theatre under the title of "North Star," an Associated Exhibitors' production, starring the famous dog actor, Strongheart.

A boy with no friends, with the exception of his frail sister, is the victim of a frame-up, perpetrated by one Robbins, and flees, the dog accompanying them. They are separated, and the dog finds a protector and friend in Noel Blake, who rescues him from two brutal tramps. Eventually North Star, which is the dog's name, brings Blake and the sister together, clears the boy of the charge against him, and pursues Robbins until the latter in his fright falls over the edge of a precipice.

Virginia Lee Corbin, Ken Maynard, Stuart Holmes and Harold Austin, who hold the principal parts, are well cast and give interesting and convincing interpretations of their roles, while Strongheart, by virtue of his simple and canine nature, is more than convincing. He is himself, and with the help of the others, carries the plot through to a powerful climax.

"North Star" is a Howard Estabrook production, directed by Paul Powell, in which Strongheart appeared through the courtesy of Miss Jane Murfin, his owner.

Several short subjects will also be featured.

Don't miss "The Skyrocket", which is showing for the last times today.

Broadway Theatre

A new program opens at the Broadway theatre today. The stage attractions are five acts of Keith-Albee vaudeville which is promised to be real entertainment for all with comedy predominating, some novelty, song and dance.

"The Checkered Flag" is the screen attraction with Elaine Hammerstein featured.

The cars were lined up for the race—and Jack had not appeared! Rita knew his whole future depended upon his winning—that nothing but a frame-up would keep him from the track. In two minutes the car would be ordered out. Should she do it? It would mean running against her own father's car and besides she was angry at Jack; he had accused her of a crime of which she was innocent. But after all she loved him.

Quickly she donned racing togs and jumped into the car in time for the start. They were off! Madly she plunged on, lap after lap. She must win for Jack. There was her father's car driven by Barton, who hated Jack because she loved him. Barton was heading straight toward her. Was he mad? A collision was certain. She gave the wheel a sharp turn and—

This is but one of the big thrills in "The Checkered Flag," the sensational racing story which will be shown here starting today. It's Elaine Hammerstein at her best. Don't miss it!

TO SPEND $45,000 FOR MESS HALLS AT NIANTIC

The sum of $49,000 has been allotted by the federal government to the state of Connecticut for the installation of permanent improvements to the state's camp grounds, and the military branch of the state government has decided to expend the entire appropriation in developing the camp grounds at Niantic. In past years the federal government has tendered aid to the state towards developing its camp grounds, but the offers have always been made with provisions that the grounds could be used by the government should it so desire. The state demurred to accepting the money with these strings attached, but this year the offer is made without restrictions and hence decision to accept it was arrived at.

It is planned to expend $45,000 of the allotment in the erection of 30 kitchen-mess shacks at the Niantic grounds. The remaining $4,000 will be spent in installing underground electric wires and making other improvements to the lighting and power system. The mess shacks will be 25 feet wide and 60 feet long and each will provide seating accommodations for approximately 35 men with individual kitchen facilities. Heretofore it has been necessary to do all of the cooking in the open and the men were fed in the old mess shacks at the grounds, of which there are three or four. In order to provide space for the erection of the new shacks, it will be necessary to tear down two and possibly three of the long mess shacks now standing.

Bids for the construction and electrical work are being asked by the National Guard property and disbursing officer at Hartford and will be received by him during the next ten days. Contracts will be awarded on April 24. Work on the construction of the mess halls and the installation of the underground wires will be started as soon as the contracts have been let.

POETRY

Spring

As every poet knows, 'tis quite the proper thing,
As soon as March is here, to write some rhymes on Spring.

To speak of "gentle breezes"; of softly falling showers";
"Brooks freed from icy fetters"; and birds, and grass, and flowers.

Of "boisterous March"; capricious April", and "lovely May",
That's if you're sentimental; if not inclined that way,

You strive to be facetious: to write of "colds" and "sneezes".
Unseasonable snowstorms; spring days in which one "freezes".

The truth is, Spring is full of most wonderful surprises,
And shows herself each day in most unexpected guises.

As though o'er Winter's sternness she were an easy victor.

Nor as a shrew, a vixen, should she be represented,
Who only as a teaser of mankind is contented.

In fact her disposition is really very human,
And Spring should be regarded like any other woman

If you should ask a reason for me—
Forgive—and her thaws.
She probably would tell you that reason was—"Because".

PAN-A-CE-A
Prevents the backsets

It keeps the flock right on the road to early maturity.

You simply add one pound of Pan-a-ce-a to 50 pounds of mash, or one teaspoonful for every 20 or 30 chicks once a day.

Pan-a-ce-a contains tonics that keep the flock hungry.

Pan-a-ce-a contains minerals very helpful to chicks during that stage of rapid growth of bone and feathers.

Costs little to use Pan-a-ce-a—the price of just one broiler will pay for all the Pan-a-ce-a 200 chicks will consume in 60 days.

In fact it costs nothing to feed enough Pan-a-ce-a to prove its worth if it should fail to convince you.

SPIRITUAL MEDIUM

Any man or woman who is in doubt or trouble about anything or anybody will find it profitable to call on Mr. Goddard. Science no longer doubts psychic demonstrations, no longer scoffs at mediumship, said Ella Wheeler Wilcox. If the medium can settle our domestic worries—if your greatest wishes can be gratified—if you can achieve the point you aspire to—if he can help you to rise to financial independence—do you think the time you spend with him is wasted?

Results are what count. And a visit to Mr. Goddard spells results. All affairs sacred and confidential. Hours 1 to 8 P. M.

BREAK IN STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Stock prices crumbled sharply in today's market. South Porto Rican sugar collapsed 33 points to 96, and scores of other industrial and railroad issues showed net declines of 1 to nearly 8 points. Trading was extremely dull until the last hour when bear traders launched a savage attack against the steel and motor shares which brought about heavy liquidation in the general list. Total sales were 1,306,300 shares.

Sugars were weak from the outset on selling inspired by the speculative belief that earnings of producing companies would be impaired by the low prices prevailing for the raw product and by reports of a strike of Cuban railroad employes. American Sugar Refining, Cuba Cane preferred, Kmanati, and most of the other active sugar issues dropped 2 to 8 points to new low levels for the year.

The day's business developments were mixed in character. Signs of easier credit conditions were seen in the lowering of call money rates. The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported net earings of $3.02 a share in the first quarter as compared with $2.91 in the corresponding period last year. First quarter bookings of the General Electric company were over $2,500,000 above those of last year.

Dun's report of commercial defaults in the United States for the first three months of the year were 6,081, the largest number of any first quarter since the spring of 1922, but the total liabilities of $108,460,339 were the smallest of any since 1921, and compared with $128,481,780 last year when failures numbered 5,969. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a slackening demand for finishere steel, a moderate falling off in production and a further softening of pig iron prices in some districts.

U. S. Steel common was hammered down over 2 points to a new low level for the year at 117 3-8 and then rallied slightly. Crucible dropped 1 5-8 but the losses in the other independent steels were held to fractions.

Hudson again bore the brunt of the selling pressure in the motor group on rumors that the company had laid off 2,000 men. The stock, which sold as high as 129 1-2 in the closing month of last year, was hammered more than six points below last night's close to 67 3-4, and then rallied to 68 1-2. Mack Trucks dropped from 111 1-2 to 105 and then rallied to 107. General Motors fell from 119 to 115 1-4 but snapped back to 116 1-2.

Weakness also developed in such issues as American Smelting, Coca Cola, Dupont, General Electric, National Biscuit, National Dairy Products, U. S Cast Iron Pipe, and Woolworth.

A good demand developed for some of the low priced railroad shares on the prospects of lower interest rates on government indebtedness, but this tapered off when weakness developed in the general list. Several high grade rails such as Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and Union Pacific showed net declines of 1 to 2 1-2 points.

Local tractions showed good resistance to selling pressure. Manhattan modified guaranteed closing 2 3-4 points higher at 51.

The principal commodity markets displayed a firm undertone. Wheat futures maintained the sharp gains recorded yesterday. Cotton closed unchanged to 7 points higher. Raw sugar was unchanged, but the futures advanced slightly on reports that the Cuban government planned a 10 per cent reduction in production. Coffee advanced 5 to 13 points on short covering inspired by fears that comparatively few tenders would be made on May contracts.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent and then dropped to 4, closing at the low figure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were heavy. Demand sterling yielded another 1-8 of a cent to around $4.85 9-16 on selling inspired by uneasiness over the coal situation in Great Britain. French francs ruled slightly lower around 3.42 cents. Other European rates showed slight recessions. The Canadian dollar went to a premium of 1-3 of a cent.

BERT LUCAS WRITES OF "SPRING HOUSE CLEANING" NEED IN MIAMI

Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who is at present in Miami, Florida, where he has spent several winters, and has written to The Bulletin of conditions in the much advertised Florida resort, is the contributor of another letter in which he gives a picture of the "spring cleaning," which one of the Miami newspapers says is needed there.

The letter from Mr. Lucas follows:

As I am getting ready to emigrate north to good old New England once more, I want to give a review of the true facts and conditions in Miami and Florida at this time. Of course, many people have left the city, as is always the custom this time of year, but a great many have left very much with the idea that they have been dimflammed. High rents, certain living conditions and buying lots at a very high price and unable to dispose of them at the price paid has certainly hurt the city and state for the time being, at any rate. I stated in my first letter that the bubble had burst and of course there is no doubt of that, as you can see hundreds of the smaller real estate companies closed up and lots of offices to rent. Hundreds of men have been let go from the big subdivisions, retrenching in all directions, building has slackened down about to a standstill, but may start up later, but no signs of it at this writing.

There are plenty of stores and offices here for rent where last fall you couldn't even get a peep at one. Prices which were paid last summer have gradually been declining so that now lots of people have had to sacrifice to get out from under.

Hotel rates are coming down to a fair price and there are a great many rooms for rent here now. They expect a large crowd from the north this summer, but I say they will have to bring down the prices that they are charging in the subdivisions at present if they expect to sell to them lots anywhere from $4,000 to $12,000 or $15,000 away out in the wilds, too high. I think Miami will adjust itself to become a grand, large city, but it's got to do that. W. Bryan Gardner of the late W. J.'s states in the Miami News, which I quote: "Hollywood, April 3—Charles W. Bryan, former governor of Nebraska, brother of the late William J. Bryan, passed through Hollywood, stopping long enough to deliver constructive criticism and advice for Florida business men and civic leaders for gaining national confidence for the state. They ask why they are criticizing Florida. He told Harry Brockman, sales counselor for the Affiliated Hollywood Co., 70 per cent of the adverse criticism in the north comes from the people who have been here and returned north after being humiliated, embarrassed and charged outrageous prices for hotel rooms and apartment rents. The southern hotel man is a little or more responsible for hostility to the state than the northern banker. There is but one way to regain the lost confidence of the north in this state, declared the Nebraskan. The city chambers of commerce must combine with the state chambers, raise a fund for national advertising, collect data on all available apartments, hotel and home facilities and spread this information, sponsored by the official committee of each chamber of commerce in the cities or towns involved. Florida has things that cannot be taken away. Mr. Bryan went on. It has sunshine, a wonderful climate, the Atlantic, the Gulf Stream, but the public confidence in the state has been disturbed, and will continue to be unsettled until determined and constructive efforts are made to remedy the undoubted evil conditions, that have been found in many places. This state has nothing to sell but service. This service is a broad term, including work, play, industry, good health or whatever you wish. But if Florida offers service to the nation and then falls down on it, or charges more for the service than it is worth, then the public is flimflammed."

"Have you observed the wide spread of the political germ over Dade county lately? We don't mean politics in its original sense as the service of government, but politics as corrupted through ignorant, avaricious, or incompetent office holders and malignant powers behind them. It is this kind of politics that is giving us the poorest roads of any county in the state, a haphazard law enforcement policy that is objectionable both to liberals and conservatives, high taxes without the redeeming feature of public service; the kind of politics that causes the utmost embarrassment, inconvenience and expense to virtually everybody living in the Miami area. Torn up streets, lack of any broad city plan, causeway congestion, inefficient police, squabbling over the harbor, a city filled with gambling devices one day and the next day without a one, or teeming with bootleggers one week and going thirsty the next. Dust, dirt and glare in the height of the season and fine streets in summer after the tourists have departed, constant experiments with traffic rules and regulations, double-tracked interurban lines along the narrowest streets and busiest bridges, newly laid and costly boulevards torn up weekly upon the slightest provocation—and all these the fruit of ignorant, avaricious or incompetent politics. Springtime is upon us and now is the time to take inventory. Business men already are doing so and not a few of them are distressed about the state of their companies. But the point we are trying to make is that the public should take a general inventory of our biggest corporation, the city of Miami.

"There's no use kidding ourselves that the tourists spent as much here this winter as we expected, although we had more of them than we ever had before. There wasn't the per capita expenditure here this year as in 1925, either in real estate, rents or merchandise. We fell down on the job. That's the simple truth. For the first time in Miami's history the tourists were resentful and "knocked" on a large scale. They resented the torn up condition of Miami, largely perhaps because so much of it could have been avoided by the slightest planning. They resented the dirty aspect of the city that they had heretofore found so clean. They resented the fighting between the various law enforcement agencies, the shake-ups, the lid being clamped down and removed on a moments notice, the evidence of petty graft, the quarreling over the race track. The bullying traffic cops and the incessant changing of traffic regulations, red curbings where they weren't necessary, three-hour jams on the causeway, the terrific din of ditch diggers and shrieks of motorcycle sirens and speeding of fire trucks all through the night, prying deputies along country roads, embarrassing raids by constables and police and sheriffs and federal men on fashionable supper clubs, the widespread thieving, the ten cent municipal tax at Hialeah amusement places, the deplorable Ocean highway and the even worse Dixie highway and the bumps and holes in virtually every one of Dade county's thousand miles of roads (despite a three-cent a gallon state 'road tax'). The seizure of cars and cushions by the police, heavy fines for technical violation of law, in short, the general "tourist-be-damned" attitude of our public officials.

"Yet it was not the public will that tourists should be embarrassed or inconvenienced or that their good times should be spoiled. Miamians themselves wanted tourists to enjoy themselves this winter more than ever before. They provided more entertainment, a great variety, of attractions than ever before. Miamians this winter spent more money in amusing tourists than any other resort city in the world ever spent.

"There is only one solution to the problem. It won't do any longer to permit a few petty politicians and office holders to superintend a corporation of more than 200,000 people and worth a half billion dollars—that is, if we are to prosper. The business men and the property holders, all persons who depend upon a tourist season for their living, should realize it now, if they never realized it before."

In concluding his letter, Mr. Lucas says that these two quotations certainly coincide and tell exactly "the conditions which I wrote in my first letter in February. My friend from Norwich, who called me about everything, can see the above letters right from the Miami papers. All one has to do is to be here as long as I have and he can see the truth. I never saw so many fabrications anywhere in all my travels as here in Miami and plenty of dishonesty too."

NOTES OF INTEREST FROM METHODIST CONFERENCE

News notes from the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which was held last week at South Manchester, include the following:

Dr. J. P. Bartholomew who for years has been a leader in the conference, twice district superintendent, several times a delegate to the general conference and well known in Norwich district, moves from Pawtucket, First church, where he has enjoyed a six years pastorate to the church in Vineyard on Martha's Vineyard island.

Rev. C. H. Van Natter is returned to Oak Bluffs for a second year. His many friends in former pastorates feel deep sympathy for him in the recent bereavement he has suffered in the death of his wife.

Rev. William L. Newton who has served pastorates at North Grosvenordale and at Attawaugan in the Norwich district is appointed to Orleans and Eastham, Mass., out on Cape Cod.

Rev. E. J. Cherry, a former pastor at Westerly, R. I., who was a popular leader at the Epworth League Institute on Willimantic campground, in some recent years, is reappointed to Vineyard Haven, on Martha's Vineyard island, for the fourth year. He has built a fine new church edifice during his pastorate and the people there are loud in his praise.

Rev. W. E. Paxton moves from Hazardville after a popular pastorate of five years and follows Dr. Bartholomew at First Church, Pawtucket.

Rev. W. H. Bath, former district representative of Norwich district, returns to Haven church, East Providence, for a second year and Rev. G. G. Scrivener, another former Norwich district superintendent, returns to St. Paul's church, Newport, for a second year.

Rev. F. W. Coleman, a former pastor of Trinity church, Norwich, returns to the Federated church of North Cohasset Mass., with an increase in salary. Rev. F. L. Streeter, a former pastor in Norwich, returns for his second year at Epworth church, Pawtucket, R. I.

Rev. John Pearce, a former pastor at Willimantic, moves from the Middletown church, Newport to the church at Phenix, R. I.

Rev. Philip A. Ahern moves from Mapleville and Glendale, R. I., to Hill's Grove, R. I., thus exchanging positions with Rev. S. J. A. Rook, who in turn moves from Hill's Grove to succeed him in the former named charge.

Rev. Clinton E. Bromley returns for a second year to the Pearl Street church, Brockton, Mass. Rev. Harlan L. Bromley a supply preacher is placed in charge of the Wanskuck church Providence, for a second year. His wife, formerly a deaconess, continues as director of religious education of the First Italian church in Providence.

Rev. Edward E. Wells, the new superintendent of Providence district, is the retiring pastor of Central church, Brockton, who has served that people for the past four years, during which there have been more people added to that church than during any other four years in its history and a Sunday school enrollment and attendance also the largest in the church's history. Mr. Wells also enjoys the distinction of knowing that while the bishop has appointed him it was done after the bishop had taken an informal ballot of the conference the result of which gave to Mr. Wells, as 'the bishop expressed it, more than the six other candidates receiving votes had together received. It is doubtful to those who know him best if a more satisfactory man on the whole could have been found for this position. He is a brother of the Rev. G. Leon Wells, the retiring pastor of Moodus, Conn.

A. E. Whitten, the new pastor at Norwich Town is a young man who is a member of the Maine conference, who is spending a few years in this climate. He has served several pastorates in his own conference and has ability and talents which ought to make him a great asset to the church which is fortunate enough to secure his services.

SAW GREENEVILLE BRIDGE SWEPT AWAY 50 YEARS AGO

J. A. Davis of Boulder, Colorado who grew up as a boy in this vicinity says of fifty years ago in Norwich.

The Bulletin of April 3rd came to my desk this morning and to my memory that flood of half a century ago. I saw the Greeneville bridge go out section by section. I was on the Preston side. The bridge was intact except the central span was sprung by the water pouring against it. A young man started to cross from Greeneville to Preston. When he was about one third of the way over a large log became was seen rushing down on the flood. The young man turned and ran for the Greeneville side. The log struck the bridge, which fell section by section. Several times the planking literally fell from under the young man's feet, yet he made the bank in safety. I do not think that I ever saw a more thrilling sight.

I went into the city via the Laurel Hill bridge, which was so high that it was not in any danger from the flood, but at that narrow point in the river it was a perfect maelstrom. The Yantic river united to the volume so that the Thames was in a hurry to get where it could have room according to its strength. Schooners and sloops were almost on the dock. Hogsheads of molasses were in danger of floating off the dock. Boats were on the "square" and on Franklin street above Bath.

PLAYGROUND COMMITTEE OF SEVEN IS NAMED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—At the second playground conference held here Thursday night Mayor John C. Tracey was empowered to appoint a committee of seven, to determine whether the necessary funds for the five playgrounds can be secured by a special municipal appropriation. If not the committee is to devise ways and means to finance the project. Recommendation was made that the mayor insert a clause in the warning for the annual city meeting to be held some time this month, requesting an appropriation of $1,000 for playgrounds. The conference was largely attended by various representative organizations. In speaking for the Exchange club of which he is the head, President Egbert A. Case expressed plainly several facts and from his remarks it was evident that the club is in favor of municipal control of the playgrounds, although he said that the club would give its united support to any temporary expedient necessary to bring about the state of affairs called for. This was the view point of the delegates in general. Adjournment was taken at 9 o'clock, after an hour and a half session.

Hyman Brettschneider of this city charged with keeping a place where gaming was carried on pleaded guilty. There were originally two counts but the second was nolled. The charge against Brettschneider was that he conducted a pool room with a place adjacent where gambling was carried on. Attorney Arthur T. Kelley for the defendant stated that the charge that the pool room was used as a place for gambling was incorrect. He argued that a plea of guilty would affect the license of his client for the operation of a pool room. The court ordered the words "pool room" stricken out of the charge, when State's Attorney Bradford and County Detective William E. Jackson admitted that the gambling was carried on in a room adjacent to the pool room. Judge Allyn L. Brown then imposed a fine of $50 and osts amounting to $56.12 and sentenced Brettschneider to jail for six months, the latter penalty being suspended. Brettschneider was placed on probation for the latter period, in charge of Probation Officer B. Arnold Peckham.

EDDIE JOHN TAKEN BACK TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—Convening shortly after noon, Thursday's session of the criminal side of the Windham county superior court made disposition of several cases of local interest. Eddie John was charged with assault with intent to kill. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford advised a continuance under the circumstances, as he said the accused was to be taken back to the state hospital for the insane at Norwich. John had been released on parole from that institution February 21. His latest escapade was in Killingly March 17. The following day, he was sentenced to six months in jail. Appealing, he was released on bond. An official of the state hospital was present in court today and took John back to Norwich.

Napoleon Thibeault of Plainfield was in court on a bench warrant served Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, charged with perjury. October 16, 1923, the father of the accused, Joseph Thibeault, secured a divorce from his wife, Dorilda, the decree being granted by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin. At that time, the defendant testified that he did not know where his mother was residing, between the time of separation and the granting of the decree. Mrs. Thibeault later discovered that this false testimony had been given and alleged that on no less than three occasions during the period mentioned her son visited her while she was stopping at Greenville, N. H. Mrs. Thibeault brought action and at the recent term of the superior court held in Putnam with Judge Dickenson on the bench the decree was ordered set aside. Since the divorce was granted, Joseph Thibeault has remarried.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Alfred J. Lariviere, of this city was presented to the court on a charge of embezzlement while holding the office of city tax collector in 1924. He was represented by Attorney John W. Harvey. The amount of the shortage is $2,619. Lariviere pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in Brooklyn county jail. Judge Brown in sentencing Lariviere said that one reason for the plight of the accused was due to possible ignorance on his part on the handling of the funds of the city and the method of keeping an account of the same. He said that the crime of embezzlement carries with it a state's prison sentence and admonished Lariviere, because of the fact that he was later arrested in a gambling house.

The case of Charles Edson of Webster, Mass., was then taken up. The charge against the accused was the unlawful transportation of a horse from Webster over the state line in Massachusetts into the town of Thompson for the purpose of making a sale, June 18, 1924, without complying with the state law regarding an examination. The witnesses for the state were Dr. Fred Baldwin of Putnam, a veterinarian, Dr. Corwill of Hartford, deputy commissioner of domestic animals, and Constable Neri Cordiere of North Grosvenordale. Attorney Joseph Love of Webster requested a dismissal of the case, saying that his client was returning with his horse to Massachusetts. After a short recess, Judge Brown sustained the decision of the lower court, which called for a fine of ten dollars and costs.

The cases of the 13 young men charged with frequenting a gambling place were nolled by the court as they had already paid fines in the lower police court. The men were arrested in a pool room conducted by Brettschneider & Bernard.

The state's attorney announced that the cases of Stephen Shaeles and Francis Shawles, charged with assault and breach of the peace and Howard Glawson who was to be arraigned on similar charges had been nolled, on payment of costs. The case of Morris Spector of this city charged with cruelty to his children would go over, it was stated. The Spectors are reunited and all is apparently serene.

Busy Railroad Station

LONDON, April 15, (AP)—Melbourne, Australia, claims one of the busiest railway stations in the world in the Flinders street terminal, through which 200,000 persons pass daily.

Believing London stations could show bigger figures, the British Railway Gazette, checked the daily flow of passengers through London's largest stations, Liverpool street and Waterloo, but found the total at the former was only 244,366.

A Galloping Doctor

LONDON, April 15 (AP)—The galloping doctor, so called because he gallops on horse back to some of his most urgent cases, has appeared at a race track near here.

He is Dr. D. Imrie, who assumed his new duties with the opening of the steeplechasing season at Hurst Park race course. The track directors decided when the steeplechasing season started to have a doctor, mounted on horseback ready to attend casualities and Dr. Imrie, who is an experienced horseman sits in his riding kit on a horse in the center of the course and watches the races.

How to Tip on an Ocean Liner

In giving advice on the subject of tipping, to people going abroad for the first time Frederick Lewis, writing in the Woman's Home Companion, says: "The first requisite of travel—especially ocean travel—is comfort, and fortunately it is an easy thing to secure. The nicest people I know go to sea for a living. And this means stewards and stewardesses as well as purses and captains. If you are well, your happiness depends on your dining-room steward; if you are sick, on your room steward. Make friends with them, make them feel that you are going to tip them well; and when you leave, be sure to do it. The steward's tip is not a gratuity. It is a trade custom. The company figures on it in the price of your ticket. You figure on it in the same.

"Add sixteen dollars to your passage money for service, five dollars for the room steward, five dollars for the dining steward, one dollar for the deck steward, and five dollars divided among the stewardess, bath steward and boots, according to the ratio in which you have used them. A man seldom fees a stewardess, a woman, especially if she is ill, will wish to reward her generously. A deck chair costs a dollar and a half, a steamer blanket another dollar and a half."

Thomas Mazzuchi who went to the assistance of Mr. Sullivan was also burned, necessitating medical treatment.

A lecture-recital, given by Victor Baart, Wednesday evening before the members of Willimantic Woman's club in Windham high school auditorium, was an unusually delightful and instructive [illegible]. Mr. Baart, a pianist of brilliancy of technique and a real master of tone color, combines with these gifts of [illegible] perhaps more rare one of holding the interest of his audience while describing the structure of music in general and the form of each selection he plays. Romantic music—his subject was described as "that music which appeals to the emotions and [illegible] vividly to the mind of the listener the thoughts and feelings of the composer. Romantic music, he said, is in marked contrast to descriptive music. The latter form carries a mental picture of definite scenes. Beethoven, born in 1770, is perhaps the greatest master of this form. Embittered by the affliction of blindness this great genius has written into music the tragedy of his life and the deep things of life, to such an extent that none can grasp its meaning. Largo, from Handel's Symphony Illustrates in a marked degree, embodying his [illegible] sorrow, wistfulness and [illegible] throughout this number is the [illegible] glorious clarion and beauty of Beethoven's matchless art. His works include the sonata, the symphony, the [illegible] and the oratorio. Mendelssohn, a romanticist, composing at the age of 17, appeared in London at 20 as composer, pianist, conductor and [illegible]. His overture, "The Solitary Isle," is descriptive of a trip to this island, in which one feels the motion of a boat, the rush of waves, the [illegible] of a waterfall and weird noises in the ocean cave. Wagner stamps this number as "delightfully descriptive."

Baart said that each instrument in the orchestra brings out some particular phase of music such as [illegible] tragedy, subconsciousness, dramatic accent, fear, or [illegible]. Chopin employed the Polonaise, as it does the tragic history of unhappy Poland. Fascinating was Mr. Baart's rendition of the Polonaise in A minor. Emphasizing as it does the [illegible] triple time and ending in a [illegible] beat, Chopin is, however, a beat in the Mazurka, a [illegible] dance, [illegible] that it ends on the second beat. As a climax, Mr. Baart played [illegible] marvelous number, "The [illegible]." At the conclusion of [illegible] the artist responded to an encore playing Wagner's Swanning theme "The Flying Dutchman."

Clarence Martin of Crescent street and Joseph Slowick, of Jackson street [illegible] yesterday morning, after one [illegible] had succeeded in [illegible] fishing trips so far this season. The [illegible] measured 20 [illegible] averaging in weight between 6 1-2 to 8 1-2 inches.

Oscar H. Karelk of New Haven opened Thursday the entire stock and belongings of Woodruff's Pharmacy, the proprietor of which recently [illegible] a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The auctioneer was William A. Fox. The purchase price was $2,—the purchase does not include the soda fountain. Charles E. Ayer is [illegible] for the bankrupt estate.

Only ten cases of measles were reported this week to the state department of health for the week ending April 10, according to the weekly [illegible] report issued by the department.

Later he will return to this city for a short stay before leaving for Los Angeles, Calif., where with his wife and children he will make his home. Dr. Kibby has been doing X-ray work in a hospital for the past four years. He had many harrowing experiences during the earthquakes. PLAYGROUND COMMITTEE OF SEVEN IS NAMED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—At the second playground conference held here Thursday night Mayor John C. Tracey was empowered to appoint a committee of seven, to determine whether the necessary funds for the three playgrounds can be secured by a special municipal appropriation. If not the committee is to devise ways and means to finance the project. Recommendation was made that the mayor insert a clause in the warning for the annual city meeting to be held some time this month, requesting an appropriation of $1,000 for playgrounds. The conference was largely attended by various representative organizations. In speaking for the Exchange club of which he is the head, President Egbert A. Case expressed plainly several facts and from his remarks it was evident that the club is in favor of municipal control of the playgrounds, although he said that the club would give its united support to any temporary expedient necessary to bring about the state of affairs called for. This was the viewpoint of the delegates in general. Adjournment was taken at 9 o'clock, after an hour and a half session.

Hyman Brettschneider of this city charged with keeping a place where gaming was carried on pleaded guilty. There were originally two counts but the second was nolled. The charge against Brettschneider was that he conducted a pool room with a place adjacent where gambling was carried on. Attorney Arthur T. Kelley for the defendant stated that the charge that the pool room was used as a place for gambling was incorrect. He argued that a plea of guilty would affect the license of his client for the operation of a pool room. The court ordered the words "pool room" stricken out of the charge, when State's Attorney Bradford and County Detective William E. Jackson admitted that the gambling was carried on in a room adjacent to the pool room. Judge Allyn L. Brown then imposed a fine of $50 and costs amounting to $56.12 and sentenced Brettschneider to jail for six months, the latter penalty being suspended. Brettschneider was placed on probation for the latter period, in charge of Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham.

EDDIE JOHN TAKEN BACK TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—Convening shortly after noon, Thursday's session of the criminal side of the Windham county superior court made disposition of several cases of local interest. Eddie John was charged with assault with intent to kill. State's attorney Howard C. Bradford advised a continuance under the circumstances, as he said the accused waste be taken back to the state hospital for the insane at Norwich. John had been released on parole from that institution February 21. His latest escapade was in Killingly March 17. The following day, he was sentenced to six months in jail. Appealing, he was released on bond. An official of the state hospital was present in court today and took John back to Norwich.

Napoleon Thibeault of Plainfield was in court on a bench warrant served Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, charged with perjury. October 16, 1923, the father of the accused, Joseph Thibeault, secured a divorce from his wife, Dorilda, the decree being granted by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin. At that time, the defendant testified that he did not know where his mother was residing, between the time of separation and the granting of the decree. Mrs. Thibeault later discovered that this false testimony had been given and alleged that on no less than three occasions during the period mentioned her son visited her while she was stopping at Greenville, N. H. Mrs. Thibeault brought action and at the recent term of the superior court held in Putnam with Judge Dickenson on the bench the decree was ordered set aside. Since the divorce was granted, Joseph Thibeault has remarried.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Alfred J. Lariviere, of this city was presented to the court on a charge of embezzlement while holding the office of city tax collector in 1924. He was represented by Attorney John W. Harvey. The amount of the shortage is $2,619. Lariviere pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in Brooklyn county jail. Judge Brown in sentencing Lariviere said that one reason for the plight of the accused was due to possible ignorance on his part on the handling of the funds of the city and the method of keeping an account of the same. He said that the crime of embezzlement carries with it a state's prison sentence and admonished Lariviere, because of the fact that he was later arrested in a gambling house.

The case of Charles Edson of Webster, Mass., was then taken up. The charge against the accused was the unlawful transportation of a horse from Webster over the state line in Massachusetts into the town of Thompson for the purpose of making a sale, June 16, 1924, without complying with the state law regarding an examination. The witnesses for the state were Dr. Fred Baldwin of Putnam, a veterinarian, Dr. Corwill of Hartford, deputy commissioner of domestic animals, and Constable Neri Cordiere of North Grosvenordale. Attorney Joseph Love of Webster requested a dismissal of the case, saying that his client was returning with his horse to Massachusetts. After a short recess, Judge Brown sustained the decision of the lower court, which called for a fine of ten dollars and costs.

The cases of the 13 young men charged with frequenting a gambling place were nolled by the court as they had already paid fines in the lower police court. The men were arrested in a pool room conducted by Brettschneider & Bernard.

The state's attorney announced that the cases of Stephen Shaeles and Francis Shawles, charged with assault and breach of the peace and Howard Glawson who was to be arraigned on similar charges had been nolled, on payment of costs. The case of Morris Spector of this city charged with cruelty to his children would go over, it was stated. The Spectors are reunited and all is apparently serene.

He is Dr. D. Imrie, who assumed his new duties with the opening of the steeplechasing season at Hurst Park race course. How to Tip on an Ocean Liner

In giving advice on the subject of tipping, to people going abroad for the first time, Frederick Lewis, writing in the Woman's Home Companion, says: "The first requisite of travel—especially ocean travel—is comfort, and fortunately it is an easy thing to secure. The nicest people I know go to sea for a living. And this means stewards and stewardesses as well as pursers and captains. If you are well, your happiness depends on your dining-room steward; if you are sick, on your room steward. Make friends with them, make them feel that you are going to tip them well; and when you leave, be sure to do it. The steward's tip is not a gratuity. It is a trade custom. The company figures on it in the price of your ticket. You figure on it in the same.

"Add sixteen dollars to your passage money for service; five dollars for the room steward; five dollars for the dining steward, one dollar for the deck steward, and five dollars divided among the stewardess, bath steward and boots, according to the ratio in which you have used them. A man, seldom fees a stewardess, a woman, especially if she is ill, will wish to reward her generously. A deck chair costs a dollar and a half, a steamer blanket another dollar and a half."

Electrical Diner

The Flying Scotsman, a train that runs between London and Edinburgh, has recently installed a complete electrical diner, says Popular Science Monthly. The electricity is supplied by means of a dynamo run by the motion of the train.

Cooking by pressing buttons enables the kitchen to occupy the minimum of space which obviously is of great importance in diner construction. All temperatures can be regulated exactly and the kitchen kept spotlessly clean.

Thawing Plants

In spite of all precautions plants sometimes freeze accidentally. The following first aid tip has saved several. Sprinkle the plants liberally with cold water. Then, after half an hour, let warm air enter the room gradually, but under no conditions should the plant be brought into a heated room. The whole process of revival should be spread over a period of one to two hours.

Soviet Forgot Isle

Bolshoi Diomid, an island in the Arctic ocean, just north of Bering strait, almost forgot that it belonged to Russia and thought itself part of the United States. No Russian ship had called at the island for 10 years until the man of war Vervonky arrived there a few months ago. Its officers then learned that the inhabitants knew nothing about the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics or of Soviet culture and believed that Russia was still a monarchy. This impression will be corrected.

The island's connection with the outside world has been through an American consta, schooner that made regular trips from Alaska.

Justice Stalled

The wheels of justice were stalled at Atlantic City. It all happened when one of the women jurors discovered a hole in her stocking. The jury box is not inclosed and she had no way of hiding the rip. Then she noticed that other "jurees" in like trouble. There was whispering, and a third started to blush when she found a long snag in the back of one of her stockings. The court noticed the three women did not have their minds on the case and made inquiries. The discovery was explained, and then it was found that raw-edged holes on their chairs were responsible for [illegible] stocking rents. Court was adjourned until new chairs could be substituted.

Drinks are Banned

CRICCIETH, Eng., April 15—(AP)—Lloyd George's golf conference has decided not to mix drinks with its games.

Proposals to make the club "wet" were defeated by Lloyd George's brother and a majority of the other duffy aldermen who attended out the sight of golfers drinking beverages would adversely influence the caddies, and have a bad effect generally on the standing of the organization.

Rich
in flavor... that's why Quaker Oats entices youngsters

THE way to make children like oatmeal is to give them the kind they like.

Thus millions of mothers insist on the Quaker brand. Children who ordinarily don't like oats, take readily to this rich and toasty kind.

Quaker flavor is due to exclusive milling processes which took some 50 years to perfect. Processes, too, which retain much of the "bulk" of oats, which makes laxatives less often needed.

Thus protein, carbohydrates, vitamines and "bulk" are combined in making Quaker Oats an excellent food balance.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. Thus makes the richest breakfast at smallest.

The price is the same as for ordinary oats. When a substitute is accepted, you alone are the loser.

CARING FOR OUR TREES

It is gratifying to note as the result of a recent conference that it has been decided to ask the next annual city meeting for an increased appropriation to take care of the trees of the city.

It is time that we got away from old practices and gave consideration to what is required. Many trees which are in good condition have to go because of changed conditions, but many have had to go in the past because that was required as the only way of dealing with them. Although there have been many cases where trees could not need to be removed that would have been required to save put them in fit condition and preserved them for many years to come.

We have been following a poor policy concerning our trees. We have overcrowded them in the first place. We have needlessly reduced the number. We have failed to properly protect them against the ravages of pests and disease and we have signally failed when it comes to the matter of replacements.

It is thus time that there was a change. It is time that a definite and an aesthetic standards. If we can have more and better trees and can preserve what we have through proper spraying and tree surgery the quicker such a move is made the better. We have been going in the other direction too long. We need to right about face and get back to rapidly as we can to where we were some years ago and then through the center of the right attention to the necessary details keep the community up to the point where there will be plenty of pride in our attractive trees.

It will take some time to make up for the shameful neglect of the past but in the caring of our trees in the future there must be an insistence that there shall be a preservation and increase in the trees rather than the cutting down, and trees ruthless of our fine streets and other valuable shade trees.

PRESERVING WILD FLOWERS

We are approaching the season of the year when there will be large numbers of wild flowers. Some will appear in greater abundance than in other years, due to different local conditions. It is quite human, of course, to go into the countryside and make a bee line for these wild flowers. Great numbers of the most prominent home gardeners in warm days when these are gathered being hand bundles of brown Arbutus, pussy willows, golden rod or other wild flowers which may grow in abundance, but there are many reasons why these should not be disturbed, among the most important of them being not only the attractiveness of particular localities for others but also the destruction of such plant life in great many instances and too often it is in these cases that wild flowers are uprooted and carried away and are pulled up by the roots.

The Audubon Society of Nature Magazine has made a recent appeal to those riding through the country [illegible] so that others may look, too."

It has been found necessary to have legislation adopted in certain states for the protection of certain plants. The raids upon them have indicated that there would soon be none left if practices were permitted to go on. It is important for the future that they should be preserved in their native surroundings if their extermination is going to be prevented.

For the most part the raids are thoughtlessly made. The flowers are pretty and there is a desire to gather them, but soon after the blossoms have been picked or the plants pulled up by the roots it is the habit of many to cast them aside, whereas they might have been allowed to remain for the enjoyment of others, who would be willing to look without destroying.

The plea is a timely one and one that might profitably be repeated at rather frequent intervals. About such time we are too apt to pick first and think afterwards and an occasional reminder would serve as a check.

WARNING THE STEAMERS

[illegible] years ago the Titanic went [illegible] on the iceberg of the [illegible] of the loss of that ship with its human cargo has been the occasion every time for the issuing of warnings to those who [illegible] at that time.

The fact that such honors are paid by the ice patrol vessel which happens to be engaged in that service brings to attention the precautions that are being observed each year for the protection of other vessels against such a peril. Guarding the steamship lanes is no merry party. It means covering the northern steamship routes continuously during day and night and reporting such dangerous ice as may be discovered. The work is done by two of our coast guard cutters alternating in the service, the expense being shared by others countries as well as this.

Ice was encountered by liners before that frightful disaster 14 years ago, but reliance was placed on the lookouts and conditions for the detection of the presence of the big bergs. Those methods were employed on the Titanic but they were not adequate. The great berg was struck almost before its presence was known and more than 1500 lives were lost. It demonstrated the need of furnishing something more than the chance information that might be passed along by the vessels which might discover big ice. Careful information is obtained now regarding the ice and when possible it is broken up before it becomes a menace. It is a lonesome vigil but there's no telling how many other disasters have been prevented through the information broadcasted.

The patrol service is a safety provision of the greatest value. The expense involved, which is not small, is of slight consideration in view of the protection afforded every day to many hundreds of lives. The coast guard cutters with their information serve as the flagmen for the vessels traversing the region of ice and fog. Transatlantic travel is made much the safer because of it.

THE ILLINOIS PRIMARY

Although much is being made of the claim that the recent senatorial primary in Illinois, so far as the republican candidates were concerned, was a fight over the world court and that the victory of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the republican committee of that state was due to the resentment of the voters over the decision at Washington to adhere to the world court, there is much doubt if the republican voters of that commonwealth gave any great amount of consideration to that question.

Illinois has had its political fights. It still has them. The candidacy of Mr. Smith against Senator McKinley is the outcropping of factional sentiment. The fact that Senator McKinley stood by the administration and voted for the world court may have been used as a smoke screen to cover up the real question. It was on state politics that this primary contest turned and it was put through in a manner which was decisive.

The voters have apparently ignored the fact that Senator McKinley has had long experience in congress having been for years in the house before being sent to the senate. He is therefore a valuable representative, but he has apparently not been keeping up his political fences while others have been pulling the wires to accomplish just what has been done at the primary. Although rated as a contest centering upon the world court there will have to be more evidence than that furnished to support the contention that the voters of that state were swayed in any such manner over a vote on a question of that character.

BILLION DOLLAR ROADWORK

Roadbuilding like congress has entered the billion dollar class. According to figures which are presented by Chas. MacDonald of the United States bureau of public roads more than that sum was spent on rural highways last year. The demands for new roads and better roads are universal. They have been accompanied by the automobile with astonishing speed joining in the chorus and the contrast is great even to a veteran of a century ago.

But how extensively the automobile owner contributes to the cost of such roads and to general taxation is shown by other figures. Through the gasoline tax collected in all but four states he pays about $148,000,000, the greater part of which goes for road construction or maintenance. In addition he pays over $243,000,000 for registration and licenses. $250,000,000 is the sum he pays for his autos nearly as much for the federal excise tax and something like $50,000,000 for special taxes and fines.

Of this state, except for the federal appropriations, looks after its own road construction expenditures and it is realized that in developing the modern highways it is the automobile and the man with the car or the bus to pay the bulk of the funds with which they must be built. It is in keeping with the changes that are almost as rapid as those which has grown up around it as a decided improvement and it is to be expected that it will continue to improve, but like many other desirable things if they are going to be had they must be paid for and it is recognized by the auto owner that he is getting special benefits for the dollars he is shelling out.

EDITORIAL NOTES

By right spring ought to be doing its best to hustle along that first mess of dandelion greens.

The man on the corner says: If there is any question what season it is take a look at the asphalt.

There seems to be quite as much emphasis and kick in the dry week in congress as there was during the wet.

Thus far April is making it a bit difficult to warm up to the baseball games in the cold, bleak grandstands.

Thousands of shad may be rushing up Chesapeake bay but we hear no such report about the Connecticut river.

Of course the high price of the fattening potatoes will cause no worry to those who are skipping them in order to reduce.

With fire losses for March $10,000,000 greater than the same month last year, carelessness must have slipped from restraint.

Scientists profess to know that half of Mars is as dry as Sahara but they haven't as yet declared that the other half is as wet as New York.

Mussolini seems to think that being shot is good publicity. At least he is certain that while they may shoot him in the nose no one will put a ring there.

If every government bureau could do as well as the government printing office and save $9,500,000 in three years under a budget system there might be more tax and debt reduction.

WHEN LINA LAUGHED.

"A sense of humor is a saving grace," remarked Annette, as she and Geraldine finished giving their order to the waitress with the frilled apron and cuffs. "Lina is blessed that way, although the poor kid's had plenty of trouble to make her blue as a weeping walrus."

"Never saw a walrus weep," respended Geraldine, examining her brand new solitaire in the shaded lights of the tearoom.

"Some time ago," went on Annette, "Lina landed a peach of a job. The poor kid has always stayed at small boarding houses—small enough to fit her purse. And of all people Lina does love beautiful surroundings. That's what made it always seem so hard on her.

"Well, when Lina landed this wonderful position she just decided to let go and have a splurge.

"'I'm sick of this tiny hall bedroom stuff,' she told me. 'I'm going to get a room at the Maison du Chateau.'

"Whew! Sixty-five a month, huh?"

"Something like that. But Lina was making good money and she never would have been satisfied until she'd had a fling at this well hotel life—doorman in purple and gold uniform—neat maid in tight black dress with a lacy headband and black ribbon streaming down to her heels—"

"You speak as if you were used to that yourself," laughed Geraldine.

"Well, I visited Lina a couple of times and I got an eyeful. The first time I went Lina met me at the portioned entrance and marched me through the marble-pillared lobby as if she owned the whole show.

"'Don't you just love these soft lights and this heavy velvet carpeting?' she enthused. 'Your feet just melt into it, don't they?'

"I must say that Lina acted like one to the manner born, as they say in the old melodramas. The way she stepped into the white and gold elevator with me and drawled, 'Fawth floah, please.'"

"Lina has a lovely southern accent anyway," admired Geraldine.

"It came handy there," Annette agreed. "Well, she had a nice little room. Nothing elaborate like the suites on the second and third floor, of course.

"We stayed a little while and then decided to go to a concert. When we came downstairs again the lobby was filled with men and women in evening dress. I felt out of place in my rags but Lina fitted right in with the best of them.

"'Oh, come on. Let's not take a bus,' she urged. 'Let's get a taxi.'

"In fact, by the way the purple and gold trimmed doorman came up to Lina with a 'Taxi, madame?' I knew immediately that taxis weren't luxuries to Lina since her month at the Maison du Chateau. Anyway, after six weeks of this class Lina called me up one day and told me she was in trouble. The firm she was with had decided to move their branch to some other city and poor Lina was out of a job.

"'If I hadn't ever lived at a place like this I wouldn't care so much,' she wailed. 'But to have to give it all up now and move back to the old hall-bedroom again—'

"Well, Lina stayed on at the Maison du Chateau, hoping and praying that another job like that would turn up soon before she had to vacate. Imagine it! Four weeks there—without a job!"

"I wouldn't have the nerve," laughed Geraldine.

"Neither would I," agreed Annette, dipping into her orange sherbet. "At the end of that time Lina was getting pretty blue. Between looking for work and worrying about giving up her room, the poor kid forgot how to laugh. I wanted to tell her to cut out the mourning stuff, because nobody's going to give away a job to any one with a face as long as a yard measure. It looked as if Lina's sense of humor was gone.

"Then she read an ad that sounded wonderful, and she went down to answer it. She told me later that she'd made up her mind that she'd leave the hotel if she didn't land this job. Well she stepped into the lobby with just 40 cents and a face like an undertaker, and up comes the doorman 'Taxi, madame?'

"It struck Lina as funny, so she laughed all the way down to the bus. She was still smiling when she tripped in to apply for the job. And when Lina laughs—well, she got the position all right. The boss happened to be one of those jolly kind that hates a crape-hanger. Lina's still at the hotel, and the purple and gold doorman never can make out why he gets such a big wide grin from Lina every time she passes.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Irvine L. Lenroot, who has announced his candidacy for renomination as United States senator from Wisconsin, is one of the acknowledged leaders in the upper house. He first made his appearance in Washington as a representative in Congress in 1909. After five terms in the house he was elected to the senate in 1918 to fill the unexpired term of Senator Husting and two years later was elected for the full term. Senator Lenroot has steadily grown in rating among the shrewdest, most courageous and most independent of the national lawmakers, a republican with little sympathy for the "stand-pat" type of republicanism, and yet not a fanatical radical. He was chairman of the senate committee that investigated the oil leases and led the administration fight in the senate for American adhesion to the World court. His home is in Superior, his native place. His entrance in politics was as a member of the Wisconsin legislature.

From Small Beginnings

Anton Chekhov, the Peasant, a Great Writer.

About the time when the Civil war in the United States was beginning there was born in the south of Russia a son, Anton Chekhov to a couple who had been raised in serfdom. In many respects the serfs in Russia were like the slaves in the United States. They were treated as mere laboring being without especial rights or privileges. Most of them were uneducated and extremely ignorant. Russia set free the serfs some years before Lincoln freed the slaves. Among the most ignorant of the freed serfs were the father and mother of the little boy who was to become one of the world's greatest writers.

In spite of the fact that all his ancestors, so far as he knew, for many generations had been wholly uneducated, there was something in the heart of young Anton that made him wish for learning. He was able to go to a small school and to fathom the mysteries of reading and writing. He resolved to become a physician and to do good work among his fellow peasants, and by the time he was 24 he had successfully passed the requirements of a great medical school.

Meanwhile he had discovered a new talent. From the time when he was a mere boy Anton Chekhov had amused himself by writing down descriptions of the people he saw about him, the peasants, the priests, the officers, the old women and the children. He looked upon the world with a cheerful eye, and wrote in the way of Mark Twain's earlier sketches of life on the Mississippi. Any man who can make people laugh can have the world for the asking; he may become famous or he may not, whichever he pleases. Chekhov's sketches made people laugh and so he turned from work as a doctor to the work of author.

As he grew older he turned more and more away from the merely comical side of life toward the tragic, but in all that he wrote he gave the most intensely vivid pictures of humankind. Like Mark Twain he made people both laugh and cry. When he died he was only 44, but he was one of the most popular of all Russian writers. The humble serf had become a great artist.

Stories That Recall Others

No Time Like the Present

The parents of a four year old spend each day in the grocery store and she is left home with her auntie. Recently she was taken with her parents for a day at the store and enjoyed herself by sampling most everything in reach. Finally after she had eaten more candy than her mother thought was for her good, she said: "Now, Bernice, you must not eat any more candy; you're not used to it."

"Well, I'm getting used to it, though, mother," she replied.

Being Considerate

The lawyer had accompanied a client to the jail to talk to her husband who was waiting trial. After talking with the prisoner, the mother, who was poorly dressed and appeared to be in dire circumstances, asked the attorney how much he would charge to try the case. Evidently thinking her means was limited he told her $5. Imagine the shock he got when she drew forth a fat roll of bills and began a hunt for a $5 which she couldn't find. There was nothing in the roll less than $10 bills.

Preserving Fish

New refrigerating methods used in Canada can preserve salmon for six months or more, it is claimed, so that it will taste as if it had just been caught, says Popular Science Monthly. The secret is to freeze foods very rapidly instead of slowly, as heretofore.

In rapid freezing, several methods are used. One is to wrap fish in waxed paper pack them tightly in narrow cans and sink them in a circulating bath of brine kept near zero temperature. Pieces of beef have been frozen by dipping them in cold air. This freezes the meat quickly and makes it brittle. Liquid air is too expensive at present for use for refrigeration on a large scale, but if some cheap way were found to make it, this probably would be the simplest way of freezing foods for storage.

Inventors' Claims

Scores of persons are still besieging the military authorities in London with assertions that war inventions they had suggested during the World war were responsible for the victory of the allies and are pressing their claims for millions of pounds reward. Among the fantastic suggestions for winning the war recently disclosed by the government in awards to inventors was one urging that airplanes carry large fish nets studded with poison fish hooks over the German lines. The inventor said that these nets could be dropped on bodies of German troops, killing all those who struggled against the entanglement.

A Real Germicide

"Hot soap suds and water," the good old-fashioned remedy for all cleansing [illegible] has real germicidal properties, according to experiments carried on at the Army and Navy General hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., by Dr. J. E. Walker. In the Journal of Infectious Diseases, Dr. Walker says that any ordinary soap with a reasonable degree of care will kill several kinds of bacteria, notably those that cause pneumonia, diphtheria and several of the pus forming organisms. The [illegible] and typhoid bacilli die hard [illegible] soaps made of what is [illegible] saturated fatty acids are [illegible] to annihilate these tough ones. A [illegible] water soap, prepared experimentally from coconut oil, is the most [illegible] disinfectant agent to rid the hands of possible typhoid bacilli. Unfortunately an all-round cocoanut [illegible] is rather irritating to the skin for ordinary use.

Substitute for Diamond

After several years of research, metallurgical experts of a steel plant at Witzlar, in southern Germany, claim to have produced a metal alloy nearly as hard as the diamond, says Popular Science Monthly. The difference in the sale of hardness is merely one-tenth of a degree. The alloy consists of a fused mixture of metallic tungsten and tungsten carbides.

Tests have shown that this tungsten alloy, while somewhat softer than diamond, offers many practical advantages. It is said to have metallic structure and to retain its cutting power much longer than the diamond that had crystalline structure and is extremely brittle, hence soon loses its cutting power by the chipping of its crystal edges.

Severe Winters Mean Nothing to Ruberoid!

RECENTLY the old roof on the Detroit & Michigan Railway station at Alpena, Mich., was replaced with Ruberoid Giant-shingles. These shingles were laid at a cost no greater than the annual expense of repairing the old roof.

Since the Ruberoid Giants were laid the roof, regardless of the heavy snows, intense cold and severe winds which blow in from Lake Huron and Thunder Bay has not leaked a drop.

Among the Ruberoid Products there is one which will fully meet your roofing requirements. Before you build or re-roof, acquaint yourself with its merits. Come in or phone us for samples and descriptive literature.

A Lovely Skin
Comes from within

Constipation is the cause of most skin troubles. Poisons from the waste matter are picked up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, especially the skin.

No one needs to have a sallow, muddy complexion. Proper diet, exercise, surface cleanliness and above all—internal cleanliness. Nujol prevents the formation of intestinal poisons that ruin your health and complexion.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK FOR FAST TEAM FOR CONN. AGGIE FRESHMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, April 15.—With a squad of over 30 hard at work, prospects for a strong Connecticut Aggie freshman baseball team look good. Louis A. Alexander '23, is coaching the yearlings, and in his opinion the squad now at work has the best material of any freshman class in the last three years or since freshman teams were organized at Storrs.

Nine Hartford boys are numbered among the squad, and when the starting lineup for the first games with Loomis on May 5 is selected, Hartford is going to be well represented.

Outstanding among this group is Metcalf from West Hartford, a pitcher of much promise. Only this week he turned back the varsity in a five-inning game by a 5-0 score, yielding but two hits. He is easily the outstanding twirler on the frosh squad, and undoubtedly he will bear the brunt of the pitching assignments for the Storrs freshmen.

Others from Hartford include Elmer Watson, a catcher, and Weaver high grad; Tom Mullane, infielder; McCall, and Walter Aschenback, outfielders; Klein and Alperin, infielders; Lasker and Goldsmith, outfielders.

Eastern Connecticut has three representatives on the squad. They are Bernard Hewitt of New London, former Chapman Tech luminary; Monroe Usher from Windham, who starred on the Windham high teams in baseball, basketball and football; and Powers from South Manchester. Hewitt is the leading first base candidate, and Usher is making a strong bid for the third base position.

Walter Hooper of Revere, Mass., and Mullaney from Hatfield, Mass., are next to Metcalf, the most promising pitchers on the squad.

For catchers, Alexander has Parsons of Lakeville; Tarbox of Collinsville; John White of Bristol; and Anderson of Middletown.

There is a wealth of infield material, and Alexander is finding it somewhat of a problem to make his selections. Infielders, in addition to those already mentioned, include Haversall of Seymour; Spencer of Greenwich; Reeves of Collinsville; Rothkam of New Milford; and Haley from Winsted.

For outfielders Alexander has Bissell from New Haven; Callahan from Revere, Mass.; Calcurcio of Stamford; Platt of New Haven; Powers from South Manchester; Wilson from Springfield, Mass.; Waddy, Anderson, Pratt and Magnuson.

The schedule: May 5, Loomis Institute away; May 12, Pomfret Prep away; May 19 Williston Prep away; May 25 Springfield freshmen at Storrs; May 28, Roxbury Prep away; June 2, Rhode Island freshmen away; June 5, Rhode Island freshmen at Storrs.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR TEAM AT WINDHAM HIGH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 16.—Optimism as to the outlook for a successful baseball season prevails among the undergraduate body of Windham High school and others who have followed the progress of the squad since the first practice session when called by Coach Thomas A. Callaghan. This feeling is a very reasonable one for never has Windham been represented by such a promising wealth of baseball talent. Coach Callaghan also shares this optimistic view of the situation for the season.

Eight veterans of last year are available, including S. Miela, catcher; Captain J. Miela, pitcher, Gudauskas, Melkie and Haggerty, infielders; and J. Nichols, Merrill and Sawicki, outfielders. With probably one exception, all of these veterans will be in the game Saturday afternoon at Recreation Park with Plainfield High school, which will pry the lid off the local season. Unless predictions go astray, Wilkinson, who aspires for one of the pitching assignments, will patrol the right field pasture, much to his majesty, the umpire, calls. Pete Tatro The Storrs lad, who starred in football two seasons ago, is a natural hitter and as the season progresses should be one of Coach Callaghan's most valuable players. Wilkinson is of the type of slicker who steps into the ball and takes a healthy swing. At this writing, the plans of the Mentor seem to favor R. Pickett for the first base berth.

Coach Callaghan has also at command an imposing array of reserve material. Dillon, Southworth and Wilkinson will compose a triumvirate of hurlers who will assist Captain J. Miela during the season. J. Nichols, M. Tinker, and E. Sabo will probably do relief work in the infield.

A large turnout of fans is expected to witness the Plainfield game Saturday. The infield is being groomed for the season's opener.

PROVIDENCE WILL PUT STRONG TEAM IN LEAGUE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 15.—(AP)—After an absence of seven seasons from the Eastern league, Providence will be listed in the O'Neil circuit this coming season with possibly the strongest team the city has boasted in years. That the combination Rube Marquard has rounded up is superior to the international team of last year nobody doubts and that much better ball will be furnished the fans of this city than was the case in 1925 is practically a certainty. With the pick of last year's Worcester team as a nucleus the best the Boston Braves could afford to give the club was added, together with a few other players of high class.

The players are in fine condition and feel their superiority over the bulk of the other teams in the circuit. Manager Marquard in his short stay in town has gained the good will of many of the fans and already a rooters club has been started. He will send his team to the wire on opening day in the pink of condition, and while not claiming anything is confident that the Grays will be in the race every minute of the coming season.

TOO MUCH FRATERNIZING IN BASEBALL, SAYS FLETCHER

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Modern baseball will lose its attraction for the public unless the fraternizing of rival players is replaced by the combativeness of the past, in the opinion of Arthur Fletcher, aggressive leader of the Philadelphia nationals.

"There is too much hand-shaking and back-patting nowadays," said the former shortstop of the Giants. "The players greet each other like traveling salesmen meeting on the road. Things which used to be secrets years ago are now discussed freely by the players.

"The fans like to feel that the players are opposed to each other in spirit. I am against rowdyism! The game has grown out of that stage. But that does not mean we expect players to act like a lot of Little Lord Fauntleroys.

"We used to regard the players of an opposing club as deadly enemies while the game was on, but now there is too great a tendency to turn the big leagues into college fraternities."

NEW SECTIONAL BLEACHERS ERECTED AT ACADEMY CAMPUS

The chilly weather of Thursday called a halt on the baseball practice session of the Academy team and the squad had only a few minutes of hitting practice. However the weather did not hinder Manager Jerry Dion from erecting the new section of portable bleachers.

Manager Jerry with a squad of Academy students with the assistance of Coach Brigham labored long and willingly during the afternoon and as the shadows were lengthening across the diamond the last board was put in place. The new bleachers run from the end of the back stop parallel with the first base line almost to the west end of the Pasnik Memorial stands. This gives an added seating capacity of about 600 and increases the entire seating capacity to about 800.

The new bleachers are of the knock-down type and can be removed very easily when the football season opens. The acquisition of the bleachers fills a long felt want and will materially increase the attendance at the games. In years past it has been somewhat tiresome to stand during a nine-inning game and this has kept many from attending the games. There will be no charge for bleacher seats and the one admission to the grounds will entitle one to a seat.

PHILLIES MAKE IT THREE FROM BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP)—The Phillies made it three straight from Boston today by winning 8 to 6. Cy Williams, pinch hitting for Nixon in the ninth, hit a home run with the bases full that broke a tie. Harry Riconda broke his left leg trying to score from third in the eighth inning on a tap to the pitcher's box. He slid into Catcher Jimmy Wilson and his spikes caught in the receiver's shinguards. George Mogridge, Boston pitching his first game in the National league, weakened in the final innings. Teach solved him for a home run with one on in the eighth, presaging Williams' cleanup.

WHITE SOX POUND ZACHARY IN EARLY INNINGS

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox drove Tom Zachary from the mound in the first inning today and took an commanding lead which enabled them to make it two straight from the St. Louis Browns by a score of 11 to 4.

Weakness of the former Senator hurler and erratic support on the part of the Browns gave the Sox the edge. Blankenship pitched handily after he got over his first inning but caught up toward the finish.

Delaney Goes on Stage

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—The lure of the footlights has caught Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., leading challenger for the light-heavyweight championship. Delaney has been booked for a week's vaudeville engagement in New York beginning May 3.

WALKER AND FLOWERS TO BATTLE FOR TITLE

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Aspirations of Mickey Walker to become a double ring champion were revived today with the completion of negotiations by Tex Rickard for the welterweight title-holder to fight Tiger Flowers, Georgia negro, in a 15-round bout for the middleweight crown at the Yankee stadium in June.

Approval of the match, which will mark Flowers' first defense of the middleweight championship he lifted from Harry Greb less than two months ago, will be sought of the State Athletic commission tomorrow. At the same time, Rickard will renew his attempt to obtain official aid in signing Jack Delaney to box Paul Berlenbach for light-heavyweight honors on June 10.

Selection of a date for the Walker-Flowers match will hinge upon disposition of the proposed Delaney-Berlenbach contest. Rickard already has signed the champion in anticipation of prompt acceptance of terms by Delaney. The latter thus far, however, has declined to sign and dickered with other metropolitan promoters. Should the match fail, the Flowers-Walker bout may be fixed for June 10, Rickard indicated.

NEW HAVEN, April 15.—(AP)—The first nine holes of Yale's new 18-hole golf course were thrown open officially today to members of the university and to the founder and patrons of the Ray Tompkins memorial. Bernard Thomson, professional of the course and coach of the Yale golf team, said that the section opened today was in perfect condition. A large number of golfers were present to take part in the opening.

There are six holes on which the play is over water either in whole or in part. The greens average 10,000 square feet each. There are three tees for each hole. Par for the championship or long course is 71, with a yardage of 6562. The yardage over the regular course, which is played from the middle tees, is 6107, with par 69, and over the so-called short course or from the front tees is 5648, with 68 for par.

The first match the Yale team will play will be on April 24, when the West Point golf team will come to New Haven. Frank E. Wattles, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., is captain of the Yale team this year.

FAVORITES COME THROUGH FIRST ROUND OF ENGLISH GOLF CLASSIC

ROEHAMPTON, England, April 15.—(AP)—Playing under most unfavorable conditions, with sheets of rain and strong winds and many of the bunkers and greens flooded, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan, W. B. Smith and W. Robertson came through today's rounds of the Roehampton Golf club's annual £300 invitation tournament, and tomorrow will fight for the season's first professional prize. Mitchell will contend against Smith, and Duncan will oppose Robertson in the semi-finals.

It was a great day for Abe Mitchell. He eliminated James Ockenden of Hangerhill 3 up and 1 to play, and then took the measure of Archibald Compston, 4 and 3, the last match that Compston played before his American tour was against Mitchell; he got a drubbing then, but returned home this week and rushed from the liner to Roehampton anxious to revenge. But he fell once more before the great golfing master, whose long distance driving and splendid control and putting, except for one brief interval, far surpassed Compton's game. Mitchell and Compston took practically all the spectators with them, and despite the pouring rain, they stayed to watch Mitchell beat his man.

It was a popular victory for Compston returned to England with just a trace of American accent and some additions to his vocabulary from the American language. But he did not acquire any American hustle, for he dawdled through the morning round.

While he meditated and studied the shots, Big George Gadd, the Roehampton club's professional, got wetter and wetter and more and more irritated, and ultimately lost 5 up and 4 to play.

J. H. Taylor's age and experience at 55 triumphed over the young ex-champion, Arthur Havers, 3 and 2 but the veteran Harry Vardon, although he donned rubber plus fours, could not weather both the storm and Jack Smith's driving.

Aubrey Boomer, the only foreigner to get into the qualifying 16 yesterday, battled valiantly for a place in the semi-finals, but he lost to George Duncan on the last green. The Frenchman sank an eight yard putt for a three at the first hole, but Duncan took the next three holes with fine fours. Boomer evened the matters before reaching the turn, and on the way home every hole was halved except the 16th, which went to Duncan.

EIGHT CREWS ENTERED FOR POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP) — The University of California's decision to send its varsity crew to the intercollegiate championship this year virtually assures a record array of eight shells for the blue feature of the regatta at Poughkeepsie on June 28.

Washington, Pacific coast champion this year for the fifth straight time, and the United States Naval Academy, winner of last year's varsity race at Poughkeepsie already have signified their intention to take part. Wisconsin, which finished third last year, also is expected back on the Hudson to increase the competition for the four members of the Intercollegiate Rowing association—Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

The present record of seven entries for the varsity race was set in 1907 when Georgetown, the Naval Academy and Wisconsin were the "outsiders". This mark was equalled last year when the Naval Academy, Washington and Wisconsin participated and finished in that order to register a complete setback for the four members of the I. H. A.

Then entry for the freshman race at their 1926 regatta also may touch record proportions with California planning to send its "yearlings" along with the varsity. Wisconsin was in this event last year and Washington in 1923.

California has competed only once before in the varsity classic on the Hudson. That was in 1924, when the Golden Bears finished second to the Naval Academy in a sensational race. Since then California's crews have yielded supremacy to Washington on the Pacific coast, losing this year's championship race at Seattle recently by six lengths.

In the last four years Washington's varsity crews have finished first twice and second twice at Poughkeepsie.

Spoke at Hartford Meeting

Dr. Frederick P. Shenk was the speaker at the April meeting Monday night of the Hartford Mental Hygiene society at Hartford, on the subject "Mental Hygiene and its relation to the State Hospital."

Sitting pretty and no mistake!

LIKE the chap in the song, I'm sitting on top of the world. And it's not a bad world when you look at it from all sides. I've hit some rough spots, but managed to keep my seat. I want to let it be known that the road has been a heap smoother since I discovered Prince Albert. Here is tobacco!

My old jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert and I go along just singin' a song from morning to midnight. Whenever I get to feeling low, I take out my pipe, tamp a load of good old P. A. into the muzzle and light up. Old Man Trouble takes French leave the minute that wonderful smoke starts up the stem.

Prince Albert is friendly in spirit and friendly in fact. It never bites my tongue or parches my throat. They tell me the Prince Albert process fixed that for me and millions like me. I only know that P. A. is cool and satisfying as spring-water on a hot afternoon and that it suits me to a T.

You're welcome to this leaf out of my book. If you're not smoking P. A., you're not getting full enjoyment out of your pipe. Just get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. Load up your old jimmy-pipe and light up. Nothing complicated about that, is there? Well, that's my formula. It always works for me.

P. A. *is sold everywhere in fifty cent tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 15 —It was indicated Thursday that the Quinebaug mills and the Wauregan mills will not stand alone and follow standard time schedule if the great majority of other manufacturing plants in Killingly and Plainfield adopt a fast time schedule, as is now indicated will be done on Sunday, April 25. Regardless of whether one prefers standard [illegible] the number of days in any given month, the number of hours in each day, the number of minutes in an hour and the number of seconds in a minute. Man-made schedules each and every one!

Likewise, man might have made a month—all months—of 28 days or 14 days, and provided 48 hours to the day, or any other number of hours, by making certain changes that readily could be made by a given authority.

Standard time is not God's time. If would not be 7 o'clock in St. John's, N. B. (Atlantic time) when it is 6 o'clock here, nor would it be 5 o'clock in Chicago (central time) when it is 6 o'clock here. And the same applies to the differences in time, still greater differences, as known to Denver (mountain time) or to San Francisco (Pacific time). The Lord would not have made such a mess of things as that.

Even nature itself is fickle about the length of days—the rising and setting of the sun. Back in late December the sun was not rising in this region until 7:14 a. m. If one wants to witness his appearance on this morning of April 16, one will have to be up and about as early as 5:05 a. m. He is about two hours off his late December schedule in the morning, and is not going to be anywhere near as early of an evening. There is an arrangement for more upsetting than daylight saving time—and no one appears about it, nor would it do any good if one did!

No, standard time is not God's time. As much as one may dislike daylight saving time, a claim that it is gets one nowhere at all. It makes a pretty pounding speech, but has no foundation in fact.

Winter weather and heavy traffic during the very early spring has chewed up the surfaces of borough streets so that they are now in generally poor condition. This will not endure for any great length of time, for spring work on these thoroughfares will be underway in the very near future. It so happens that much excavating for sewers, water pipes and one thing and another has been done since last summer and all of this has contributed to making certain streets very rough with depressions and holes.

Farmers say this season is from two to three weeks late, compared with the average spring. While plowing is being done in the surrounding country at this time, planting of crops is going to be materially delayed.

To permit making improvements in the service, the electric current will be shut off next Sunday afternoon from 1 to 2 o'clock by the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company in the borough of Danielson, in Brooklyn, West Wauregan, Attawaugan, Ballouville, Pineville, Dayville and Goodyears.

Officer John Murray, of Putnam, of the New Haven road police was in Danielson Thursday putting out warnings against railroad trespassers. These warnings show that since the establishment of the Interstate Commerce commission, 140,429 trespassers were killed on railroad properties in the United States and 151,969 injured, a slaughter comparable to that of war. The public utilities commission is to meet at the town hall building here next Wednesday to hear a petition of the Blue Ribbon Bus line for permission to operate a line from Central Village through Wauregan Brooklyn Danielson to Goodyear. Granting of the petition will be sought on the grounds of public convenience and necessity.

Clarke to care for Davis park during the season was accepted, this bid being $200. ROTARIANS MAKE HIT—BROADCAST FROM WEBSTER

PUTNAM, April 15—Putnam Rotarians made a decided hit with the radio audience of WKBE at Webster when they broadcasted a program of musical numbers and addresses from the station there. That the club has headliners — both a musical and oratorical — is well known in Putnam and it is also known over in our neighboring city just across the border line.

They were on the air for more than two hours and sang group songs and solos, duets and quartet numbers, while the instrumental selections included violin, flute and saxophone solos and selections from the Ladies Turkish orchestra. Addresses were made by Arthur E. Smith, John Reardon, Ralph C. Jenkins and Jake Alpert. The group singing was in charge of C. Dwight Sharpe. Baritone solos were sung by "Bill" Wheaton and the flute and saxophone solos were by Paul Wheaton. Miss Esther Rouse played the violin selections and Kenneth Sharpe was accompanist.

Mr. Jenkins had for his subject "Rotary in the Community." Mr. Smith, "Rotary Fellowship." Mr. Reardon, "Rotary in Business," and Mr. Alpert "Once a Rotarian Always a Rotarian."

The Rotarians attending the broadcasting included many of the prominent business men of Putnam and all joined in the affair in a true Rotarian spirit. The experience was an enjoyable one. After the closing number [illegible] was passed before the microphone and said "Good Night".

At Israel Putnam school Thursday afternoon there was an exhibition of glass blowing that was instructive and interesting. The method of blowing vases, etc., was shown.

JEWETT CITY

WILD COLLIE'S PUPPIES FOUND IN HOLE IN AN OAK

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 15.—Deputy Game Warden William R. Palmer was called to the home of Alvin Douglass last week to locate the whining of puppies. Finally, they were located in a hole in the bottom of a seven foot oak. Three of the handsomest, wee puppies about five weeks old. The mother, a beautiful tri-color collie, was evidently very wild, and could not be caught. The puppies were later taken to Frank Johnson's home in Sylvandale. A few days after, Warden Palmer shot the wild mother. In all probability this is the wild dog which never could be caught in the vicinity of Spy Rock, and where puppies Warden Palmer got by crawling into a cave about two years ago. He says he has met this dog near the icehouses, coming from Jewett City.

Mrs. E. Lucier was pleasantly surprised at her home on School street Wednesday evening when several relatives and friends arrived to celebrate her 63rd birthday. Games, Victrola selections and piano solos provided entertainment. Miss Rita Exley gave a very clever exhibition of the Charleston. Solos were sung by Albert Exley. Lunch was served by Miss Emma Lucier. A large birthday cake, on which were 63 candles had the place of honor on the table. Mrs. Lucier received many gifts, including china, wearing apparel and gold pieces. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. Lucier, Miss Emma Lucier, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Exley, Rita and Dorothy Exley, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Marsan, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bailou, Mrs. Joseph Arsenault, George Lucier and Miss Louis Gosselin of Jewett City, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morin of Baltic, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Exley and Matthew Exley of Occum.

The chicken pie supper at Newent town house, Wednesday evening, was attended by nearly 150. A large number rods and walked over from Jewett City. A FEW TIMELY GARDEN NOTES

Send in your order for choice gladioli bulbs at once if you want to be sure of getting them. A number of growers lost acres of bulbs by unseasonable freezes last fall, and the crop is not as large as usual.

Don't plant radishes in the same place this year you did last season.

Time to salt the asparagus bed.

Clean the rubbish off the garden and burn it the first good day. It is a great harbor for the eggs of bugs and spores of fungus pests.

Six pots will start enough cucumber vines to give early salads long before the regular outdoor planting can get into action.

Cardinal Climber seeds need a warm indoor start if you want the vines to bloom early. It should not be planted outside until the weather is warm.

Sow zinnias, petunias, salvias and marigolds for early bloom. Don't get the seeds too thick and transplant as soon as the seedlings will stand it.

Parsley always takes its time about coming up. Better drop a short row in the cold frame for an early summer garnish.

Don't forget that the earlier you get lima beans started the more lima you can harvest. Four beans to a five-inch pot planted edge down will start you on the way to an early lima crop.

Peters Mind Is Relieved

I hope this story you will find,
Will bring to you relief of mind.
—Peter Rabbit.

Did Reddy Fox catch the stranger, or didn't he? Peter Rabbit felt as if he would give anything to know. He listened and listened and listened for the voice of the stranger, but not once did he hear it after Reddy had disappeared in the Old Pasture near where the stranger had been crowing.

You see, Peter felt that he just must see that stranger and talk with him. Never in his whole life had he been more curious. But if Reddy Fox had caught the stranger that curiosity never would be satisfied.

Not once again that day did Peter hear the stranger crowing. By the time the Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills Peter had made up his mind that Reddy must have caught the stranger. "I'll go and see," said Peter to Johnny Chuck, as he sat on the latter's doorstep.

"What is too bad?" inquired Johnny, eating sweet clover as fast as he could.

"That Reddy Fox should have caught the stranger who was crowing over near the edge of the Old Pasture this morning," said Peter.

"I hadn't heard that Reddy did catch the stranger," said Johnny, "but if you ask me, any one who was silly enough to tell all the Great World just where he was deserves to be caught. Did you find out what the stranger's name was?"

"No," said Peter, "no, I didn't. Blacky the Crow wouldn't tell me, and I haven't seen Reddy Fox to speak to since he caught the stranger."

"Since who caught who?" demanded another voice. There was Jimmy Skunk.

So Peter told Jimmy all about how he had watched Reddy Fox hunting the stranger who was silly enough to crow that morning, and how the stranger hadn't crowed since. "So, of course, Reddy must have caught him," concluded Peter.

Peter and Johnny watched Jimmy Skunk amble away in the direction of the Old Pasture

"I would like to hear that fellow crow," said Jimmy Skunk. "Did you say there was more than one stranger?"

"There are two," replied Peter. "One looks much like Mrs. Grouse, only has a long tail."

"Ah!" said Jimmy Skunk. "What you tell me interests me. It may be that if Reddy hasn't caught this crowing stranger there will be a nestful of fresh eggs somewhere about. The merg thought of fresh eggs tempts my appetite. I believe I'll call on Reddy Fox. I would like to know more about these strangers, indeed, I would."

Peter and Johnny watched Jimmy Skunk amble away in the direction of the Old Pasture. "Much good it will do him," said Peter. "Of course, Reddy Fox caught that fellow. I wish I dared go over there. Jimmy Skunk is the luckiest fellow I know. He isn't afraid of anybody."

It was time for Johnny Chuck to retire for the night, so Peter bade him good by and made his way over to the Green Forest to spend the night. Just before the Black Shadows were leaving the Green Forest the next morning Peter got back to the Old Briar-patch. He sat down just outside of it for a last mouthful of sweet clover and to watch jolly, round, red Mr. Sun begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. And as he sat there, there came to him from the distance a voice. Some one was crowing over by the Old Orchard. Peter hopped straight up in the air. "Reddy Fox didn't catch him!" he cried. "I'm going straight over to the Old Orchard." And away Peter went lipperty-lipperty-lip, although he knew that the only sensible place for a rabbit at that time of day was in the Old Briar-patch.

DAN WETMORE OF OCEAN BEACH SHOOK HANDS WITH GENERAL GRANT

A resident of New London who is almost what one might call an institution at Ocean Beach, Daniel C. Wetmore, is always a keen reader the "Fifty Years Ago" department of the Norwich Bulletin; for this city was Mr Wetmore's home during his boyhood and he retains his interest in its progress and activities.

Mr. Wetmore is the son of Daniel L. Wetmore, who came from near Cape Cod, to Norwich at an era when J. M. Huntington & company had been making the village of Thamesville hum, with their ship-building and West Indies trade about Civil war time and later. The younger Wetmore, now 71, was born in 1855 and was a boyhood friend of a group of West side boys of whom few remain—George Phillips, Will Ashley, Jake Fox, George Smith, Frank and Howard L. Stanton. He also knew "Charlie" Preston and others. That was the era when Ed and Frank Lovell kept the West Side news store when Billy Bill was running the bridge restaurant, Charles Winters had the market, Sam Wallis sold fish, Alvah Francis and Deacon Cranston kept the grocery store, and other once well known West side resident.

DANIEL C. WETMORE

The former Norwich resident has many pleasant recollections of his boyhood, but none stand out so prominently in his memory as does an incident which had to do with a visit of General U S Grant to this city, in the year when Grant was running for president.

In company with a group of his mates, Dan Wetmore was in the crowd which thronged the platform at the railroad station when General Grant's train drew in. But he had something in his mind which none of the "gang" suspected. Pushing in ahead of his elders, he elbowed up to the train platform and seized the hand of Gen. Grant, informing him that, while he himself hadn't fought in the war, he had three uncles who had.

Grant smiled cordially at the boy, shook his hand warmly, and then the biggest hero on the West Side that day precipitously withdrew.

Mr. Wetmore learned the carpenter's trade and his good and thorough work helped get him some important and profitable jobs which took him to various cities with the H. Wales Lines Co. the Mexsams of Westerly and others so that he worked at Westfield, N. J. on the big J. B. Martin mill at Tariville and in other places. In 1907 he located at Ocean Beach, buying and later adding the house which he named Arbella Cottage, and which has since been his year round home.

In his days of carpentering about the country a man's wages was considered good when he was getting $2 or $2.50 a day. But there were other ways of making money, and since locating at the beach Mr. Wetmore has netted some good cash at lobstering or fishing. He is shown in the cut with a 26 pound chequit which he one day hooked off the Ocean beach pier.

At another time he cleared $78 in one day, ferrying passengers out to inspect a schooner which had come ashore at the beach.

Mr. Wetmore's first wife died nearly five years ago and his daughter, Mrs. Harry Converse of Stafford Springs died in 1922. He has a son Ralph who is a resident of New London. He has never joined any special organizations and is a member of the Advent church.

Schooner Ashore at Ocean Beach

It is interesting to Mr. Wetmore as he sits in his cosy home, these spring days to recall the boyhood years when he did his bit with the rest of the West Side boys in barrel-stealing for the annual bonfire, before Thanksgiving which bonfire he claims, was a custom originated by Benedict Arnold.

Mr. Wetmore's immigrant ancestor was Thomas Wetmore who with his wife Catherine Van Cotts came from England in 1660, settling in New York. They were parents of two sons and two daughters. One of the sons, Herbert, who located in Fairfield, Conn. was ancestor of the former Norwich boy.

With his second wife he continues to enjoy life in the enlarged and sightly cottage which has been his home since 1907 and where he is known and esteemed not alone by summer residents at the beach but by the hundreds who have been his guests, year after year.

"Bohemium" Discovered

Everything on earth—fire, water, dirt, plants and animals—everything in the whole visible universe, including the sun, planets and stars, is made up of less than 100 different substances called "elements." Most of these have been found, numbered and put in order according to the structure of their atoms. A few gaps remain.

Drs. J. Heyrovsky and Dolejsek of Prague, Czechoslovakia, have announced the discovery of No. 75, one of the missing elements, says Popular Science Monthly. They have named it "bohemium," in honor of Bohemia. Not long ago three German scientists claimed to have discovered 75, too, and also 43. If these two are verified then only three missing chemical elements will remain to be discovered—numbers 61, 85, and 87.

To Scare the Ducks

Soldiers at Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland, have been patrolling the banks of the Susquehanna river day and night, firing rounds of blank cartridges to frighten ducks away. The precaution has been taken to protect the flocks of canvasbacks, many of which have been poisoned by phosphorus from exploded shells in the swamp land.

THE WILLINGNESS TO WORK.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I wonder if you would find anything interesting and suggestive in a little story told by The London Mail?

It is that of a laborer near Carlisle, England, employed at common, unskilled labor in the limestone quarries at Alston. No statement is made as to what wages he receives. Not very much, we can be reasonably sure. But some other details are given.

He is 65 years old. He lives in a small home seven miles and a half from the quarries, and his road to them is through a mountainous region, addicted to storms, wind, rain and snow. He leaves home at half-past four in the morning and gets back at seven in the evening. Fifteen miles a day, as you will observe, and 14 1-2 hours taken up by his work and the walking to it and from it. Asked why he does it he explained that there was no work nearer his home and.—please note this.—"I would rather walk and work than take the dole."

The "dole," it may be explained for those who are not read up on local English administration, is a government charity distributed weekly to such workingmen as are out of jobs and unable to earn their own livings. Unemployment in once "Merrie England" had reached such an extent that the ordinary methods of relief were inadequate. Hence the government stepped in, using the money of those who were able pay taxes for those who were unable to earn their daily bread. It was admittedly intended as a temporary expedient, and was as unquestionably inspired by kindly and humane motives.

And, like all other governmental attempts at interference with personal rights and duties, it has led to far more evils than it was intended to cure. Meant for the relief of the worthy poor, it has been seized upon by the unworthy as an easy way to escape work, without running risk of starvation.

For there are "unworthy poor" as surely as "worthy poor." We've got used to hearing that latter phrase repeated so glibly and persistently that we're in danger of parroting it ourselves, without thinking of its ondedness. It is quite the thing many well-meaning societies to talk about and plan for assistance to "the worthy and deserving poor," as if there weren't any other kind. And most of us, hearing the formula recited over and over again, fall into the habit of echoing it without thinking.

Yet, if we would only stop and use the gray matter of our brains a bit, we'd at once see that worth and good desert are not always the cause of poverty. There is a vast deal of poverty which comes in spite of what to us better deserving. Accident, disease, old age, native weakness, the dishonest greed of others—there are plenty of causes for instances of deserving poverty. He would be foolish who should seek to deny them; he would be lacking in humanity who should fail to pity and seek to relieve them.

But there is also a pauperism which is due to laziness, to shirking, to self-indulgence, to dishonesty, to a desire to get something for nothing, to plain shiftlessness and bumminess. Such poverty is unworthy and undeserving. Yet how can government, of all devices known among men, discriminate with invariable accuracy between the two, so as to be just to both?

The simple answer is that it cannot. So the well-meant "dole" which was intended to tide over immediate hard times for those who couldn't find work is, in fact, being distributed largely to bums who don't want to find work, who had rather live on charity than on earnings. It is rapidly developing in England a big class of never-do-wells who assume that the government owes them a living, and who would consider themselves "chumps" if they should rely upon their own labor to earn their dinners, when government will feed them as long as they remain idle.

It will at once be said by many that it is better to feed a dozen undeserving paupers than to let one worthy family suffer. And we'll agree with the statement. Just the same, I can't help feeling a hearty admiration for the grim determination, the sturdy independence, and the honest self-helpfulness of this Alston quarry worker. He would rather put in 14 1-2 hours and walk 15 miles a day over a mountain road to earn his own living than to take it as charity.

Seems to me that unnamed laborer can be described as a man.

Many years ago, driving with a friend through the country north of New Haven in this state, the friend called my attention to a neat little house at the end of a trim lane some distance from the highway. "The man who lives there," said my friend, "walks eight miles and back, every day, to his work at a New Haven foundry. He works the same hours at the same wages as others on similar jobs. He is always on hand when the whistle blows and is never the first to knock off at quitting time. He has bought and paid for his house and several acres of land. He keeps a cow and some hens and raises practically all his needed vegetables. And he adds, every week, a little something to the tidy account already standing in his name at the saving bank."

I think this Connecticut workman might also be described as a man without very many qualifying adjectives.

Now tell me frankly, don't you also feel something more than respect, something like real admiration for the splendid pluck and unflagging grit of both these men, the Connecticut ironworker and the Welsh quarryman? Isn't either one of them worth more, as a neighbor, as a citizen, as a man, than any dozen of the shirkers who won't do this because it's too hard work, and won't do that because it's too far away, and won't do the other thing because the hours are too long or the wages unsatisfactory? Who'd rather take the potatoes from somebody else's plate than dig and boil their own?

Most of us old farmers have, at one time or another, known the pinch of personal hardship. We've had to work when we'd much rather have gone fishing, or have snoozed under the shade of a tree. We've had to live on pork and beans when there wasn't money to buy beef. We've had to work 14, yes, and 16 hours a day to save the crops which we would need. We've had to do pretty nearly everything a man, but the end thereof is the way of death."

I have no doubt that these two men whose cases I have cited, one in Old England and one in New England, would both have preferred work within less than seven or eight miles of their breakfasts and suppers. Nor would it be unreasonable to assume that they both would have liked higher wages than they got, and shorter hours.

The point is that they didn't sit down and refuse to do anything because they couldn't get exactly the jobs they'd have chosen or the wages they would have liked. They took such work as was available, at such wages as they could be sure of, and made the best of them. The one was actuated by an ambition to make a comfortable, healthful and eventually self-supporting home for his family; the other was unwilling to take charity, so long as he could earn his own way.

Yet I've known men, right in this extremely rural town in which I live, to refuse big wages on a new state road unless the contractor would "lend" them an automobile to drive the four or five miles from their homes. And it is said that over 1,200,000 men in England are taking the government dole.

Do you suppose there would be one-tenth that number if they were all like the Alston quarryman, proudly preferring hard work and long hours and a meager living rather than sponge on their neighbors or loaf at the expense of their country? I don't.

If a man decides to make shovelling snow his trade and won't work at anything else, he isn't likely to be burdened with overemployment in June and July. But, if he would rather pick up stones or cut brambles or dig ditches or weed onions or sweep gutters or break rocks, or do any other undesirable task which would keep him in bread and breeches till he could get a pleasanter and more profitable occupation, the chances are at least even that he'd never have to call on the town for assistance or the dole to buy his dinner.

To help helplessness is praiseworthy; to mollycoddle laziness is silly.

THE FARMER.

FRIENDS

Make new friends, but keep the old,
These are silver, those are gold;
New-made friendships, like new wine,
Time will mellow and refine.

Friendships that have stood the test
Of time and change, are surely best;
Brow may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship true knows no decay.

For, 'mid friends, the tried and true,
We once more our youth renew,
But old friends, alas may die,
New friends must their place supply.

Cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old,
These are silver, those are gold.

Sunday evening, the primary and junior departments of Preston City Baptist Bible school, assisted by the church choir, gave the cantata, The Living Lord, a portrayal of the various religions of the world in comparison with Christianity. The final scene was the entire cast kneeling around an illuminated cross. The reverent manner in which the children took their parts won praise for both the children and their teacher who had the cantata in charge. The numbers by the choir were also rendered.

MRS. E. S. HARKNESS PRESENTS YALE A MELK COPY OF THE GUTENBERG BIBLE

NEW HAVEN, April 16—(AP)—Mrs. Edward S. Harkness of New York city, has presented to Yale university the Melk copy of the Gutenberg bible, recently sold at auction in New York. The gift is made in memory of Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness.

"Through her extraordinarily thoughtful generosity," President James R Angell, of Yale said today, "Mrs. Harkness has once more put Yale under the deepest obligation by her memorable gift of the great Gutenberg bible. The possession of this priceless treasure puts the prestige of the Yale library once and for all beyond challenge."

The Gutenberg bible, published in 1455, was the first book printed from moveable type. The copy which now comes to Yale is one of the 42 known, of which but 35 are complete. There are eight copies in the United States and one of odd volume.

The Melk copy takes its name from a town of less than 2,000 inhabitants in lower Austria. There, in a Benedictine monastery, the book remained from the time of its publication until its recent purchase from the monks by a British book seller for transportation to America. The first page of the bible bears the name of the monastery, written in a 17th century hand.

The Melk edition is in two folio volumes, in a brown calf binding dating from about 1700. The pages are printed in double columns and are 15 inches high and 10 3-8 inches wide. The copy is notable for its extraordinary state of preservation.

Seymour De Ricci, one of the foremost authorities on Gutenberg has said of the Melk copy: "Its general freshness and cleanliness are most remarkable; every leaf is sound and genuine; neither the printed book nor the venerable monastic binding has been cleaned, mended, or repaired in the slightest degree."

This copy has only 40 lines on the first nine pages and 41 on the tenth, while many other copies have 42 lines to the page throughout. This indicates that there were two issues of the Gutenberg bible. The Melk edition was one of the first, and is consequently of the utmost historical importance.

The Melk copy was placed in the rare book room in the new Sterling Memorial library, which is to be begun at Yale on July 1. Here it will stand in a special exhibition case under unbreakable glass for the inspection of scholars from all parts of the world.

Andrew Keough, Yale librarian, said today, "Yale has a complete collection of important English bibles. It is natural that we should desire to go behind the English version so that scholars may have opportunity to compare it with its predecessors. The Gutenberg bible is not only the rarest, the costliest and perhaps the most beautiful book in the world, but an indispensable link in the study of the bible as a book.

"In honor of the 400th anniversary of William Tyndale, who made the first English translation of the bible, we exhibited 40 of our rarest bibles, among them a copy of the first issue of the first edition of the King James version of 1611. The Gutenberg bible will double the interest in future exhibitions of this kind, showing as it does the difference in workmanship and style between the earliest of all editions and its English successors."

This is the third of Mrs. Harkness' recent gift to the Yale library.

A Real "Death Ray."

A ray which literally deals death and promises to be of practical use in combating insect pests has been developed in the laboratories of the General Electric company, says Popular Mechanics. It killed highly resistant bacteria spores in an exposure of one tenth of a second and fruit flies, upon being rayed for an instant, showed almost complete collapse and died in a few hours.

The rays are produced by an electrical discharge as powerful as 250,000 volts inside a glass vacuum tube, at one end of which is a "window" of aluminum, through which rapidly moving electrons pass and have an effective range of 18 inches. The air itself becomes luminous in front of the tube and castor oil was changed into a solid. Similar rays have been produced within tubes before, but never in such quantity in the air, it is said.

The effects of the emanations on higher forms of life were also striking. A small portion of a rabbit's ear was exposed to the rays for about 50 seconds. A scab developed on both sides of the ear and later fell out, leaving a hole which became covered with a growth of snow-white hair.

Underground Garages

Plans for a system of underground garages and subterranean streets as a means of relieving traffic congestion in Paris, France, were announced recently by M. Mouquin, the prefect of police. The underground thoroughfare, it is said, will be built simultaneously with a proposed new subway line.

For further relief of surface traffic congestion moving pavements have been suggested. The first of these pavements according to the plan, probably would be elevated and would run along the boulevards having the heaviest traffic.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF NEW HAVEN'S FAMOUS TRAINS

The Federal express, one of New England's famous trains operating over the New Haven, the Pennsylvania railroads, between Boston and Washington, made its first run on May 6, 1876. Next month therefore is the golden anniversary of the train.

The Colonial express, the day train originally operating between Boston and Philadelphia, and later to Washington, made its first run four days later.

The Federal and Colonial began operation to serve travelers to the centennial, and many travelers repeating the journey to the sesquicentennial will undoubtedly remark on the great improvement in travel conveniences, the outstanding feature being the Hell Gate bridge, a remarkable engineering accomplishment, which connects the New Haven and Pennsylvania systems.

The Federal when first operated was known as the Washington night express and the Colonial when first operated was known as the Philadelphia express and they were the first trains to be operated through from Boston to Philadelphia and Washington.

Leaving the old New York and New England station in Boston the route was by way of Hartford and New Haven to Harlem river, New York city, where the cars were run aboard the transfer steamer Maryland which ferried the trains to Jersey City thence the journey was continued over the Pennsylvania railroad. At the close of the centennial the day train was discontinued but the night train remained in operation.

In December, 1888, the route was changed and the trains went via the Newburgh route, but service was resumed via Harlem river in May, 1890.

In 1893 the Shore Line route was adopted in place of traveling via Hartford and continued on this route until 1913 when it was changed to the Poughkeepsie bridge route, thus eliminating the necessity of transferring the cars around New York by steamer. It continued the run via the Poughkeepsie bridge until the opening of the Hell Gate bridge on April 1917.

The Hell Gate bridge did away forever with floating the passenger cars through the East River and around the Battery, which in the old days consumed much time, whereas today the actual running time of the Federal express from Harlem river (Casanova) to the Pennsylvania station is seventeen minutes.

The Philadelphia express which had been discontinued after the centennial was placed in service again in May, 1890, and in October of the same year was extended to Washington. It was discontinued in January, 1891, but a year later was put back in service as the Colonial express and has been running regularly since that time.

The New Haven, in celebration of this golden anniversary of two of its trains is displaying an attractive poster in blue and gold at its stations and elsewhere, announcing the fact that these famous trains "will complete fifty years of service on May 3, 1926."

EXPECT 350 DELEGATES FOR 4-H CLUB ROUND-UP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, April 15—Plans for the state 4-H club "round up" in Hartford, April 30 and May 1, when leaders and delegates representing 3500 4-H club members from the entire state will attend were announced here today by A. J. Brundage, state club leader.

The state chamber of commerce and agricultural committee of the Connecticut Manufacturer's association are cooperating to make this meeting of young folks and their leaders a success.

The first session of the two-day meeting will be held at Motel Garde, when the club delegates will be the guests of the state chamber of commerce, of which State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers of New London is president. A banquet will be held, at which speakers of national and state reputation, and state 4-H club champions will speak. It is expected that 350 club delegates and leaders will be present.

The agricultural committee of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, of which Wilson H. Lee of New Haven is chairman, will be hosts to the club members the second day of the meeting. A trip to the state capital will be made in the morning, when the hall of the house of representatives and the state library will be visited. Luncheon will be in the Hotel Bond ball room, and this will be followed by an interesting speaking program of 4-H club work. Later, the national champion clothing team of Evelyn Camp and Dorothy Baldwin, both from Middletown, will give a clothing demonstration.

CHILDREN PICKETERS WITH PLACARDS FORBIDDEN ON WHITE HOUSE GROUNDS

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Children picketers who came to Washington today to plead the cause of the textile strikers at Passaic, N. J., with President Coolidge failed to get him and, in addition, they were forbidden by police to parade with placards around the White House grounds. Accepting events stoically they returned to Passaic later in the day.

Under the leadership of Carl Tropom, of the Strikers' United Front Committee, the children, some of the five girls ranging in age from four to 12 years, descended upon the executive offices with placards stating for the hardships imposed upon them by the strike. The youngsters were from the families and their mothers were among the five adults accompanying them.

On entering the White House grounds they were told by the police that the placards could not be displayed or photographs made of them under District of Columbia regulations.

Quietly the cards were put away and the delegation entered the executive offices where the older folks sat unmoved and some of the children went to sleep while Trocola interviewed Secretary Sanders, who informed him that Mr. Coolidge was ill and could not see the delegation.

Present with the secretary a number of affidavits to support that the constitutional rights of the children were being abridged through the denial of free speech and peaceful assembling as well as the orders of picketing of the textile plants.

Asked by Secretary Sanders what he thought the president could do, Trocola made no definite suggestion. The secretary suggested that the children complained of more properly could be taken up with the state authorities and, pointed out that the labor department had attempted to effect a settlement of the strike and was continuing its efforts.

After his conference with secretary Sanders, Trocola and his associates left the executive offices and began to picket the White House grounds.

Displaying the placards, the group moved slowly along Pennsylvania avenue, with photographers recording the scene, but in a few minutes police stopped them, explaining that it was in violation of the Child Labor law here for children to engage in picketing. The decision of the authorities was accepted quietly, the placards were put away and the delegation left the vicinity for good.

Bullet-Proof Auto Bodies

Automobile bodies of a bullet-proof metal that cannot be distinguished in appearance from the usual material have been constructed for police and other special uses, says Popular Mechanics.

The metal is the same as that of which bullet-proof vests have been fashioned and its efficiency lies in its ability to absorb the impact of a missile, allowing the vibrations to spread and thus preventing perforation. Unlike stiff, heavy armor plates, it can be cut or punched easily, and bodies constructed of it are well within the weight limits of the cars chassis. A sheet of the metal, being only about one-sixteenth inch thick and weighing but two and one-half pounds to the square foot. It also has a surface that takes any kind of automobile finish.

Legless But Travels

Jules Pernot, French wartime aviator, who is attempting to walk around the world on artificial legs, set out to cross the American continent from Vancouver, B. C., where he arrived aboard the Empress of Asia from Yokohama. Pernot's legs were amputated below the knees in a German prison camp after he was taken prisoner when his machine fell in Belgium. He left France two years ago and started "hoofing" with the help of a cane. It took him 20 months to cross Europe and Asia. He will go to New York via Montreal. From there he will sail to France. Pernot has 20 years to win a wager. He expects to make the trip in three years.

BACKUS HOSPITAL

The cold, late spring has been productive of an unusual amount of sickness, which has brought to the hospital a proportionate increase in the number of its patients. This has meant a crowding of more work into every hour of every day, which work cannot be postponed until a more convenient season, as is sometimes possible in private life. In the hospital, the needs of the patients must be attended to not only promptly, but with patience and amiability, so hard to command when one is weary. Whatever makes a break in the intensity of the work, whether it be the sight of a flower, an encouraging word from an outsider, or the anticipation of some future pleasure helps officer, nurse and patient to "carry on". To bring encouragement and cheer into the hospital, to provide some of the needs which its treasury cannot supply and to increase community interest is the purpose of the Women's auxiliary.

After two years of formal organization this has become a permanent association, which by its exceptional efficiency has demonstrated itself to be worthy of the continued support of every woman in Norwich.

During the past month fifteen names have been added to the membership list, fourteen of these being residents of Jewett City. It is gratifying to note that women of the surrounding towns are realizing more and more that inasmuch as their people are seen here to be cared for, they naturally ought to become members of the auxiliary and interested in its work. The linen committee presents its appeal for old linen, cold cream jars and four to eight ounce bottles. Now that the house cleaning season is upon us, we may find that our needings are in excess of our needs and so be able to transfer some of the linen to the shelves of the hospital where it will be gratefully received. If preferable, it may be sent to Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll, chairman. The names of donors to this committee during the past month are Mrs. Allyn Bidd, Mrs. Frederic Growell, Jr., Mrs. Frederic Johnson, Mrs. Geo. Fellows, Miss Isabel Mitchell, Mrs. Angus Peck of Handver, Mrs. John B. Oat, Miss S. Howard Mead, the Misses Williams, Miss Alma Carpenter, Mrs. Anna Ward, Mrs. R. P. Smith, and the ladies of Taftville Congregational church.

The production committee has met on Thursdays with an average attendance of five. From March 25th to April 8th they prepared 827 surgical dressings. They also furnished material which the Loyal Circle of King's Daughter made into 25 towels and four hot water bag covers.

Magazines have been contributed by Miss Alma Carpenter, Dr. W. T. Brown, Mrs. W. W. Goodnow, Mrs. R. H. Montgomery, Mrs. Roy C. Judd, and Mrs. W. B. Young.

Owing to the pressure of work in the hospital and the heavy demand upon the time and strength of the nurses, recreation committee was obliged to give up the dance which it was hoped to hold soon after Easter. The nurses were not forgotten at this holiday season, however, as the committee sent to every one a box of chocolates attractively tied up and fastened with a card of Easter Greetings. Tickets were sent them for the benefit dance at Taftville, which some of the nurses were able to attend. Tickets were also sent for a play given by members of St. Mary's church in Greeneville. These thoughtful attentions are much appreciated.

Ice cream and cake for the patients has been given by the ladies of the First Congregational church of Norwich Town and for the entire hospital by the Women's auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. At Easter time, the United Congregational church furnished ice cream, supplemented by gifts of loaves of home made cake from the ladies of the Methodist church of Occum.

The continued efforts of the flower fund the holiday committees made Easter day especially pleasant. The wards were beautified by Easter lilies, potted rose bushes, azaleas and hyacinths. The office, the reception room and the nurses' residence were not forgotten, being made gay with lilies and tulips. The Monday Sewing club provided 90 tiny potted plants which were placed in each tray and by each place for Easter Sunday dinner. Each little pot was daintily covered with lavender and gold paper and tied with ribbon to match. The work done by faithful members of the holiday committee, who also provided several dozen paper napkins. The little plants were deeply appreciated as evidenced by the fact that several patients, discharged soon after Easter, took them home.

Individuals have donated 11 baby dresses, 5 pound box of candy for the nurses, paper dolls, scrafs, books and children's books for the children's ward. The names are Barbara and Shirley Fellows, Mrs. Antone Jacobson, Miss Grace Taft, W. Waddington, Rev. W. A. Keefe, Mrs. Thomas Donahue, Mr. Hitchon and Mrs. F. P. Ricketson.

On April 10th, the ladies of the Taftville Congregational church made a visit to the wards, bringing to the patients fruit, magazines, and children's books and also jars for use in the hospital.

On April 9th a dance was given by the people of Taftville for the benefit of the Backus hospital. The definite object being to raise money toward the purchase of operating room equipment. Hundreds of tickets were sold and the hall crowded to capacity.

The success of the affair was due largely to the untiring energy of the general chairman, Mrs. Frank Ricketson. The interest was so general and the co-operation so complete that over $730 was raised from the dance. This was supplemented by a generous contribution of $500 made by the Taftville Field Day association, making a total of $1,200. This money will be used in part for an operating table and a fracture table. After these expenditures to the remainder will be added over $300 raised during the past winter by the finance committee of which Mrs. William H. Dawley is chairman. This money is to be spent on general improvements in connection with the operating room, such as new set bowls, sinks, etc., for the use of the doctors and the nurses, thereby making the equipment thoroughly modern and most convenient.

The annual meeting of the Women's auxiliary is to be held on Wednesday, April 28th at 4 p. m. in the nurses' residence. A very short business meeting will be for the purpose of making an amendment to the constitution whereby the fiscal year of the auxiliary shall be changed from April first to October first, to correspond with the fiscal year of the hospital. This change, if it becomes operative, will simplify the work of the auxiliary especially in the making out of reports. After the business meeting, tea and sandwiches will be served, and music will be provided. A most cordial invitation is extended to all members of the auxiliary and it is hoped that a large number will be present.

Provoked by keen interest, and the desire not only to continue but to increase their helpfulness to the hospital, several of the auxiliary officers and members are furthering plans for the raising of money for their needs the coming year. A Bazaar of Nations is projected, to be held in November, in which it is hoped by the auxiliary that the entire community will be interested. An executive committee of three, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell Jr., Mrs. John D. Hall and Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, the latter being general chairman, is already actively engaged in finding ways and means to raise money for preliminary expense so that the money raised at the bazaar will be net profit. A series of "Vanishing Teas" already promise to add a goodly sum, to the treasury, judging by the success with which they are being given. The chairmen of 14 committees have already been chosen. Each committee is to have a booth representing a nation, with attendants in national costume. Prolific minds are suggesting plans which promise to make the bazaar one of the most interesting and attractive entertainments held in Norwich for many years. When any association can show such a series of beneficial activities for one month as has been enumerated in the foregoing account, surely it should have not only the approbation of the public but also its enthusiastic and unqualified support in its every reasonable project.

Light and Beans

The stronger the light the bushier your beans, the weaker it is, the taller they grow. Cut off the top of the spectrum by filtering out the blue light and all the rays above it, and even bush beans will show a tendency to twine. These are in rough outline, the results of the experiments of Professor H. W. Popp, of Pennsylvania state college. Professor Popp did a large part of his work at the Boyce Thompson Institute at Yonkers, N. Y., using the elaborate light-controlling apparatus there. He planted soy beans in separate compartments, and gave them light of graded intensity, ranging from over 4,000 candles down to 36. In all his plants growth on the moderately weak lights, though not under the weakest ones, and the tendency of the stalks to twine in thickness of stem, however, was correlated with strong light.

No German Trip

Dr. Hugo Eckener has postponed his attempt to raise funds by popular subscription for building a super-Zeppelin for North Pole explorations. He states that Germany's acute financial and economic situation does not warrant continuance of his efforts, which so far have raised only $300,000 out of $4,000,000 needed.

Harold B. Stanley, a former deputy at Portland, Me., was fined $50 and sentenced to two months in jail in federal court for interstate transportation of alcohol.

Short Romances of Every Day Life

The Greatest Role

By Claire Wesson

If pretty little Mrs. John Sawyer had not been a popular small town actress before her marriage to her nice old-fashioned husband, probably the trouble would never have begun. But, having been, it grew like a weed, like a mushroom, like the story itself of the disagreement passed 'round from house to house through the whole small town.

Everybody got hold of it and everybody was duly shocked and grieved; and some said "John might have known it would happen, going to the city and picking up that bobbed hair, pink-faced flirt," when he might have chosen any of the good, sensible village girls. It served him right, it did, and now that Mrs. John insisted on going back to the stage and leaving the four months' baby with anyone she could get to take care of him—well, Mrs. John was turning out just as the town had expected she would, and if John didn't put his foot down and tell her she'd have to stay at home, the way any married woman and mother should—

John did exactly that. He put his foot down hard, as hard as he'd ever put it down on the horse-rake lever, or on a wife getting on without every new contrivance, electric, enamel or what not. John was a good provider, and a loving one.

But, "A woman's place is in her home," said John. "I married you because I loved you, and, at first, I'd have been willing to let you go back on the stage to fill in, because you like it so much and do it so well. But it's different now. There is the baby, Belinda."

Now, Mrs. John's name was really "Belinda," and it had been her mother's and her grandmother's before her. There was nothing seriously the matter with the name, but Mrs. John hated it. On the stage she had used the middle syllable, and spelled it "L-y-n-n-e." It looked very nice, and she liked to have John use it. He did, too, except when he was very emphatic.

After Mrs. John's revolt and her declaration that she would go back on the stage and nobody should stop her, it seemed as if John was always very emphatic. Always, now, he ended his talks with, "There is the baby, Belinda." If he had said, "There is the baby, Lynne," it wouldn't have been nearly so bad.

But, "Belinda!" That made Mrs. John's determination to do promptly and precisely as she had planned grow so fast that, without even telling her husband she was thinking of doing it, off she tripped without a qualm one afternoon to town, leaving the baby with the matron at the Children's Home.

As a matter of fact, little Mrs. Shwyer had never had any tremendous affection for that baby, Chubby, healthy, bright blue of eye, cheery and gurgly of disposition though young John was, his little mother had never felt the little thing to be more than considerable bother and the taker-up of a good deal of time that might better be spent in other ways.

Since husband's refrain, "there is the baby, Belinda," had begun, whatever luring interest may have existed deep down in the mother's merry heart, disappeared. Lynne plunked junior down in the matron's capacious lap with not so much as a glance at the toothless smile, and hied herself straight to the theater where, before her marriage, she had played the ingenue part.

It was a wonderful afternoon. All the old pals were around the place, all giving her the glad hand, all talking as little as possible about the new home, and husband and baby, and telling her all the stage news, all the bits she was hungry to hear. To cap the climax, in walked the manager himself and actually told her she could begin acting again any time she said. There was a new play, new plans, her part wasn't filled—the girl he'd had hadn't made good, and—

Lynne went home, treading on air, barely remembering to pick up the baby at the Home, and exacting a reluctant promise from the matron that, irregular though it was, some arrangement might be made for caring for the child mornings and afternoons.

At supper wife told John about it. "You can look after him evenings, or give him to one of the neighbors," Lynne chatted on.

"Aren't you making a mistake?" asked John, in exactly the same tone he had used when he had begged his wife, some months before, to let her hair grow out, it was so soft and lovely.

"I am not making a mistake," answered his wife in her tone of the former occasion, on which, be it said, she had skipped to the hairdresser's and had had the hair cut shorter than ever, so that even the tops of her little pink ears showed like a child's under a Dutch cut.

Oh, Lynne always had her way, and she knew it. No matter how hard John put his foot down, John could not do the cave-man stunt, and that was the truth of it.

"So, I am not making a mistake," repeated Lynne. "And as far as food is concerned, there's the delicatessen."

She began rehearsals.

But troubles began. On the way out from town, when she stopped at the Home to get baby, the matron curtly informed her that the management was against her taking in any children with plenty of parents to look after them. The Home was not a day nursery.

Down the elm-shaded street went Lynne, jouncing the baby along in his brown wicker carriage. "What anybody ever wanted a baby for, anyway; if they could be seven years old, but just a baby!" She groaned to herself.

The thrill of the theater was back again in her blood. The baby gurgled away in his pink blankets.

"You little double and twisted bother!" said Lynne aloud, and bumped the carriage squarely into the little white gate at the end of the path that led up to Miss Hetty Brown's solitary cottage.

Miss Hetty was an "old maid," an "old-maid old maid," quaint and small and prim, and from her front window seeing the bumped carriage came out with quick, nervous little steps to see what the trouble was.

"I was thinking of something and wasn't looking where I was going," Lynne explained. "I'm sorry. But I don't think I hurt the gate any."

But Miss Hetty wasn't listening. She was looking at the baby, her faded old eyes shining with tears, her lips trembling queerly.

"His name's John. Yes, of course," Lynne told her. "You don't mean you—like them—babies?"

For answer Miss Hetty beckoned Lynne up the peony-bordered path. "You come into my sitting-room," said Miss Hetty, "and please won't you bring it—him?"

"I'm late," began Lynne.

"It won't take but a minute. Could I—carry it—him, in?"

Lynne laughed jerkily and put the baby into Miss Hetty's outstretched arms.

"I haven't held one for a good many years," whispered Miss Hetty. "I used to hold all the babies in the neighborhood. But there don't seem to be any 'round now. Anyway, they don't come here."

Into the quaint little sitting-room they went. Silently Miss Hetty pointed to the walls—the plain, ivory-papered walls covered with pictures, large and small, round and oval, square, and rectangular, rare and ordinary, but all pictures of—babies.

"I always used to dream I'd have one," said Miss Hetty, all the while worshiping the chunky bundle in her arms. "The man I was going to marry died. I write children's stories, and I call the children mine. I have a great many scrap books filled with pictures and things about babies. But—see! He's clutching my finger. Could you, would you mind taking his bonnet off, so I could see all his little head?"

That was the beginning. Every morning young John Sawyer spent in the adoring presence of Miss Hetty, while his little mother danced off to the theater, the memory of the reverent eyes, the worshipful caresses of Miss Hetty, growing more and more vivid before her.

The play was a huge success. People said it was the best work Lynne ever did. Every night flowers and applause swept 'round her. John generously added his.

"It was fine," he praised her. "And I want you to be happy, Lynne. You know that," he said.

They were sitting in front of the fire the last night of the new play. It was going on the road.

"I'm willing for you to go along," said John gravely. "My sister'll come over and keep house. She's free now, and she's a good hand with babies."

Lynne cuddled her bright, bobbed head into John's rough shoulder. "And you bet your sweet life I'm going to be happy," said Lynne, with a sob in her throat. "John, I—I—hate acting. I want to be myself. I just love—this dinky little house and the electric grill, and everything. I just love you, John, and, John—" The whisper was so soft and so filled with tears John could hardly hear it: "John, I love our baby. Hetty taught me how a woman can adore just—a baby, and he's ours. I can't bear to think how I've thought he was a bother and how I've wished we didn't have him. Please, John, say, 'There is the baby, Belinda.'"

John laid his cheek reverently against his wife's.

A Psychic Proposal

By Phil Moore

Although Luella was 35 and unmarried, she could not have been classified as a typical "old maid." She was not lank and cranky-appearing, did not drink tea, and did not have a weakness for cats. On the contrary, Luella was plump, and was jovial of mien, and in her more youthful days might have been quite a village belle, if her father had not forcibly eliminated first this and then that suitor as not worthy of his charming daughter. Poor Luella had wept and stormed for a time, to no avail, and finally even her most ardent admirer, steady John Weatherbee, had yielded to paternal wrath and ceased his semi-weekly calls, contenting himself with a few blissful, stolen moments with his beloved now and again at church, or when he chanced to meet her on the street.

When Luella was 25, and still pretty, her father passed away, congratulating himself upon his success in making an "old maid" of his obedient daughter. As soon thereafter as good taste would permit, John resumed his calls, and Luella was confident that it would not be long before she would become Mrs. John. However, month after month went by, and the months rolled into years, and still she was not asked to answer the important question.

Eventually, to complicate matters, her brother Walter, for whom she now kept house, commenced to go around with one of the village girls.

"I'm so miserable, Jamie," Luella told her collie one evening, as she sat before the hearth with her knitting. Jamie registered proper concern as she went on: "I'm sure Walter wants to get married, but he won't do it for my sake. If only John could get up enough gumption to say what I know he wants to say, everything would be fine, with both of us married, instead of being just an uninteresting bachelor and his old maid sister.

"Then I shouldn't have to keep quiet when all the other women discuss their husbands' likes and dislikes at the King's Daughters' meetings. Besides, it always raises a body in the eyes of other folks if she has a man back of her, no matter what kind of a ninny he is, and John Weatherbee is no ninny.

"I've a scheme, Jamie, if I only dared—but it's Leap Year, so why not try? But I wouldn't tell even you, Jamie-boy." She stroked the collie's silky ears, being rewarded mischievously the while

Thursday evening, John called as per schedule.

"Nice evening, Luella. How about going to the movies—I hear the picture's extra good this week."

"Oh, let's stay here by the fire; it's so cozy," Luella demurred. Movie fan though she was, she had decided that the moment for action had arrived, and nothing was to swerve her from her course.

Meekly obedient, John seated himself in the arm chair, before the fire, which he had occupied so frequently for so long that it was referred to as John's chair. As usual, he was painfully lacking in small talk, so it fell to Luella's lot to keep up a rather one-sided conversation about the weather, and Mrs. James' new baby, and the coming festival at the church, to which John would, of course, escort her.

Finally, however, the spark of conversation died out, whereupon Luella queried with outward calm, but inwardly a bit excited, "Would you like to try a new game, John? I bought a ouija board when I was to town yesterday. The clerk was saying how much fun a body can get from one. But just think, he says some folks can't get the thing to budge an inch. You have to be able to concentrate and treat it respectfully."

"Fiddlesticks," scoffed John. "I've heard tell of those things, and I don't think there's anything in 'em. Besides, I think respectable folks ought to beware of such things."

"Bosh," sniffed Luella, "there's nothing in it. It's only harmless amusement."

"Just as you say, Luella," acquiesced John meekly, "though folks do tell some powerful strange stories 'bout it."

"Queer name it has," went on Luella, as she drew her chair up to John's, and rested the ouija board on their knees. "I was reading somewheres that it's made up of the French and German words for 'yes' to do?"

Again the answer was in the affirmative.

"What're you planning to do?" asked John.

"Oh, go to Boston and get work, so Walter can get married without me being in the way," explained Luella, shortly.

"But how would you stand in the way, Luella? I should think Molly'd love to have you 'round—you're so cheerful-like and helpful."

"Oh, you should," with faint sarcasm. "Well, let me tell you, John Weatherbee, no woman wants a sister-in-law under the same roof, 'specially if that sister-in-law is an old maid."

"You an old maid, Luella!"

"Well, I'm 35, and this finger's still unadorned by a gold band, so I don't know what else you'd call me." (That surely ought to start him, she thought, impatient at his hesitation.)

But since John evinced no signs of opening his arms for her to fall into, she gave the planchette a violent push. Rapidly were spelled out the words, "You will be happy in Boston—a tall, dark man—love—marriage—hesitate no longer."

"Isn't that wonderful!" breathed Luella. "I knew I ought to go."

"But I'm no girl, John, and I've got my future to think of."

Suddenly the planchette commenced to move again, this time unaided by Luella. "Will you marry me, Luella," it wrote, "right away, tomorrow morning?"

"John Weatherbee, you old fraud, you moved it yourself," cried Luella, delightedly.

"What if I did?" John had grown bolder in the face of victory. "Will you, Luella?"

Luella's eyes were very bright and her cheeks very pink as she made the happy answer, "Will I? Oui, ja!"

As the Fair Breeze Blew

By Hazel Courtney

At the very end of the Point road, close to the sea and ship was Miss Annabel's square, white house. She had lived there alone for nearly 40 years; a familiar figure to the people of the village. Nearly all called her "queer." They said her heart had been broken, though no one knew the story. Lines of sadness had touched her face; even her sea-blue eyes held something that hinted of pain and sorrow.

Rumor was that there had been a sailor lover, who went to far ports, and in a storm his ship had been lost, but in spite of that Miss Annabel still looked for his return. The shock had affected her mind, they said. Yet it was to Miss Annabel that they went for comfort and help when they were in trouble. Her frail little body held a spirit that was like the sun shining through a mist.

That was why Nancy Clarke went up the Hill road after her quarrel with Dan Gardner; Miss Annabel and her little Summer house would be a refuge. All the way up the Hill road Nancy could see the Ellen D. lying at anchor. She kept her eyes away from the three-masted schooner, because that was Dan's ship; he was the mate aboard the Ellen D. When she thought of their quarrel her eyes would get so blurry she could hardly see the road. The quarrel seemed so small beside their dreams.

Now she had sent him away. A head wind had held them up and for three days Dan had not been ashore; on a fair wind they would be sailing.

Miss Annabel listened in wise silence to Nancy Clarke; she had watched the romance between Dan and Nancy since their school days.

"Now he's going away—perhaps for always," said Nancy, at the end of her story. There was a suspicious break in her voice as she blinked back the tears.

"Nancy, child, I'm going to tell you my story now." Miss Annabel's eyes followed a white schooner passing by. "It will help you, I think." She stopped a sigh, then went on: "I loved a sailor, too; he was tall and straight, with twinkly brown eyes and light hair—just as Dan's. His schooner passed by here each trip; they ran between Boston and Jacksonville, Florida, with freight. Sometimes the ship came in here to wait for a fair wind, and then David would come up to see me. One day he came to see me—we quarreled. I told him to go. He went, but before he left he said that some day he would come back for me.

"I watched his ship go out, and before it was out of sight I knew that I had not meant what I'd said; I did want Dave, and more than ever. But he was gone, with only my angry words to remember. I wrote a letter to Boston, but he never got it; their ship was caught in a terrible storm off the Cape, and every one was lost."

"He was lost, too?" Nancy's voice was full of pity.

Miss Annabel nodded. "But I know he will come back to me some day. He said he would. When there's a fair wind, he'll come." There was implicit faith in her sweet voice.

Nancy remembered the lifted eyebrows of the village; that was their way of saying Miss Annabel was a bit "queer."

"But how can he, if he was lost with the ship?" she questioned.

"Ah, my dear," Miss Annabel smiled, "death is not the end, you know." Her head lifted proudly and there was courageous trust shining from her eyes."

Nancy Clarke walked home along the beach, after leaving Miss Annabel's. She wanted to think, and be alone. As she came around the point, she looked toward the Ellen; with a sobbing cry she saw the schooner just going out of the harbor. The wind had changed while she had been with Miss Annabel. She stood still a moment, undecided, then with quick resolution, ran along the uneven dunes toward the wharf.

Three days later, Miss Sammatha Tibbins went up the Hill Road as fast as she could, with the news that had set village tongues a-wagging. News was Miss Tibbin's specialty. Her sharp little eyes saw everything, and her sharp little ears heard everything.

"Miss Annabel! What do you think!" She panted, as soon as she came up on the porch.

"Nancy Clarke took B'riah Dunnet's little catboat, and sailed after the Ellen D! That, right after she'd sent Dan Gardner away, too! And her mother got a letter this mornin' from Boston, sayin' that Cap'n Baker had married 'em, and now they're goin' to have their honeymoon on the Ellen D. when she goes back South!"

Miss Tibbins waited for Miss Annabel to show surprise. After waiting a few seconds, she could hold her silence no longer.

"Well, what do you think o' that, Miss Annabel?"

Miss Annabel looked up from her crocheting.

"I see it says here some of them city banks have been doin' business for thirty years and more and never closed their doors."

"Dear me, how careless! I wonder anybody trusts 'em with their money."

Pride and Pretense

By Clyde Weldon

"Well, mother, Jenny's coming home. It will certainly be great to have her back."

"Yes, but—" here a trace of anxiety entered the speaker's voice—"Oh, I hope she hasn't changed, and that she isn't ashamed of the old place."

"Oh, nothing like that," responded Mr. Warner with a proud smile. "Our Jenny'll always be fond of her folks."

Mrs. Warner smiled rather sadly at her confident husband, for her memory was filled with thoughts of the letters she had lately received. Haughty, rather overbearing, were these messages from Jenny, their only daughter, away at a fashionable girls' school in the distant city. But her motherly heart was soon gladdened and she forgot her anxiety, in the thought of her daughter's homecoming.

Jenny arrived early on Friday afternoon, a bright confident little figure, with perhaps a shade too much of a city air for one with her fresh country complexion, which was fairly obvious, despite the thick coating of cosmetics. Her clothing, too, reflected the acme of fashion, and seemed strangely out of place beside the quiet, old-fashioned attire of the motherly figure at her side.

"Oh, mother," answered the girl, in a faintly patronizing voice, "I must insist that you call me Jeanne. It's more; well, Frenchy, you know," she explained, vaguely, "and Jenny is horribly countrified."

Her mother drew back, a hurt look in her eyes, for Jenny had been named after Mrs. Warner's sister, who had died when a very small girl, and whose memory was still very dear to her. "Now, mother," began Jenny, the day following, "it really is necessary for you to have some new clothes, and as for this house—" She finished with an expressive gesture of disgust.

"Now, with the money Uncle left us we can change this place completely, and you can dress the way you should, the way all the mothers of my friends do."

Mrs. Warner looked steadily at her daughter for a minute, then a queer little smile twisted the corners of her mouth.

"I didn't know you were ashamed of your mother," she answered quietly, "but of course I can change."

Jenny had the grace to look a trifle abashed at the words, but as she made no expression of contrition, her mother turned quietly away.

This was the beginning of a new day for the Warners. Jenny's father looked on in pained surprise, longing for his former peace and quiet. Jenny herself was in a flurry of excitement. The rooms were all to be refurnished; new wings were added and the grounds were laid out in a manner wonderful to behold.

As is so often the case, the result was wholly incongruous. Everything that money could furnish was there, but the whole effect lacked the quiet refinement of good taste. Flashy, bizarre decorations and ornate furnishings all contrived to mar the beauty of the one-time simple country home. Even Jenny sensed that something was lacking.

But the greatest change of all was in Mrs. Warner. She took a mysterious trip to the city, and returned, after a week spent there, accompanied by at least seven trunks and as many more hat boxes.

"M-m-mother," gasped Jenny. When she had recovered her first glimpse of the stately, modish, marcelled stranger, so utterly unlike her mother, she managed to gasp a few words of approval, but for some minutes she could only stare.

Her mother smiled at her with a faintly humorous glance, and then said in a patronizing tone: "Oh, Jeanne, if I were you I'd discard that frock. Those panels aren't being worn now."

Jenny glanced in dismay at the smart little afternoon gown of which she had been so proud and then assented.

As the days passed, Jenny gazed with increasing wonder at her amazing mother. After serious thought, she was obliged to admit herself not wholly pleased with this transformation. She missed more deeply than she had ever believed possible, the sweet, kindly face and tender manner of her mother. The aloof, preoccupied woman who had taken her place could never fill this need.

Jenny began to fathom the shallowness of her own nature, and the vain frivolities which had so delighted her.

She longed for a return to the happy home life of her childhood. Then she turned to her never-failing refuge—her mother—and Mrs. Warner, only too glad to abandon her successful pretense, forgave her daughter, and returned to her former happy and peaceful life.

"We want a man for our information bureau," said the manager. "He must be a wide-awake fellow and accustomed to complaints."

"That's me," replied the applicant. "I'm the father of twins."

Undesirable Vocation.

"Have you given George up, dear?"

"O, yes; I understood him to say he was a bookmaker, but it turned out he was only an author."

HIP POCKET KNIFE FIGURES WHEN SAILORS AT NEW LONDON HAVE SCRAP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 15—Francis Gunderson, a Filipino sailor, is in the county jail here after an experience he had with a white tar last midnight. The sailors were patrons of a dance at Plant hall and there some jealousy over a woman appears to have brought on the trouble that landed Gunderson in a cell instead of at the ship's galley where his duties called him. Gunderson had an ugly-looking knife in his hip pocket which he might have made use of to carve David Varrelman, another sailor, one of the crew of the ship Fanning. But Varrelman used his wits and when Gunderson reached for his hip pocket the white sailor dealt him a blow that enabled Varrelman to secure the knife. The fight took place at the trolley car terminal on State street, about midnight. It was not witnessed, but Policeman Edward Riordan was nearby and he took the participants into custody. Varrelman told the story in the police court today and Gunderson admitted the facts in all substantial particulars. The woman in the case is the wife of another sailor and Gunderson apparently objected to the attentions paid to her by Varrelman. No disclosures were made in the testimony of either the accused or his accuser to show that there was any reason for the attitude of Gunderson toward the sailor it is regarded as fortunate by the police that a murder was not committed for had the knife been used the effect of the cutting would have been serious.

From the statement of Gunderson to Varrelman that he was "heeled" it was reasonable for the white sailor to infer that his adversary was to use a knife or a revolver. So Varrelman decided on a safety first policy.

The funeral of Miss Alice M Larkin, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John L. Larkin, 222 Williams street, former Williams Memorial State and Willimantic Normal student, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and was attended by a throng of mourners, including a large representation of members of the Crowley club and Children of Mary. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, with Rev. Raymond Callahan, deacon and Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, sub-deacon. The bearers were Michael Hallisey, Jr., Leo B Reagan Arthur Thompson, John J. Keating, John J. Murray and John F Fitzgerald. At the offertory, Miss Marjorie Palmer, a class mate of Miss Larkin, sang "Ave Maria," and a quartette, Mrs. Catherine Hickey, Miss Helen Garey, Daniel D Donovan and Edward F Murray sang the Gregorian mass At the close of the mass James E Kelley sang "Face to Face" Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Rev. Dr. Crowley read the committal prayers.

Palestine commandery held a dance and banquet at the Hotel Mohican last evening, which was attended by about 50 couples.

Shaw's cove bridge that part used by pedestrians, is again in need of repairs. Late last night Patrolman Lawrence Pardy discovered several sections of planking loose and in a condition to endanger the life or limb of users of the structure. The officer made known his discovery at the police station and today the highway department was informed of the danger spot. The bridge has been repaired on numerous times within the past year.

When the new theatre being erected on State street by the Shea street corporation is completed, which will be during the early part of the summer and where it is intended to show motion pictures entirely, an orchestra will not be employed to furnish music to accompany the presentation of pictures. Walter S. Garde, at the head of the corporation has negotiated for the purchase of an organ, which will be erected in the theatre at a cost of $9,000. The use of the organ will cause disappointment to local musicians for many members of the Newmen local had been planning on obtaining employment at this theatre permanently.

Mrs. Carrie Billings Petrie, 63, wife of David B. Petrie, formerly of New London, died suddenly yesterday at her home 107 State street. Wethersfield Besides her husband, Mrs. Petrie is survived by three daughters Mrs. Marguerite Spencer and Miss Alice Glide of Wethersfield and Mrs John Soby of Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Evelyn J. Gasson has sold the house and lot Station 17, Waterford to Mrs. Susie Farrar.

Edward Johnson has sold to Mary Spuk a house and lot Midway place Ocean Beach.

A decided step toward the protection of pedestrians across the Shaw's Cove bridge of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was made today when the Connecticut Power company, at the instigation of the city, raised that part of the bridge used by pedestrians to be illuminated so that users of the bridge could be observed from one end of the structure to the other something that could not be done before in the history of the bridge. The power company had additional electric light, which with those that heretofore existed, eight in number, to be installed at spaces from Sparyard street to Hamilton street, the additional light illuminating the structure so much so that it is as well illuminated as any of the principal streets of the city. One reason and the particular reason for the installation of the additional lights is because of the several fights and two attempted holdups that have occurred midway of the structure, when sailors attached to the United States Coast Guard Academy have either been held up for the purpose of robbery or where assault has been the motive of the loiters on the structure.

Street Sergeant Patrick Murphy of the police department, started tonight on his annual vacation of two weeks.

Patrolman John Clifford resumed his patrol tonight after having enjoyed a recreative trip of two weeks.

A man in the employ of one of the local coal companies was taken into custody this evening by Patrolman Edward Riordan when found intoxicated on North Bank street. It was not so much the intoxicated condition of the man that led to his arrest as it was the acts of the fellow, for he was exposing himself with children about him when Probation Officer Riordan appeared. When searched at the police station the man had in his possession a drug store bottle containing diluted alcohol and it was with difficulty that the man was relieved of the liquor before being assaigned to a cell. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Adolph Staner and infant son, of 30 Home street, and Mrs. John Lamarche, Jr., and infant son, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

It is probable that the mill of the Edward Bloom Silk Co., Garfield avenue, where a strike of weavers is in progress, will close indefinitely at the end of the day's work tomorrow But, 50 hands were employed there today. Edward Bloom, president of the company, stated this afternoon that no conference had been held between himself and the committee representing the strikers. Later he left for his home in Brooklyn, where he will remain until next Tuesday when he will return to New London. At that time, it is among the possibilities that a conference will be arranged between Mr. Bloom and the representatives of the strikers. The strikers are holding daily sessions in a hall on Chelsea street, but it is understood that they have only been engaged in formulating their plans whereby they hope to obtain an increase of three cents a yard. With the strike of 100 of the weavers last Monday it became necessary to discharge 200 winders, spinners, warpers and fixers, because there was no work for these employes. This left but 50 of the original employes of 300 at work and these will be discharged at the close of the workday Friday. It is stated. A strike similar to that which exists now, occurred a year ago and at that time the strikers were defeated.

Philip S. Covey attached to U. S. S. Bale, and Miss Elizabeth Haydn of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

PLANNING TO ORGANIZE TWO INTERNATIONAL CONSORTIUMS

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Unofficial information has reached the commerce department that negotiations are under way in Europe to organize two international consortiums one in raw steel and the other in nails.

A preliminary understanding is said to have been reached between France, Belgium, and Luxemburg concerning raw steel, which, the advices said, would be submitted to Poland, Austria, Czecho Slavakia and England for approval.

It was described as a German proposal, under which each country involved would play into a common fund a certain charge for each ton of raw steel produced. A maximum production for each country would be fixed and those producing more than their quotas would pay a charge for each excess ton, which would be credited to the accounts of those countries unable to produce the annual quota.

The information as to the rail union was to the effect that Germany, France, Belgium, England and Luxemburg had reached an agreement in principal regarding quotas, but that no formal agreement, has yet been drawn. Poland, Czecho Slovakia and Austria, it was added were expected to enter the arrangement.

CANADA IS TO REDUCE DUTIES ON AUTOMOBILES

OTTAWA Ont. April 15.—(AP)—Canada proposes to reduce duties on the imported automobile. The duty on automobiles valued at not more than $1,200 retail, on motor trucks and on motorcycles, is reduced in the budget submitted to the house of commons by Finance Minister Robb this afternoon to 20 per cent, on the general tariff. The former rates was 35 per cent. This general tariff applies to imports from the United States. On automobiles worth more than $1,200 at retail there is a reduction under the general tariff to 27 1-2 per cent.

To Canadian automobile manufacturers, a drawback of 25 per cent of the duty paid on materials used will be paid, provided at least 50 per cent of the cost of the finished vehicle is produced in Canada.

The budget proposals have still to be approved by parliament

Probably the most interesting part to Canadians of the finance minister's budget speech was his announcement of a reduction in the income tax. This is largely through an increase of the exceptions, which are raised to $3,000 from $2,000 for married persons and from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons. Distinction will also be made between earned and unearned income.

TWO MEN TO BE HANGED IN CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP) Two men today were removed to the death cell of the Cook county jail to be hanged tomorrow morning. The cause they choked two women to death.

One of them is Raymond Costello, a youth convicted of strangling 16 year old Madeline White last December after he had attacked her The other is Charles Hobbs, a negro, who killed Betty Barnett, his landlady, and stole 75 cents from her.

Hobbs lost his last hope of escaping the gallows when a judge yesterday refused a re-hearing, and Costello's last hope vanished today when Governor Small refused to intervene.

WEDDING PLANS UPSET BY INQUISITIVE NEWSPAPERMEN

CAMBRIDGE Mass. April 15.—(AP)—Inquisitive newspapermen today upset the wedding plans of a Massachusetts Institute of Technology sophomore and a sculptress Harold D Morrill Tech sophomore, filed marriage intentions in the city hall here today.

TO INSIST GERMANY PAY ALL LUSITANIA CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—A group of house democrats to insist that Germany be required to pay all claims arising out of the sinking of the Lusitania was mapped out today.

It is the outgrowth of a partisan battle at a closed session of the ways and means committee over the Mills bill which provides for issuing $250,000,000 federal bonds to cover adjustment of German-American war claims. Today's row came as an aftermath of the request made at a committee meeting yesterday by Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, that Secretary Mellon furnish a list of all insurance companies showing profit for war time operations. Republican committee members objected, however, to "forcing" the treasury department to make public data that during the war was kept secret.

At today's session, motions by Representative Rainey, democrat, Illinois, to exclude insurance claims on ship losses and claims of all insurance companies showing profits on war time transactions were defeated, with republicans voting solidly in opposition and democrats a unit in support of them.

Claimant companies raised their premiums, some as high as 40 per cent, Mr Rainey contended, and made profits on this basis despite scattered individual losses. He held that under the Mills measure, a few large corporations would receive virtual gifts of millions of dollars from the government as "compensation" for "paper" losses.

TROOPS TO BE NEAR CHURCH DURING FUNERAL OF KLANSMEN

HERRIN, Ills., April 15. (AP)—Troops will be stationed near the Christian church here tomorrow afternoon when triple funeral services are held for Ben and Muck Sizemore and Harland Ford, klansmen slain in a clash with anti-klan supporters in a renewal of Herrin's factional warfare at the county election Tuesday. This announcement was made here tonight by Colonel Robert Davis, in charge of the military contingent on duty here

An investigation into the affairs which resulted in the deaths of the six men and wounding of several others will get under way at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning when the coroner's jury convenes to hear testimony of witnesses to the factional war.

WOMAN'S CAR IS HELD— UPSET NORWICH MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 15—Three Norwich young men, Holmes Davis, George Lambert and Frank Davis, suffered painful injuries last night when the automobile in which they were riding and which was operated by Davis, was in collision with a machine owned and driven by Miss Maria Guillery, Jamaica Plains Mass. between Stonington and Mystic. The Norwich car was overturned and the passengers were made prisoners in it Holmes Davis received a fractured left arm and severe bruises about the head Frank Davis has a laceration of the face and Lambert received a fractured collar bone. The car was badly damaged as it turned over three times before it came to a stop.

Miss Guillery was taken into custody by State Police Officers Gilbert Watson and Arthur Whitmarsh, charged with reckless driving. Her car is being held to assure her appearance in court in Stonington next Monday. Miss Guillery escaped injury and her machine was but little damaged.

According to the report of Officers Watson and Whitmarsh, Miss Guillery's car was headed in a westerly direction and in the attempt of the driver to pass another car, it crashed head-on with the car driven by Holmes Davis and which latter machine was travelling in an easterly direction.

BOOTLEGGERS' TWO CARS SEIZED NEAR STAMFOT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 15.—Two automobiles, owned by a New London bootlegger, and which contained a valuable cargo, were seized in the vicinity of Stamford, late this afternoon and in doing so the seizing officers grabbed a cargo valued at several thousands of dollars, besides taking possession of the two high-grade automobiles. The liquor and cars was the property of a local bootlegger, whose apprehension by New London and state police has been sought a long time, but they have never been able to apprehend him, although on one or two occasions he was as close to arrest and not be apprehended as it was possible to do so.

The cars and their cargo were being brought from New York to a point in the outlying country where it was intended that the whiskey and alcohol should be stored. When in the vicinity of Stamford officers were attracted to the cars because of their apparently weighty condition and decided to hold them up. When this was done and the cars inspected, the nature of the cargoes was revealed, the two drivers were arrested and the whiskey and alcohol placed in storage. The New London bootlegger was notified of the arrest of his employers early this evening and is making arrangements for their liberation by bail pending their court trial, and he is also arranging for their being defended in court.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY PREPARING TO BURN COAL

NEW YORK April 15.—(AP)—Because of the increased value of fuel oil, the Standard Oil Company of New York is preparing to burn coal instead of oil in a number of its refineries, it was announced today

The company is an important supplier of fuel oil. It controls 60 per cent of the marketing of gasoline and other petroleum products in the New England states and New York.

CONCESSION IN RUSSIA AWAIT AMERICAN CAPITAL

MOSCOW April 15.—(AP)—The United States, with its ready liquid capital and colossal interest in the only nation which is capable of tapping the immense untouched wealth that is teeming in Russia, in the opinion of Adolph Ioffe, chief of the soviet government concession commission.

M. Ioffe in an interview with a correspondent of The Associated Press said that definite progress has been made especially of late, foreign offers beginning to lose their purely speculative aspect and assuming more solid proportions.

"It still seems the real big concession seekers wants America alone," M. Ioffe said, "the difference between Europe and America is that Europe must first sell us ready merchandise, make a profit and then invest in concessions, while America has liquid cash augmented by colossal energy and technical skill. The European offers are acceptable but the American offers are preferred."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A very interesting and entertaining program of Keith-Albee vaudeville opened at the Broadway theater yesterday to a crowded house. Generous applause greeted every one of the star attractions.

Operating eight punching bags simultaneously is quite a feat but The Hayes demonstrated that this was not only possible but mighty interesting at the same time. They are claimed to be the ones who made bag punching an art.

Cecil Alexander is One of the Idle Rich. In this case to get the necessary fun out of a situation of this kind, a tramp comedian comes to the fore and succeeds unmaking this weary walker a fellow of infinite jest.

Jones and Grannon in The Huckster and The Actress offered some lively fun in this comedy skit.

Walsh and Clark clicked in fourth spot with their hot comedy which was a riot of fun. They handle the comedy parts with great ability.

The Toulonian Troubadors closed the stage offering. Here is a quartette of French singing mountaineers offering Operatic and Popular Selections which was a real delight to all.

Elaine Hammerstein is the featured player in the screen offering which is a race track story entitled The Checkered Flag.

Filing a will sometimes rasps the feelings of the heirs.

Cotton: Lower; improved weather outlook.

Sugar: Firm; proposed reduction Cuban crop.

Coffee: Easy; disappointing Brazilian market.

Wheat: Strong; dry weather northwest.

Corn: Firm; light receipts.

Hogs: Firmer.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—The stock market displayed a complete reversal of form selling off sharply during the morning and early afternoon when selling pressure was renewed against the motors, chemicals, wheels, and speculative industrial specialties, and then rallying briskly towards the close on what appeared to be an unusually heavy volume of week end short covering. Final quotations were irregularly higher, a long list of net gains ranging from fractions to 15 points, being offset by a smaller number of declines running from fractions to 5 1-4 points.

Except for a small amount of investment buying on the scale down, trading was almost entirely professional in character. Commission houses reported little activity on the part of small trader or "bull" pools who appeared to be awaiting further light on the business situation before extending their commitments. Total sales fell below 1,400,000 shares.

Outside the stock market, chief financial interest centered in the weakness of French francs which dropped five points to a new low level for all time at 3.37 cents in the New York market, following a sharp decline in foreign financial centers. While speculation is believed to have played a large part in reaction, Wall street also heard reports of a heavy transfer of capital from French to more stable currencies. Wheat rallied 1 1-2 to 4 cents a bushel, but rubber futures broke about four points and then recovered part of their loss.

Recent selling of stocks by professional traders, and the absence of a public demand, is generally attributed to recurrent reports of a slowing up in several lines of industry and in retail business, some of which may be due to the unseasonable cold weather. Relatively stiff call money rates, which were blamed for some of the selling earlier in the week, were no longer an influence as call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent. all day, despite state income tax and April 15 dividend and interest payments, and the usual week end readjustment of bank reserves. The New York Federal Reserve bank rate was unchanged.

Forty issues crashed to new low levels for the year during the day's trading. The list included such representative shares as U. S. Steel common, Hudson Motors, General Electric, Studebaker and Tidewater Oil. Several of these issues actually showed net gains on the day, however. General Electric rallying from 285 to 293 1-4 and then easing to 293 1-2, up 4 1-2 net. U. S. Steel common sold down to 117 and then crossed 118 for a small fractional gain. Hudson closed a point higher at 83 1-2 after fluctuating between 81 and 85 1-2.

Sharp recoveries also took place in American Agricultural Chemical preferred, American Brown Boveri, American Locomotive, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Coca Cola, Columbia Gas DuPont, Interborough Rapid Transit, National Dairy Products, Lackawanna Steel Spring, Third Avenue Railway, and U. S. Distributing, all up 2 points or so. Some of the outstanding industrial weak spots were Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, International Paper, Kelsey Wheel, Lowsey Wire Bit, Murray Body, National Lead, Pierce Arrow preferred, Union Tank Car and United Drug.

Rails were rather sluggish, gains of a point or so in Atchison and Rock Island being counteracted by heaviness of New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Lackawanna, and Nickle Plate, Common, Jersey Central pumped 15 points to 299 on two sales.

Commodity markets were mixed. The tone in wheat was influenced by reports of a late spring crop and strong foreign markets. Cotton sagged 9 to 13 points on forecasts of more favorable weather. Raw sugar advanced 1-16 of a cent a pound in response to the proposed decrease in production and the futures also displayed a firmer tone. Coffee moved within narrow and irregular limits.

The money head steady at 4 1-4 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling held steady around 4 5 9-16. British trade below 2.79 cents presumably in sympathy with weakness of French [illegible] A sharp upturn of 50 points [illegible] Other European [illegible]

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was over the lower Saint Lawrence valley and the disturbance over the ocean some distance north of Bermuda have merged and now form a storm of marked intensity over the Canadian maritime provinces, Port Au Basques, Nova Scotia, reporting a barometer reading of 29.34 inches.

Pressure is relatively high from middle Atlantic states southwestward to Texas and New Mexico and off the Pacific coast and in the vicinity of Bermuda.

A northwestern disturbance will advance east-southeastward and it will be attended by warmer weather Friday east of the Mississippi river, except in the South Atlantic states and the Gulf states where rains Friday or Friday night, from the lower lake region eastward to Maine. Otherwise fair weather will prevail most generally over the eastern half of the country during Friday and Saturday.

Of the New London county farms 35.8 per cent of the total number operated by owners were mortgaged. This was the second lowest percentage of mortgaged farms among the eight counties of the state.

The total number of farms in New London county last year was 3,864 as compared with 3,747 in 1920 and 5,051 in 1910. The average acreage per farm was 94.4. Litchfield county being the only county with a higher average size of farms. New London county's approximate land area, 421,760 acres was 38.6 per cent in farms.

Of the 3,864 New London county farms operated by owners, 35.8 per cent were mortgaged, the amount of the mortgage debt being $2,044,660, and the ratio of debt to value, 24 per cent. In Hartford county 34.6 per cent of the farms were mortgaged; in New Haven county, 43.6 per cent; in Tolland, 46.3 per cent; in Litchfield, 47.3 per cent, in Litchfield and Windham, 39.7 each, and in Middlesex, 37.5 per.

UNITED STATES FINISHING CO. HAD VARIED BUSINESS YEAR

A volume of business that was satisfactory for the first six months of 1925, but followed by a radical drop during the summer and an unusual drop in December, which made the final six months of the year unsatisfactory, was reported by President Henry B. Thompson at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Finishing Co., which was held Thursday afternoon in the directors' room at the Norwich Savings society.

The company, which has six plants in the north, one of which is in this city, and one plant in the south, paid four regular quarterly dividends of 1 3-4 per cent each on its preferred stock, and its common stock.

President Thompson's Report

In his annual report President Thompson said:

The results of the year ending December 31, 1925 show an improvement over 1924. Compared with the statements of some of the large New England corporations, which show substantial losses, we have every reason to congratulate ourselves, but there is little value in the consolation of having done better than your more unfortunate neighbor. Nevertheless, the unsatisfactory reasons for the year's results are in large degree brought about by a competition that ignores the cost of production. In my report to the stockholders last year, I said, "The outlook for the coming year is better. We have seen constantly improving conditions since October 1924." This statement was amply substantiated in the conditions of the first six months of this fiscal year, when the volume of business coming in to this company was in every way satisfactory. A radical drop in the volume of business for the summer months, followed by an unusual drop in December made an unsatisfactory closing six months. The hand to mouth policy of buying which seems to be nation-wide among all retailers accounts in large degree for these sudden variations in the volume of business and is imposing a heavy burden of expense on the manufacturer, on which has not as yet been properly distributed.

Our additions to plant amounted to $424,185.93. A very small part of this amount was expended in the completion of the silk printing and dyeing plant at our Danielson branch and the installation of some machinery at Sterling for the dyeing of silk and cotton and rayon fabrics. The balance distributed among the other plants to keep the same both as regards dollar amounts and ratios.

Our regular annual inventory was taken as of December 31, 1925 and showed a total of $711,956.79. While this is considerably less than the average of the previous two years, nevertheless our regular lines have been well maintained, and this amount represents a distribution in the usual ratio between plants. The physical condition of all our plants is first class and well up to the best standards we have maintained in past years.

In December 1925 policies aggregating $3,170,000 were carried at the company's expense on The Equitable Life Insurance society upon the lives of 2,567 employees. This means that about 80 per cent of our employees are now protected for life insurance, the remainder not yet having served the necessary year's probation.

A Mutual Benefit association, similar to those in operation at our Rhode Island plants, was organized during the year at our new southern plant at Cedartown, Georgia. The four associations now managed by the company in Rhode Island and Georgia have a total membership of 1,576. These associations are managed entirely by the employees. They administer sick benefits and also various athletic and social activities.

Thanks to the co-operation of the banks, a number of small plants were taken off another market in the past year, to the mutual advantage of the banks and ourselves. We can do this to a greater degree if we have the co-operation of the banks in the future. Our quarters in Providence, Boston and New York are ample for our present needs, and we can continue to occupy them at a reasonable rental.

Our plant at Norwich, Conn., is now in one building, and we have the space with the exception of a small amount for storage purposes. We have obtained permission in writing to purchase the upper floor of the building at any time we desire, and have also obtained a verbal agreement with the owner that he will not sell the building without giving us the first opportunity to purchase. This property is valuable to us, as it would be impossible to secure other space in the city at a reasonable rental.

Our new dye house at Norwich, with improved machinery, is now in operation, and we are getting very satisfactory results. Our new finishing plant at Sterling is also in operation, and we are getting very satisfactory results. Our new dye house at Danielson is now in operation, and we are getting very satisfactory results. Our new finishing plant at Sterling is also in operation, and we are getting very satisfactory results.

WOULD PROVIDE MORE MONEY AND POWER FOR ENFORCEMENT OF VOLSTEAD LAW

Declarations by Adherents of Prohibition Call For More Legal Machinery For Its Enforcement—Andrews Explained to Congress the Need of an Additional $3,000,000 Next Year, With Which He Hoped to Stamp Out the Sources of Liquor Supply—Secretary Andrews is Becoming a Storm Center in the Wet and Dry Controversy.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—A square deal for prohibition was urged today before the senate hearing committee by church leaders of many denominations, laymen and the Anti-Saloon League.

Opening the counter-offensive of the drys against the wets, witness after witness insisted that congress reject all proposals for modification of the Volstead law and adopt in their place measures putting more teeth into that celebrated law.

"The best way to answer the challenge that the law cannot be enforced is for congress to provide the legal machinery to stop lawlessness," said a statement filed with the committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League.

"Give sobriety an equal chance with drunkenness," was the plea of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of New York, president of the Federal Council of Churches, delivered by Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, of New York, secretary of the council.

"The call of the house is for such legal enforcement as will give the policy of prohibition an adequate opportunity to demonstrate its full value to the nation and to the world," said a statement from the administrative committee of the federal council.

"The prohibition law is being better and better enforced and it should be given a chance for at least a generation," declared Bishop James Henry Darlington, of the Episcopal church, who has headquarters at Harrisburg, Pa.

Dr. Charles H. Pennoyer, director general of the social welfare department of the Universalist church, declared that modification of the dry laws would prove nothing; that they should be given an opportunity to operate.

Similar declarations were made to the committee by former Representative Edward W. Keating of Colorado, now editor of "Labor," and Ernest H. Cherrington, of Westerville, Ohio, general secretary of the World League Against Alcohol.

While this barrage was laid down before the committee, Assistant Secretary Andrews, of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, in a statement to congress explaining the need for an additional $3,000 000 appropriation for next year, said it was necessary for his reorganization programme by which he hoped to stamp out the sources of liquor supply.

At the same time General Andrews was becoming a storm center in the wet and dry controversy. Assailed by some of the drys over the cigarry because he agreed before the senate committee that restricted government sal of non-intoxicating beer might help enforcement, he was defended today by both wet and dry leaders in congress.

The house was told by Representative Crampton, republican, Michigan, a dry leader, to enforce the law. Simultaneously Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, a wet leader in the senate, issued a statement commending the prohibition chief for his frankness.

For the first time since it began its hearings nearly two weeks ago, the senate committee adhered today to its original schedule of morning and afternoon sessions. This gave the drys an opportunity to crowd in a large number of witnesses who covered a wide range. There was no questioning of witnesses by the chief directors of the presentation for the drys—Wayne B. Wheeler and Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church. Southern and comparatively little by members of the committee.

Repeated statements by the wets that the practical operation of the Volstead act has resulted in injury to the morals of the young of America drew fire from a number of witnesses. Mr. Keating denounced them as "libels," and Mrs. Helen Green, a member of the city council of Cleveland, Ohio, declared that such certainly was not the case in her city.

Dr. Lee W. Beatty, superintendent of the Madison Square Settlement, of New York, took issue also with the claim of the wets that home-brewing and distilling in the home is prevalent. He said a personal inspection of 93 homes within one block of his settlement failed to disclose a single home still or brewing outfit.

Contentions of the wets that prohibition was "foisted" upon the people during the frenzy of war-times brought replies from Dr. Cadman; the administrative committee of the council of churches and Mr. Cherrington. The secretary of the World League Against Alcohol asserted that the great majority of states were dry before the ratification of the eighteenth amendment.

"The policy of prohibition was first voted in most of the states separately and then nationally," said the committee statement, "because the people had become convinced that the liquor traffic was a social evil of such magnitude that it had to be destroyed."

Dr. Cadman's statement said that as a policy, entire legal suppression of the liquor traffic in one form or another, is 70 years old in the United States.

"During that period," he added, "the traffic was given repeated opportunities to reform."

Likened to George Washington

POTSDAM, Germany, April 16.—(AP)—President von Hindenburg was likened to George Washington today by the head of a group of Mexicans visiting the historic places of Potsdam as the guests of the Prussian government. Proposing the president's health, Chairman Hernandez said: "Of Von Hindenburg it will one day be said, as of Washington: 'First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen.'"

LAYS UNIFIED AIR SERVICE AND POLAR AIRWAY TO PEARY

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Robert E. Peary was the "father" of the idea for a unified air service, originator of the trans-polar airway proposition and a believer in the hypothesis that land is awaiting discovery in the great unexplored area above Alaska, Commander Fitzhugh Green says in his biography of Peary, The Man Who Refused to Fail.

The book was prepared from Peary's papers and information gained by Green, himself an explorer, on his trips among the Eskimos.

Peary's interest in aviation did not come until after success had crowned his life's work, says the book, published today by G. P. Putnam's Sons. As early as 1912, he was laying plans for the creation of national airways and later he originated and organized the first complete coastal air defense for the United States.

"Great and important as is a sufficient navy for our safety," he told the American Academy of Political Science in 1916, "I speak advisedly when I say our air service in the near future will be more vital to our safety than our navy and army combined."

When the author refers to Peary as the "father" of the unified air service idea, he also quotes this paragraph from the pole discoverer:

"A secretary of aeronautics is a vital and immediate necessity here. He must be a civil executive, he must have Cabinet rank, he must have the confidence of the public and of the press. The position needed will be up to the standard of an ambassador. It will demand a knowledge of the business of the European Canal Zone and also of the air. He must be willing to sacrifice himself. He will rather make good or get out, and this necessity must be seen apart from the reason such a position could afford that class who would be attracted by the salary. It must be the best man."

TWO WITNESSES DENY COERCION BY BUTLER

MARINE BASE, San Diego, Cal., April 16—(AP)—Denial that Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler had coerced junior officers into making statements that Colonel Alexander S. Williams was intoxicated at a Coronado hotel the night of March sixth was made by two witnesses at the colonel's court martial here today.

Colonel Ellis B. Miller, commander of the Fourth Regiment of Marines, who assisted General Butler in the formal sentences leading up to the filing of charges against Colonel Williams, asserted that there had been no coercion and his testimony was substantiated by Major Ross Roswell.

Colonel Miller revealed that he had persuaded General Butler to withdraw from the original charge the specification of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

That he did not consider himself under duress when he submitted a second written statement to General Butler describing the defendant's condition at the hotel, was the testimony of Major Ross, earlier in the trial, the defense had sought to show that General Butler repeated the statements that submitted to him and demanded that his subordinates "come clean" and admit in new statements that Colonel Williams was drunk.

Captain Charles Rice, assistant to General Butler's chief of staff, testified that the cocktails served at Colonel Williams' home could not possibly have caused the intoxication of any one there.

"Of these cocktails we drank at Colonel Williams's home, you could have held a dozen without noticing it," he told the court.

The captain did not deny, however, that Colonel Williams was intoxicated when he saw him at the hotel an hour after the dinner party.

"When I saw the colonel at the hotel," he said, "he undoubtedly had the appearance of being drunk."

"I was astounded; for when the colonel got into my car to come to the hotel, he seemed perfectly sober."

The "funny part of it all," the witness continued, "was the fact that while he and other guests were drinking cocktails at the colonel's home he did not see the colonel drink any and even overheard some one say, 'Why colonel, aren't you drinking anything this evening?'"

Captain Rice finally volunteered the opinion that perhaps the colonel may have found a bottle somewhere and "taken something straight," which caused him to "crack all of a sudden, just like that."

At adjournment tonight it was announced a brief court session would be held tomorrow. The trial will continue next week.

SEEKING NEW TRIAL FOR MEN CONVICTED OF ARSON

BRIDGEPORT, April 16—(AP)—A new trial for Harris Fienberg and Moe Casper, New York, was asked in arguments made this afternoon before the supreme court of errors. They were found guilty by a jury on September 25, 1925, of having set fire to their clothing store on Main street to collect insurance. Judge George E Hinman sentenced them to from two to five years in the state prison. Both are at liberty in bonds of $7,500.

One of the principal claims of error concerned the question as to whether or not a state's attorney may call to the attention of a jury the fact that an accused man, in aking the witness stand, fails to testify in answer to charges made against him.

PURPLE HOMESTEAD AT EAST HAMPTON BURNED

EAST HAMPTON, April 16.—(AP)—Fire tonight destroyed the old Purple homestead here. Four generations of the Purple family had occupied the house which was more than 100 years old. It was occupied by Ignatz Cachuk, and his family. Part of the furniture and a large barn were saved but the house burned to the ground with an estimated loss of $5,000. The blaze was said to have been caused by sparks from the chimney.

$19,177,500 For Navy Construction

Asked of Congress by Sec'y Wilbur—$40,000 For Land at New London Submarine Base.

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Congress was asked today by Secretary Wilbur to appropriate $19,177,500 for construction work which the navy department considers urgent.

Approximately half of the proposed expenditure would go to the naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, which would be allotted more than $9,000,000 for improvements, including $5,000,000 for a large floating dry dock, $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment at the air stations there. These proposals are in line with the report of a congressional committee that visited Hawaii last summer.

The navy department desires $2,535,000 for the Puget Sound navy yard, $1 310,000 to be used for a crane and $1,000,000 for a machine and electric shop.

Smaller appropriations were requested for barracks and other improvements in the naval establishments at Norfolk and Hampton Roads, Va.; San Diego, Calif., Portsmouth, N. H., New London, Conn., and the Canal Zone. Appropriations totalling more than $1,000,000 were asked for the construction of barracks and other projects at the Quantico, Va., marine corps base.

Secretary Wilbur said the program had been endorsed by the budget bureau.

For the submarine base at New London $40,000 was asked for land purchase.

The coast guard had planned new hangars at Gloucester, Mass., and in the New London area but now the five planes will be housed in the coast guard hangar at Cape May.

Names You Should Know.

You like to know names that everybody knows—name of the man who tied lightning to a kite, name of a man who watched a teakettle and went out and made a steam engine. Just knowing such names gives you pleasure.

Yet there are names that thousands of people know that can give you more pleasure in a much more personal way. Names that stand for the best things to eat, to wear, to sleep on, you can buy. Names written large in advertisements. Advertisements tell why those are wise names for you to know.

Read the advertisements. Don't ask vaguely in a store for "cold cream," "a skillet," "a vacuum cleaner." Ask for them by name. Use the names you have learned through advertisements, that stand for the product that means most to you and most to most everybody.

STRIKE OF TUG BOAT MEN IN NEW YORK SETTLED

Workers Demands Have Been Compromised—They Will Go Back to Their Boats This Morning—Wage Increases Ranging From $10 to $25 a Month Will Prevail—Demand Had Been For From $10, to $50 a Month.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The strike of 3,000 tug boat workers operating 400 tugs in New York harbor was settled in favor of the workers tonight at a brief meeting of representatives of the New York Tow Boat exchange and of the Associated Marine Workers. The workers will go back to their tug boats tomorrow morning.

The settlement will allow a large number of steamers to enter and depart from New York tomorrow as scheduled.

The tow boat companies agreed to sign one-year contracts with the Associated Marine workers, allowing them an increase of from $10 to $25 a month in wages, as against their demands for an increase ranging from $10 to $50 a month. The strikers won their demands for a straight ten-hour day with time and a half for overtime and triple time for holidays.

The men were ordered out suddenly last night when their leaders declared that the workers' demands had been ignored by the tow boat companies. Half of the 500 tow boats in New York harbor were affected, including those ordinarily in use in towing trans-Atlantic liners to and from their piers.

Nine tow boat companies settled with the strikers a short time before the general general agreement was reached.

The increase in wages will become effective tomorrow morning, and in addition the tug boat owners have agreed to an increase of from 75 to 85 cents a day for the food of each member of tug boat crews.

DEPRECATES EXTENSIVE RAILWAY CONSOLIDATIONS

BOSTON, April 16—(AP)—Extensive railway consolidations in America would tend to destroy the human element in railroad service and thus decrease efficiency, Sir Henry W. Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways told the Boston chamber of commerce today.

A railway president who would try to supervise a system greater than that of the New York Central or the Pennsylvania systems, he declared, would find it impossible to maintain a human contact with his officers and men which is so necessary to the inspiration of loyalty and satisfaction among the employes. Amalgamation in England, he said, had not been entirely successful and the economies expected had not been effected.

"Selling transportation is like selling fish," said Sir Henry". "People will buy where they get the best fish and the best treatment. Relations with the public depend upon the employes and the employe will not give good service unless they have that sense of loyalty to their jobs."

Sir Henry said he saw no reason for hostility between the railroads and the communities they served and believed that hostility in some parts of the United States constituted the greatest liability of the railroads in those sections. A railroad, he contended, should give the communities along its lines such good service that they would boost it as strongly as their home town baseball teams.

ALL DAY SNOW STORM IN NORTHERN VERMONT

ST. ALBANS, Vt., April 16.—(AP)—Spring seemed farther away than ever in northern Vermont tonight after an all day snow storm, driven by a sweeping northwest wind. Old time residents say that the season is the latest within memory or record. The storm extended south to central Vermont and eastward to beyond the New Hampshire line.

The ground is still snow-covered and in the woods drifts five feet deep are found. With a howling wind driving a steady snow today into added drifts the weather was more like that of January than mid-April. In the vicinity of St. Albans the mercury in thermometers to near zero levels on two recent mornings and snow fell on Wednesday and Thursday.

The snow fall today reached to Woodsville in the upper Connecticut valley. Less wind was reported here. The fall was reported to be about four inches. The storm showed signs of abating tonight. Road travel has been nearly impossible on the gravel highways outside of the villages, owing to mud and ruts.

FOREST FIRES DESTROYED 11 SMALL FARM BUILDINGS

PLYMOUTH, Mass., April 17—(AP)—Forest fires which swept large areas of land near this town had been checked late today with the loss of 11 small farm buildings, but the strong south wind threatened to fan the flames anew. In the respite from two days of battling with racing flames, Fire Chief Albert Hillar began an investigation of reports that the fires were of incendiary origin.

Throughout the day a large force of patrols had little trouble with a smouldering line four miles long which marked the edge of an area burned over last night from Little South pond in the direction of Buzzards' bay and Wareham. A change of wind checked this fire Thursday night after it had run over a large section of pine and scrub oak land in the direction of the Miles Standish state pine reservation.

BATTLE BEGUN FOR THE LOTTA CRABTREE ESTATE

BOSTON, April 16.—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Ida M. Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla., claimant of the estate of Lotta Crabtree, Boston actress today renewed before the supreme court their battle begun in the Suffolk court. Judge Pierce of the higher court was asked to order Judge William Prest, probate judge, to furnish a complete record of proceedings in which he dismissed Mrs Blankenburg's claims and sentenced her to jail for contempt.

At the close of a hearing in probate court to determine whether Mrs Blankenburg was or she maintained the daughter of Lotta Crabtree, Judge Prest ruled that the claimant and her brother, John W. Crabtree, had perpetrated a fraud upon the court and obstructed justice. The woman was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt, but later was released on $2,500 bail and returned to Oklahoma.

The record of the probate court proceedings was sought to support a petition already filed in the higher court for a write of error to review the findings of Judge Prest. Counsel claimed that if perjury was committed a new jury action was the proper procedure. It also was claimed that Judge Prest stepped out of his judicial position to do Mrs. Blankenburg "an unwarranted and unjustifiable wrong." In his ruling the Judge said:

"The case is pock-marked with fraud. There is no mistaking it. The spots of fraud are as thick and as plainly visible as the spots on the fly-leaf of the Bible on which a fraudulent entry is recently written of Lotta's marriage and the claimant's birth."

The petition represented that Mrs Blankenburg was without funds and asked that Suffolk county be required to pay for the records sought. Judge Pierce will hear arguments April 26.

$2,000 HOLDUP OF BANK IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 16.—(AP)—The first bank robbery in the history of this city was perpetrated late today by a lone masked bandit who looked the vault of the French bank La Caisse Populaire on the outskirts of the city and escaped to the woods with $1,675 in cash.

The bandit entered with drawn revolver just before closing time. He backed two cashiers, Albert C. Roy and Miss Thelma Prince, into a corner, ran to the open vault and scopped up all of the packages of bills he could carry.

While Roy gave chase, Miss Prince called the police and a squad of officers reached the building five minutes after the holdup. Roy followed the man across a field and into the woods, but searchers were unable to pick up the trail.

Roy and Miss Prince were able to give a fair description of the man's build and general appearance, but his face was masked with a blue and white handkerchief.

The bank is a national, popularly known as St. Mary's bank, and is located in an isolated section. It seldom has large deposits on hand, according to the president, Francis J. Houine.

All available police records, newspaper files and oldest inhabitant memories fail to record any previous bank robbery in the history of the city.

DECISION IN FAVOR OF THE ZENITH RADIO CORP.

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP)—The first "air piracy" case in the history of radio in the United States was decided here today in favor of the Zenith Radio corporation and its president, Eugene F. McDonald, Jr., against the government in the court of Federal District Judge James H. Wilkerson, the government in criminal action charged the defendants with operating radio apparatus contrary to the license issued to the corporation's station WJAZ. Four specific allegations were made.

The court held that sections one and two of the wireless act of 1912—the only laws existing that apply to broadcasting—were ambiguous, and that the act itself did not empower the secretary of commerce with certain discretionary powers which he has allegedly assumed. The decision is considered by attorneys as blanketing the administrative rulings of the secretary of commerce.

Station WJAZ was licensed to operate one night a week for two hours on the same wave length of 332.4 meters assigned to the General Electric company station KOA at Denver. Unable to obtain permission for more time WJAZ wilfully "pirated" a wave length which was set aside for use of Canadian broadcasting stations, and according to the briefs in the case, took this action in the hope of initiating court action and bringing about legislation and clarification of the existing broadcasting laws and regulations. In addition to using the wave length the station also extended its time on the air.

CAMPAIGN IN BOSTON AGAINST USING POTATOES

BOSTON, April 16.—(AP)—A campaign against the use of potatoes was begun today by the Housekeepers' League of New England, the organization's statement read: "It is foolish to be using potatoes at this time of the year anyway." There were plenty of acceptable substitutes, the statement asserted, and their use was urged.

The league officials held that speculators, and not the relation of supply to demand were responsible for the high prices, of which the retailer was raising but a small share. Last year's crop was ample, it was pointed out.

Plans for the 150th anniversary were talked over, but nothing definite was decided at this meeting. After the salute to the flag, the meeting closed. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and fancy wafers were served by the entertainment committee. On Thursday evening April 8, Past Gt. Poc. Nettie Kinne with her staff, trailed to the hunting grounds of Hiawatha council No. 15 of New London to meet and greet the great chiefs and join them in a general big time celebration. A bountiful feast was served at one of the best restaurants in New London, and it goes without saying, each and every one enjoyed the spread of corn and venison which was set before them. It certainly was a feast of reason and flow of soul. Hiawatha council No. 15 of New London certainly knows how to do things up in a proper and pleasing manner to all its guests at any time.

States, cities and communities would select their own singers in quartettes. Communities unable to defray the expense of sending four singers, could combine with neighboring communities in making up the group—representing a county.

DANIELSON

POTATOES AS EXPENSIVE AS TROPICAL FRUIT NOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 16—Potatoes were being quoted Friday in this territory at $4.00 a bushel, this by farmers as the highest price in this commodity since World war days, but there is little to be done about it, because a great shortage of tubers holds sway in the land. Farmers who have potatoes to sell are sitting pretty. Here is a season that will bring them compensation for recent years when potatoes sold at such low prices that the grower could not get back the money he put into seed, fertilizer and labor, not to mention a profit. Of course, one can get along without potatoes until the new crop comes in the near future, and that is the very thing some housewives are doing. It is a matter of necessity with some whose funds are not adequate to buy potatoes at prevailing prices.

NEW MOTORBUS SERVICE FOR WAUREGAN VILLAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 16—Monday next motor busses of the Connecticut company operating on the line between Norwich and Putnam will inaugurate a service into Wauregan village, running down to the old trolley station to receive and discharge passengers. This will be an hourly service as on all other parts of the route. Wauregan people have contended for this convenience ever since connection was established, rendering the trolleys, on December 1, and no doubt will be delighted to know that it is to come about in the immediate future. Heretofore the patrons of the line at Wauregan have had to walk up the long hill from the village to the state highway at Wauregan four corners to get aboard a motor or walk down the hill from getting off. The innovation of running into Wauregan village will make no great difference in the present running schedule at any other point along the line. However, a new schedule may be announced as spring approaches to the end that the Wauregan schedule does not conflict with the Danielson-Putnam schedule. Just what changes may be made in that section and extra time that may be required in getting down into Wauregan and out on the main line again.

There was nothing Friday to indicate that Mandzy Kranilian will be arraigned before Killingly town court on May 3, to which time his case was continued when he was in court a week ago today. Now that Peter Chargo—the man that Kranilian is held for assaulting—is dead, the prisoner faces the prospect of being charged with manslaughter. There is, of course, the possibility that he will be allowed to enter a plea of guilty to the assault charge and be sentenced accordingly. Kranilian is now in the Brooklyn jail.

DARMER SON OF A BARON, BUT NOBODY SUSPECTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 16—People in Putnam who knew Frederick Darmer, ten years ago, as the son of F. W. Darmer, a practicing dentist here are wondering over the claim now made that he is the son of Baron and Baronness von Falkenberg a member of the Prussian nobility.

His father died in 1926 and the young man left here soon after. The family had previously lived in Danielson where Fred was graduated from Killingly high school. He returned here a year later as an elder of the Later Day Saints and made some little effort in proselytizing for that church. Later, he figured in the Boston papers as having married a 15 year old school girl without the consent of her parents.

For a brief period after the war he published a theatrical magazine in St. Louis. He possesses some ability, but not enough to justify the claim that he has gained eminence in the "scientific, artistic and literary world," or that he is a rival of Nitzshe, one of the greatest of German philosophers. These comments are made in view of the following published in a Danielson paper of last week.

"The name, Frederick Von Falkenberg, means little to those who remember a youngster who used to play about Danielson streets and who attended Killingly high school, a decade or more ago. The boy referred to was the son, presumedly, of Dr. F. W. Darmer and known here as "Frederick Darmer." As a matter of f ct the boy was the son of Baron and Baroness von Falkenberg, of Falkergschloss, Germany, and was in the care of Dr. and Mrs. Darmer, having been sent to this country to receive his education along American ideas.

"Since leaving Danielson, Mr. von Falkenberg has achieved considerable prominence in the world of art, science and literature and recently has been editor of a magazine in St. Louis, devoted to articles on art, science and literature; assistant city editor of the New Orleans Item-Tribune; city editor of the Palm Beach Times and until very lately editor of a daily paper in Florida.

"He has written a photoplay, based on the theory of re-incarnation and entitled 'Re-incarnation,' which is now being produced in California. He has also written a modern interpretation of the works of the German philosopher, Fredrich Nietzsche, which he has entitled, 'Now Speaks Friedrichelene,' which title is to balance Nitzsche's famous work, 'Thus Spake Zarathustra.'

"His final effort, however, has just been brought to light in the organization of what is known as the International Educational Foundation in which he is associated with Miss Josephine M. Wilkins, known as "Georgia's Fifty-first Senator" because of her work in the Georgia senate in connection with the children's code. The object of this foundation is to investigate and encourage educational programs based on the highest ethical standards. One of its aims is to urge the eventual establishing of free collegiate education and it will also seek to make the position of the teacher one which will be a mark of social honor. The foundation has the endorsement of many of America's notables, among whom are Hendrik van Loon, Margaret Sanger, Upton Sinclair, Oswald Garrison Villard and Nina Wilcox Putnam. Both Miss Wilkins and Mr. von Falkenberg have pledged their lives to the promulgation of the ideals they have decided to put before the world."

Mrs. Walter Rich, president of the Parent-Teachers association and Miss Irene Bernier, secretary, have been chosen delegates to the state convention to be held at the Mohican hotel, New London, April 22. JOHN N. GARDINER WAS ONE OF 22 CHILDREN

JEWETT CITY, April 16. — John Norton Gardiner, 82, died Friday afternoon at his home in Griswold. Mr. Gardiner was born in Penn Yan, N. Y., August 15, 1844, the son of Ray and Rachel Norton Gardiner, one of a family of 22 children. The family is one of the old Rhode Island families, in which state Mr. Gardiner lived after he was two years old, at Exeter. When the Civil war broke out he was anxious to enlist, but was only 17. In 1863, however, he enlisted in Co. A, 7th R. I. infantry under Col. Bliss and Capt. Leavens of Hope Valley, and served from August until December. In 1868, he came to Voluntown, engaged in farming, also in mercantile business with John Leffingwell, under the firm name of Leffingwell and Gardiner. The partnership continued until 1888, when the latter sold out and started farming, buying his present farm of 170 acres in Griswold. Here, he made extensive improvements, entirely remodeling the house, adding many substantial buildings. He engaged in dairy farming and stock raising, and was counted very successful. These later years, his son, J. Frank Gardiner has assumed the care of the farm. His wife was Artemesia Alma Palmer, who died a number of years ago. Mr. Gardiner was a man of unassuming manner, frank and kind hearted, devoted to his home and family, and a type of the best class of American citizen. In his youth he was a member of the Baptist church in Hope Valley, but his wife and son Frank being members of the Methodist church, in later years he attended there. He is survived by one son, J Frank Gardiner and two grand-children, Grace, who attends East Greenwich Academy and John Norton Gardiner, named for his grandfather. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Melissa Avery of West Mystic and three brothers, Edwin A. Gardiner of Norwood, Mass., Charles of Sterling Hill and Ulysses, of Hope Valley.

She is survived by six children, Mrs. Ellen Perry of Dayville, Mrs. Amelia Moquin of Bristol, Napoleon Raill of Plainfield, Louis, Agnes and William Raill of Jewett City. There are 22 grand-children and four great-grand-children. SHIPPING BOARD POWER

For a considerable time there has been a feeling that the shipping board should be eliminated, its duties transferred to others and the new committee or bureau be responsible to the president through one of the departments instead of to congress as at present.

Whether congress can be made to see the wisdom of such a move remains to be seen, but it is having a chance to observe some of the activities of the board and thereby to get an idea of what really prompts the desire for such a change.

The latest demonstration of how the shipping board works is provided in its decision to sell five ships to the Dollar line for operation on the Pacific coast. The desire is for the government to get out of the shipping business and get the merchant marine into the hands of private enterprise. Large sacrifices can be expected but it is not intended that there should be a disregard for good business dealings.

Some time ago the shipping board talked about a change in the head of the fleet corporation and put in that position a man of its own choice. To this corporation president was submitted the bid of the Dollar line. It was for $900,000 for each of five ships. The corporation president pointed out that recently similar vessels had been sold for more than $1,000,000 each and advised against the acceptance of the bid. It has disregarded the advice, which it has a right to do, and voted to sell at an apparent sacrifice by the board of a half million dollars to say nothing of the claim that the government is improperly protected under the terms of the sale and that the board has not only acted against the opinion of the head of the fleet corporation but in spite of the protest of members of congress.

Now the question arises as to whether congress will interest itself in the matter. It is to congress that the board is responsible. If the decision through and congress endorses and declares congress must shoulder the responsibility. Just now congress is in session and can take action if it desires but it serves to emphasize the need that this is not always the case and the aim to make it responsible to some department of the government is a wise one.

RUSSIA AND DISARMAMENT

As time approaches for that preliminary conference at Geneva at which it is expected that a program for disarmament for discussion at a subsequent conference will be drafted there is no certainty that there will not be further postponement or that results will seriously be accomplished.

Disarmament talk sprung up following the Locarno conference and the results obtained there. It inspired just such a feeling, but subsequent developments have sent discouragement rather than encouragement. Disarmament is something which never had a very enthusiastic backing in Europe for it means a radical change from past conditions and necessarily it must be expected that there will be a tendency to backsliding until the demonstration has been carried on long enough to prove its worth.

While no great enthusiasm can be discerned over the coming conference, there might be more were it a fact that Russia was going to participate. Whether Russia is really desirous of seeing a disarmament agreement is questioned only by the statements which have been made and the fact that it would attend such a conference are to be made elsewhere than in Switzerland. But the declaration on the part of the soviet government's spokesman that it will not send representatives to Geneva because it doesn't trust the protection they would receive at the hands of the Swiss indicates that the conference is going to lack an important European country.

Ordinarily, if it were most any other question, it might be said that it would make no difference whether Russia attended and participated or not but when the question of disarmament is raised it concerns a step which many others are not going to take unless Russia does likewise. There is too much distrust among the European nations for, one to throw away its arms unless the other does. Certain the little countries are not going to do it when big Russia refuses to attend even a conference. And yet if there is no serious intention to do anything about disarmament it is easy to put the blame for failure on Russia.

"GEORGIA'S GOOD WORK"

As between federal and state regulation of the child labor question there is no doubt but what state action should prevail. It is the far better method of dealing with the problem and yet it was chiefly because the states in some instances had failed to meet their responsibilities that federal action was sought.

Federal action was not successful to the extent of enacting a constitutional child labor law, but it cannot be said to have been a complete failure, for without question it demonstrated to the backward states the necessity of dealing with this matter themselves rather than encouraging federal action through their continued neglected.

That at least has been the result in Georgia. That state has maintained on various occasions that it has been misrepresented concerning various things such as lynchings and child labor conditions, but it cannot fail to be noted that whether they were misrepresentation or facts that were put forth concerning conditions there they seem to have had good effect, for Georgia no longer stands at the head of the list as a lynching state and it has enacted a commendable child labor law.

Georgia didn't want a federal child labor law and it has shown that it has confidence that it can handle the problem effectively itself, as it undoubtedly can under an aroused public sentiment. Through the cooperation of the mill owners and the industrialist the legislators of that state have reason to feel proud of the advancement made in dealing with the child labor situation there. It is no more than ought to have been done a long time ago, but it is so in contrast to the attitude of the past that it attracts attention, and it likewise stands as an example to any and all other states which need to give greater attention to similar conditions.

Georgia has shown, even though it had to be prodded, that a federal law isn't necessary, and through state action it is not improbable that even better results will be obtained than through an expensive, redtaped federal bureau.

Highly commendable and properly directed is the effort to get greater cooperation on the part of the people of this end of the state for the development and growth of eastern Connecticut.

The need of just such action has been recognized before and it is impossible to say that nothing has come from what has been done heretofore, but it is not a matter of spontaneity but of steady, consistent and persistent activity that is needed and aimed at.

It is not simply one project which may happen to be highly desirable at the present time that is going to compel the work of the present effort. At least it should not be. The situation calls for organized efforts that will have the welfare of this end of the state in mind at all times for through such development, as may be encouraged or started, are the interests of all to be served.

Each community may have its civic organization constantly alert for its interests but there are interests which apply to all alike and the greater the publicity given to eastern Connecticut facilities the greater the activity in behalf of its common interests and the greater interest that is shown in promoting its industrial activity, its rail and water facilities, its highways and its many attractions the better it is going to be for the individual community whose interest is so closely bound up in the common success of all.

In the get together meetings which have been held there has been displayed a most commendable spirit of cooperation. May it continue to grow stronger and become more and more effective.

FOREST FIRES

Once more the season of forest fires is at hand. Some destructive fires have already occurred and more can be expected. The ground is covered with the material that feeds the flames once combustion is started. The drier the season the greater the danger, but it is well to remember that many of these woodland fires can be prevented.

There are those who are watching to discover such fires and spread the alarm among those who stand ready to fight them, but it is far better that those who are responsible for starting them should display a bit more care and overcome the necessity for such efforts.

This can be done. Carelessness can be decreased, and it is invariably carelessness that is responsible for some of the worst losses.

The heedless discarding of firebrands by smokers, the failure to put out fires which may be started for various purposes and he starting of fires for the burning of brush and dry grass when the wind quickly gets them beyond control have all figured extensively in the past as the causes of destructive forest fires.

It is well to bear in mind that it is not simply the loss of the underbrush which needs to be guarded against but the houses, barns and standing timber that are too often threatened with destruction through the careless throwing away of a match or throwing of a cigarette into the leaves by a woodland roadside or the failure to select the right conditions and sufficient help when burning over land.

With all the care that may be taken it can be expected that that there will be some forest fires but there is excellent reason for eliminating a large proportion of the yearly wastage which is entirely unnecessary.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

If people stay away from church on the ground that they do not get anything out of it, the question may be reasonably asked. "What did they go after?" In a certain measure people get what they go after. If they go to church mainly or largely to be amused or entertained they are probably disappointed. They certainly ought to be if they are not. They simply blundered into the wrong pew. If they were craving amusement the play house was the place for them. If they were after help and strength; of they wanted real food for the inner life and did not get it in the church, there were, probably, two reasons for it: First, the church failed to function properly; or, secondly, the minister may have tumbled down on his job. Ministers have been known to do such things. He may have failed to be the real messenger at the service. Thirdly, the disappointed hearer may have had something in his heart that would not let the truth strike home. Two opposing things cannot occupy the same place at the same time.

In your own life what has been the net result of the extra religious services from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday? Of course they will hardly admit of a material tabulation. You are not dealing with such tangible things as cord-wood or baled-hay, and hence the yardstick will not do. Still if there has been during these 40 days the investment of a real purpose to get nearer to the heart of things spiritual, and you have put a real heart into it, you must be conscious of spiritual enrichment because of a clearer perception of the great personality held up constantly before you. Our Christian religion does not cluster around an idea, but around a person and the nearer we get to Him, the clearer will be our ideas of Him. If we have made the right use of Lent it cannot have failed to help us.

The question is being frequently asked in these days, both in print and public address, if the world isn't growing worse. Now the question is so obscure as not to admit of an emphatic "yes" or "no." No satisfactory answer can be given until one learns the viewpoint of the questioner. We need to know from what angle he is looking at the world when he asks the question. It is doubtless true that there is less emphasis put upon dogmatic theology and literal interpretation of the Bible than formerly. But we refuse to believe that this is making the world worse. If he is referring to the amount of crime at present, he is probably right if we look at it in the aggregate. But it is doubtful if it is true from the per capita standpoint. There are vastly more people than 200 years ago, and we have better means of getting the news of the good and the bad than ever before.

If we look at the world from the social standpoint we must say emphatically that the world is rapidly growing better. The one who was fortunate enough to have had an ideal home in his early days when he comes into contact with the grime and misery of city slum life may be a bit sceptical about the world's progress, but when he stops to consider the agencies now in vogue to better these conditions, he will change his opinion. Mark, if you please, what is now being done with such problems as children's community life, delinquency and correction, family welfare, public health, and mental hygiene, not alone in our state but in all the states of the Union. When one looks at this great humanitarian work broadly he can hardly be a pessimist in the matter.

When the Master prayed for the unity of his disciples, he was not making a plea for uniformity. It is one thing for a body of men to strive to accomplish a noble task to reach a great ideal, but it is something different to conform to a certain type. The one we call unity, the other uniformity. A body of living, forceful and intelligent men represent the one; a flock of sheep represent the other. The lower down we go in the scale of living the more in general do we find uniformity. It is very hard to tell one blade of grass, one jelly fish, one bug from another of the same species. It is rare, very rare to see two persons of the higher species just alike. Savages look alike, dress alike, act alike in fact their whole lives are on the dead level of uniformity. As civilization advances there is a tendency to break away from uniformity, and display a larger independent initiative.

As civilization advances, the tendency is more and more to break away from the dead level of uniformity and to put more stress upon unity and the consolidation of kindred interests. That is the joining together of forces for the accomplishment of larger things. It is the age of great business combines for the purposes of economy and the larger output of goods. To centralize concerns doing the same kind of work is the order of the day. The same idea is seen in bringing the scattered schools of a township into one central school building and it tends to larger efficiency. The effect of this trend is beginning to be felt in religious circles. Why should there be two or three little weak churches in a small town where one well-equipped church could do the work much better because no longer duplicating non-essentials. When the Master's prayer for a larger unity is realized it will sound the death knell of useless churches.

On the night of April 18, 1775, occurred the historic ride of Paul Revere. It was exactly 150 years ago. If the old patriot could come back and visit eastern Massachusetts, one wonders just how it would impress him. At first he would hardly recognize the place, and certainly would need a pilot to take him over the route which his "midnight ride" has made immortal. Paul Revere must have been a good deal of a man, and if he was a typical Puritan probably had "iron atoms in his blood." I think his heart would thrill with joy at the conversion of a lonely wayside into one of the most densely populated areas in the world, and he would be justified in feeling that his heroic act had much to do in making "the wilderness and solitary place glad for them, and the desert to rejoice and blossom as the rose." If the policy of George the Third had continued there would be no raison or gladness in the vicinity of Boston.

Let us not be misled by the haphazard statement that "more people used to attend church than now." It is quite easy to make such a claim, but quite another thing to prove it. If this is true I am at a loss to account for the statistical fact that in the United States during the last 75 years the number of churches have more than doubled. No one for a moment believes that these churches have merely been built as ornaments, and for no other purpose more tangible. It is equally hard to believe that they would have been built unless positively needed. The only valid explanation is that these edifices have been erected to meet the demands of a growing population. The population of the United States has more than doubled in the last 75 years, and if the churches have doubled in number, church attendance is not falling off.

Mrs. Luther Burbank, was named in the superior court in Santa Rosa, Calif., as special executrix on the estate of her husband, the famed horticulturalist, who died Sunday. The estate valued at approximately $200,000, was willed to the widow.

LUTHER BURBANK—AT THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT.

Back in the summer of 1907 Ivy L. Lee spent a day with Luther Burbank when he was unusually communicative. Mr. Lee's treat was a rare one and that evening he made notes of his experience which are of particular interest in this week of the death of the horticultural wizard.

We found Mr. Burbank in the farm which is back of his old home. He was dressed in a sack suit well spotted with grease on the front. His collar was frayed about half way from the top, although it was clean. He had on a crush hat and looked like an old-fashioned country school teacher. His manner is very plain and unsophisticated. His voice is mild, but his manner of expression sharp and incisive, even picturesque.

I asked him what he was working at now. He said "at several thousand things." I told him I thought that cactus was his hobby.

A House Built From Cactus Leaves

He told me that he had now brought his "spineless cactus" to a point where it would produce 200 tons an acre per year of first class forage food.

"This house was built from six cactus leaves," said Burbank, by which he meant that he had recently sold six leaves from his best spineless cactus to a man in Australia for a sufficient sum of money to build his home, probably costing about $6,000 or $7,000. The spineless cactus which has been developed by Burbank is the finest kind of food, he declared, for everything from a canary bird to an elephant. Beef fed with it make the finest kind of stock. The fruit from this spineless cactus is said by Burbank to be wonderfully delicious.

He is still working at the Opuntias, for he says it still has too many seeds in it, and he is trying to remove them. He said he was also trying to develop a form of thornless cactus that would grow in Alaska. He none had yet been found which would grow there. He believes that the development of the cactus is going to do more to solve the question of the use of arid lands than anything that has been done in the history of the world. He says also that his cactus not only has remarkable food qualities as mentioned before, but that the plant requires almost no cultivation. It will grow anywhere and under all conditions.

How the Cactus Lost its Thorns

I asked Mr. Burbank how he went about getting rid of the thorns. He said that he did it by selecting at the start from many thousands of cactus plants, those which were the least thorny. He then raised a new crop from these, and from the second generation picked out those which had still less thorns, and so on. He then started from another class of cactus to pick out the less thorny ones, and after about seven generations in one line and five in another, he crossed the two and developed the present form.

Development of the Tomato

Mr. Burbank told me that the crossing of a plant was a strange operation: that if you took one species and developed it to its highest point you got the same qualities and likewise with another species. If, however, you crossed these two species you would be apt to get qualities both good and bad which neither of the previous species possessed, thus signifying that the product of the cross breeding is an absolutely new thing—a creation.

This creation, he declared, will persist, if it is trained long enough. He said, for instance, that the common tomato plant is the development of a tropical plant which was formerly very small. It had been developed to its high state of perfection, but, he said, if it should be taken back to its native soil, it would promptly revert to its old habits and grow very small. Mr. Burbank told us that in view of that peculiarity, it was necessary to watch one of these new creations for a considerable time, but that after some generations the qualities of these plants become "fixed" and could thereafter be depended upon.

Plants cannot be developed from seed, Mr. Burbank said. The navel orange and the Bartlett pear would not do anything at all if produced from seed, as the seed tend to degenerate to a certain extent and revert to the old habits of the plant.

Mr. Burbank's illustrations are illuminating. He called our attention for instance, to the difference between plants and animals as exemplified in the case of the racehorse. He said, for example, if you take two $10,000 horses and breed them you were not certain to get a good racehorse foal at all. He said, also, that you could cross a racehorse and a fine cart horse, and there would be no telling what you would get.

With the plant, however, it was different. Burbank told us that a mathematical calculation could be made as to a plant reproducing itself along certain precise lines. He said, however, that people were beginning to see that a long generation of race horses—where the emphasis was placed upon the speed the animal could develop—produced certain fixed characteristics.

Training the Human Plant.

I asked Mr. Burbank what his present opinion was on the child question. He said that his views as expressed in his book, The Training of the Human Plant, had been endorsed by a large number of teachers and psychologists all over the world. He said that there was no doubt whatever as to the correctness of his view. He said also that a plant had very few things to respond to, and that all you could do for it was to treat it with light, air, heat and soil. The child, on the other hand, responds to an infinity of influences, and a child can be trained exactly like a plant, only with infinitely greater success, if the same methods could be applied. He said he felt that heredity had a great deal to do with a child but that environment balanced heredity sometimes overcoming it.

Lumber Tree of the Future

Burbank told us also about a new walnut tree which he has recently developed, called the Royal Black Walnut. He thinks it will be the lumber tree of the future, as it grows with wonderful rapidity, a tree two feet in diameter being produced in about 12 years.

"I never pay much attention to one of my productions after I have developed it," said Burbank, "then go on with something else. Why, I have six thousand different kinds of prunes and hundreds and thousands of different kinds of fruits and flowers of every kind."

Burbank is a wonderful genius for selection and has excellent judgment in the development of plants, but he needs a scientist at his right hand to lead him along to make a record of what he does. The Carnegie Institute now supplies him with just such an assistant. A publishing concern also has a force of writers and stenographers in the building formerly occupied by Burbank as a home to make a record of all that he has done.

Mr. Burbank told us that he devotes about an hour a day to his secretary, one hour to dictating matter outside of that intended for the new books and, in addition to this, he spends one day a week at his Sebastopol place. He said that about 6,000 people visit his place every year and a great proportion of them demand to see him. He sees no one now, he said, except by appointment and he made appointments only in very exceptional cases. He told us also that in perhaps a dozen or fifteen cases a year would he take the time to sit down and talk freely. He says it would be simply impossible to do more than this.

Personally Conducted Through Burbank's Gardens

In a trip through his gardens, Mr. Burbank first showed us some of his thornless cactus, rubbing his face against it in order to illustrate its harmlessness. He pointed out to us the fact that the thorns were really the leaves of the cactus, and that the big oval objects, commonly considered the leaves, are, in reality, the stalks.

He showed us part of his exhibit for the National Irrigation congress at Sacramento, and then he pointed out to us the beds in which he is growing various cactus seedlings. He has people in Patagonia, and in all parts of the world, looking out for different kinds of cactus.

He brings these here, and finds out what their characteristics are and then, if they have beneficial qualities he seeks to unite them with the cactus he has already developed.

Burbank walked down through his gardens pointing out to me places where I could take good snap shots. He thought the best place to take a picture of beds of flowers of any kind, was to put the camera just above the tops of the plants and then get a top view. At one place there was a plant from which several leaves had fallen off. I wanted to take a picture of it, but he said he thought I had better not as, said he:

"I will get about 2,000 letters of inquiry about that if you should print such a picture."

Burbank had me take some pictures of a bed of Mexican primroses, also a photograph of a bed he call "tricalli cactus," a rather diminutive species.

As we were passing through the garden I noticed several rows of what looked like old-fashioned English peas. I asked Mr. Burbank what he was doing with them. The reply was that a Colorado vegetable canning concern had found that its patrons were somewhat dissatisfied with the size of the pea. They, therefore, sent some of their plants to Burbank and asked him if he could not develop from them a pea of a smaller size with more sugar in it. He said that these people had found that the larger size pea was not so popular, and that it was necessary to develop a pea which could compete with the small French pea. Burbank said he had almost completed this and would send the new stock back to the canning concern within a short time.

Largest Geranium Ever Developed

The greater part of the yard or garden is filled with cactus—cactus of all kinds. But at one side of the house is a bed of geraniums. Burbank said that this geranium had the largest single flower of any geranium which had been developed, though he had not had much time to think about this and had never done anything by way of exploiting it. I asked Burbank if he had developed the Lawson pink.

"No," he replied, "but it was a good pink, though I think Lawson paid too much for it. I would have sold it to him cheaper."

Sunday Morning Talk

STEWARDSHIP

Life regarded as a stewardship, is at once simpler and more rewarding than any purely selfish life can be. And when it is for God the opportunities of time taken on a dignity which lifts them high above all petty motives and disheartening fears. A year devoted to God's service may not bring us clear vision of results attained, but it will assure us the best use of time, freedom from weakening regret, and the peace of heart which is not the least of the conditions of efficiency.

When we use our time for God He does not call us to slavish service. No one who works for God works in isolation from God, no one need fear that his time is spent amiss or that his errors and mistakes are beyond remedy. The year for Him is spent with Him and carries the joy of His presence and the assurance of His triumph.

The study of opportunities belongs quite naturally to the seasons which mark for us the progress of our lives. There are days in business for taking account of stock, there are times in living when we look backward in order that we may plan to go forward. We ought to accomplish more for God this year than we have ever done. We need to make wise plans for use of time and increase of influence. But most and first we ought to fill our hearts with the enthusiasm of devotion to the Heavenly Father, who has made us trusted companions of His life and work. In the deepening of that sense of gratitude and love we shall have our best assurance of attainment both in character and service through the changes of the year.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, the once prominent divine of New York city, who today enters upon his 87th year, has lived in quiet retirement since he quit the active ministry in 1918. At one time his name was one of the most widely known in America. The original mission of Dr. Parkhurst was to preach. For nearly 30 years he pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian church. His evolution into a fighting parson began in 1891 when the police officials of New York city challenged him to prove charges he had made from the pulpit of his church. Thereafter he became the most vigorous opponent that a corrupt municipal government ever faced. With every weapon that his civic rights put in his hands the "fighting parson" waged the hardest and most successful battle against municipal corruption which had been waged in America since the overthrow of the Tweed ring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What Are We Coming To?

Mr. Editor:—Your editorial in a recent issue of The Bulletin in regard to automobile accidents and their causes should receive special attention. We older ones who have noted changes for many years and are in a position to make comparisons wonder what we are coming to. Crime and criminals seem to be on the increase and I think it is safe to assert that autoitis, and the speed mania, and I want to include also the prohibition law because it does not prohibit, are responsible for a large part of it.

And that brings us back to the primary cause—lack of proper influence and government in the home. In fact, I think the homes are fast going out. What should be homes are fast getting to be simply a place to stay in when a certain amount of sleep becomes necessary. What can we expect of boys and girls whose parents lead fast or loose lives? Instead of the home circle with its healthful entertainment the recreational hours are spent on wheels. On wheels and outside of wheels. Wheels without and within. And the members of the family are probably scattered to the four winds of Heaven; pa with one set, ma with another, and the sons and daughters with still other sets. All outside of whatever restraining influences might be exerted by the presence of others of the family. And this particularly on Sundays when with these facilities and good roads they might easily get to church. The press and the pulpit are trying to correct these evils and they cannot be emphasized too strongly.

I would like to call attention to the letter of J. Edward Benoit in the "Bulletin" of the 13th inst. It is sound common-sense and covers this phase of the subject in good shape. The normal mother considers her home interests of paramount importance and extracts much satisfaction and pleasure from the exercise of them.

The manufacturers of automobiles are doing what they can to make their cars "fool-proof," but there are several kinds of foolishness that cannot be guarded against. The up-keep of one or more cars for the family use has come to be considered as the foremost item in the family expenses and takes such place in the cost of living. And when there are several in the family the one or more cars are kept on the street most of the time; hence the congestion. It would not only be a great relief but an immense benefit to all concerned if many more persons walked a good deal more of the time.

UNCLE BILLY.

Engleville, April 16, 1926.

From Small Beginnings

Ezra Cornell, the Potter, Founder of Cornell University

At Ithaca, N. Y., is a great institution of learning that draws students from all over the world, that gives instruction in almost every possible subject, and that pours out in a steady stream a host of young men who benefit the land. That important factor in the good of the United States was founded through the generosity of Ezra Cornell, who himself had been poor and unable to pay for an education and who wished the results of his own energy to aid in helping others to rise.

Ezra Cornell's father was a potter who made too little money to give much to his son. He was too busy to pay much attention to the boy, for he not only made pottery but also conducted a farm. But the father was quiet and religious, being a Quaker, and he did give Ezra Cornell a conscientious spirit and a religious heart.

On the farm and in the potter's shop Ezra learned how to use his hands in almost any trade. Because of this, when he was a little older, he worked for a while as a carpenter and builder, and again in a machine shop. Still later, he was a lumberman, a farmer, and the head of a flour mill.

When the telegraph wires were first strung up it was Ezra Cornell the farmer-lumberman-mechanic who helped put up the wires between Baltimore and Washington. He was quick to suggest new devices and plans, and he was quick to see the great advantages the telegraph would bring. With others he brought about the organization of the Western Union Telegraph company, and thereby conferred great benefit on the world and at the same time made a great sum of money for himself.

In a certain sense, while he continued in business ventures, he gave the rest of his life to public service. He did a great deal to improve the methods of farm work, and, interested in good farming in the state of New York. He served in the state assembly, and in the state senate. While in the legislature he brought about the founding of Cornell university which he himself gave to with utmost liberality. In various other ways he showed himself to have an altruistic spirit and a desire to help.

The Crowing Stranger

Be persistent to attain
The things you really want to gain.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit can be persistent when he sets out to be. He is the most persistent fellow I can think of when his curiosity is aroused. Now, of course, Peter should have remained in the dear Old Briar-patch and gone to sleep. Any sensible Rabbit would have done so. But Peter wasn't sensible. Anyway, he wasn't just then. The stranger he was so curious about was over by the Old Orchard. At least, he had just crowed from there. So off Peter went, tippety-tippety-tip.

Twice the stranger crowed as Peter was scampering across the Green Meadows toward the Old Orchard. The second time Peter was almost there, and he could tell just where that voice came from. "He is in the Old Orchard, just over the Old Stone Wall," said peter to himself, and scampered faster than ever.

When he reached the Old Stone Wall he was careful to make no noise. He found a low place and peeked over the wall. There, just beyond the bushes which grew along the Old Stone Wall, right in front of where Peter was, was a feathered stranger. Peter caught his breath. He knew from what Blacky had told him that this must be the one there had been so many rumors about. He certainly was handsome! He was one of the handsomest of all the feathered folk Peter ever had seen. Peter faintly gasped when he looked at that long tail. You know, Peter always is interested in tails, because his own is such a funny little short one. "My eye! My eye! Can it be?" gasped Peter. "Whoever heard of a bird with a tail like that! My, my, my, my, what a tail!"

Just then the stranger stretched up on his toes, stretched his neck and crowed. It reminded Peter more than ever of the rooster up at Farmer Brown's henyard. After crowing, the stranger stood for a moment, listening, as if he were listening for a reply. Then he began to strut and to show off. Peter had to confess that he had considerable to show. He wore a coat of many colors. Peter didn't blame him much for strutting.

"But what is he strutting for?" muttered Peter to himself. "He doesn't know I'm here, so he isn't showing off for me. My, but he does think a lot of himself. I don't know that I ever have seen any one who appeared to think more of himself."

It was just then that Peter discovered a shy little lady in brown, who also had a long tail, but got as look at tail as the handsome stranger's. She looked to Peter very much as Mrs. Grouse might have looked with a long tail instead of the kind of tail she has. Peter understood then. She would shyly glance at the strutting stranger, and then appear not to have noticed him at all.

Peter fairly gasped when he looked at that long tail

"He is showing off for her," thought Peter. "I'm going to walk right out and find out who they are."

He didn't do anything of the kind. He heard a rustle of leaves, and, looking up, he saw Reddy Fox stealing along close to the Stone Wall. Apparently the stranger heard the rustling leaves at the same time. He stopped strutting. He gave a little cry of alarm, and, with a whirr of stout wings, the two strangers went into the air together and disappeared over the trees of the Old Orchard. As for Peter, he dived head first in between two big stones of the Old Wall, where he knew Reddy couldn't reach him.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

"SHIFTY EYES"
Due to Faulty Vision!

If one eye is stronger than the other the weaker can't work right. It strays a little out of focus. This wrong condition causes "shifty eyes" and eyestrain.

"Shifty Eyes" are commonly associated with dishonesty or meanness. Yet the most honest person may lack a straightforward gaze—if his eyes don't match.

It is dangerous continually to strain the eyes in this way. Scientists have discovered that eyestrains throw the entire nervous mechanism out of gear. Every bodily function is weakened. Nervous disorders—headaches, insomnia, depression, irritability and "nerves" result.

To neglect your eyes is to take unnecessary and dangerous chances with your most precious bodily possession. You should correct eyestrain before it injures your health. To save your eyes consult an Optometrist regularly. Save your eyes.

Address on Citizenship

The speaker of the evening was Attorney Edward G. McKay who spoke on Citizenship. In part Mr. McKay said:

As individuals you enjoy the advantage of belonging to two organizations, one divinely established and so well founded that it has already existed nineteen hundred years, and will continue to live until time is no more; the other a mere youth in comparison, but conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal and so well founded upon righteous principles that it will go down through the ages hand in hand with the first. Fortunate indeed are you to be members of Christianity and democracy.

We cannot deny that the very foundation of democracy is the recognition of those fundamental principles of morality that are taught by Christianity. Christianity gives us the rules of conduct and outlines our duties to our fellow men. Democracy could not exist without a faithful observance of these rules. Christianity teaches that all men are created equal. Democracy accepts this principle and builds the structure of its government upon it. Christianity teaches that men should respect the rights and properties of others. Democracy makes its laws and renders justice upon that principle. Christianity teaches the sanctity of the home and the duty of individuals to foster and preserve for posterity the rights incident to the home. Democracy recognizes the necessity of this standard of morality and frowns upon any invasion of those rights. Christianity teaches loyalty, obedience to law, and obedience to constituted authority. Democracy owes its continued existence to the observance of that principle. These are the fundamental principles of morality, these principles of honesty, loyalty, obedience, respect for law and the rights of others that Christianity teaches and are so necessary for democratic government.

The success and life of both Christianity and democracy depend then upon human virtue. If the individual becomes depraved and continues abased, the institution of Christianity and the institution of democracy fall into disuse, and while the ideals of both live on forever, the practical application of them will be negative. Man is the rock upon which both institutions rests. His character is the foundation upon which depends the success or failure of both.

The civic duties of a citizen may be grouped under four general heads: The duty to the individual, the duty to the community, the duty to the state and the duty to the union. We have seen the necessity of first laying the foundation of good citizenship in ourselves. In the course of our human affairs, our first contact is with the individual. We must respect his rights, we must recognize that he also has those inalienable rights which are so ably expounded in the Declaration of Independence. We must so conduct ourselves in our work and social activities that we will not infringe upon the valid rights of others.

Our duty to the community lies in the support of the activities of the community. A community is merely a collection of individuals who are grouped together to institute and enjoy honest endeavors. Your attendance here this evening is proof of your interest in community affairs. What need is there for me to talk about this phase of your duties? The community spirit among you men is strong, and my only injunction to you is to lend your assistance and support to all worthy community projects, for if you make your community a good and active institution, it cannot help but follow that your state and the Union will reap the benefits of your efforts.

Our next concern is the relation between you and the state. What is the state? The definition we find to be that it is a political body, the whole body of the people united under one government. Therefore, you are the state, for without you the state could not exist. But with such a great body of people grouped together, human experience and logic dictates that there must be certain rules established for the control of such vast numbers and certain institutions must be formed to preserve and protect the rights of individuals and groups of individuals. Hence the reason for the establishment of state government, and the sub-dividing of this government into counties, towns, cities and boroughs. Human experience has shown that it is necessary for the continued existence of a state to establish courts of law to protect itself and its citizens and to regulate the conflicting rights that arise from social contact.

Since these things are so, since government must be established and since laws must be enacted, it follows that we are bound to uphold and support that government and to obey its laws. Christianity teaches obedience to law and submission to constituted authority. Pope Leo XIII expounds this doctrine in words that cannot be mistaken when he says: "Hallowed in the minds of Christians is the very idea of public authority, in which they recognize some likeness or symbol, as it were, of the Divine Master, even when it is exercised by one unworthy." Good Christians can be nothing else but good citizens. In a democratic government such as we enjoy it is the duty of citizens to uphold its constitution, to select carefully those men who are so necessary for the management and functions of the institutions of the government. We have the right under our government to select legislators who will enact and codify our laws and we have the right to select the executives who will administer those laws. Therefore, it is the duty of citizens to carry out these rights and when authority and law are established it is their duty to respect and obey them.

And now the Union. When we realize the causes for the establishment of this nation, and when we realize the terrific struggle and hardship that our forefathers endured to found this glorious nation, and when we remember the sacrifices made by those patriots of later years to preserve the Union, and when we recall only a few years back the loyalty and patriotism and undaunted courage of those men who, supported by a great army of patriots at home, went forth into foreign lands to fight, to suffer and to die, that the principles upon which our government is founded should not perish from the earth, when we look back at those trials and heroic sacrifices, our hearts cannot help but fill with pride that we belong to a government so well founded on the fundamental principles of morality, and so well supported and preserved that it could do nothing else but survive.

We have before us in history the examples of great nations being undermined by human vices. We have seen the inroads of human selfishness and worldly pleasures upon a people, and the inevitable result of the destruction of their institutions of government. Goldsmith gives us the warning in the lines: "Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay.' Therefore I say, hold fast to those fundamental principles of honesty, loyalty obedience, patriotism and the respect for the rights of others. There is no question but what our government is the most influential and righteous government in the world. While there is no crying need for us to leave our homes, to sacrifice our lives, to fight for the right, still there is need for us to strengthen the foundation of our government by acts of good citizenship and by adhering faithfully to the fundamental principles of morality.

Only last week we were brought to our minds forcibly and sorrowfully the value of good citizenship. Only a few days ago we saw the practical application of the feelings of society and the judgment of a people upon the conduct of a fellow being in two instances, one an admitted enemy of society, who discarded the fundamental principles of society and lived a law unto himself. He came to an inevitable end upon the hangman's gibbet, and was buried without a friend to shed an honest tear. The other, a friend of society, a friend of yours, a friend of mine, a member of our community, an honored citizen of Norwich, the head of an honorable society of Christian men, a loyal supporter of democratic government, a man in whose mind the fundamental principles of morality were ever foremost, and a man who practised these principles. He was called to his Divine Maker and is now enjoying the supreme reward to which we all look forward. We were all shocked at the news of the death of Thomas F. Shea. We all saw the respect paid to his memory and we all recall the sterling qualities of his character and sorrow that he is lost to us. We feel that we have lost a friend. We feel that Norwich has lost a valued citizen. We feel that our government has lost a loyal supporter. Society honors a loyal citizen but adhors an outcast.

Social Hour Closed Meeting

Following Mr. McKay's address Mr Kane again favored with a solo. Just a Cottage Small by Deppin and the programme came to a close with a group of recitations by Mr. Higgins. Cigars were passed at intervals. The only regret of the evening was the fact that several of the vocalists who were to have appeared were detained at home by illness.

COUNTY POMONA WAS ENTERTAINED IN BOZRAH

With an attendance of about 15 New London County Pomona grange held a regular meeting Thursday morning and afternoon with Bozrah grange in the absence of Master M. H. Bartlett who is ill at his home in Pachaug, Sidney Hall of Preston City acted as master for the sessions. Announcement was made that the field meeting in August will be held at North Stonington and that the next meeting of the Pomona will be held in the new town hall at Franklin in June. Several candidates were initiated during the session. In recognition of her 15 years as secretary of the Pomona Miss Alice Bisho pof Bozrah was presented 15 beautiful roses.

At noon the Grangers were served dinner by the members of Bozrah grange and about 1 o'clock the afternoon session was called to order. Rev. Chester H. Howe, New London, gave a splendid address on the topic, Our Responsibilities in the Moral Situation of Our Day, and Mrs. Lola Crouch of Groton read an original paper on a House or Home by the Side of the Road.

Bozrah grange members entertained the gathering with a farce, Wilt Thou Mabel, and following this there was a general discussion on the subject, Good business methods are of more value to the farmer than great soil fertility. A group of children from the Leffingwell school danced the minuet in costume. They were Mildred Leffingwell, Helen Clifford, Beulah Mowrey, Russell Murray, Gilbert Caroline and Michael Kracyk. The meeting came to a close late in the afternoon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SOCIAL AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

An attendance of over 200 enjoyed the programme for the Central Baptist Sunday school social Friday evening at which Assistant Superintendent Charles S. Storms presided. The music of the evening was by the Sunday school orchestra with a piano solo by Dwight Richardson and violin solo by Earl Swan. A special feature of the programme was an hour of novelties in musical instruments by Dexter Hicks of New London, combined with humorous recitations in costume.

Ice cream and cake were served, the arrangements being carried out by the committee consisting of Mrs Charles A. Hagberg, Mrs. Harry Krumer, Miss Chrystal Whitney and Harold S. Burt.

ACADEMY "LETTER MEN" GIVE ENJOYABLE DANCE

An enjoyable dance was held Friday evening at the Wauregan hotel by the N club of the Norwich Free Academy, composed of the "letter men" at the school, 49 couples participating in the pleasures of the evening. The 1925 baseball championship banner was displayed in the decorations. An excellent programme for the dance numbers was rendered by D'Atri's Wauregan hotel orchestra.

Motorcycle Damaged

R. DeWitt Parsons of 10 Elizabeth street had his motorcycle considerably damaged Friday night about 7.30 on North Main street when a motor truck backed into it as the motorcycle was parked at Donovan's station. The truck was driven by William C. Brown of 2 Bolton street, New London.

ACADEMY STUDENT WINE COUNTY ORATORICAL CONTEST

Miss Elizabeth Zumbro of this city, the representative from the Norwich Free Academy, won the $25 prize Friday night at Slater hall in the county oratorical contest and the right to compete in the state contest at Hartford on May 8. Her oration was upon The Constitution and her score in points was four. Second place went to Max Socol of Bulkeley school, New London, who also spoke upon The Constitution, and received a marking of six. The two other contesants were Arthur Richmond of Stonington high school, who spoke upon Benjamin Franklin and Miss Mary Miner of Chapman Tech, New London, who spoke upon Lincoln and the Constitution.

Principal H. A. Tirrell presided and the judges were Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, State Attorney Arthur M. Brown and Prof. Henry Lawrence of Connecticut college.

Before and after the speaking there were enjoyable musical selections, which consisted of a piano solo by Miss Ruth Drechsler, duet for two violins and piano by George Gulle, Miss Kathryn Zumbro and Miss Drechsler, and a violin solo by Mr. Gulle with Miss Drechsler as accompanist. An audience of about 100 applauded the speakers and the musicians.

SAYS NICKELODEON PIANIST BEGAN NEW MUSICAL ERA

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP) Little did the pianist, who many years ago pounded out tunes and near-tunes to accompany "The Great Train Robbery" as it flickered across the crude screen of the nickeldeon, dream that he was opening a new era of love for music in America.

Since then the musical preference of the average movie-goer has developed from the Hearts and Flowers level to an honest and thorough appreciation of Brahms and Tschaikovsky.

So believes Nathaniel W. Finston, has figured in the growth of music in motion picture houses from its entrance and now is general music director of a chain of theaters including New York, Chicago, Boston, Kansas City, Atlanta and numerous other cities.

Here and there, perhaps, there may have been a vision of better things to come when the drummer and violinist were enlisted to aid the lonely, but hard-working piano man. Then came the cornetist. The movie show with such an "orchestra" heralded the first white rose of artistic advertisement. When the song-slide artist began warbling his song, great things were being accomplished.

Today, the movels are housed in palaces and elaborate programs of divertisement have as their basis large orchestras, with conductors, many of whom are famous. This rapid development has made the task of the musical director a difficult one.

"We often hear playing moving pictures successfully referred to as an art," Mr. Finston related. 'But it might better be termed a science wherein the human element plays the most conspicuous part.

"It is with this thought — public taste—in mind that we, whose business it is to build from week to week the musical programs for our pictures we h...

"The average moving picture audience today is not composed of Beethoven fans or jazz lovers. It would not be fair to call such an audience high brow or low brow, for the people who go to the movies are high and low, rich and poor, and when you provide music for them you must give the things they like as well as the things that strike a new musical desire.

"If you play Brahms and Tschaikovsky, follow them with something lively. If an old, familiar tune will add color and variety, play it."

"Take any audience and you'll find it an interesting and fascinating study. One must always be alert to know just how the public is going to accept your work. Time and again there is the applause that is spontaneous, and often there is the handclapping that is sincere and expressive, and yet it is only for the moment. It is from the audience that we meet from day to day that we must draw our inspiration.

"There is a science in it—the science of knowing what people like at the right time and then giving it to them. Often we have to work between extremes; many times there is a happy medium, but you can't be sure of course of all times when you attempt to entertain the human family."

CLASSICS FOR PRIMERS FAVORED BY PUBLISHER

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—"Alice," her journeys in Wonderland and through the Looking Glass, dear to all the little Johns and Marys of America, today visits the nursery hrusides of Crete, in Germany and Hiquette in France.

"Heidi" the little goat-girl of the Tyrol, whispers the story of her flight into the mountains to wide-eyed little tweters in the low countries.

Tom, the sweep plays "Water Baby" in Vienna, city of children's [illegible]

The Black Forest is penetrated by Jodine French, in search of "Schneewitchen and the Seven Dwarfs" and the Forest of Arden is common ground to little Germans of the band of Robin Hood.

Soon the clink of "Hans Brinkers" skates on the ice of the Zuyder Zee may ring in the ears of the barefoot children of southern Italy. Don Quixote may ride his ass past the incredulous youth of Stockholm.

"When these young people grow up isn't it possible that through thus having known each other and each other's childhood friends they may understand each other better than their elders, who were always quarreling?" asks Madame Helen Scheu-Riesz.

Madame Scheu-Riesz, Viennese writer, called "one of the greatest unofficial educators of our times," now is in this country, lecturing before schools, child study groups, civic forums—everywhere urging her overpowering enthusiasm: cheap editions of the classics of every language for the children of every nation.

Already her own company, the Sesame Verlag has printed over 250 world classics in German, a large number in French and English and a few in Italian.

"I suppose every one's life is turned by the special hunger of childhood," she said, in explaining her work.

"When I was a child I hungered after books. I never had enough to read. That is why all my life I have been possessed with the idea that I ought to help those who have no books."

Seeing in England the Penny-Booklets, then edited by W. D. Stead, Madame Scheu-Riesz for years fought to convince Austrian publishers to print cheap books for children. When she finally found one, during the war, he was an officer fighting—and yet she persuaded him to publish yearly alien enemy classics. "Alice in Wonderland" was used in many German schools during the entire war.

Since the war Madame Schen-Riesz has labored at the reform of school readers. She has succeeded in getting many of these supressed, and international classics substituted.

"If all the civilized nations could make a pact that they would burn their silly narrow-minded school readers," she said, "and replace them by a series of classic and modern authors, chosen out of the treasuries of the world's book-shelves, then the channels that have been used to spread "poison gas" could be used to infuse a new sort of chemical, feeding the minds of the children with love of beauty, understanding and good will."

KAISER'S YACHT NOW IN PORTS OF FLORIDA

MIAMI, Fla., April 16 (AP)—Unter der Linden is a far cry from Flagler street, but Berlin and Miami nevertheless share a peculiar distinction, one time pomp and glory of former Kaiser Wilhelm.

By a strange twist of circumstance, two yachts which in past years flew the royal insignia of the "Woodchopper of Doorn" now lie at Miami as their home port.

The German ensigns, with their black eagles and iron crosses, have long since been torn down to make way for the stars and stripes on the one and a Central American republic flag on the other.

Its future unheralded, its past unsung, the yacht Nohab was the first of the pair to glide into the waters of Bay Biscayne. In reaching Miami, the craft perhaps may be said to have achieved its part in the kaiser's ambition—a place in the sun—for the vessel has passed from the ranks of pleasure boats to establish another passenger service between this port and Nassau, Bahamas.

The Nohab flies the flag of the Republic of Panama, and incidentally bears the honor of being the first ship to flutter that bunting in this roadstead.

She formerly was the property of the Kaiserin but was used principally by the emperor himself for extensive cruises through European waterways and the Mediterranean. She then boasted the more Teutonic name of Lensahn, and subsequently was sold to the grand duke of Oldenburg, but when the royal families made a hasty exit from the fatherland, Hugo Stinnes obtained possession of the vessel, and he in turn sold it to his present American owners.

Te Nohab is one of the most luxurious craft afloat. She is 180 feet long and is equipped with 60 staterooms.

Another maritime heirloom of the Kaiser's household is the Half Moon, which rocks even yet with the nocturnal revelries of its guests. The Half Moon, nee Germania, was presented to the Prussian sovereign in the heyday of his glory as a birthday gift from Frau Bertha Krupp, the "Big Bertha" of German's extensive munitions activities.

The royal family used the craft for six years during which time the crown prince sailed the ship in numerous yacht races. During the war the boat was captured by the British and sold at auction, later to become the property of a New Yorker. Today, the vessel, built for $900,000, swings at anchor in the shadows of a famous Miami Beach hostelry, frequented as a unique cafe and night club.

The interior has been renovated, but patrons even yet may view the pretentious silver bath tubs installed for regal use, and the original lighting fixtures of cut glass, mounted in satyrs. And the visitor may also linger the teadups, over which the Napoleon of the age dreamed his dream of world-empire.

ARGENTINE ANT WAGING WAR ON DOMESTIC PEST

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 17 (AP)—A race war is raging in California and state authorities, far from trying to pacify the combatants, are adding to the slaughter by endeavoring to poison them all—namely, dark-brown Argentine ants and their redskin opponents, the Fire ants.

Fifteen years ago entomologists predicted the aggressive Argentine ant eventually would crowd out all other breeds and become sole survivor of the ant race in this state. Late bulletins from the front indicate that while the prophecy has not fully materialized the South American insect has most of his rivals on the run.

ANTI-FLIRTING COMMITTEE NAMED BY ISLAND BARBERS

HONOLULU, April 16 (AP)—Realizing that the alluring smiles and soft words of Japanese women barbers would lure too many customers away from the shops run by the opposite sex has resulted in the appointment of an anti-flirting committee by the Japanese Barbers association.

One barber from each of the 24 districts in the city was selected to act on the committee which will watch the feminine snips in an effort to put an end to amorial flirtations. The association has issued a decree forbidding flirting but no explanation has been made as to how the ban will be enforced.

When to Keep Quiet

MEXICO CITY, April 16 (AP)—Back talk to a policeman may be bad business here. Three men were shot in one day recently for excessive loquacity while in process of being arrested.

Sale of the Admiral Oriental line to the Dollar interests by the shipping board was a clear violation of the law, Representative Wood, republican, Indiana, charged yesterday in the house.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
The Little Pair of Boots

... little pair of boots, tonight,
... before the fire are drying;
... little pair of tired feet
... a trundle bed are lying;
The tracks they left upon the floor
Make me feel like sighing.

Those little boots with copper toes!
They ran the livelong day—
And often times I almost wish
That they were miles away;
So tired am I to hear so oft
Their heavy tramp of play.

Today I was disposed to scold;
But when I look tonight
At those small boots before the fire,
With copper toes so bright
I think how sad my heart would be
To put them out of sight!

For in a trunk up stairs I've laid
Two socks of white and blue;
It called to put those boots away,
Dear God! what should I do.
I mourn that there are not tonight
Four boots instead of two!

We mothers weary get and worn
Over our load of care;
But how we speak to those dear ones
Let each of us beware!
What would our fireside be tonight
If no small boots were there!

LAUNDERING SILK

Dear Social Folks: The anniversary questions, to which many look forward each year, are past for the season for the cut does not have to be here. I am sure we shall all welcome the good old summer time. I have been much interested in reading about the Shore Line club. Quite a number of years ago, I used to visit Rush chapter, No. 44, O. E. S. and had such good times that we always hear anything about Stonington. I immediately sit up and take notice. I was entertained in a home where there was the handsomest piano and children I ever saw. They must all be grown up by this time and no doubt some of them in homes of their own. The trip from my home to the shore line in those days by trolley was an especially pleasant one.

A few weeks ago a sister gave a splendid address concerning dress. It is certainly hard for one who has to depend so always choose wisely. Most of us can remember the time when a black dress was worn only on Sundays and special occasions. Now silks have come into such popular demand for general wear that we need to know how to care for them. Generally speaking silks should be dry cleaned and not laundered unless said so by sales. Many silks not intended for laundering, however, may be successfully laundered if given sufficient care. The treatment must be gentle and should be preceded by a test on a scrap of material to see whether the color is sufficiently fast, and the texture not liable to fading. When a test shows that laundering is safe proceed as follows:

Make a suds by dissolving a mild soap in hot water and then adding cold water until lukewarm. Dip the garment into the suds and wash quickly by squeezing the suds repeatedly through the material. Do not rub as this treatment may cause the colors to run and also open up the weave. Never wring for the same reason. Rinse in three or four lukewarm waters. Press out the water and place the garment between some absorbent material, such as towels; also place a towel between the folds of the garment. As soon as possible shake out the garment until almost dry and press out lightly on the wrong side with an iron only moderately hot. The pressing should be done before the garment is entirely dry as it is impossible to remove the goods without spotting. If the garment has been made of unlined materials or of a crepe it should be stretched back to its original shape before dry.

Dot: It is a long time since we have heard from you. I missed you when I attended a D. A. R. meeting.

May B.: Shall also miss seeing occasionally. Hope you will enjoy your new work.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 16—Anthony Rose, 29, residing 52 West Broad street, Pawcatuck, suffered serious injuries, about 2:30 o'clock Friday morning at the plant of the Bradford Dyeing association. There was no witness of the accident, but it is thought that in some manner Rose was caught in moving cloth, traveling at the rate of ten thousand yards an hour, which he was inspecting. Carried forty feet across the room and elevated fourteen feet in the air, his body was badly mangled when carried over shafting. He was discovered by a companion, William Potter, after he had been hurled against a wall. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, called from Westerly after the accident summoned the Westerly Sanitary corps ambulance and Rose was taken to Westerly hospital where Dr. J. Gordon Anderson and Dr. Scanlon gave surgical attention to wounds in the young man's head, requiring eighteen stitches to close. Other injuries were contusions and abrasions about the body and the tongue was nearly bitten in two. X-ray pictures were taken at 9 o'clock Friday morning to determine what additional injuries were sustained. Late Friday afternoon the young man's condition was reported as favorable as it could be considering the seriousness of his injuries.

NEW LONDON WOMAN TO SUE CITY- ALLEGES INJURIES ON A BAD WALK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 16—Mrs. Ralph Williams, 39 Cottage street, has made it known through her husband that she intends to claim damages from the city of New London by reason of the former having sustained injuries earlier in the week that will incapacitate her for a long time. Mr. Williams stated this afternoon that he intended to have notice served on the city that damages would be sought at the earliest possible time.

Mrs. Williams, who is of advanced years was on Shaw street, near Bank street and in stepping from the curb to the highway slipped and fell, landing in such a manner as to produce a fracture of the right leg, although that injury was not discovered until after she had been removed to Lawrence hospital. It the action of Mrs. Williams is brought it will make two such processes served on the city by reason of injuries sustained by pedestrians on alleged defective sidewalks. Mrs. Daniel Shea of Spring street, has announced that she will seek damages because of injuries received by falling on a defective sidewalk on Bank street.

George Potter, Jr., has been in many a tangle with the police, but his experience does not seem to teach him that his conduct is unwise. He was on Shaw street last night at the home of Joe Cracia and at a late hour Joe and his wife desired that Potter take his departure. Potter was not inclined to do, so Policeman Henry Silvia was called on to render assistance. Potter sized the situation at a glance and expressed he was equal for it. He threw one of the men by a movement of the foot and leg and the other he pushed. That did not do him any service however for he was arrested and this morning, when court convened, was charged with a breach of the peace. He pleaded guilty. Judge Cranston fined him $20. Potter raised the money, as $20 coins $20 in to the court before that he had.

Joe Landry, a bargeman, was fined for intoxication on North Bank street. He represented that he did not know anything as to what happened after the cabin manager and beguiled him, and he probably told the truth. Landry is not at all disturbed as to what he does when he gets his cargo of booze aboard, and last night he was very offensive. Joe didn't have the money to settle so he went up to jail to do some work for the county. Judge Joe is an expert drunk, he is a winner.

The funeral of Miss Ida May Chapman was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. George F. Perry of Waterford, the services being conducted by Rev. Jerome W. Boardman, pastor of the Quaker Hill Baptist church. Burial was in North Stonington.

Mrs. William Cramer and infant daughter of Fishers Island; Mrs. Irving Hansen of Nameaug avenue; Mrs. Henry Lawrence of Thatcher street, and Master Clarence McNeil of Shetucket street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, were dismissed today.

James R. May has sold to the New Haven, New Haven & Hartford railroad a house and lot on Welbach street.

Morris Lubchansky has sold a house and lot on the northerly side of Bellevue place to Joseph J. and Gertrude Gaffney.

Francis W. Davis has sold to Amando and Gladys Di Maggio a house and lot on the northerly side of Ormond street.

Kenneth Dayton, 12, of 20 Tenth street and Kenneth Seaman, a youth residing at 12 Tenth street, complained to the police last night that a white black dog was in the neighborhood and had attacked them and other children. Although none of the children had been bitten, Dog Warden Joe Shoozy was notified and made a search for the dog, but was not successful in locating it. Dog Warden Shoozy made another visit to the vicinity of Harrison street this afternoon and found the dog roaming about. The animal was taken in charge and it was found that the animal is owned by Dr. B. Oliver Wright, that it has a mania for running away and remaining away from the residence of its owner several days at a time.

Joseph Corcia, 10 Woodbridge street, complained to Patrolman Henry Silvia early this morning that he had been severely beaten by George Potter, a State street youth, and that the arrest of Potter was desired. Officer Silvia made a search for Potter but did not locate him until about 9 o'clock this morning. When the officer and his prisoner were walking through Bank street on their way to the police station, Potter suddenly made a dash and being a fast runner succeeded in getting away from the officer. A further search for Potter was made today but it was not to avail. Corcia declares that he will accept the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of Potter from Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky.

TWO CARS ARE WRECKED ON LOGGER HILL, WATERFORD

NEW LONDON, April 16.—Two automobiles were wrecked late this afternoon in Waterford, yet the occupants of neither car sustained injury other than minor cuts, caused by flying glass.

A Durant car, owned by G. W. Steele, Pennsylvania avenue, Niantic and in which Mrs. Steele and Miss Arlene James were passengers was en route from Niantic to New London. When descending the steep grade of Logger Hill a Cadillac sedan, bearing Massachusetts registration and the owner of which was not established, was climbing the grade. When about mid-way of the hill and as the two cars were about to pass, the driver of the Niantic car apparently lost control of the steering wheel, or else the steering gear became disabled, for the machine shot across the highway and against the Cadillac, just behind the engine. The side of the Cadillac was smashed as was the greater part of the grass, while the entire front end of the Durant car was wrecked. The Cadillac machine was removed to one side of the highway and the Durant car which had climbed an embankment, was later towed away by a wrecking device.

Miss Florence Dixon has returned, having spent several days as the guest of Miss Sarah Wolstenholf, of South Willington.

Mrs. Bertha Greene and daughter, are spending a week with New York relatives.

Two Montville women, Mrs. Mary Oricoppi and Mrs. Marguerite Pagnoni, were before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church in Montville last night charged with violation of the liquor law and each drew a fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $18. Both paid. The homes of the two women were raided yesterday afternoon by State Police Officers Giles Watson and George Sisson and in the search for liquor about $800 worth of whiskey and alcohol was found. Justice of the Peace Church ordered the liquor destroyed.

Mrs. Nulia Hempstead, 70, of Center Groton, was seriously injured in Groton this morning when run down by an automobile owned and operated by Olaf Hanson, Poquonoc bridge. Beatrice Hempstead, seven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hempstead of Center Groton who was with Mrs. Hempstead also sustained slight injury. Hanson was arrested by Capt. Andrew McCarthy, Groton police, charged with reckless driving. He will be given a hearing in the Groton town court Monday morning. Mrs. Hempstead sustained a slight concussion of the brain. Her husband died about three weeks ago. The Hempstead child suffered a lacerated finger. Mrs. Hempstead and the child were on Thames street, near School street, when she attempted to cross the highway. About the same time the automobile operated by Hanson appeared, being operated in a southerly direction. Both were struck and knocked down and Mrs. Hempstead was rendered unconscious. In a nearby store Mrs. Hempstead was revived and later was taken home.

William Deane, Center Groton, will be in the Groton town court next Monday charged with breach of the peace, having created a disturbance at the Groton house restaurant. Deane obtained a surety on his bond of $25 for his court appearance.

Mrs. John N. Brown, of Baltimore, has arrived at her cottage, Eastern Point for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Miner of Groton, are entertaining Mrs. William Stuart, New Haven.

Harry Forbes, Poquonoc Bridge, who has been under treatment at New Haven hospital several months for tumor of the brain, is gradually growing worse. Mr. Forbes was a locomotive engineer in the New Haven railroad freight service. He underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, and after returning home, was compelled to submit to additional treatment.

Prowling about the streets at 8:30 this evening was little Marjorie Nesbit, three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Nesbit, 7 Union street, glad only in her nightie, having wandered from her home during the absence of members of the household. She was found by pedestrians over a block from the Nesbit home. The child had been put to bed by her mother early and shortly after 8 o'clock awoke. A lodger was in the house at the time, but he did not hear the child walk out. Barefoot, the youngster wandered crying through Pearl street and then to Green street, where she was found clinging to a fence by Harry Manheimer. He recognized the tot as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nesbit. The youngster was carried home by Mr. Manheimer and delivered to the lodger, who was aroused in his room. The child was put back in bed and given proper warmth to prevent results from the cold and exposure.

The worst congestion of traffic thus far this season occurred late this afternoon when an automobile was left parked on Main street and in such a manner as to prevent a trolley car from passing. When a trolley car finally attempted to pass through the street a complete tie-up of traffic, both trolley and automobile was created and at one time machines were held up on Main street, half a block, on State street, between Main and Bank streets, and on Bank street, between State and Tilley street, while trolley cars were held up 10 minutes. David Scheckton, 95 South Quaker lane, West Hartford, was the man responsible for the traffic tie-up and is lucky that he will not face a police court trial tomorrow on a charge of violating the city's parking ordinances. Scheckton parked his car on Main street, between State and Masonic streets, while he went to the police station for the purpose of interviewing Patrolman Clarence Martin. Scheckton failed to cause the machine to be operated close to the curb. At 5:10 o'clock, when the Connecticut college special car left the parade, it could not pass the motionless automobile, with the result that all traffic was held up. The owner could not be found, and in another five minutes the Norwich-bound car and city line cars were held up on the parade because of the congestion. Finally Traffic Officer Frank Linehan succeeded in moving the car so that traffic could be resumed and it was then than Scheckton was located at the police station. He stated his mission with Patrolman Martin and he was allowed his freedom after being given a warning.

MOTOR VEHICLE BULLETIN GIVES RESUME OF LAWS

The April number of the state motor vehicle department bulletin, just issued, is devoted entirely to a resume in simple language of many salient features of the motor vehicle law with especial reference to driving rules.

Such sections of the law as deal with the right of way question, the carrying of objects on running boards, the leaving of a car with the engine running, the adjustment of tail lights, headlamps, markers and other equipment, the use of windshield stickers, parking, the less common forms of registration, and general information on operation are discussed in the issue.

This type of bulletin, it was considered, would be helpful at this season of the year, when general motor vehicle traffic is resumed, as compliance with the sections mentioned can be expected to lessen friction between motorists and enforcement authorities. "From day to day," the introduction says, "questions of procedure arise and are determined upon and it is thought that the issuance of this bulletin will partially forestall similar inquiries." The publication does not enumerate all of the "Don'ts" in the law-book but advice about some of the matters which are a little out of the ordinary.

Among other things the bulletin points out that there are thirty-six places in the state where the state police give examinations for operators' licenses.

Copies of the bulletin are to be had by application to the motor vehicle department.

Breed Theater

That is a terse description of Lights of Old Broadway, Marion Davies' initial starring Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer at the Breed theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

As is usual with Miss Davies' pictures, she gives us a lesson in the history of America which makes us proud of being Americans. This time she has chosen the colorful and romantic 70's when New York was changing from a straggling overgrown town to a modern metropolis.

The story is a much-changed screen adaptation of Laurence Eyre's "Merry Wives of Gotham, but the change has been for the better. In this picture Marion gives to the picture-goers an interpretation of a dual role whose characterizations are widely different. By if she proves her versatility as an actress and binds her film fans much closer to her than in any of her former pictures.

In this picture we have a new Marion, with all of her former blonde loveliness, playing the part of an Irish colleen with a dancing act at Tony Pastor's old theater. She shows her Irish wit and her Irish nerve and she is a credit to both American and Irish blood which must flow in her veins.

Conrad Nagel is excellent as the old-fashioned suitor, as are Frank Currier, George K. Arthur, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Julia Swayne Gordon, Wilbur Higby and Mathew Betz in important and exacting roles.

Today's bill consists of Charles Ray in Bright Lights, the opening chapter of Casey of the Coast Guard, the Pathe news and an educational comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Broadway Theater

The Home Maker, a Universal-Jewel King Baggot attraction featuring Alice Joyce and Clive Brook with a splendid supporting cast of screen favorites, opens Sunday at the Broadway theatre. And the screen adaptation of Dorothy Canfield's famous story of the same. It is a picture that is said to be of particular interest to married couples, young, and old, not overlooking those persons of both sexes who are contemplating embarking upon the sea of wedded life. The story that it tells is one that is of daily occurrence in the households of this and other countries.

No eternal triangle finds its way into The Home Maker, yet there is the tragedy of a man and a woman whose roads diverged at the altar. The characters that flash on and off the screen are familiar types.

Many "average readers" are birds of a feather with Lester Knapp and many are playing in daily life the role of Eva, his wife. These two are the characters portrayed by Brook and Miss Joyce. The Knapp home might be one's own.

Lester Knapp is only one of those thousands so well known to everyone, daily plodding over endless rows of figures, wishing he were somewhere else, but not knowing where, and not daring to leave his desk to go there, even if he knew. That famous sensation of knowing that an advance in salary is near, and that infamous sensation of not getting the expected raise,—these little lights and tragedies of daily life are the fibre or what is said to be a great American drama, listed as the best thing King Baggot has yet produced.

The players appearing with Miss Joyce and Brook are Frank Newberg, George Fawcett, Margaret Campbell, Lloyd Whitlock, Martha Mattox, Alfred Fisher, Alice Flowers, Virginia Boardman, Billy Kent Schaeffer, Maurice Murphy, Jacqueline Wells, Elaine Ellis and Mary Gordon.

There are also several short subjects on the same program.

Don't miss the great vaudeville and picture show today.

Strand Theater

As the unsuspecting hero in Introduce Me, which comes to the Strand theater on Monday, Douglas MacLean found himself suddenly hooked for a series of daring adventures. He didn't go abroad to be a hero, but when his eye fell on a beautiful creature in a Paris railway station, he changed his mind.

From here on the trip was a riot. He started in Paris and ended on the very summit of the "craziest" mountain in Switzerland. Funny what love will make a fellow do. He never knew just how he got there, but anyway he won the prize for being the best climber in the world. Better than that, he won the girl.

Strand Theater

The newest Harry Brown-Rayart comedy-drama, The Fear Fighter will be shown at the Strand theater Sunday for the first time. Billy Sullivan, whom Norwich audiences have come to know through the Leather Pusher series in which he was featured for some time by Universal, is the star of this new fast-action five-reeler.

Written by Grover Jones, the story of The Fear Fighter is a good one, solidly constructed and proceeding with logical sequence. It is directed with a firm, sure touch by Albert Rogell, the young director who has turned out many good pictures under the Brown-Rayart banner. And young Sullivan has never, according to our humble judgment, appeared to better advantage. He has gained appreciably in acting ability and is the same clever boxer, delivering a sure and well-timed punch, Ruth Dwyer, who repently appeared with Muster Keaton in Seven Chances, plays opposite Billy Sullivan and uses her lovely brown eyes with telling effect.

Many short subjects will also be on view.

Overland Touring Popular Juvenile Vehicle

A marked and new demand for Overland touring cars has recently developed among students at high schools, preparatory schools and at colleges according to investigators who have been studying this demand for Willys-Overland, Inc.

It is rapidly becoming the second car in families where the parent group have found the insistent demand for the family car on the part of the younger generation has made two cars or walking necessary on their part.

Where bicycle parking racks once served, parking spaces adjacent to the schools are now crowded with student cars.

Among the young generation, the open car is still the great popular favorite with the freedom it affords as compared with the enclosed type. A study of any school area in any city of size at the time school is opening or closing will reveal an astonishing number of the student body arriving or departing in their automobile.

From the viewpoint of the parent who buys the car, the investment in the Overland is sufficiently low to warrant his consideration of this car. From the viewpoint of the student who earns his own car, the same convenient figure is a compelling attraction and from the viewpoints of those who use cars, the big car performance ability and control features of the Overland are deciding factors.

The use of an automobile by the school going modern generation is a natural follow-up of the growing tendency to build homes in the suburban sections. It has been accentuated first by the delays of street car accommodations, then the inconvenience of bus transportation.

In the long run it is an economical investment in health, satisfaction and convenience for the whole family.

Y. M. C. A. Anniversary Service Sunday Night

At the Central Baptist church with the churches uniting, the anniversary of the local Young Men's Christian association will be held tomorrow (Sunday) night at 7:30 o'clock, and the program promises to be one of unusual attractiveness. The speaker of the occasion, John M. Clinton of New York city, and a world traveler in the interests of young men is one of the three leading speakers and workers for men in the great national of the Y. M. C. A. He has just returned from a world trip, and his message will be of very vital interest to all. Mr. Clinton had much to do in the framing of the new constitution of China, and he has been and is now in close touch with the heads of the nation. To hear him is an unusual opportunity.

As a special musical attraction, the ... management has secured the famous Colonial Male quartet of Hartford, than which there is no finer in all New England. The quartet will render a program of five selections as follows:

1. Te Deum B Minor ..... Buck
2. A group of songs
3. Remember Now the Days of thy Creator ..... Pretting
4. Rock of Ages ..... Buck
5. An Evening Song ..... Prothero
6. At the Altar of Truth ..... Mohr

To this anniversary service the public generally is invited and indications are that a very large audience will be present.

If men had the gift of second sight there would be fewer cases of love at first sight.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(By The A. P.)—Heavy selling of General Motors on the announcement that the company had closed down its Canadian plant on account of tariff changes unsettled today's stock market just before the close after an earlier period of moderate strength. Final quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, a long list of net gains ranging from fractions to five points being offset by a smaller number of net declines. Trading was extremely quiet, the day's sales slightly exceeding 1,000,000 shares.

Outside the stock market, chief finan ' interest centred in the strength of the bond market reflecting easier monetary conditions; the renewed weakness of French exchange which sagged to another new low level; the advance in Canadian exchange above the "gold export" point, and heavy realizing in May wheat, which dropped over two cents a bushel to $1.05 3-4.

The weekly mercantile reviews stressed the unseasonable weather and its effect on business. "Backward season over a wide area" says Dun's Review, "has been mainly accountable for a slow development of spring trade. Some goods which normally should be moving freely, now are not going actively into consumption, because of inclement weather, and farm work in different sections also has been retarded. Opening of lake navigation at northern ports, moreover, has been delayed and business generally has not gained the hopeful momentum thus far in the second quarter."

Bradstreet's states that "while some areas, notably parts of the Pacific coast, the southwest and the central west, note some improvement in weather, the great majority of advices are that the weather is too cool or the soil too wet for the best interests of distributive trade of farm work."

General Motors, which had been run up to 119 3-4 in the early afternoon, fell back to 115 7-8 in the late selling movement, closing just above that figure for a net loss of 1 3-8. Mack Trucks dropped from 109 7-8 to 107 1-2. Net declines of a point or more also were recorded by U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Dodge, Jordan, Pierce Arrow preferred, Stewart Warner, and Hudson, the last named dropping from 66 7-8 to 62 and then rallying feebly. U. S. Steel common touched 119 3-4 and then dropped back to 118 1-2, the opening price. American Water Works, Cuba Company, National Biscuit, South Porto Rican Sugar, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Colorado Fuel, Crucible Steel, International Paper, Postum and Universal Pipe preferred all showed conspicuous strength.

Buying of the merger rails, which was rather active in the early trading as a result of the interstate commerce commission's approval of the recent erection of three "frisco directors to the Rock Island board but it was checked later by the publication of a statement of Chairman Lovett of the Union Pacific that existing laws were an obstacle to mergers on a large scale. Rock Island closed unchanged at 44, after having touched 45 1-4, and Frisco common closed 1-8 higher at 85 1-4 after having sold at 86 3-4. Other active rails showed little change on the day.

The principal commodity markets lost ground. Distant wheat options sagged a cent or more a bushel. Cotton declined 17 to 27 points on predictions of generally fair and warmer weather in the south, the new crop positions touching new low prices for the season. Sugar prices held steady. Coffee closed unchanged to 14 points lower in featureless trading.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.85 3-4 but French francs sagged over 3 points to 3.55 cents. Other continental rates moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, a jump of nine points to 14.29 cents in Spanish pesetas being one of the few features. The Canadian dollar was again quoted at a premium of 1-32 of one per cent.

TAFTVILLE

The members of Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A., met in conclave Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville congregational church, with Herbert Airey presiding as king.

David Lambert of South A street has resigned his position with the spinning department of Ponemah Mills.

A very pleasant and successful meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville congregational church was held Thursday evening in the rooms of the church. The supper was served by caterer C. J. Naggle of the Pokonoket House, consisting of shore dinner, followed by a ham and chicken supper. Following the supper, singing of college songs, old-fashioned songs, and old-time pieces, coffee and ice cream.

The speakers were J. A. Atwood, secretary of the Norwich Board and General W. A. Aiken of Norwich. Mr. Atwood and General Aiken were introduced in turn by Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, president of the club. Mr. Atwood spoke of the development of business in Connecticut during the last [illegible]

GEN. WILLIAM A. AIKEN

[illegible] lines of manufacturing—some of which have become the largest of their kind in the world, of great interest was its relevance to the cotton industry, and has ensured connection with the Ponemah mills at Taftville and its power and development from its beginning up to the present time.

General Aiken made a happy reference to the cotton industry. When he was a boy his father was for some years the agent of the Lawrence cotton mill at Lowell, Mass., and he spoke of the great change in the industry and especially in the manufacturing of cotton from the hooped dams to the more modern methods.

Thursday being the 15th of the month and the 61st anniversary of the death of Lincoln, it was very natural that the general should speak of this great president and American whom he knew personally. As a young man he was sent by Governor Buckingham to deliver some private papers to General Scott of the army and to General Cameron, secretary of war, also to President Lincoln. Although he saw the president several times afterward his first meeting with this great man left a very decided impression upon his mind.

His tall spare figure, his sad face and the responsibility which was seen in all his bearing has remained with General Aiken through the years. The fact that at the time, the future was so uncertain as to the outcome of the war, and the hostile feeling in many of the territory through which he passed has also left with him a very clear memory of that experience. Going through Maryland there was not much sign of loyalty to the union. On getting to Washington however, there was some encouragement by seeing again the American flag, the Stars and Stripes and messages that troops were on their way for the defence of Washington and for the great cause which centered in the mind and heart of Lincoln.

He also spoke of how little value his paper money was and how through the kindly office of the great president he was able to exchange his paper money for gold by which he was able to return through doubtful territory and back to Connecticut. The address of General Aiken was listened to with deep attention and it is surely quite remarkable when it is remembered that he will be 93 years of age on Sunday the 18th.

At the close of the general's talk, the men rose and expressed their appreciation and thanks with very generous aplause.

The committee in charge of the program and the supper consisted of Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, E. Tracy Clark, J. D. Sharples, George H. Young, Terrance Buckley, Gustav Helder, Joseph Hazleton, Edwin Heap.

The program was concluded by singing old time songs and melodies. A male quartette consisting of Messrs. Sharples, Grimshaw, Jackson and Brierley sang Old Black Joe and The Soldiers Farewell.

chairman, presided. Rev. J. Harlow Cramton pronounced grace. The chairman made brief and enthusiastic remarks, and announced that Herbert B. Cary had kindly consented to become the active campaign manager, which announcement was greeted with hearty applause.

Judge Brown called on President James C. Macpherson who spoke in a very encouraging way of the affairs of the association, and sincerely thanked the workers for their loyalty. General Secretary Hill being called upon told briefly of the high points of the work during the year and reminded the men that what the campaigners did was the thing that carried the work through the year and they would never really know the extent of their faithful labors. A vote of thanks was given to the women who not only served the supper but contributed it as well. Charles C. Treat contributed the ice cream. W. S. Williams was delegated to express thanks to the ladies which he did in real fashion.

The chairman turned the meeting over to Herbert B. Cary the campaign manager, who in turn called on each captain for remarks and led in three cheers for each. Mr. Cary with a great deal of earnestness and enthusiasm urged the workers to stay on the job from now until Monday night and to make every minute count. He urged all of the men to be on hand at the breakfast meeting Monday morning at 8:15 sharp. FIND MAN WHO MADE ATTACK ON WOMAN

The man who made the attack on a Hallville young woman last Tuesday morning has been identified as Edward Hurst, 20, who escaped last July from the reformatory at Concord, Mass. He was arrested Thursday at his home in North Adams, Mass., and was taken back to Concord on Friday, according to word that has been received here by Chief George Linton and Constable Michael Noiah of Preston.

A picture of Hurst, which was sent to Chief Linton, has been shown to the young woman. Miss Stella Mackey, who unhesitatingly declared he was the man who had attacked her.

It has been learned that Hurst was staying at the home of his aunt in Hallville but left there before the family was up last Monday morning, the time of the attack. He got a ride to this city on a milk wagon and applied for a job on the work at Norfolk Town where the water department is laying pipe. Failing to get work there he made his way out of town and evidently went to his home in North Adams.

A warrant for him will be sent to the Concord reformatory.

ELECTED TO MEMBERSHIP ON MENTAL HYGIENE BOARD

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Connecticut society for Mental Hygiene, held in Bridgeport Friday, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox of Norwich state hospital and Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, chairman, of the Norwich neuropsychiatric clinic committee, were elected members of the board for three years.

After the official reports were read, Dr. Lawson Lowrey, director of the child guidance demonstration clinic for the prevention of delinquency at Cleveland, O., talked about the clinic and its work in the community. He said in part that one of the most important ways in which this clinic differs from other work with children is in its points of approach: From time immemorial various groups have been formed for the purpose of training the child. Among the earliest methods were that of domination by way of authority, of education from the angle of the individual, of religion chiefly from the point of view of the future, of law with the idea of punishment, of medicine from the physical standpoint. All these approach from one angle only. Now psychology steps in like a two-edged sword. The clinic is the first attempt known in history of synthetic technique in the service of the child. First in an attempt at a complete understanding of the child, and second in treating him. The clinic is unique in that all workers combine to make the child himself the object and center of interest.

Every community shows a tendency to believe that the clinic brings some new panacea and that unsatisfactory behavior may be remedied by some clinic miracle. One of the different things a clinic has to do is to make it clear this is a task which requires great time and patience, and that the day of miracles is over: People often ask such questions as "How shall I make Johnny put on his rubbers before he goes out in the rain"? and expect some magic formula that will work without any study of the parents. Examination shows that Johnny lives with his grandmother and has another grandmother who interferes. Moreover, he has a father and a stepmother who interfere and there are other complications in his training and discipline. The child must be studied in all his environment as well as in himself. In the study of the child his emotional and instinctive drives constitute the psychiatric work. In treatment the clinic must mobilize the home and the school. Dr. Lowrey wonders if teachers who exercise authority have ever realized that this is one of the surest ways to stir up rebellion. Authority is necessary but it must be exercised for the good of the child not for the satisfaction of the teacher or parent. The child can not distinguish but he will rebel if the teacher does not do so.

There is much false mental hygiene abroad calling itself by various names. This also must be distinguished with care.

It is most important that the clinic develop with and through all other agencies, the parents, schools, courts, recreation groups, especially recreation in increasing amounts, and all social case-working agencies. All these are tools for dealing with the child in a cooperation which steadily increases. This always leads to trouble and criticism, and means that the case sometimes falls down, but in the end it brings the most profitable results.

The music was full of variety and charm and its spirited rendering gave keen delight to the large number present.

POETRY

Young April

Young April plays strange pranks with little streets:
The glancing raindrops skip like children there,
The flags along the walks are pimples girls
Who love blue flowers and pin them in their hair.

The dress beside the pavements want to dance,
And would—if they were not so primly set;
The foolish small lawns dress up in their best
And never seem to care how wet they get.

And suddenly, bright—among new startled leaves
A little kindled fire burns and glows.
Rain does not quench it, and its feathered flame
Is not fanned out by any wind that blows.

Small houses blink their windowed eyes —and try
To keep them open long enough to see
What queer things happen to an April sky.

—Grace Noll Crowell, in Southwest Review.

The Eagle's Fall

The eagle, did you see him fall?
A flight beyond mid-air
Brewhile his mighty pinions bore him.
His eyry left, the sun before him;
And not a bird could dare
To match with that tremendous motion,
Through fire and flood, 'twixt sky and ocean.
But did you see the eagle fall?

And so ye saw the eagle fall!
Struck in his flight of pride
He hung in air one lightning moment,
As wondering what the deadly blow meant,
And what his blood's ebb tide.
Whirling off sailed a loosened feather:
Ther headlong, pride and flight together.
'Twas thus ye saw the eagle fall!

Thus did ye see the eagle fall!
But on the sedgy plain,
Where closed the monarch's eye in dying,
Marked ye the screaming and the flying
Wherewith the feathered train,
Sparrow and jackdaw, hawk and vulture,
Gathered exulting to insult your Great eagle in his fall?

—Charles Goodrich Whiting

KALEIDOSCOPE

If a person feels a cut this act in itself is accepted in English law of assuming the responsibility of ownership. That was how the law was interpreted to John Henry Draper, of Wigan, England, recently, when he was sued for the value of two pigeons alleged to have been worried by the cat. Draper denied ownership of the cat, but admitted that he had given it milk.

Servant girls, generally supposed to be numerous and cheaply obtainable in Japan are not. The municipal employment bureau of Tokio has announced that the supply in the capital is less than a tenth of the demand. Officials blame the shortage primarily on employers, and say that the domestic of today has learned she has certain rights and prerogatives. Instead of housework she has come to prefer laboring in the fields on a daylight schedule.

What is that has wings and barks like a dog? It is a duck owned by John Bassett, a farmer at Martha's Vineyard. One day Bassett thought he heard a dog pursuing his sheep. He rushed out with his gun, but the sheep were grazing peacefully. As he looked around the yard a young drake flapped his wings and barked. No explanation has been found for the ducks' singular ability, and it has become an island curiosity.—Boston Globe.

The shanty stood between two larger buildings but these did not catch fire. Bowen's father, Edward Bowen, resides in Granby.

The speaker of the evening, P. W. Chase gave a talk on Life Saving. He was assisted in his demonstrations by L. M. Thornton. Following the talk the committee served in the dining room where delicious oyster stew, with doughnuts coffee cheese and pickles were served by Mrs. G. H. Thornton assisted by Mrs. J. M. Thornton. After the return to the living room, radios were discussed. Mr. Chase gave a brief description of what the broadcasting studios at Storrs and Norwich looked like. By request he sang one of his radio numbers, "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and was accompanied by Everett Thornton. The meeting closed by the singing of the class song [illegible] benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. H. Clement.

Sunday, being fine, many in this section took walks in the woods and fields. Several parties visited the old familiar hillside in Read's woods across from Shipman's grove where on arbutus used to grow. Returning several had a few blossoms to show but couldn't help recall the times of 40 years ago, when the whole hillside was pink with the dainty fragrant arbutus blossoms.

One week from this (Monday) morning the borough's manufacturing plants, schools, banks and business houses will automatically begin activities on advanced time. In many cases clocks are not actually changed, but hours of opening, are set ahead.

As far as local enthusiasm goes, nothing in the line of summer sports ever touches baseball. Jewett City, beginning with the famous Hugh Duffy, he having played his first games here, has turned out a considerable number of the finest players in the state, with Joe Faber, a local boy, going strong this year as a top liner. The Acco Smile, published for the operatives of the Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, by the Ashland club gives the following information in the issue of April 16, from the editor, Prentice W. Chase, he being an enthusiastic sports promoter.

At the meeting of the baseball players of the town held at the Ashland club Thursday night, April 8th, twelve respective players attended the meeting.

P. W. Chase, acting for the Ashland club outlined to the boys the action of the club directors meeting held earlier in the week. At the conclusion of his message the boys were all action and officially organized. Bill Liberte was the unanimous choice of the meeting for manager of the team.

FOUR TROUT IN AN HOUR RECORD OF NORMAN ROSS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 18—Norman Ross, who for several years has held high rank as a trout fisherman, has recently taken in a little more than an hour's fishing four splendid trout, each weighing about a pound, though one was about a pound and a quarter. This is the best catch yet reported in this district.

FORESTRY WEEK

By presidential proclamation this is forestry week, during which it is expected that there will be set forth and studied the need of giving greater attention to the problem of meeting our timber requirements.

In a recent bulletin from the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station it was set forth that of the 350,000,000 board feet of lumber used in this state each year there are but 65,000,000 produced within the borders and that it means a freight bill of $3,000,000 each year for the transportation of the imported lumber. This freight bill is growing from year to year because our production is decreasing and the demands are increasing. It is estimated that there are 1,000,000 acres in the state which are or should be forest land, and the experiment station bulletin wisely points out that "if this area, which is not suitable for agriculture or ordinary community development, were producing crops of valuable timber, as it is capable of doing, instead of worthless brush, as much of it now is we would have no forestry problem and no $3,000,000 freight bill on imported lumber, for under the very simplest form of forestry management this 1,500,000 acres is capable of producing annually 300 board feet per acre, or a total of 450,000,000 board feet of lumber—enough to meet our present and probable future needs."

That is one of the things Connecticut should be doing some serious thinking about during this and other weeks. There should be much more real efforts made to correct present conditions and end the vast amount of waste through lack of action.

What is true of Connecticut is not true of all states but of many of them and there is need of a definite forestry problem, if lumber production is possible at all. We cannot expect to draw upon the present supply without making plans for the future by yearly replacements. There is nothing but good that can be said of the purposes of Forestry week and it is wished that it might be possible as the result of it to show that it has figured in improved conditions.

SWIMMERS BEFORE OARSMEN

A high school boy was participating as a member of the school crew when there was an upset and this particular member of the crew was drowned. He could not swim and the father of the lad is making a complaint because no claim the boy should not have been permitted to become a member of the crew since it is required that parents must give their consent and he had withheld his on the other hand the claim is put forth by the school authorities that they have the parents' consent, or at least what has always been regarded as such.

The idea of getting parental consent to participate as a member of the school crew must be regarded as an excellent one and it remains for the following up of the questioning to determine whether it was the determination of the lad to join the crew even though his father disapproved that accounts for the consent the authorities had, or whether through some mix-up or slip some serious mistake was made it will not be possible to restore the boy, but it is a case which will unquestionably have an important bearing upon all others in the future.

Just how many times a shell capsizes in the course of a season's training is not known, but it is an easy matter to upset one of the racing boats and it should be one of the first requirements upon crews for the crew to be able to swim. That may be no boosting insurance against loss of life for there are conditions involved which the knowledge of swimming does not overcome, and yet it is a protection that ought to be insisted upon.

Too many are the instances where they go bathing far beyond their depth, where they go out in canoes and canoes without knowing anything about swimming, and because of such a handicap a great number of lives is lost every year.

Just where the blame lies, if there was any, for the loss of the high school boy remains to be seen, but it emphasizes as nothing else the necessity of making swimmers of the aspirants for crew honors before they are made oarsmen.

UPHOLDING A GOOD NAME

Word comes from Chicago that the Chicago Association of Commerce is organizing 40,000 salesmen, who go out from that city, to offset the erroneous reports about the Windy city being crime ridden and broadcasting the stories of what the city is really achieving. This is being undertaken for the purpose of upholding the good name of the city.

Of a person it is maintained by some that if it is impossible to say anything good say nothing at all. These Chicago salesmen may be working on such a policy, although it would seem to be indicated that they intended to get those who do any thinking about Chicago to devote such time and effort to matters of good rather than conditions concerning crime.

Without a doubt that would be a fine thing if, in the doing, it would mean an elimination of crime. But just because those who are planning to uphold the good name of a city undertake to direct attention in other directions does not necessarily mean that the crime conditions which have been referred to, do not exist. The effort of the salesmen to drag a red herring across the trail may be highly laudable, but it doesn't correct the crime conditions. Rather does it appear to be an effort to turn their backs and try to shut the ears and eyes of others on the crime conditions without first correcting them.

If Chicago is being unjustly saddled with crime reports, that situation would seem to call for a remedy. If it is suffering from too much crime, and a too great tendency to lawlessness, it ought to be corrected and not ignored. Talking about something else doesn't overcome the distressing facts. It will not stop the murders, the gunman, the gangsters or the robbers.

Chicago can be expected to resent claims that are not so and to answer them in a way to disprove the wrong statements, but a good name is not being upheld or maintained when it points to certain things being done and apparently ignores the existence of others, or fails to correct them. It would seem that Chicago might have an excellent chance to work in both directions.

ENCOURAGING CRIME

We hear much said about the crime committed by the young and deplore the fact that it has such an attraction for them, and yet the question rises as to whether their elders are not responsible for it in a large degree.

There are those who do not like to use the rod of correction and there are parents who leave to others the responsibility of teaching the difference between right and wrong to their children. Likewise there are those who are ready to do most anything to keep young people from proper punishment, and a glaring case of that kind has come to light in New York where two boys were charged with robbing a confectionery store.

Immediately upon their arrest, for they were popular, there was a rush to get them free. Ten neighbors appeared before the judge and testified that the boys were at a wedding, dancing and dancing when the robbery took place. They were trying to establish an alibi instead of trying to lend their influences for the best interest of the boys.

If the testimony of the boys is correct, and it jibes with that of the authorities for they were being arrested when it was claimed they were at a wedding and pleaded guilty to the robbery, the neighbors were swearing to falsehoods and they now find themselves facing perjury charges which the judge insisted upon having brought against them.

But what can the boys think of their neighbors and their respect for law when they know that they were ready to resort to falsehoods for the purpose of preventing them from getting the punishment which they had earned. It was a case where the strongest kind of encouragement was being given to the consequence of crime, instead of an effort to prevent it for a plea for another chance for the lads because of unblemished records. The crime of the elders was much worse than that of the boys and the judge was quite justified in not permitting it to go unnoticed.

NOW OR LATER

Before the Rhode Island legislature efforts are again being made this year to have the charter for the Southern New England railroad, from Palmer to Providence continued in the belief that even though the Central Vermont has thrown up its hands others will carry through the proposition.

An extension has been granted in Massachusetts and it doesn't appear that there is any real good reason that can be advanced for not granting an extension in Rhode Island although there can be little doubt delay in the line will be connected.

Whenever an extension has been sought, and several have been granted, it has been pointed out that the state has nothing to lose and now it is being asserted that there are several railroads which might complete the line if given an opportunity.

There seems to be no better reason for believing that anything will come of the project now than there has been in the past. In some ways there is less, for the company that has put millions into it is discouraged and is quitting. However as long as the entertaining of false hopes costs nothing there is no pressing reason for refusing continuance. It is quite certain that any final company is looking for the record complete. It is always a question whether Rhode Island wants to end the opportunity now rather than later.

WOMEN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Green muskmelons can be cut into slices, dipped into batter and fried like eggplant.

If the grade of sugar you buy is very fine grained use only scant cupfuls in your recipes.

If you buy your breakfast bacon sliced, use the kitchen shears, rather than a knife, for cutting off the rind.

Prepare celery as you would potatoes au gratin, with plenty of white sauce, cheese and well buttered crumbs.

A small serving of red cabbage salad should accompany soft boiled crabs, as well as the inevitable tartar scauce.

For either the fruit course at breakfast or as a dessert, serve halves of grapefruit heaped with ripe cherries.

In making an uncooked frosting mix the sugar with thin cream rather than water, or it will be flat and tasteless.

Squabs are quite delectable when well seasoned and cooked en casserole with a little sliced onion, celery and carrots.

Equal parts of cubed cooked chicken and cubed cucumbers mixed together and seasoned with French dressing are nice served in cucumber cups.

Spread a paper before cleaning fowls or fish and then all unpleasant cleaning up is avoided. The paper can be gathered up and burned.

To keep yolk of egg fresh, if only the white is needed, cover the yolk gently with a little cold water and as not to break it. It will keep fresh for several days.

SAVE USING DUST PAN

The device that saves time and energy is a hole nine inches deep and 12 inches long cut in the kitchen floor about four inches from one wall. The back is hinged and at the front is a simple little wooden latch operated by the foot. Attached to this opening underneath by means of two screws and screw-eyes is an ordinary old stove pan furnace now cut square at the top to fit the opening. Two wires about four feet long and each to a large barrel in the basement floor some distance from the farm. In this opening the dirt from the floor, crumbs, cuttings and dust, scoot from the kitchen floor, and once in a week or two the barrel is pulled to the furnace and the contents burned.

TEMPORARY REPAIRS

Should a leakage of gas be noticed at a time when it is impossible to have it repaired at once, the place where it is escaping will cause a dark yellow spot. A candle lighted quickly and the spot for you as the gas will light with a blue flame where it is escaping. Of course this may have to do until shop hours.

DRESSING THE WINDOW

Since the color shade at best is ugly and a dark one rather it should be avoided with whenever possible. Casement curtains and lace curtains may take its place.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

For the too plump hand take a good cold cream and massage the fingers working them as though you were knitting on a very fine one. Run quite hard, downward, at least ten times on each finger—and do it every night.

If your baby is not well don't listen to the instructions and advice of each neighbor and friend. You will be hopelessly confused. Call your doctor and obey his instructions to the letter disregarding the many other directions given you that are neither new nor necessarily the right ones.

To straighten a bent fancy work for the first time, dampen the canvas on the wrong side with a sponge dipped in cold water. Then stretch it in a frame or pin it to a board and let it dry.

TO WATER PLANTS

Never water the leaves of your ferns or any other plant, only the earth around the plant in a deep dish and let the water soak up through the bottom of the pot.

DICTATES OF FASHION

New wraps for evening are of taffeta brocaded.

A smart set for sports wear consists of a coat of soft packed in a plaid design of red and yellow and a silk scarf of the same design.

Taffeta also has found its way into the realm of the summer dress and is used for several of the most attractive models shown this season.

There is no reason to believe that skirts will grow longer as spring advances since most of the recent spring offerings in coats, suits and dresses have very short skirts.

The well-dressed woman still prefers the plain suede gloves (washable, of course) in either a loose pull-on style or with tiny elastic.

Shoes in suede, in fancy leathers like alligator and lizard, and in patent leather, still favor comparatively simple designs, and the oxford and one-strap pump are most favored.

The pouch bag is still the smart bag—in bright colors to give a gay note or contrast, or harmonizing softly with the street costume.

With suits gay scarfs will be worn, knotted at the throat cravat-fashion, or tied in a loose bow at one side.

The latest dance frocks are fringed. On many three and even four rows of fringe appear. The frocks themselves are of crepe satin or of moire which is considered one of the smartest materials for spring.

The polka dot is to be a decided feature of the spring silks. In addition crepe frocks are embellished with little embroidered dots in combinations of black and blue or white, and white or black and royal blue.

COMBINATIONS IN PLAID FABRICS

Suits with plaid skirts and with plain Tuxedo jackets collared in plaid are both new and smart. Usually the skirt is pleated in front and at the sides if not all the way about. The jacket is the typical smoking jacket variety with long lapels of plaid. A few plain double breasted coats are also shown with plaid skirts of harmonizing color.

Jumper frocks for spring street wear come in all sorts of plaid combinations with blue being the dominant color and red, green, gold or henna forming the plaid design. Plaid scarfs are offered for those who wish to use plaid sparingly. Ginsy sashes of plaid on plain dresses are prominent. Gloves with plaid cuffs are dressed into service. Crisp taffetas with tiny checks will be popular as spring advances.

COTTON TERRY CLOTH

Cotton terry cloth is a pile fabric woven with two sets of warps and one filling, one warp forming rows of loops on the face, back or both. The warp which forms the loops is kept very slack and the loops are let in at will by the weaver. The lighter qualities, printed on one or both sides, are used for curtains and the heavier qualities for towels, etc.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Turn the children's colored dresses inside out before hanging them on the line. This will prevent fading.

When hanging a large wash in a small space, as on a porch in bad weather, hang the clothes between two lines instead of along the lines. It is surprising how many more you can get up and how rapidly they dry.

In laundering the sheer white collars and cuffs worn so much nowadays use borax instead of starch (a tablespoon to a quart of water) as it leaves them much more transparent after they have been done up.

After pressing the sleeve of a coat, the difficulty in obtaining a smooth shoulder can be overcome by the use of an ordinary small-size bowl. Hold the bowl in the left hand, cover it with a small piece of Turkish toweling, and then press the overhead bowl in the shoulder of the coat. Then using a dampened cloth, go over the shoulder with the iron.

SIMPLE WAY TO CLEAN TAPESTRIES AT HOME

The tapestries which play such an important part in our modern scheme of interior decorating, like everything else in a house, need an occasional cleaning.

They may either be sent to a dry cleaner's or cleaned with soap and water. The latter method is really very simple—the only equipment needed consists of warm soft water, a soft brush, and a mild soap.

After first thoroughly shaking the tapestry in the air to remove the dust, spread it out on a flat surface. Prepare a suds of warm water and soap flakes. Dip the brush in the suds and scrub the soiled surface gently. Rinse thoroughly by brushing with clear wash water. Do not use any more water than is necessary, as it is better not to soak the tapestry.

Remove as much moisture as possible with a soft cloth. Hang in an airy place to finish drying.

With a mild soap and soft water the colors will be restored to their original tone without any fading or running into the background.

A WHITENER

To bleach clothes that have turned yellow from long use, or from wearing in the dust there is nothing better than putting them to soak about five days in buttermilk. You can buy it from your farmer for five cents a quart, or 20 cents a gallon, and two days will give you quite a little space by putting it in a stone jar or wooden bucket for this purpose. At the end of that time rinse thoroughly and boil in a light suds.

HINT ABOUT DYEING

It is customary to rip garments all apart before dyeing them, as otherwise the dye does not get into the seams sufficiently, but leaves a dull line of the original color. All this labor is unnecessary, however, if the garment is only faded and the original color, or if in doubt, make it just a shade darker, and the faded places will vanish and the whole garment look like new again.

CONCERNING WOMEN

A woman is in charge of the mycological department of the famous Kew Gardens in London; she deals with the study of fungi.

Miss Betty Balfour, who has been voted Britain's most popular film actress began her stage career when only 10 years of age.

On her marriage every Druse bride presents her husband with a dagger as a symbol of the death penalty she will pay if she is unfaithful.

Women's umbrellas and handbags left in tramcars or otherwise lost by their owners while traveling on the London roads, Scotland Yard is the rate of over 250 a day.

Girls who worked in artificial silk factories are declared to be immune from influenza. In the process of manufacture copper ammoniate is used and ammonia is good for colds.

A bill proposing national support for women employed in industries while their children are in infancy, has been introduced in the Swedish Riksdag.

CARE OF ENAMEL

If you will place your new enamel saucepans in a pan of warm water and let the water come to a boil, then cool, the pans will last longer without bagging or cracking.

FRYING EGGS

To keep eggs from popping while they are frying add a teaspoon of flour to the grease in which they are cooking. This will improve the flavor.

RECIPES

Banana Cream Pie: To 3 tablespoons of flour and 3 tablespoons of sugar add gradually 2 cups of scalded milk. Cook about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add a pinch of salt and the yolks of 2 eggs well beaten. Cook until thick, then remove from the fire and add vanilla.

One may use a layer of this custard, then a layer of sliced bananas and so on until the crust is filled, or the bananas may be diced and mixed with the custard. Put the filling in a pie crust which has been baked previously. Cover the pie with whipped cream or meringue. This makes a good thick pie ow average size.

Stuffed Onions: If the large Spanish onions are used for baking, one of the simplest ways is to wash them, place on a pan without peeling, then bake in a moderate oven until tender, then strip off the outer skin and serve at once with melted butter, or the onions may be peeled, the centers removed, the cavity filled with seasoned chopped meat, then placed in a pan an inch of good beef stock added and baked until tender. The last remnants of the roast beef can be utilized in this way.

From Small Beginnings

Thomas Nelson Page, the Virginia Boy, A Great Novelist

One of the most beautiful figures in literature is the figure of the faithful old slave in the days just after the Civil war—the slave who remained true in his love for master and mistress, who was ready to give his all in support of his love. That literary figure is prominent in the stories written by Thomas Nelson Page, a Virginia writer who lifted himself from misfortune into fame and affluence. "Marse Chan" and "Mah Lady" are two of the most delightful and yet most pathetic of stories of southern life. No one who did not know the south well and love it deeply could have written such stories.

As was the case with so many of the good Virginia families, the fortunes of the Pages was swept away by the Civil war. Money, however, has little to do with the making of manhood. Thomas Nelson Page was born on the old Page plantation in Hanover county, Virginia, and there he gained the beginnings of an education at the same time that he took his part in work for the general support. With a good foundation of information, as well as with the pride of a good family behind him, the young man entered Washington and Lee university, studied hard, graduated and then went to the University of Virginia for the study of law. By the time he was 21 he was admitted to the bar. In the 18 years in which he actively practiced law he did excellent work, but he had not yet found himself.

From his [illegible] he had heard the stories of the south of self-sacrifice, devotion and love. He himself greatly admired the quaint characters he saw around him and he admired most of all the traditions of which he had learned to be very proud. And this he tried to put into stories and he did so successfully that he awoke an interest in Virginia such as northern readers had not felt before.

In Ole Virginia, The Old South, The Old Gentleman of the Black Stock, Red Rock, The Old Dominion and many other stories about the Virginia of the past are a graphic way.

Carolyn said that the writer revealed his own soul in his stories, for it lies before him in the place where he is. Thomas Nelson Page, in making the south his subject made himself a great writer because he could write sincerely and with a depth of affection. A [illegible] were pleased when the quiet and dignified writer was made United States Ambassador to Italy.

Stories That Recall Others

100 Per Cent. Misery.

A young American yields grudgingly to education. A group of boys riding to school on a street car, showed their scorn of various objects by the inscriptions they had pasted on edges of their books. Various declarations such as "team lead," "Hank," and the like amused the passengers who kept an eye on the group, but the concentrated misery on the subject was shown on a card that declared, "I was the rated 100 per cent. misery."

Never Before.

A specific motorist had been hailed before a justice of the peace. The motored evidently thought it was a trumped up charge when there was the reward for the department of justice and his counsel before the justice bore this out:

"Were you ever in a court of justice before?" the court asked him, to impress him with the gravity of the situation.

"No, never," was the retort, "but I've been before a justice of the peace before."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Ringneck The Pheasant

The arrogant so oft offend,
They very seldom have a friend.
—Old Mother Nature.

The two strangers who had come to the Green Meadows were Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck the Pheasants. It was Ringneck whom Peter had heard crowing and whom he had seen strutting to be admired by Mrs Ringneck. The latter was a very sober little person. She was somewhat shy and modest. But nothing modest about him. He was fully aware that he was handsomely dressed, and he did his best to make everyone else aware of it.

From the very beginning no one liked him. That was because he looked down on every one. Whenever he thought any one was looking at him he would strut and show off. People of that kind seldom are liked. But though his neighbors didn't like him, they were forced to admit that he was handsome. He was so handsome that they just had to look at him, and, of course, this was just what Ringneck enjoyed.

Of course, all his neighbors were very anxious to know where Ringneck came from. But they didn't find out anything from him. He didn't seem at all anxious to tell where he and Mrs. Ringneck came from. It was Mrs. Tommy Tit the Chickadee who told how the Ringnecks had arrived. Tommy had happened to be in the Old Orchard when early one morning Farmer Brown's Boy brought a box and there and opened it. Out walked Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck. That was as much as Tommy knew, and that was as much as any one ever found out.

Now, as a matter of fact Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck had no business in America. America never had been home of the Pheasant family. [illegible] Both the English Sparrow and Starlings like Starling the Pheasants had been brought from across the great ocean by men. They were made to live in order that Man might shoot them in the [illegible] sport.

Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck [illegible] from the start as if they owned the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and the Old Orchard. This was especially true of Ringneck. There wasn't a trifle feather on him. He didn't care what other people thought about him so long as they admired him. He seemed to think that he had a right to be vain, and he was the only one in the whole world like Busy the Little Wren. Busy is vain in a large scale and you know Busy never has been popular.

It soon was clear that the Ringnecks didn't care for the Green Forest. They preferred to live on the edge of the Green Meadows or in the Old Pasture. Sometimes they went in to the Green Forest, but for a great distance. This was rather a relief to Mrs. Grouse for she didn't like these newcomers at all.

Bob White didn't like them any better than Mrs. Grouse. You see, he found that Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck acted on much the same kind of food that he did and he saw trouble ahead. The Pheasants were bigger and stronger, very much bigger and stronger, so they could drive others away. "My dear," said he to Mrs. Bob White, "I hope the Ringnecks do not have a big family."

"My dear," said he to Mrs. Bob White "I hope the Ringnecks do not have a big family."

Mrs. Bob White looked up from the nest in which she was sitting. "I hope so, too," said she. "I should like to have a large family, but I am afraid we Bob Whites won't have a hard time of it. Certainly I haven't seen anything about Ringnecks to lead me to believe that he would share his food with any one else. He is one of the most selfish people I ever have seen. He looks out for No. 1, you can be sure of that. I don't see why he was brought here. I don't see why these men folk cannot be satisfied to leave things as Old Mother Nature decreed them. They are forever upsetting things.

Meanwhile, Ringneck and Mrs. Ringneck were perfectly satisfied with their new surroundings, and Mrs. Ringneck presently was seen only once in a while. Every one guessed what that meant. She had a nest somewhere, for it.

CHILD TRAINING

YOUTH VERSUS OLD AGE

W. E. Farver

Young people, in these days often look with disdain upon the manners and ideas of the older folks. To find a thing as "old-fashioned" is to them sufficient reason for discarding it and to have to follow an out-of-date custom is to them a cause for serious regret.

Surely is anyone justified in being ashamed of his parents. Although their dispositions may not be agreeable and they may do unwise or unjust things, yet they are our parents, and we should respect them. It is only narrow minds and selfish hearts that have no veneration for the honored and beloved of others. So let us remember that some day we shall be aged, if we live long enough, and very likely shall be found clinging to our habits of today quite stubbornly, and we shall be deeply hurt if sneers or laughter greet our remarks and movements.

Nevertheless, perhaps there is some reason for the attitude of youth toward age. It may be that older persons hold too fondly to the long ago, especially to its faults, and are continually reminding the young of the "way we used to do."

Mary was a wise young girl who saw that she would be moving in a circle of acquaintances in which her mother would be regarded as a "back number," because of her antiquated fashion of dress. This girl did not scoff at old styles, nor ridicule her mother's appearance, as some girls do, for she dearly loved her mother, and besides she knew that would defeat her purpose. Her crusade to break down her mother's prejudice against "modern foolishness" was carried on with the most tactful persuasion—such as mothers may well take to heart if they would hold the confidence of their children today. She began by giving her mother little presents of dainty neckwear, a stylish hand-bag, "nifty" toilet articles and so forth. She often remarked upon the modish appearance of her chum's mother, and in numerous ways effected a gradual change in her mother's opinion. One day Mary found an old magazine with a story exactly suiting the situation. She read it to her and completed the revolution in position regarding present-day fads. It was about a good and [illegible] mother who allowed her daughter outgrow her resulting in a tragic loss of confidence.

A year later, rummaging through a closet where there was some cast-off clothing the mother found a dress she had once worn. She tried it on to see if she had grown slimmer. It fitted easily and she went and stood before the mirror. "Why, Mary!" she gasped and pushing her hand upon her face, "did I ever look like that?"

SADINSKY'S HOME RUN AND TOMBARI'S HITTING FEATURES ACADEMY GAME

Opportune hitting by Hymie Sadinsky, Tombari and Jarvis in the fifth inning won the game for the Norwich Free Academy team from West Warwich, 11 to 5, at the Academy campus Saturday afternoon. The game went only seven innings which was plenty, because of the chilly March wind that swept the diamond, numbing the players to the very marrow of their bones. Several balls that should have been fielded went for hits because of the fielders' poor sight of the ball in the clouds of dust that was blown across the diamond by the gale. The wind also played havoc with the outfielders, driving fly balls out of reach of the fielders and these hits went for extra bases. A large crowd of fans braved the cold weather but were glad when it was announced that the game had been curtailed.

The Academy showed a world of batting power but were a trifle lax when on bases. The fielding was good considering the handicap of the blown dust and high wind. The wind also hampered the pitching of both Greene and Lindstrom who were forced to pitch against it. Greene struck out two men but did not have as many strikeouts to Lindstrom who fanned ten.

Hymie Sadinsky carried off the batting honors when in the fifth inning he tripled after Tombari who had also got to third bases, tying the score. Sadinsky came up again in the sixth inning and drove the ball into the woods in deep left field for the first home run of the season. Sadinsky is a natural hitter and stands well at the plate, cutting at the ball with a vicious swing. If he does not become overconfident, Sadinsky should prove to be one of the leading batters of the Academy squad this year.

The batting honors were also shared by Hymie Tombari who got four hits in five times at bat including a triple and two singles. Tombari also scored three times. Cimikoski who got three hits out of four chances.

The Academy started off strong in the first inning when Cimikoski singled and stole second scoring when Jarvis went to second on the throw to the plate and was advanced to third on Yerrington's sacrifice. Tombari brought in Jarvis with a neat double to left. This ended the scoring for the innings.

West Warwick scored once in the second inning when with one down, Hutchins singled to center and went to third on Hudson's single. Hutchins scored on Broderick's single. Hudson was caught at second and Amaral ended the inning.

The Academy passed up a chance to score in the second inning when Mish was thrown out at the plate by Hutchins with one out. Mish had reached first base on a wild pitch. Greene fanned and then Cimikoski hit a high fly over the plate the wind carrying the ball fair. Mish, instead of going home, held third and watched the West Warwick catcher drop the fly. Hamil fanned, leaving Mish stranded on the bag.

In the first of the third with two down, West Warwick started a rally. Nolan drew a pass and stole second. Lindstrom singled and was followed by Hutchins with a triple to centerfield, the wind carrying the ball over Jarvis' head. Nolan and Lindstrom scored. Hutchins was an easy out at the plate.

In the fourth inning on error by Greene and a single by Lawton Hamil scored two runs to score, putting West Warwick in the lead by a 5 to 2 score. LONDON, April 18.—(AP)—Two Lancashire soccer clubs will contest the final tie of the association challenge cup. The Blue Ribbon of English soccer, at the Wembley stadium, April 24. They are Manchester City and Bolton Wanderers, two of the oldest clubs in the country.

WARRIORS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO JEWETT CITY

The Warriors went to Jewett City Sunday and were defeated by the All-Stars of that place in a tight contest by the score of 2 to 1. The game was hard fought throughout and was exceptionally close for an early season encounter.

Couture, on the mound for the losers pitched airtight ball after the first inning and deserved a better fate. He fanned 11 men and allowed but two hits while Stanley sent the same number back via the strikeout route but was nicked for five bingles.

The All-Stars scored their runs in the first inning on three walks, a hit and an error. The first three men Tapor, Durda and Lloyd Jarvis walked and Kaduda came through with a clean single over second scoring Tapor and on the next play Durda scored on a wild throw. From then on however, Couture proceeded to hurl great ball, but one man reaching third during the remainder of the game.

The Warriors score came in the sixth when Gibbs singled, went to second when Golish missed Jackson's liner into right, was forced to third, when Healy walked and scored on a wild throw over third by Stanley.

Tombari was the hitting star of the line getting a double and two singles out of four trips to the plate.

STENROOS SAYS BOSTON MARATHON IS TOO SHORT

BOSTON, April 18—(AP)—Albin Stenroos of Finland, Olympic marathon champion, who is one of 112 entrants in the Boston Patriots' day marathon race has a comment to make of the formidable course from Hopkinton to the Boston Athletic association clubhouse. It is too short, Stenroos affirms.

Most distance runners who have competed in the 26 events sine the race was inaugurated in 1897 have found the hilly course long enough for their fancy, but Stenroos ending his training today for tomorrow's 59th renewal of the classic run, took the other view.

For many years the race was run over a 25 mile stretch from Ashland to Boston, but since 1924 the official distance of 26 miles 385 ... has been covered.

"It is a mistake, but I don't think it is too long," Stenroos said after he had journeyed over the route "I would like to know just how the course is measured. In Finland we measure everything with a steel tape. Has the Boston course been measured with a tape? I believe it is short."

Clarence DeMar of Melrose 38 year old pointer who has won the race four times, has been made the favorite in tomorrow's marathon, but Stenroos expressed confidence of repeating his 1924 victory over DeMar in the Olympics.

AGGIE TRACK TEAM GETTING INTO SHAPE FOR THE COMING SEASON

STORRS, Conn., April 18—Connecticut Aggie trackmen are hard at work in preparation for the dual meet with Wesleyan scheduled for April 24, next Saturday, when the 1926 team from Storrs will receive its first taste of real competition.

Although Coach Stephen Daly from Hartford has close to 40 men on the squad, he is framing no stiff task to develop men to take the places of Jake" Jacoby and "Vet" Johnson, great stars for the last four years at the State college and between them the holders of five Connecticut Aggie track records.

There are but two C. A. C. record holders in the squad today, and these are Captain Louis Quigley '26, of Bridgeport, who clocks the 220 at 23 3-5; and Antonio Longo '26, of Danielson, who puts the shot 39 ft. 8 in.

Despite the loss of several sure point-getters by graduation last June, Coach Daly is optimistic as he views the approaching season. In addition to Captain Quigley he has other good men for the dashes in Ellery Atwood '27 of Thomaston, and Cecil Smith '26 of Middletown. For the middle distances, Ronald Rutherford 27 of Wethersfield, and James Gallant 27 of Worcester, Mass., have turned in consistently good work.

Liam Y. Mulligan '27, of Revere, Mass., is the outstanding distance runner, and Aggie followers are looking for him to come through this year to take the place of Jacoby. Although his best distance is a marathon, Mulligan has turned in fast time for both the mile and two-mile, and he will probably be used considerably in these events. Cliff Meil '28, of orwich, also looks goods in the mile runs, and in addition to these, Coach Daly is using him for pole vaulting.

One town in eastern Connecticut, Danielson, furnishes the Aggie mentor with his three shot-putters. They are Longo, already mentioned; Pliam Hitgood '26, and Arthur V. Williams '28. Bitgood is also a broad-jumper, and incidentally, a letter man in football and basketball.

There are no veterans available for the high jump, though Alan Farwell of Danbury and Claude Gillette of Colchester, a couple of sophomores, give promise. Gillette will also be used in the discuss and javelin throws.

Peter Hohn '26 of New York city is a veteran in the hammer and discus throws. Chester Adams '28, of New Haven is a sophomore who looks good throwing the hammer. Arthur Bergren '28, of East Hartford is another sophomore who will probably be used in the javeline throw.

Finding men to take Johnson's place in the hurdles is one of the problems that is bothering Coach Daly at the present time. Johnson held the college record in both the low and high events, and his graduation left the college without a consistent point winner in these events.

Outstanding among candidates in the hurdles are William Rowe '28, of Hartford; Sidney Fine '28, of New York city; Salvatore Listro '27, of Hartford; and Leland Evans '26, of Hartford. The latter will also be used in the high and broad jumps.

Cold weather and the soggy condition of the track kept the squad indoors an unusually long time this season, [illegible] ... opponent in the ... Coach Daly is ... ... and ... ... make the trip to ... Wesleyan Friday and be met at Storrs, which gives an interesting Connecticut Little Three within the borders of the state.

CAR OF GEORGE CURTIS MORGAN IS STOLEN FROM NEW LONDON STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 18.—Attorney George Curtis Morgan, who appeared in the limelight several days ago when prosecuted in the police court on a charge of maintaining a nuisance, four dogs on his premises, corner of Broad and Channing streets that continually barked during the night season, complained to the police this afternoon that his automobile, a Paige sport model, had been stolen. The authorities of Norwich, Hartford, New Haven and Westerly, as well as the state police at Groton and Centerbrook were requested to be on the lookout for the car, which bears registration 1042, Connecticut issue. Attorney Morgan parked his car on Meridian street about 6 o'clock Saturday night and he did not have occasion to use the car again during the night, so left it there until shortly after 12 o'clock today when he decided to go for a ride. When he visited the place where he had parked the automobile he found the car missing, much to his surprise for he had frequently parked the automobile on that street. Then Attorney Morgan reported his loss to the police.

SIC BOARD WALK CROWD AT OCEAN BEACH SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 18.—One of the largest crowds of the spring season visited Ocean beach this afternoon, the board walk resembling a little Atlantic City. There were hundreds of promenaders there. Most of the visitors came by automobile, but the trolley cars carried big loads of people, men and women, many of them coming to New London over the week ends.

MRS. WM. MOSELEY, 87, DEAD— WAS NATIVE OF LEDYARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 18. — Mrs. Sarah M. Moseley, 87, widow of William Moseley, died Saturday morning at Central Memorial home, of which institution Mrs. Moseley had been an inmate many years, being the oldest resident at the institution. She had been in ill health a long time, victim of infirmities attending her advanced years. Mrs. Moseley is survived by two nieces. She was born in Ledyard, but had resided in New London the greater part of her life. Mrs. Moseley was a member of St. James' Episcopal church.

Thomas Maharg lost his bearings on the way to Fishers Island and brought up in the police court, Saturday. Of course Thomas was drunk or he would not made the Island when he got as far to it as New London. He said he met a friend who supplied the more than on-half of one per cent. That accounted for his presence in court. But he was not an aggravated offender at that and he was allowed to keep on his course toward the Island.

Henry L. Willows pleaded guilty of a violation of the ordinance that forbids the parking of automobiles on the west side of Bank street for more than 30 minutes. He had allowed his car to remain in front of the Capitol theatre about two hours. Henry is the manager at the theatre and claimed to have discovered a leaky valve in the motor which he attended to the first. He says and volunteered to put one over on the police that evening didn't he? Before moved his car from the front it to another that he might buy with the car parked an indefinite time, but in slightly changed locations. So he was fined $5. He didn't have to pay the costs so his penalty was less.

Mrs. Arthur Henry, of Norwich; Arlene Beckwith of 5 L st Lyme; Manuel Magaz of West st; Mrs. Joseph Gaskill, Whitehall; Mrs. George Brand, 129 Lincoln ave; son, 131 Hempstead ave; Marion and Fred Holmes, 8 Howard court; Helen, Louise and Philip Jagielski, 39 Sherman street; Mrs. Elof Hedglund, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

John R. Dardis, of Waterford, start- ed out in his Ford automobile Saturday afternoon and visited places where liquor was dispensed, with the result that he finally became intoxicated. That in that condition he did not use judgment, to the extent that he crashed into a big touring car, the contrary, he succeeded in operating the car in safety. There he encountered trouble for the manner in which he drove the car attracted attention. Local policeman Fred A. Beckwith was among those who witnessed the irregular course taken by Dardis and intercepted the driver. Officer Beckwith at once observed the condition of the driver and refused to allow Dardis to continue to operate the car and it was then discovered that Dardis had no operator's license. The machine was taken in charge by Policeman Beckwith, but Dardis did not suffer arrest, for he stated that he would meet John Grabowski, whom Officer Beckwith instructed to drive the car, in New London at a specified time and that person would be the driver who possessed a license with him and who could take charge of the automobile. Grabowski arrived in New London at the appointed time, but Dardis failed to keep the engagement. Saturday night he was in the police station, under restraint over night. This morning bail Dardis could not be located. Saturday night the car was in Niantic.

George Sheehan, familiarly known as "Cowboy Sheehan", and residing on West High street, was taken into custody today, early this morning, by Patrolman Edward Riordan and Patrick Sheehan, charged with intoxication. He was later released when his father, William Sheehan, became surety on his son's bond of $50 for the accused's court appearance. Sheehan at one time appeared as a preliminary fighter at local boxing clubs.

Frank Strickland, of Waterford, was arrested late last night at that place, charged with breach of the peace. He probably will not be compelled to face a court trial, for this morning, after Strickland had been a prisoner at the police station here about 12 hours, he was ordered released by Judge Frederick Dimmock, of Waterford town court and State Police Sergeant Clifford Gorgas. Strickland engaged in a row at Waterford and complaint was made to the state police, with the result that Officer Arthur Whitmarsh took Strickland into custody.

Patrolman David Nagle and Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh are having their vacations of two weeks, starting Saturday. Patrolman Henry Hick has concluded his two weeks' vacation, resuming patrol duty this evening.

The New York, New Haven & Hart- ford railroad is to have repairs made to a section of the roofing of the union station. Staging has been erected on the south side of the structure. The repairs will be centered around the edge of the roof where many of the small sections of the cornices have become loosened. The repairs will occupy several weeks and will be the first that it has been necessary to make to the roof of the building in many years.

Residents of Harris street complain- ed to the police this evening because of youths starting a rubbish fire in a lot on that street. So menacing did the flames become because of a strong wind that it was feared that sparks might cause nearby buildings to become ignited and for that reason the police were appealed to. Patrolman Edward Riordan was sent over and made the boys extinguish the blaze and warned them against starting additional fires.

Andrew J. Sculley, a sailor attached to the submarine, O-3, stationed at the base, was taken into custody this afternoon by Patrolman Clyde Murphy and Chief Petty Officer Alcholtz, naval patrol. Sculley was found under the influence of liquor on State street. Sculley was the only sailor arrested in the past 48 hours.

An automobile, owned and operated by Fred L. Williams, 23 Blackhall street, and a machine owned and operated by Mose O. Stern, 50 Oakland terrace, Hartford, were in collision late this afternoon on Jefferson avenue, corner of Grand street. Both cars sustained damage. Neither Williams nor Stern suffered injury.

Intentions have been filed at the office of the city clerk by Harry Manheimer, grocer, doing business at the corner of Green and Pearl streets, to dispose of the business to Harry Goldstein, of New York.

A section of the slate roof of the building occupied by the New London Cigar & Tobacco company, Bank street, was loosened by the high wind late this afternoon and crashed to the sidewalk. Sergeant Samuel Hick was notified of the incident and he had the fact reported at the station house. Monday the matter will be turned over to the city authorities for attention.

John C. McDonough, who probably holds the title of being the most frequently arrested man in New London, will again appear before Deputy Judge Lewis Crandall in the police court Monday morning. McDonough was arrested late Saturday afternoon by Patrolmen William Corcoran and Clarence Martin charged with intoxication. He was on Golman street and unable to navigate when complaint was made to the police, resulting in McDonough being arrested. McDonough, who originally comes from Mystic, has been a resident in New London almost continuously for five years and during that time he has been arrested no less than 32 times. McDonough's principal violation of the law is intoxication, but he has also been arrested for theft, breach of the peace, burglary, larceny and jail breaking. The last offense was committed in Rhode Island and McDonough was taken into this city and returned to the institution to serve out his sentence and an additional one for his attempted leap to freedom.

Members of Nameaug Engine com- pany had a splendidly prepared feast, Saturday evening, the repast being served at the company quarters, Meridle street, to about 100 members. The event was another instance on the part of officers of the company to promote sociability and good fellowship among the members.

A chimney fire occurred this after- noon in the building, 350 Bank street. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Chief Charles Rose and the Niagara Engine company responded. A small quantity of chemicals was thrown upon the burning soot and caused it to be quickly extinguished and without causing damage.

A New London man was taken into custody this evening by Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey, charged with intoxication and smashing a window in the grocery store of Mrs. Tillie Siff, 23 North Bank street. The fellow denied bail, as he was too drunk to be allowed liberty. He will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

Another automobile was stolen in this city this evening, the second stolen within 24 hours. The car taken is the property of George Brady, mason, residing at 119 Golden street and because of Brady not being in possession of the car registration the police will be unable to assist him in recovering the automobile until Monday, when the registration will be obtainable at the local branch of the state motor vehicle department. Brady parked the car, a Ford coupe, 1921 model in front of his residence, and then attended one of the motion picture theatres. When he returned to where he had parked his machine at 9 o'clock, it had been stolen.

Several places about the city have been reported to Fire Marshal Thomas Shipman because of being fire menaces and action by that official will result within a day or two. One of the worst menaces exists on Green street, between buildings owned by Abraham Bronstein, New York, and Sollie Tobias, Hartford. A large quantity of inflammable material has been left between the two buildings which are of wood, and where a space of less than ten feet in width exists between the buildings. The stuff is huge cartons, wooden and paper boxes and a variety of refuse.

TRIAL OF BOOTLEGGER TO BE HELD AT DANBURY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 18.—The trial of Frank Rapp, this city, who was taken into custody at Danbury Friday night, charged with violation of the liquor law in transporting, will take place at Danbury Wednesday. The accused is now at liberty, as he furnished a surety on his bond of $2,000 for appearance in court this week. The car Rapp was driving was a Cadillac sedan and 106 gallons of alcohol was stored beneath the seats and body of the car. The state police from Ridgefield barracks seized as they did the automobile. The alcohol was obtained in New York and was being brought to New London, where it was intended for sale.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The real inside story of backstage Broadway—its glamor and bright lights, its humor and heartaches, its pathos and romance—is revealed in "The Song and Dance Man," Herbert Brenon's sympathetic picturization of George M. Cohan's famous stage success.

No man knows more about the toils and tribulations, the gold and the glit of life behind the footlights than George M. Cohan, one of the shining personalities of stagedom for more than thirty-five years. And no man was better fitted to transfer Mr. Cohan's sentimental story of a typical trouper to the screen in all its color, picturesqueness and poignant appeal than Herbert Brenon, who was himself a vaudevillian in his early days.

The combination of Cohan and Brenon has been further reinforced by a brilliant cast of film and stage favorites, headed by Tom Moore, in the role of the happy-go-lucky song and dance man; Bessie Love, as the charming little dancer who Charlestons her way to musical comedy fame and Harrison Ford, playing the wealthy artist.

The picture has been staged with a lavish hand. Mr. Brenon went to great lengths in reproducing the atmosphere and environment of the theatre. Settings are authentic down to the slightest detail, and several of New York's best known theatres provide the realistic backgrounds around which most of the action centers.

Of especial interest are the backstage scenes filmed in the Apollo theatre and using the entire chorus of George White's "Scandals." The fan number, one of the particular features of this gorgeous theatrical revue, adds to the beauty of the photoplay.

Fontaine Song Recital

The announcement of a song recital to be given by Henry La Fontaine has aroused much interest in local musical circles. Mr. La Fontaine has not sung in public for the past two years, in which time he has been studying, preparing for concert work under the direction of Charles J. Post of this city. New York and Boston critics and musical people of note with whom Mr. La Fontaine has been associated speak in sincere and appreciative terms of his musical talent. Artists of the first rank have endorsed his ability.

Mrs. Evadna Lapham, who gave a piano recital at Pinehurst last season for the piano fund of the Norwich Music association, will assist Mr. La Fontaine as soloist and accompanist. Mrs. Lapham has been associated with Madame Louise Homer for several years and is a recognized artist. The Rotary club of this city, under whose auspices Mr. La Fontaine is singing, is to be warmly commended for its interest in furthering the young artist.

Broadway Theater

This popular playhouse comes back this week to vaudeville for the entire week.

The B. F. Keith-Albee program scheduled to open today looks exceptionally fine and consists of five big time acts.

The Home Maker, a Universal-Jewel King Baggot production, opened Sunday at the Broadway theater. It is a wonderfully well done screen adaptation of Dorothy Canfield's famous story of the same name and features Alice Joyce and Clive Brook in the two leading roles. The group of players supporting Miss Joyce and Brook is excellent and the entire cast is most evenly balanced one that we have seen for some time. King Baggot, an old screen favorite, appears again, though he will not be seen by the audience. He is the invisible member of the company, being the man who directed the making of the picture.

In The Home Maker we see people that we all know. In addition to the Knapps and their family we come across that pestiferous old neighbor who is continually coming into the kitchen just before meal time to borrow sugar or an egg or something else. She just lingers long enough to tell what she wants and to give advice on the raising of children. The members of the Ladies' Guild do their part toward making Mrs. Knapp discontented and the wealthy relative with motor car and happiness at home wanders in and out of the picture.

No one can afford to miss The Home Maker. It can teach us all a lesson, whether we be married or single, and at the same time provide excellent entertainment.

It remains until Wednesday.

ANNO

Strand Theater

Introduce Me, Douglas MacLean's new screen comedy which will have its initial performance at the Strand theater starting today cannot be compared with any other MacLean picture.

It is so much superior to anything this bright and youthful star has ever given to the screen that other MacLean successes cannot even be mentioned in the same review.

If you have never laughed at a movie before in your life you will laugh at Introduce Me. The picture has a delicious vein of humor, laughs which come with gasping suddenness, a beauty of background and a finish in its technique which will make this photoplay historic in the development of the American screen farce.

Opposite MacLean in the leading feminine role is Anne Cornwall whose petite beauty and rare charm make her his most attractive leading lady. George J. Crone has proved himself a master of the fine points of direction while Raymond Canon and Wade Boteler have given MacLean his best vehicle. The photography by Jack Mackenzie and Paul Perry have made this production a scenic gem and every member of the cast gave a performance in keeping with the personal triumph of the star.

A number of short features make up a perfect photoplay offering for today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

One of the finest pictures ever screened is The Lights of Old Broadway starring Marion Davies in a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer now playing at the Breed theater.

Laid in the quaint settings of the New York of the early seventies, the story charms with its fragile, moving romance of a little lady of the theater and her wealthy and forbidden suitor. Under the sensitive direction of Monta Bell it becomes truly a reproduction of life.

The film is an adaptation by Carey Wilson of Laurence Eyre's stage success The Merry Wives of Gotham.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an educational comedy.

REMODELED GEM THEATRE READY FOR REOPENING

Tuesday evening the remodeled Gem theatre, at Willimantic, which was closed for alterations February 22nd, shortly after coming under the control of J. J. and B. E. Hoffman, of the Hoffman Enterprises, Inc., will reopen to its old and new patrons. A pleasing surprise awaits those who visit the theatre. They will find it one of the best equipped and most inviting playhouses in this section. Old patrons in particular will wonder at the many improvements and the changes. They will find the stage widened by some seven feet, bringing its total measurement to over twenty-seven feet, with the proscenium arch twenty-five feet high, after the silken draperies are hung. The side balconies leading from main gallery have been torn down, giving the theatre proper a much larger and more airy appearance. The metal ceiling has been replaced by plaster, beautifully decorated. As part of a modern ventilating system which has been installed, the circular ventilating frame is sunken flush with the ceiling. An additional ventilating system is provided beneath the balcony. The ladies directoire is found to the left of the entrance to the foyer. The arrangement of the lobby has been entirely changed. The ticket booth is now flush with the sidewalk line and entrance to the building is made through sets of double doors at either side of the booth. The purpose of giving more room actually and in appearance and of giving the theatre a most inviting aspect, has been achieved to a remarkable degree. Vincent Margolotti of New York, nationally known, has personally supervised the decorative work at the theatre. The predominating colors are old rose and gold, with gray tones. The walls have been finished in raised panels decorated to produce a silk effect. Intersperising the panels the plaster is marked to give the appearance of a setting of gray stone and granite. A gold frieze with floral design, outlines the panels on the lower wall. The foyer has been similarly treated, while the lobby is done in stone-gray.

A beautiful and most effective lighting arrangement has been installed, the centerpiece being an immense chandelier suspended from the center of the main ceiling. Among the series of balcony and ceiling lights are rows of old English triple candelabra.

The stage, in addition to widening has been newly equipped. A new picture screen of the super-light pattern known as the crystal screen has been provided. This insures 100 per cent. improved picture projection and is much softer to the eyes. The proscenium arch is finished in autumn tints and golden leaves.

New opera seats, leather upholstered, have been arranged in the parquet, in such a manner as to provide unobstructed view of the screen.

What patrons will probably consider the outstanding new feature is the organ, one of the finest in the state for theatre purposes and the first one of its kind in Windham county, which has been set up. The only part of the organ visible will be the console which is movable. William S. Jeffs, organist at the Palace theatre, Norwich, in the past and organist of the United Congregational church in that city, will be organist at the Gem. John R. Pickett of whom General Manager Needles of the Hoffman Enterprises declares "He aims in the highest degree to satisfy both employers and patrons," will remain as manager of the theatre.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—A slow decline in stock prices, a slight stiffening in bond quotations reflecting the easing of monetary rates, a sharp break in wheat futures, a break in silver prices and a drop in silver to the lowest point in two years, were the high points of this week's financial and commodity markets.

The stock market appeared to be awaiting more definite indications of the trend of business which has been revealed this spring by unseasonable weather. Stock ordinarily favorable was another severe drop in bond loans, a substantial increase in bank clearings, a 20 per cent jump in the consumption and unusually large first quarter earnings reported by several large railroad and industrial corporations were counteracted to a further decline in wholesale commodity prices, the slowing down of operations, the slowing up in certain lines of distribution and the large scale reversion of speculative interest from steel and textile.

Every wheat was lowered by the crop and size of the country's winter crop is reading to the lowest levels for several months, stimulated by reports of large sales of wheat stocks of the Farm Board. Heavy selling of the grain by some of the purposes of the Japanese exchange, was reported to be restored to a sound basis, accounted in part for the decline in silver.

Stocks were drawn down to yesterday's market. Declines of a point or more were registered in the general list, with specialties and equipments suffering the most severe losses. Trading was on a moderate scale for the most part.

The Work for Boys

In addition to the classes for boys of grammar and high school age in the physical department, many other activities have been carried on with a good degree of success. WOULD HAVE VOLSTEAD ACT ENFORCED AT WHATEVER COST OF MEN AND MONEY

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Appearing For the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Declared the Wet Section of the East Should Be Compelled to Observe the Law as Protection to the Remainder of the Country—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, National President of the W. C. T. U., Advocated the Tightening Up of the Enforcement Act.

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—The Volstead act can be enforced relatively as well as other laws, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of liquor prosecutions declared today before the senate prohibition committee.

Before Mrs. Willebrandt was called to the stand at the beginning of the third week of the hearing, the drys sounded a trumpet call to the federal government to convince opponents of the prohibition laws that these statutes can and will be made effective.

Appearing for the Methodist Episcopal church, south, Bishop James Cannon, Jr. declared that the law could be enforced in the wet sections of the east at whatever cost of men and money to protect the remainder of the country.

Tightening up of the enforcement machine also was urged by Mrs. Ella A. Boole of New York, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union; Fred B. Smith, chairman of the Citizens committee of Inquiry on law observance and enforcement, and Colonel Walter F. Jenkins, a New York national secretary of the Salvation Army, who appeared as the personal representative of Commander Evangeline Booth.

More "teeth" in the law also were asked by Mrs. Willebrandt, who suggested especially that the act be amended so that federal judges can make the punishment fit the crime in the case of major offenders, the kind, Mrs. Willebrandt said, the federal courts should deal with.

While the committee thus was deluged with requests for tightening up the laws, another administration measure was drawn up today by the treasury to make more effective the present coast defense against contraband liquor.

At the same time discussion of further agreements with Great Britain for curbing smuggling from that country were renewed with a trip by state and treasury department officials to London in prospect in connection with the international phase of the situation.

With the exception of Bishop Cannon, all of the witnesses today, and especially Mrs. Willebrandt, were questioned at length by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, the wet prosecutor. This finally led to formal written protests from those presenting the case for the drys with the result that Chairman Harreld announced that the drys would be given additional time.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Senator Reed engaged in a good deal of fencing, with the senator disagreeing with her contention that the Volstead act could be enforced as well as other laws.

"It will take a longer period of time to get the law operating fully than has been the case with other laws," she said.

"How many men would you need to enforce it?" the senator asked.

"That is difficult to answer. I don't think it would take any vast army."

Mrs Willebrandt said she based her conclusion as to law enforcement on conditions in those states which are doing their part in enforcement, citing particularly Kansas and Idaho.

Senator Reed disputed the assertion that the law is being well enforced in Kansas. Citing police statistics of arrests in Atchison and Kansas City, Kansas, he also called attention to the seizure of thousands of stills in southern states which were set before the eighteenth amendment was ratified.

With respect to the "wet sector" of the east, on which Bishop Cannon laid stress, Mrs. Willebrandt said the federal government would have to keep on hammering away at law enforcement there until the states without enabling acts "fall into line."

Bishop Cannon, who is the chairman of the legislative committee of the anti-saloon league, told the committee he spoke for the third largest Protestant denomination in the country and that the assertion of the wets that distilling and brewing in the home are universal could not apply to the 30,000,000 members of the Protestant churches, the 21,000,000 Sunday school attendants and the 5,000,000 members of young peoples societies.

The bishop also called attention as "noteworthy" that testimony presented by opponents of prohibition had come from persons living in those sections which always had opposed prohibition and which are doing much now to nullify the dry statutes.

Like Bishop Cannon, Mrs. Boole strongly endorsed the new administration bill drawn by Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief, and designed to strengthen the Volstead act. They and other witnesses urged that the modification measures presented by the wets be rejected.

"We believe," said Mrs. Boole, "that there should be a sufficient number of federal prohibition officers under competent administrators, a sufficient number of judges that trials may be speedy, that punishment should be adequate, and that there should be careful supervision of the permit system.

"The full force of the government, federal, state and local, should be used to indicate the fact that this is a government of law and that with out the sovereignty of law, government will fail."

Senator Reed demanded to know whether it was better to have distilling done in the home in the presence of children or to have it done legally some place else.

"I do not concede that we have to accept either of the two evils," Mrs. Boole retorted as the crowd laughed. Mrs. Boole conceded that there was lax enforcement of the dry laws in some sections of the country, citing Bishop Cannon and other witnesses. That was used as one of their arguments for putting more teeth into the Volstead act.

"The way out of the present situation is not by surrender," declared Mr. Smith on behalf of the committee of one thousand.

The eighteenth amendment and the Volstead can be reasonably enforced if the various states, the municipalities and the federal government will give adequate support to these measures."

On behalf of Commander Booth, who is ill, Colonel Jenkins presented a statement, describing much better conditions under prohibition as found by the Salvation Army in its daily work among the poor and the derelict.

While the senate committee was driving forward with a view to completing the hearings this week, the house committee on the control of the alcoholic traffic decided to postpone for at least a week the survey of conditions under prohibition which it had planned to begin tomorrow.

YALE UNDERGRADUATES TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION TODAY

NEW HAVEN, April 19—(AP)—The Yale undergraduates and members of the faculty will be asked to vote tomorrow on the prohibition question. The expression of opinion will be sought by the Yale Daily News which was having ballots prepared tonight. The ballot will cover four questions: Whether the voters favor enforcement of the present prohibition act, modification to permit the sale of beer and light wines, government control and whether or not he believes the present law has reduced the amount of drinking in the university.

"The university vote on the eighteenth amendment," the Daily News will say tomorrow, "will have an important bearing on the future of this legislatory prohibition. Yale has been singled out by dry advocates as an exemplary law abiding locality. The United States senate judiciary committee has heard, the testimony of Professor Fisher who related the comments of Yale authorities on the functioning of the law in the university and reiterated the sentiment of the News for modification which has been previously criticised in the senate.

"The vote can do more than substantiate Professor Fisher's conclusion that Yale favors a change though it appears to respect the law; it can corroborate or refute his evidence that the university is dry indeed if not in thought.

"If the results show the undergraduate and faculty opinions disprove the account that 'Yale is drier,' it will mean that an exemplary law abiding community has an underground traffic which has successfully fooled the rabid prohibitionists. This bears the case, it should prove that the success of the Volstead act can only be superficial and that there are leaks which can only be discovered by the traffickers themselves."

Asked to comment on the plan of polling the university on the issue President James Rowland Angell said that the matter had gone so far that a comment from him would be of no consequence.

Percy T. Walden, dean of the freshmen, said: "The eighteenth amendment has shifted drinking from the hod carrier class to the college man. Modern conditions have made prohibition necessary. With the automobile in use as it is, more drinking would increase the number of deaths from automobile accidents."

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Anne Nichols, author and producer of "Abie's Irish Rose," today filed suit for damages of $3,000,000 against the Universal Picture Corporation, asserting that the motion picture, "The Cohens and the Kellys" was plagiarized from her play, and that she was damaged to this extent.

Miss Nichols, who named Carl Laemmle and Harry Pollard as joint defendants with the company also asked that an injunction against the further showing of the picture be ordered. The suit was filed in federal court.

The petition in the suit recognized that the defendants claimed the motion picture was taken from the play "Two Blocks Away."

"As a matter of fact," the petition continued "the said motion picture play, 'The Cohens and the Kellys,' contains but a modicum of the play 'Two Blocks Away;' but was and is intended to be, with certain minor exceptions, a complete steal, piracy and infringement of the complainant's play."

Miss Nichols alleged that she had been actually damaged in the amount asked, and requested an accounting of the profits of the picture.

Sir Squire Bancroft Dead.

LONDON, April 19.—(AP)—Sir Squire Bancroft, dean of the English stage, died in London tonight after a short illness.

Squire Bancroft was born in luxury in 1841, but his father's early death greatly changed his circumstances, and he first appeared on the stage at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, in 1861 at a salary of a guinea a week. He retired from a career of successful management in 1885, having realized a fortune in his own theatre, The Haymarket, the lease of which he purchased in 1879.

INDICTED STRIKE LEADER ADDRESSED 3,000 FOLLOWERS

PASSAIC, N. J., April 19.—(AP)—Albert Weisbord, youthful strike organizer, resumed activity today under $30,000 bail, after eight days in jail on four indictments for inciting to riot, hostility to government, and conspiracy.

He addressed nearly 3,000 of his followers on a vacant lot donated by Mayor Samuel Nelkin for the strikers' use. He said the strike now had "one hundred per cent. jail-bird leadership, which under the conditions existing here is no disgrace but a singular honor."

Weisbord repeated his charge that a restraining order obtained by the Forstmann and Huffman company was a move to break the strike and declared the injunction cannot run the mill. He asserted the united front committee had sent a few picked men back to the Forstmann mill and found only five per cent of the workers in the mill. The mill claimed that 600 of 3,600 employes were still at work.

Sheriff Charles W. Morgan and 150 deputies took charge of the situation in Passaic today. Small picket lines were allowed by the sheriff's orders and extra mills and an attempt was made to picket the Forstmann and Huffman plants either in Passaic or Garfield. The deputies were armed with clubs but no riot guns were in evidence in the city.

Gov. A. Harry Moore at Trenton issued a statement that he would not "be coerced or cajoled into sending the armed forces of the state into the strike area except as a last resort and only when I am convinced that such action is necessary to preserve law and order. I may say that no such need exists at this time."

HAWAIIAN VILLAGE UNDER 50 FEET OF LAVA

HILO, T. H., April 19.—(AP)—The native village of Hoopulon lay under 50 feet of cooling lava today, despite the sacrifices of Huwaiians to Pele, goddess of the volcano. The villagers offered pigs, herbs and distilled liquor to Pele, but the molten rock stream from Mauna Loa rolled over the homes of the hundred inhabitants.

Some of the residents fled in canoes. Others, warned by the clouds of smoke and steam, had time to drive flocks of sheep to other villages.

As the red hot lava poured through the village, it set afire fifteen buildings and covered the ruins. The beach, where the natives had launched their fishing boats, was covered by smoking rock. From the sea rose clouds of steam and a roar like the exhaust of a thousand locomotives as the lava formed a new promotory on the ocean bed.

Thousands of spectators, coming by automobiles over the government road which encircles the island of of Hawaii, witnessed the scene. Others from steamers a half mile off shore watched fire and water meet.

Army aviators tried to photograph the phenomenon but had little success for as they circled in stifling heat 3,000 feet above the river of fire, the view was obscured by huge clouds of smoke and steam.

The flow which halted for a time Saturday night, when Hoopulon was destroyed increased in volume Sunday, pouring down in five big flows.

Those familiar with the topography of Maunoa Loa say that little property loss will result from the eruption, unless the course of the lava stream is diverted north into the coffee and sugar fields of the Kona district, which is not likely.

COURTMARTIAL EXONERATES CHAPLAIN ORVILLE CLAMPITT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—(AP)—Captain Orville Clampitt, army chaplain, tonight was acquitted on all counts of improper intimacies with Lucille Swallow, Leavenworth, Kansas girl, by a mount martial which has been in progress at the Presidio here.

Captain Clampitt took the stand today and denied he had been unduly familiar with Miss Swallow. He also denied the authorship of letters which he was alleged to have written to the girl and which disclosed the degree of intimacy it is charged existed between them.

He also denied having visited the girl in her room in a Fort Leavenworth, Kans., lodging house but he testified he had visited a soldier friend named Fritz in the house and that Miss Swalow entered the room and attempted to become friendly.

CYRUS E. WOODS ENTERS PENN. POLITICAL FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, April 19. —(AP) — Cyrus E. Woods, former ambassador to Japan, has entered the Pennsylvania political fight. It was announced tonight he will take charge of the Pepper-Fisher statewide campaign and act in an advisory capacity in directing the fight in Philadelphia. This became known after a conference between Mr. Woods and W. L. Mellon of Pittsburgh, spokesman for Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

PATIENTS IN THE NEW MASONIC HOME HOSPITAL

WALLINGFORD, April 19—(AP)—The new Masonic home hospital being completed, patients in the old one were removed to the new one this afternoon. There were seventy. The building is four stories in height, fire proof, and cost about $260,000, the money for which was given by the Craft of the state. The furnishings have been provided by the Eastern Star chapters.

Formal Note Sent to the League of Nations

United States Formally Declines to Participate in the World Court Conference.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—The league of nations' invitation to participate in the world court conference in Geneva next September was declined formally today by the United States.

An acknowledgment which was cabled by Secretary Kellogg to Alan F. Winslow, charge of the Berne legation, for transmission to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, said it did not seem "appropriate" for the American government to be represented. It invited attention to the league's circular to the 48 court protocol signatories asking them to indicate to the United States the difficulty of treating the senate reservations by direct negotiation.

"It would seem to me," Mr. Kellogg said, "to be a matter of regret if the council of the league should do anything to create the impression that there are substantial difficulties in the way of such direct communication."

The acknowledgment also stressed the view of President Coolidge that American representation could not serve "any useful purpose" and contended that the senate reservations "are plain and unequivocal and, according to their terms, they must be accepted by the exchange of notes between the United States and each of the 48 states . . . before the United States can become a party and sign the protocol."

Among other reasons for declining the invitation, it was stated that no authority existed for varying from the correspondence course started by the secretary of 48 capitals, Mr. Kellogg foreseeing "no difficulty in the way of securing the assent of each signatory by direct exchange of notes as provided for by the senate."

Referring to the part in the invitation which said the September conference, among other things, would discuss the framing of new agreements which might be found necessary to give effect to American adhesion under the senate reservations, Mr. Kellogg said:

"This government does not believe that any new agreement is necessary to give effect to the conditions and reservations on which the United States is prepared to adhere to the permanent court. The acceptance of the reservations by all the nations signatory to the statute of the permanent court constitute such an agreement."

Greece has advised the United States of its acceptance of the senate reservations. Cuba is the only other government thus far to advise Washington that they are acceptable.

POPE'S APOSTOLIC LETTER TO THE MEXICAN BISHOPS

ROME, April 19—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, protesting against treatment of Catholics in Mexico, in an apostolic letter to the Mexican bishops, made public here today, forbade Catholics in that country "to establish any political party under the name of Catholic."

He counselled the clergy that they "cannot refrain altogether from an interest in civil affairs or put aside completely all care and solicitude for the things of public life."

Declaring that the regulations and laws invoked against the Catholics of Mexico "do not seem to merit even the name of laws." Pope Pius asserted that "contrary to all etiquette and custom" the Mexican rulers had forbidden his apostolic delegate, Serafhim Cimino, to return to that country.

ONE DANCE MAY COST W. J. WILKINSON $60,000

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—One dance may cost William J. Wilkinson $60,000.

The sum is asked of him through law suits brought today by Mr. and Mrs. Russel Gomez. Mrs. Gobez who seeks $50,000, charges that Wilkinson "negligently fell with her," while they were dancing at the Hotel Astor. She complains that Mr. Wilkinson's alleged fall made her "sore, sick, lame and disabled."

Her husband filed a separate action asking $10,000 damages for the loss of his wifes services.

FOR YALE SURVEYING CAMP AT EAST LYME

EAST LYME, April 19.—(AP)—Ground was broken here today for ten new buildings which will be used by the Sheffield Scientific school, of Yale university as a surveying camp for the engineering students. The structures will cost about $100,000 and will consist of a large auditorium, dining hall and instruments building, all constructed of native stone, and seven wooden barracks. The instruments building will contain fire proof cement vaults.

Professor Tracy of the scientific school will be in charge of the work, which is being done by the T. J. Fardy company, of Bridgeport.

ARGUMENT ON JOHN T. KING INDICTMENT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP)—Argument on a motion to dismiss a perjury indictment against John T. King, former republican national committeeman, scheduled for today in federal court, was postponed by Federal Judge Winslow until April 26.

King is charged with making a false income tax return for 1921, the government alleging that he paid only $266, tax, whereas he should have paid a tax of $40,000. The motion to dismiss the indictment was based on the statute of limitations, which King's attorneys contend outlaws the case.

NEW YORK ASSURED OF PROHIBITION REFERENDUM

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.—(AP)—The question of whether New York state shall have a popular referendum next fall on the prohibition question was put up to Governor Smith early today by the legislature when the assembly passed the Karle bill providing for such a referendum. The measure passed the senate last week.

Immediately after the assembly voted 84 to 64 to discharge the rules committee from further consideration of the referendum bill, a vote on the bill itself was called for, and it was passed 87 to 62.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP) — Citizenship in America is not a private enterprise, but a public function, President Coolidge said in an address tonight before the 35th congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution during which he urged the people to exercise a greater interest in their government by going to the polls on election day.

"The whole system of government," he asserted, "rests on the ballot box. Unless citizens perform their duties there, such a system of government is doomed to failure."

Making a passing reference to law observance as it relates to the duties of citizenship, the president said that it "cannot be denied that in the splendor and glamor of our life the moral sense is sometimes blinded."

"It cannot be disputed," he said, "that in too many quarters there is a lack of reverence for authority and of obedience to law. Such occurences are sporadic and produce their own remedy. When society finds that its life and property are in peril from evil-doers, it is very quick to organize its forces for its own protection. That cannot fail to be done in our own country, for our people as a whole are thoroughly law abiding."

The president held, however, that it was not in violence and crime that the greatest danger lieh, for these evils were quickly apparent and could be suppressed. A far more serious danger, he said, "lurks in the shirking of those responsibilities of citizenship, where the evil may not be so noticeable but is more insidious and likely to be more devastating."

The address was delivered on the anniversary of the battles of Concord and Lexington, and after referring to the form of government set up as a result of the revolution, Mr. Coolidge said:

"If we are to keep our representative form of government and to maintain the principle that the majority shall rule, it behooves us to take some drastic action to arouse the voters of this country to a greater interest in their civic duties on eelction day. Many remedies have been proposed, from disfranchisement to criminal action. The most practical, I believe, however, is for all bodies of men and women interested in the welfare of this country to join together under some efficient organization to correct this evil."

ITALIAN DEBT SETTLEMENT DEBATED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—The Italian debt settlement returned to the center of the senate stage today and was subjected to an attack that met a stiff defense on the agreement and the American debt funding commission.

With final vote set for late Wednesday, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, declared "we must refund this debt now and Italy must be permitted to balance its budget, or Italy will never be in a position to pay us anything," while Senator Walsh, democrat, assailed the agreement with Mussolini. The recent speech of the Italian premier in Tripoli, he declared, "bristles with bellicose bluster."

In the midst of the spirited debate a concurrent resolution was offered by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, providing that the United States settle on the terms contained in the Italian agreement with all its debtors, and particularly farmers, for indebtedness created by reason of the World war.

Farmers should be permitted 62 years in which to liquidate their debts to the government and should be charged the same interest as Italy pays, Senator Nye said, "so that the United States may be dealing with its own people at least as liberal as it deals with foreign debtor nations."

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the funding commission, expressed an opinion that "it will be a long, long time before we get another chance, if the senate does not approve this settlement."

COURTMARTIAL CONVICTION OF COL. WILLIAMS IMPLIED

Finding Tacitly Revealed by the Military Court—Tribunal Has Adjourned "to Await Action by the Convening Authority"—Charge Was Intoxication, Brought by Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler—Dismissal From Service is the Maximum Penalty, But Sentence Usually Does Not Exceed Reduction in Rank or Numbers.

MARINE BASE, San Diego, April 19.—(AP)—Colonel Alexander S. Williams today drank the dregs of the cocktail he offered to Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler last month, when the military court trying him on a charge of intoxication preferred by the General adjourned under circumstances leaving no doubt as to his conviction.

While the court made no comment or announcement other than that it had adjourned, the circumstances were a tacit admission that it believed the colonel guilty of appearing drunk in the public rooms of the Hotel Del Coronado the night he gave a dinner party in honor of General Butler.

Officers familiar with court martial procedure explained as the court departed that adjournment without definite announcement of acquittal is a military court's courteous way of informing a defendant he has been convicted.

Findings and recommendations of the court will be sent direct to the judge advocate general of the navy at Washington and communicated to him, together with his recommendation for sentence to the secretary of the navy. The verdict is expected to be officially announced in the national capital within a week or two.

Dismissal from service is the maximum penalty possible under naval regulations, but in cases not involving drunkenness on duty, sentence does usually does not exceed reduction in rank or numbers. Colonel Williams was not on duty when, as testified by General Butler during the trial. He was "full at his home and staggering gigglingly drunk at the hotel."

Arguments of counsel at the concluding session of the trial today were brief, and so was the deliberation of the court after it retired at 11:32 a. m. to ponder no a verdict. Shortly after 12 o'clock departure of the court from the building without notifying the defendant was interpreted in the light of court martial precedence as indicating a verdict of conviction probably had been reached, and the definite announcement of adjournment "to await action of the convening authority," meaning the secretary of the navy, was issued less than two hours later.

The charges against Colonel Williams indirectly grew out of a dinner party he gave at his home March 6th in honor of General Butler, who was sent to San Diego to relieve Williams as commandir of the marine base.

Several days after the party it became known that General Butler had preferred a charge of intoxication against Williams. In subsequent public statements, Butler pointed out that his charge was based not on the dinner party, but upon what transpired at the Hotel Del Coronado a little later in the evening, "When I was not a guest of the officer."

General Butler testified his host was "full" at the dinner party, and, when he saw him later at the hotel, so staggeringly drunk he had to be carried out.

The defense fought back with witnesses who said the colonel did not appear to be intoxicated; though some of them admitted he was unsteady on his feet probably from illness.

To refute General Butler's point blank testimony, the defense called several surgeons who told how tooth trouble such as had been bothering General Butler before the party might lead one to see "visions," physicians then were called, who testified that a medicine Colonel Williams was taking could make a man dizzy or give him "gastric trouble", severe enought to make him appear drunk.

By far the most sensational phase of the trial, involved allegations by officers of the defendant's command that General Butler had brow-beaten them into changing their written statements so as to say "he was drunk", instead of "he was unsteady on his feet", or words to that effect.

The general admitted he had told several officers they were "boys running around in circles" and had better go back and write true statements or "expect to get into trouble." He denied, however, he had tried to get anything out of them but the truth.

SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF BANDIT WHITTEMORE

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 19.—(AP) — With two thirds of the jury already selected and indications that the remaining four jurors would be obtained tomorrow, the prosecution and defense tonight made final plans for presenting their evidence at the trial in which the life of Richard Reese Whittemore, 28 year old bandit chieftain, is at stake.

The selection of a jury which will determine whether Whittemore and his gang participated in the $93,000 holdup of the Bank of Buffalo armored car in a sensational daylight robbery in the heart of the business section last October when Charles Gifford and Lewis Yarrington, messengers, were slain, proceeded with unexpected rapidity today.

It is a mixed jury that is being chosen. In age, all but one is more than 46 years old and two have attained 60 years. The youngest is a 21 year old farmer. Only one of the accepted talesmen is unmarried. Their occupations and professions vary from farmers to active or retired heads of business firms.

Whittemore displayed neither a spirit of bravado nor indication of fear as to the outcome of the case. His demeanor was a sharp contrast with that on his advent to Buffalo.

The bandit, who had viciously kicked at cameras in the hands of newspaper photographers when he arrived here, consented today smilingly to pose. His photo was snapped on two occasions while he stood manacled to two deputy sheriffs, surrounded by six other guards.

RIDE WITH STRANGER A SORRY EXPERIENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 19—A night-ride with a stranger—a— fight for honor—cold hours spent in wandering along back country roads, such was the mishap of a 15 year old girl who resides in the vicinity of Eagleville, a recent night. Similar stories which have often been headlined in newspapers happen right in this section as well. The young girl was found lying near the road just out of Windham Center Saturday morning by a driver of one of the New England Bakery company motor trucks. She said that she had spent the night out of doors after an automobile ride. She was cold and hungry and the driver took her aboard and bought her a lunch at one of the local restaurants. She said that she lived in Eagleville and that while being on his route back to Springfield the truck driver took her there. A half mile past the place the girl got out. Some time later the state police barracks at Stafford Springs were notified that a girl in an apparently dazed condition was wandering along the road and a state policeman drove down and believing the girl to be ill returned with her to the Johnson Memorial hospital at Stafford. The girl claimed that she did not remember her name. Sunday morning a local woman notified the police headquarters here that her daughter had been missing since last Friday night. A check-up was made and the girl at the Stafford hospital identified as the daughter. The mother then motored to Stafford and her daughter left the institution with her. The state police stated that as far as they could determine nothing wrong had taken place and no other persons were involved. The girl is said to have started on the automobile ride after a dance.

Liquor played a high hand in all of six cases which were presented in the local police court Monday morning.

Harvey Ricard of 2 Park street, Albany, N. Y., a former resident of this city pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving. The charge had been modified from one of driving while under the influence of liquor, placed against Ricard at the time of his arrest Saturday afternoon. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $50 and costs, amounting to $60.15. When arrested Ricard was asleep in the machine which was parked at one side of the road. As there were no witnesses to testify that Ricard was intoxicated while driving Prosecuting Attorney Gaucher recommended the modification of the charge.

Francis Beckwith, who was in the car with Ricard was charged with intoxication to which he pleaded guilty. He was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $12.15.

The three sailors, Ernest Bennett, James Marshall and Kenneth White, of the submarine base at New London, who were arrested Saturday night pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication in police court Monday. Each received a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $21.15 which they paid. The sailors were those arrested during an altercation with a Norwich public service car driver. The "jaunt" claimed that the machine was to be at their disposal until six o'clock Sunday morning, while the driver argued that the time limit was at midnight Saturday night. When one of the sailors swung at the driver Officer Arthur Hurley was summoned.

The sixth man to face the local tribunal Monday morning was Jan Juras of the Stone Row. He was charged with intoxication, pleaded guilty, and was given a fine of $5 and the costs of $7.12, which he paid. Ernest Bellevance, a public service car driver said that he was called to a house on Iven street late Sunday night. Juras hired him to take him to his home but upon arriving there refused to leave the machine. Acting Lieutenant Edward P. Leahy was called to take the man out of the car. Juras paid the fine and also agreed to settle for damage to the upholstery of the machine.

Windham county and Hartford county are to battle for old-fashioned dance honors in an unusual program of old time dancing at the Capitol theatre in the near future. John McConville of Manchester is the challenger and he will lead his set against that of Howard W. Green of this city. These two sets have already won their respective county laurels and the bi-county honors will be the stake. Mr Green won the county title at an old-fashioned dance contest staged at the Capitol some months ago when a half a dozen sets competed.

The April meeting of the Willimantic Pastors' union, which has been postponed for one week due to the conference at Manchester, was held Monday with Rev. F. W. Tholen, pastor of the Stafford Baptist church. At luncheon covers were laid for 24 guests. The attendance of local pastors were lessened somewhat by the fact that some are ill and others are attending the convocation at Yale. The repast was served by the women of the church. Rev. Frederick C. Williams, pastor of St. Paul's church, this city, and president of the union, was in charge of the session. During the business hour the union went on record as being unanimously in favor of prohibition without modification and with more drastic measures for enforcement if necessary. It was voted to send a telegraphic copy of the vote to Senators Bingham and McLean and to the chairman of the prohibition hearing at Washington, D. C. The address of the day was delivered by Rev Levi Rees, pastor of the Stafford Springs Congregational church. His highly informing and interesting talk was on Wales, of which Rev. Rees is a native. He told of the geographical features of the country, the methods and extent of education and the customs, including the unflinching adherence to language. He gave an account of the great preachers which that country had produced. The beauty of the language and the lengendary history of the land, he said, were factors in producing oratorical ability. Much interest was paid his description of how Wales became a principality and how through an apparent trickery of King Edward I the Prince of Wales remained a member of the ruling house of England. The agreement had been that Wales should be ruled by a prince born in that country and speaking no other language. Arrangements were made that the next prince to be born in the royal household of England be given birth in Wales. As the infant prince could truely speak no other language he was declared qualified to be the Prince of Wales.

Samuel Attardo, aged six, of Schoolhouse lane, has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, undergoing observation since last Friday afternoon when he was struck and knocked down on Main street by a truck owned by the Jordan Hardware company and driven by Daniel Brennan, an employe. According to the information the child started to run blindly across the street opposite the Gulf Refining company filling station. He halted in front of the truck and was struck by the front fender. Without a moment's hesitation he was picked up and rushed to the hospital. The police consider the accident as unavoidable and have taken no action against the driver.

At the Union Baptist church Sunday morning at the close of the service, Rev. Johnathan G. Osborn read his resignation as pastor, to take effect June 1st. PRINCE ALBERT has been such a revelation to men who thought that they were pipe-happy that three pipes are smoked today where one was smoked before. That's a fact, Men, just as sure as little bees buzz and polliwogs have tails.

And you don't need a degree from Oxford to figure out the reason: The Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch pos-i-tive-ly and Prince Albert quality makes it the National Joy Smoke. That means you can cram this fine old favorite into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and turn on all five tubes . . . go to it any way you please . . . slow or fast, morning to midnight!

Yes, sir! P. A. is the taste-teasingest, tongue-pleasingest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar. Its smoke is the coolest that ever sifted into your system. Its fragrance keeps honeysuckle and your favorite rose fighting for second place.

Put it on your pad now: You've got a date this very day with the smoke-shop that hands out P. A. sunshine in tidy red tins. Decorate yourself with the degree of P. A., and get the highest degree of pleasure out of that old pipe.

A. 1 is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON SHOCKED AT DEATH OF C. L. DARBIE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 19—Danielson lost one of its oldest residents with such startling suddenness Monday morning as to shock the community. Charles L. Darbie, 79, died within a minute or two after entering the Quinebaug mill, where he had been employed for 49 years. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

Mr. Darbie left his home on North Main street at the usual hour, was apparently in his good health as usual and unusually cheerful. Arriving at the mill he was in conversation with Master Mechanic George M. Robertson, passed the usual morning greetings, and turned about to hang up his coat in a wardrobe. In another instant he had fallen and it is believed died almost instantly.

Mr. Darbie was born in Danielson and lived here most of his life. He was a son of David P. and Deborah F. Law Darbie, who lived at the time of his birth at the southwest corner of High and Cottage streets. Four months later the family moved to what for a great many years was known as the Darbie homestead on Main street, opposite the Evans building. Mr. Darbie continued to live there until 1912, when with his family he removed to North Main street.

As a young man he learned the [illegible] trade and became an expert workman. Forty-nine years ago he entered the employ of the Quinebaug company and since remained with the concern, for many years being in charge of the mills force of painters and overseeing repairs of the company's tenements and the painting [illegible] about the big plant. Advancing years did not deter him from continuing his occupation, as he had [illegible] on reminders, but a full [illegible] to continue with the company before retiring.

In Danielson, June 30, 1886, Mr. [illegible] was united in marriage with Jessie Maria Burgess, who died May [illegible]. There are three children Miss [illegible] Darbie, Attorney Elbert L. [illegible] speaker of the house of the [illegible] assembly, [illegible] and Rev. [illegible] of Sanford, Delaware.

Mr. Darbie was member of St. Alban's [illegible], of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows, of Unity Encampment [illegible] of Quinebaug Canton.

With only two exceptions the manufacturers declared for fast time and these also showed no disposition to oppose the preference of the majority of the mills. This information was given out Monday by a member of the committee that visited the mill men.

It was indicated Monday that general adoption of fast time by the manufacturing concerns of Killingly and Plainfield will be followed by banks adopting the same. Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap now ended. New way provides true protection—discards like tissue

WITH the old-time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense, plus the embarrassment of disposal. And thus spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

time observed there during the spring and summer for several years. It was understood Monday that Putnam merchants interests were still debating the advisability of adopting fast time. The Grosvenordales are to have it later in the season.

Members of the fire department gave up their lunch hour Monday to battle with a grass fire that was sweeping over a big field on the Danielson farm near the sand bank, west of Maple street. An alarm from Box 16 called out the firemen just before 12 o'clock and it was nearly one o'clock before they were back in quarters. The fire did no damage of a serious nature.

The reaction of many drivers to the serious motoring accidents that have occurred in this vicinity the past few days is not a happy one. They feel that week end driving this season will be little better than a gamble with death, not necessarily on their own account, but because of being hit by other machines in traffic that promises to be heavier than ever before. Only such week end riding as is necessary is the plan of many who are not necessarily timid, but sense the risk of being out with a car on Saturdays and Sundays.

Miss Lois Maynard, 31, died Monday at Norwich, where she had been a patient for some time. Miss Maynard was a resident of Mooosup, to which place the body was removed Monday afternoon in charge of Undertaker J. E. Kennedy.

George S. Fanaigeau of 4 Wheatley street and Sinal Barrett of Woonsocket were reported Monday afternoon as having some chance of recovery, following both of them receiving fractured skulls when the car Barrett was driving crashed into a tree near the Old Furnace, two miles east of here, early Sunday evening. Eugene Lortemiat of Woonsocket, who was riding with them, escaped without serious injury.

Two other automobile accident victims—Alpherie Lussier and [illegible] frs James Dillon—both of Pawtucket and injured when the two machines in which they were riding crashed on the Brooklyn road a week ago Sunday, hurting nine people, were reported Monday as somewhat improved at the hospital in Putnam. Both were reported as being in a highly critical condition all of the past week. All of the others in that accident have been discharged from the hospital.

Thieves who steal from packed cars are active again. C. Clinton Cleveland reports that a spare tire and rim was taken from his car while he was at a dance resort near here Saturday evening.

A temperature of 20 degrees Monday morning at 6 o'clock was reported from Winter street.

Concrete for foundation piers for an addition to the local stockhouse of the Danielle Grain and Coal company was being poured Monday.

Mrs. E. H. Keach is at Washington, D. C., attending, as regent of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, the continental congress of the D. A. R.

Mrs. A. E. Withington will have the members of the Roundabout club at her home for a meeting Thursday afternoon.

[illegible] Barrett's wrecked car, smashed against a tree on the Old Ferry road Sunday evening, has been towed into Danielson. It is badly damaged and splashed with blood.

Because of running down into Wauregan village, motor coaches of the Connecticut company, [illegible] found were arriving here about five minutes later than their regular scheduled time on Monday, when the new service was inaugurated.

Walter A. Fortin has returned to his home in Pawtucket after spending a few days with friends in Danielson.

John Bryant of Fair Haven, a resident here as a youth, when he enlisted for service in the Civil war, has been visiting in town for a few days.

MANSFIELD CENTER

At the meeting of Echo Grange Tuesday evening, R. H. Patch of the Department of Agriculture of Connecticut Agricultural college gave an interesting lecture on flowers and gardens dealing particularly with the arrangement of the home grounds.

Members of Echo Grange went to Storrs on Friday evening and among the visitors for Neighbors night at Lyman Hall heard a half hour's program.

The concert given by the Troubadors of Boston as the last number of the course given this winter, under the auspices of the Mansfield library was enthusiastically received by a large audience that filled the church. Many music lovers pronounced this the best number they had ever heard. Each number of the course has been exceptionally good.

Rev. Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones has been very ill all the week with pleurisy. She was taken ill immediately after concluding the services and missionary program Sunday morning.

The Ladies' Aid society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irving Goodell. A quilt was tied. The hostess served a lunch.

Mrs. T. Arthur Barrows entertained the N. T. club Thursday evening.

PUTNAM

TELLS OF LIFE OF REAL DAUGHTER OF REVOLUTION

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 19—Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway of Eastford, one of the few remaining Real Daughters of the Revolution will be 108 years old on April 30.

At the last meeting of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., Mrs. Mary B. Bishop read the following biography of Mrs. Bradway.

"The Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter has the very great honor and distinction of having on its membership roll a Real Daughter of the American Revolution, Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway, the widow of William Bradway and the daughter of Allen Bosworth, who served in the Revolution.

"Not only is it a distinction to claim a Real Daughter, but it is a privilege given to few, to claim as a member, one who has passed the century mark by nearly eight years, for on the 30th of this month, Sarah will have lived 108 years, and it is this rare privilege, and the incidents thereto I wish to relate.

"Allen Bosworth was born Nov. 7th 1758 in Ashford, Conn., with his twin sister, Abigail, the youngest of a family of ten children; his parents having recently removed from Boxford, Mass., to Ashford.

"He married first, April 4, 1782, Mary Peabody, the daughter of Ephraim Peabody, who had recently removed from Boxford, Mass., to Ashford. Of this marriage three children were born, Roxy, Polly and Abigail. His first wife died April 2, 1802, and in November of that year he married for his second wife Sarah Harwood of Sutton, Mass. She became the mother of eight children, the youngest of whom being Sarah.

"When the Revolutionary war broke out, Allen Bosworth was in his 17th year, and in the following year he enlisted at Asaford, Conn., and served five years. He was a private in Capt. Stephen Lyon's company in battles at Long Island, White Plains, Fort Washington and Frog's Point and in Capt. John Sumner's company in the battle of Rhode Island, and served to the close of the war.

"Some time between 1800 and 1805 Allen Bosworth erected the fine old house which still stands on the bank of Crystal lake in Eastford (then in the town of Ashford) and it was in this home his daughter, Sarah was born, April 30, 1818.

"It is interesting to note that her entire life as well as the entire life of her father, covering a period of 165 years, has been passed in the towns of Eastford or Ashford.

"Here in this home Sarah passed her girlhood days. As the wife of William Bradway and the mother of her four children, her life was spent in Eastford, and in her declining years, she is still tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Darwin Clark, in the town of Eastford.

"Thirteen years ago, at the advanced age of 95 years, she became an honorary member of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter and was awarded the gold spoon of the National society, D. A. R., and shortly she was made a pensioner of the D. A. R. from which she receives monthly a very handsome sum.

"The number of Real Daughters in the United States has greatly diminished, at present reported to be fourteen, and we are justly proud of the fact that Sarah Bosworth Bradway bears the distinction of being one of the number.

"Every year since she became a member of our chapter, we have celebrated her birthday by making her a personal visit and carrying tokens of our love and friendship; those of us who visited her in her 90's can recall the many stories told by her of her early life and of her father, the soldier, and while her mind is clear today, she has not the strength nor the power of speech that she had then.

"Always so happy to talk of her father, saying he was so devoted and kind to his family. She was 12 years old when her father died, and doesn't remember many war stories, but as a father, he was most indulgent.

"Sarah had six brothers older than herself and one sister, two years older, and her story of school days is interesting. Going long distances with neighbors quite remote, the two little sisters, Delotie and Sarah, in winter time were taken to school on a sled drawn by the older brothers.

"Her father went to Providence every autumn with an ox team, a distance of forty miles, with his farm products, largely cheeses, the journey took a week, and on the return he brought the family stores for the winter. Sarah describes how she watched for her father's return, for he always brought pretty dress goods for the two little girls, and trinkets and beads for the neck.

"The story of her love affair with Amasa Morse, an old gentleman who lived to be 103. She said he first invited her to go to a county fair, and they were quite fond of each other, but as their lives separated, she often thought, wouldn't it have been great if we had married, as he lived so long, but said she, "perhaps if we had had each other we wouldn't have lived so long."

"Mrs. Bradway remembers with remarkable clearness the names of people and the events of her town, and this fact surprises every one who talks with her, for she will tell you who your people were, back of your own recollection.

"She possesses a most cheerful mind, always in parting says 'I shall look forward to your coming again'. She is most grateful for the slightest attention and her oft repeated words 'you are all so good and kind' ring in your ears as you leave one who has lived through so many years."

Joseph Gagne of North Grosvenordale did not have to plead guilty to the charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of Norman Gomo, ten year old son of Elbee Gomo, also of North Grosvenordale, when he was struck by Gagne's automobile on the evening of December 12.

Both Gagne and Gomo are employed as overseers by the Grosvenordale mills and are friends of long standing, which intensified the feeling of sorrow that followed the accident. At the hearing the state's attorney said that he did not feel that any severe penalty should be imposed on Gagne as he considered that the accident was entirely accidental, and he recommended that the charge of manslaughter should be changed to one of failing to give the right of way. Judge Allyn Brown agreed to Gagne's plea of guilty to the lesser charge and assessed a fine of $50 and costs.

George Kennedy, 15 year old boy, whose home is in the Sawyer district, is the first victim of a baseball accident in this vicinity. In attempting to round a base in a game, he slipped and fell and fractured a bone in his leg. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where, following an X-ray, the fracture was reduced. But George's chances for making a record in the local baseball field this season are gone. It is not definitely known

OWN A PACKARD SIX

THE price reduction of nearly a thousand dollars, made in 1925, put Packard Six comfort, beauty and distinction at last within the reach of thousands to whom the possession of a Packard had been a lifetime ambition.

And Packard Six sales more than doubled in twelve months.

If you have been paying over $1500 for your motor cars, you, too, can own a Packard Six. And here are four reasons why you will find this fine car your best possible transportation investment this Spring.

Costs No More To Own

Packard Six transportation costs no more by the mile than cars of lower first cost because owners keep their cars at least twice as long as they keep half-price cars. And all operating and maintenance charges are no greater.

Can Be Paid For Monthly

The Packard Six five-passenger sedan with all necessary accesosries costs but $2789 delivered at your door, freight and tax paid. Under our liberal budget plan of purchase the down payment is ments $169. $950 and the monthly pay-

We will credit the allowance for your present car against the down payment. If there is a surplus it goes to reduce your monthly payments thus making the required cash outlay at any one time very low.

Prompt Delivery Now Possible

If you act at once you can secure immediate or early delivery of any model Packard Six. But while prepared now with full stocks we foresee a repetition of last year's shortage when thousands who wanted Packard cars could not get them for months. Quality cannot be built hurriedly.

A ride through the country of Bozrah shows many improvements to farm property in preparation for summer visitors.

Beckers are erecting a fine dance hall, the Arowitz farm has a large addition in the rear for sleeping quarters. At the Kofkoff farm, the unsightly barns have been removed and a modern garage erected; new coops, housing thousands of white leghorns.

TOO MANY SHIRKERS

President Coolidge in his address before the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution found his text to the purpose of this national organization "to cherish, maintain, and extend the institutions of American freedom, to foster true patriotism and love of country and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings of liberty."

In a clear and concise manner the president called attention to the fact that we live in a republic and that a vital principle of that form of government is representation, and in pointing out that whole our whole system of government rests on the ballot box he discussed the shirking of responsibilities of citizenship by that great number who remain away from the polls.

Well does he say that "If we are to keep our representative form of government and to maintain the principle that the majority shall rule, it behooves us to take some drastic action to arouse the voters of this country to a greater interest in their civic duties on election day," and as the most practical method of accomplishing this he believes that all bodies of men and women interested in the welfare of the country should join together under some effective organization to correct this evil.

When he called attention to the fact that in the last two presidential elections barely 50 per cent of those qualified to vote did so he unquestionably put his finger upon a condition which is deplored at almost every election. The percentage of those voting at other than presidential elections is even smaller.

Much is said about the franchise and the value attached to it and yet the failure of such a large number to use it when there is a chance indicates an entirely wrong attitude.

In addressing the Daughters of the American Revolution upon this subject the president was of course speaking to the entire country. There is certainly good reason for what he had to say and it is only proper in the interest of the best citizenship and the best government that there should be a great proportion of the voters at the polls on election days. The president properly says "Get out and vote."

REGULATION OF RADIO

One of the strong arguments urged in behalf of radio regulation is that if something of the kind is not provided there will be such a grand mixup that there will be cause for general disgust and dissatisfaction. It will mean chaos in the radio field and disregard for all attempts at regulation.

Some idea of what it will mean is furnished by the decision which has been rendered in the case of one broadcasting station in Chicago which has insisted upon using a meter length other than that assigned to it by Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce. It was done for the purpose of insuring that with fifty and according to the decision the station is upheld in its contention. That means that if that station can do as it pleases, use such meter length as it desires regardless of the others and if the other stations do the same and once that idea is put into practice there will be more than just confusion on the air.

What the final decision may be as the case will be carried to a higher court remains to be seen, for while in the Chicago case the broadcasting station has been upheld in another case the government has been sustained, so that an appeal in both cases to higher courts seems necessary to get down to a final decision.

But if there is that disposition to disregard the power which exists at the present time for the government to regulate, there can be no better argument set forth for the ending of that situation by legally enacting laws which will cover the matter and end the bickering and fuming that can be expected until something of the kind is done.

The need of this step has been pointed out many times. Congress has bills before it right now which would properly deal with the situation and there should be no thought of adjourning until action is taken to give protection against the chaotic conditions which the Chicago case shows to be threatened.

FIRE PREVENTION

According to the New York Journal of Commerce there was a fire loss in this country and Canada during the month of March of nearly $43,000,000. In comparison with other months it was a whopper. It eclipsed January and February and so increased the total for the quarter that it was the largest for several years. And this was the result when from the effects of efforts that have been put forth in behalf of prevention there should have been a reduction. The figures for the quarter indicate that we are moving in the wrong direction.

In Connecticut and in Massachusetts, to say nothing of the other states, hundreds of acres of woodland have been burned over already this spring. What the total will amount to no one can estimate. And yet in these particular instances the causes are invariably the same as those which have characterized such fires in the past. Whether it is the destruction of industrial, mercantile or residential property, or whether it is the consuming of standing timber, there is a loss which must be shouldered by someone, and the only way in which it can be avoided is by preventing the fires. The large percentage which is preventable indicates the huge waste that ought to be avoided each year.

The unfortunate part of the attention given to fire prevention is that the general public fail to dwell upon its importance at the right time. Instead of recognizing the opportunities and putting prevention into practice when there is a chance it is overlooked and the throwing up of hands isn't thought of until the losses are brought to attention.

There are conditions which make the kindling of fires easy. There are conditions which need only the application of a fire brand carelessly tossed aside to start combustion. There are cases where the finest kind of material for a quick and disastrous fire are piled up instead of being removed. Such do not represent the proper protection. They lend encouragement to fires and where there are fires there are very apt to be losses, the amount depending upon conditions. Fire prevention will do far more than it has done if it is generally practiced.

A COMMENDABLE PLAN

While none too much encouragement has seemed to accompany the efforts by this country to adjust the Tacna-Arica situation without resort to the plebiscite hope has not been abandoned.

The announcement by Secretary Kellogg that the latest suggestion made for ending the situation there proposes the abandonment of claims by both Chile and Peru and the disposition of the territory to a third country.

Secretary Kellogg doesn't mention the third country, but in view of the position which Bolivia occupies, the need it has for an outlet to the sea and the fact that it is the one country that could properly annex such territory, it is unquestionably the one that is in mind.

This must be regarded as more desirable than even a buffer state to be made up of Tacna-Arica. There is no reason to expect that there could be a proper border condition should either Chile or Peru be awarded the territory. It would simply mean a continuation of long standing fight. With Bolivia in possession the situation would be completely changed.

The fact is that Bolivia ought to have such an outlet to the sea, and if the two interested countries are actually desirous of ending their long standing dispute they will lose no time in adopting the suggestion that has been offered inasmuch as it appears that there has been some favor displayed by both countries to such a solution. In the interest of peace in that part of the hemisphere the suggested plan seems to be the logical one to adopt, but unfortunately it one to adopt, but unfortunately it is not always the logical or sensible plan that is adopted.

A NEEDED LESSON

Yesterday those who assembled to hear the symphony program by the Philadelphia orchestra felt that they had been rather badly treated by Director Stokowski when he decided to lay out on the audience what the audience is forced imposing upon the orchestra.

Instead of having the entire orchestra assembled for the opening number the director started the program with only two musicians. Gradually the others straggled in until the full orchestra was there but gradually they also straggled out so that by the time the program was completed the orchestra had disappeared and the conclusion came with the orchestra out of sight or disappearing off the stage.

It was a demonstration which could not fail to go home to those who know what an annoyance it is to have the audience straggle in during the first and possibly the second number and then begin to leave before the finale has been completed. It was rather hard upon those who are punctual and who remain until the concerts are actually over, but apparently it was impossible for the director to do it in any other way. It was another one of those cases where the many have to suffer because of the few, and there is really no telling that the few actually got the significance of the arrangement.

Director Stokowski succeeded in presenting the annoyance which the tardy audience and the audience that is in too much of a hurry to go is cumulative causing the orchestra and the real music lovers in an effective manner. It was deserved and entirely justified but will the lesson be accepted as a joke and roll off like water from a duck's back?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19—Perhaps no one who has watched the progress of modern science is more impressed at the speed with which "the world do move" than old stagers in the press gallery who have been familiar with all sorts of flying machine propositions that required congressional aid or action.

But that the commercial aviation bill came and went without causing the slightest wonderment, even to the outside world, made some of them gasp for breath.

The White bill put the old phrase "free as air" quite out of commission. Air routes, air markers, brilliant search lights to aid landing, and the whir and buzz of air plane motors are no longer novelties, and now commercial aviation is an assured thing, without half the wonderment that railway commercial transportation seems to have brought an earlier generation.

The Merritt bill, for commercial aviation came out from the interstate commerce committee with flying colors and went through the house at a quick and smooth pace. And that emphasized the fact that Connecticut has always been foremost in aviation laws and private actions. Both Bingham of Connecticut in the senate and Merritt of Connecticut in the house can claim laureis for gaining for Connecticut the victory of a big commercial aviation program successfully carried out.

The Merritt bill is regarded as a workable measure and one that will provide fully for needed regulations. It is in no sense army or navy but strictly a commercial proposition but its supporters feel it will furnish if necessary a trained aviation force for government need if occasion requires quick action.

Authority for regulating commercial air service rests with the secretary of commerce and his assistants but he is forbidden to grant any exclusive rights for use of airways. There are rules for foreign air craft along lines that suggest rules for foreign shipping for "aircraft ports" and other "sea terms" are frequently used in the committee report.

The measure had the approval of the postmaster general, the secretary of commerce, the National Aeronautic association, and a great number of other experts on aerial navigation. Mr. Merrit expressed great pleasure that Connecticut men should be permitted to bring out the bill and its report, as Connecticut not only framed the first state aviation laws, but so far as known Connecticut has the only governor who flies back and forth from his home to the capito, and owns a private landing field of his own.

Several bills to increase pensions of Civil war veterans and pensions for their widows are pending before congress. One of the and the latest to be filed is the so-called Elliott bill, which provides that old veterans receive a flat increase un to $72 a month; widows of veterans an increase to $50, helpless and blind veterans a pension of $100 a month. A change of dates after which a widow's claim to a pension is void is suggested in the Elliott bill. The present law does not pay pensions to widows of veterans who have married since 1905 but the Elliott bill extends that time to 1915.

Republican Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut has inaugurated a new system for clearing the congressional slate and preparing to adjourn. The plan is this: Instead of leaving to chance what bills shall be considered, during the rush days before adjournment, Tilson, as leader called together for conference the speaker, the steering committee and chairmen of several important committees. With them came Budget Director Lord. Then they went carefully over the proposed measures involving large appropriations and summed up how those appropriations and the budget could be made to harmonize. In other words, Tilson proposed to cut the garment to fit the cloth and see that the time of congress is not wasted on long debate on measures that could not be carried on under the present budget system. The cost of several important legislative measures was carefully gone over and many things eliminated, but it's only fair to say there was much reluctance on the part of them all to cut and weed but worthy measures, although finally a friendly agreement was reached that will probably work out well.

Several matters of great national importance have been before senate and house committees this week. Perhaps that before the senate committee assigned to hear testimony on the workings of the Volstead act attracted the biggest crowds. The room was far too small to accommodate the delegation and visitors from all parts of the country who came to testify or listen, and whose opinions ran all the way from extreme prohibition to extreme liberal construction of the constitutional amendment. There wasn't much difference in the size or type of the cord whether the wets or the drys held the floor.

The sudden illness of Senator Means of Colorado, chairman of the committee conducting the hearing, left Reed of Missouri in charge, and as a result the hearings were pretty lively, for Reed is a man of great resource, keen wit and even a keener tongue. Reed is an ardent supporter of a modification of the Volstead act. It was Reed who toyed with the testimony of Gen. Andrews, until he forced Andrews into giving the committee and assembled public a complete recipe for making "split whiskey," to the horror of the drys and the amusement of the wets. To prove statements that the Volstead act is not easily enforced fireless cookers, tea kettles, all sorts of retainers and much kitchen hardware were brought into prominence and the great mirrored, marble committee room, with its splendid crystal chandeliers and mahogany furnishings took the air of a department store with a special sale. No one knows the outcome of the hearings but never since prohibition went into effect has there been such a general interest expressed in congress, as at this moment.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Brigadier General Edgar Jadwin, who has been nominated by President Coolidge to be chief of army engineers with the rank of major general, to succeed Gen. Harry Taylor, who is soon to retire, is known among his intimates as one of those men who have the knack of doing things that are called impossible. As colonel of the first American regiment to pass through England and early to get to grips in France Jadwin acquired a great reputation for cutting red tape. He ignored technical regulatory incumbrances and had his men on the job at a time when, according to war department requirements, it was impossible for them to be there. When the department had untangled confusion regarding supplies and equipment Jadwin and his men had been close to the fighting line for some time.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

I have long wished to pay Marianna Oliver some special attention, for I do greatly enjoy visiting her at the Princess Royal hotel, so when I heard that her cousin, Olivia Oliver, the artist, was coming to stay a few days with her I immediately decided to give as charming a luncheon as I could for her. I tried to think of something particularly new and artistic and I finally hit upon the idea of an orchid affair.

"Dearie," I said to Louise Erwin Fuller when I went to her house to talk the matter over with her, "I was wondering if you would lend me your amethyst glass set. You see, it would be lovely with the orchid linen I'm going to use. You have cocktail glasses, water glasses and parfait cups, haven't you?"

"Yes, they were one of my choicest wedding presents."

"Just the thing with which to honor an engaged girl. Have you heard, Louise, that Olivia Oliver is going to marry a celebrated English etcher? This is really a sort of farewell visit she is making to the Olivers."

"Really? I'm so glad that I shall have a chance to meet her. Lucile, I have always admired her work and thought it so wonderful that Marianna had such a distinguished cousin. How would it do for me to go to your house rather early the day of the luncheon and take the glass with me? I could get it over easily in a taxi."

It was painfully awkward for me to have to explain to Louise that I was having no married women at the luncheon. She gave me the strangest look when I began to say that I thought a bachelor-girl party would be jolliest for the bride-to-be. Her uncomfortable silence made it so difficult for me that I changed the subject and thanked her warmly for the loan of her amethyst glassware, and I told her that I would send for it the day before the party.

"Very well," she replied, "I'll have a professional pack it."

"What a dear you are," I said gayly.

Coming home late in the afternoon, rather rejected, I took the suburban express, although its a little out of my way, but I hoped that I might run across some friend who would cheer me up, and sure enough the first person I met in the station was George Requirer. It seems that he always takes that particular train.

When he asked me how I was I said that he was looking upon a disappointed woman. He gave me a searching glance.

"You do look rather down," he remarked. "If you were a man I'd say you'd just lost a bet. Anything wrong?"

"Not really serious, George," I tried to smile. "I was just vexed because I came downtown to order some flowers for a very special luncheon I'm giving and I can't get them."

"Why not? Aren't the kind you want in the market?"

"They're in the market but the price is prohibitive. I had planned an orchid luncheon, but no orchids for poor little me."

"Oh, well don't cry about it, Lucile," he said so jocularly that I was certainly surprised and delighted the next morning when he telephoned that he had ordered half a bushel of orchids for my shindig, as he called it, and still wasn't quite bankrupt. George is a thoughtful old dear.

"Isn't it a dream?" I asked mother when I called her into the dining room to see the table after I had set it all myself.

"Where did you get that lavender tablecloth and those napkins?" she asked. "Why Lucile, this is the lovely old tulip pattern cloth."

"Yes, I had it and the napkins dyed. Isn't the effect stunning. Colored linen is all the rage now."

"I'm just about in a rage now. Merely for a passing vogue you've ruined that precious old heirloom that your grandfather brought from Belfast on his first cruise in the navy. It's vandalism."

I did not allow her unreasonable anger to spoil my delightful luncheon, nor was I particularly disturbed today by Louise's telephone complaint that I had returned her amethyst glassware carelessly packed. As not one piece was broken I cannot see why she should feel so injured because I did not go to the foolish expense of having a professional packer. She declared it was a miracle that every glass wasn't smashed.

"Well, dear," I remarked laughingly, "we should be thankful for miracles, shouldn't we?" and she was not polite enough to answer.—Chicago News.

Stories That Recall Others

As She is Spoken

One frequently hears English misused, but not often does it grate on one's finer sensibilities as in these two instances.

A man was talking about an ignorant friend of his. "Why, he's the most ignorantest man I ever knew," he explained.

Another man was attending a caucus. Several sheets of paper were on the desk in front of him. One of the men pointing to the paper, said: "Is them sheets yourn?"

Heroes Not Needed

He was going down the street when he noticed a large mongrel-looking dog nipping at a handsome looking fur coat worn by a damsel. He would almost knock her over and slowed up her progress.

"Why that cur will ruin that poor girl's coat. Why, she's embarrassed to death, can't hardly walk. Someone oughta call off that dog." So after getting nerved up a bit more he let out a whistle through his teeth. The big dog stopped, located the whistler and came bounding toward him.

"Get away from here," was the command or the hero, and the dog turned tail and ran.

"You ought to take no chances of getting hydrophobia that way," warned his companion.

Just then the rescued maiden turned, retraced her steps and called in a loud voice, "Yuh, King, yuh King," and the dog responded.

"Remember the old song," grinned the companion, "'You Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dog Around'"?

From Small Beginnings

James Lane Allen, the Southern Boy, A Great Writer

In "Old Kentucky" one of the delights of life is the cardinal bird, a feathered denizen of the trees of the most brilliant cardinal color that appears in the green of the leaves like a tongue of flame. Of this bird James Lane Allen wrote in his novel called The Kentucky Cardinal. In that book and in a number of others Mr. Allen speaks of his love for the south. He makes the reader feel the pleasant warmth of the atmosphere, see the long reaches of meadowland and distant blue of the mountains. There is in these stories something of the unspeakable charm of the soft southern landscape—a delicacy and a refinement that uplift.

James Lane Allen, who wrote such delightful books of the blue grass region, was a boy so poor that he was denied the privileges that most boys have. From the time when he was strong enough he had to work for his living. Even then he went to school whenever he could, and studied privately when he could not go to school. From his family he had drawn a rich inheritance, for his people, if not rich in money, were rich in character. Before the Civil war they had been prosperous and among the leaders. The struggle left them without much property, and made it necessary for the son to work. The spirit of the proud Virginia-Kentucky family showed itself in the young man's determination to gain an education, and in his love for the beautiful regions of the south. That love he kept and transmitted into books that make all their readers love the south.

The young man graduated from Transylvania university with high honors and became a teacher for his Alma Mater. Even as a youth he had tried to write, to put into words the impressions he gained from the region in which he lived. By the time he was 30 he found so many purchasers for his writings that he was able to give up teaching and to devote himself wholly to literature. He took up a residence in New York city and engaged himself in writing. A Summer in Arcady, The Choir Invisible, The Mettle of the Pasture, and many other stories disclose the Kentucky landscape.

Like all good books, James Lane Allen's novels go deeper than the surface, and reveal much concerning human character. The boy who loved the good land in which he was born loved to find delight in making others love it also.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Doe's Advice

Mr. Editor: I understand that there are two more bills on at Washington calling for more money off the backs of the 50c per day farmers of taxable acres, and factory people of meagre incomes with abundant rents to pay!

For the past 10 years congress has put additional burdens on the American people almost every year for huge yearly sums which are growing into billions faster than the American people can produce the basics!

Last year (1925) congress voted additional burdens to the amount of nearly $750,000,000 yearly to two groups of people in the service of the United States government. Members of one group now receive $7.30 per day of eight hours; the other receives $34 per day of an average, perhaps of 4 hours per day to the man. On an average the members of those two groups never saw 1-4 of the sums herein stated for pay before they got into the service of the United States government!

Now let us see who the people are who must make up a living wage for the people in the United States government service!

There are 6,000,000 people in these United States who operate farms. About 3,000,000 have farms in their names, the rest are renters. Mortgages on a large percentage of farms are on a large percentage of farms mortgaged farms have, on an average, supposed to be owned by farmers. The mortgages of about 1-3 of the selling value of the places. The farmers do not work 16 hours per day for fun. They work that many hours to get 50 cents to one dollar per day to run their households.

Now the taxes derived from farm property amount to 60 per cent of the whole amount to run the business of these United States of America.

The factory element is not much better of "considering." The above elements pay about 80 per cent of the costs of the "living wages," $6 to $9 per day, and "adequate amounts," $1w to $35 per day!

What would I advise to correct these apparent decrepancies in American statesmanship?

I would advise the creation of a commission to be composed of expert business men to arrange all salaries of the U. S. government on a strictly business basis!

No More Cloudy Teeth You Restore Color Now

Gain gleaming, sparkling whiteness

Please accept full 10-day tube free. Note the amazing difference in the color of your teeth and firmness of your gums when dingy film is cleared off as leading dentists urge.

• • •

Many heartaches come from "off-color" teeth. Teeth that ruin pretty smiles. Now dingy teeth, authorities prove, can be restored to whiteness quickly.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully clear off. A film that absorbs food discolorations, etc.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a slippery coating covering your teeth. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy often in others. It keeps your smile unattractive. It breeds bacteria, invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea.

Dentists say the way to remove it is with the new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent. All druggists have it. Works wonders on dingy teeth. 10-day test will be sent free.

Reddy Fox Finds New Hunting

No fox will ever knowledge spurn,
But always be prepared to learn.
—Reddy Fox.

"All I have to do is to get within jumping distance of one of them," said Reddy to himself

If any one had told Reddy Fox that he didn't know all there was to know about the hunting of his neighbors, he wouldn't have believed it. You know Reddy is one of the cleverest hunters of all the little people on the Green Meadows or in the Green Forest. He not only knows how to make the best possible use of that wonderful nose of his, of those two keen ears, and of those sharp eyes, but he uses his wits as well. He makes it his business to know all about those whom he hunts; to know all about what they are likely to do. So then, when he goes hunting he is prepared for anything.

But since the coming of Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck the Pheasants, Reddy had found that even so clever a fox as himself could learn. The Ringnecks were a constant aggravation to Reddy Fox. He knew without being told that they must be the very best of eating and from the time he first saw them he made up his mind that sooner or later he would have a Pheasant dinner.

Now, Reddy had often hunted members of Bob White's family. He often had hunted members of Mrs. Grouse's family. He knew just what to expect when he was hunting them. He knew their habits and how they acted in case of danger. He knew how to hunt them. But he knew nothing about Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck the Pheasants. They were in a way similar to the Grouse family and the Bob White family, they would act in the same way. More than once Reddy had caught a young grouse by springing just as it took to its wings and before it was really started. He had seen both Mr. and Mrs. Ringneck fly and he thought them a little slow.

"All I have to do is to get within jumping distance of one of them," said Reddy to himself, "and I'll have one before they can get in the air." So Reddy spent a great deal of time thinking about and planning to catch those Pheasants. He first learned their favorite places. Then he learned when they were most likely to be in those places. Then he felt that he was ready to catch one.

Now Reddy's wonderful little nose can follow the scent left by the feet of a bird just as Bowser's wonderful nose enables him to follow the scent left by Reddy's own feet. So it was that one morning he found the Pheasant scent very strong. Instantly Reddy began to follow it. In a few moments he didn't need to put his nose to the ground, for he could smell Mr. Pheasant just ahead of him. You see, a Merry Little Breeze was blowing toward him. You should have seen Reddy then. He moved without a sound. He placed each little foot so softly that not a leaf rustled. His nose told him that Ringneck was very, very near.

"I'll have a Pheasant dinner this time," thought Reddy, and licked his lips. "That fellow isn't more than a jump or two ahead of me."

Slowly, but cautiously now, he crept forward and he kept right on creeping forward. It was more than two jumps. Reddy began to be puzzled. Why didn't he catch up? He moved a little faster. It made no difference. He could still smell Ringneck the Pheasant just a little bit ahead of him. He moved still faster and still he didn't catch up. Reddy was learning something. It came to him at last that Ringneck was running. Reddy ran too. It was then that Reddy learned that Ringneck put a great deal of trust in those rather long legs of his and that they can carry him very swiftly. It was some time before Reddy could get near enough to make Ringneck take to his wings. When at last he did they were some distance from where Reddy had caught the first scent.

'Straightening out the puzzling details

AN order which does not give detailed information and requirements is an exasperation to the firm which tries to fill it. If the supplier undertakes to put his own interpretation on what is wanted, he assumes the responsibility for error. If he plays safe and sends for further specifications, the completion of the order is delayed. It is an uncomfortable situation, either way.

The Putnam Company, manufacturers of steam and water heaters, loses no time and takes no chances. Toll telephone service gets the necessary facts at once. "When letters come into the office in the morning which do not give us the information we need to complete the order", says Mr. Samuel Reynolds, Treasurer and General Manager, "we get the customers on toll telephone calls, and in just a minute or two can straighten out what would take at least three days by mail". And he adds: "I am at a loss to know how we would get along without this toll telephone service".

No matter what kind of information is wanted, a toll call will get it—and get it quickly. Hundreds of alert, enterprising business men throughout the State realize this, and rely increasingly on toll telephone service to help them in the efficient conduct of their affairs. It proves its worth many times during every hour of the working day.

Various classes of toll telephone service are available. If you are not familiar with the advantages of each, our local Exchange Manager will gladly point out to you the kinds which will most efficiently serve your needs.

Y. M. C. A. PASSES $10,000 MARK IN ONE-DAY CAMPAIGN FOR BUDGET

Under the splendid leadership given by Judge Allyn L. Brown as campaign chairman and Herbert R. Cary as campaign manager, from 40 to 50 men worked in fine harmony and with great enthusiasm Monday in the one-day campaign of the Young Men's Christian association for the funds needed to carry on the work of the year.

The workers reported at the 8:15 breakfast meeting the amount secured in the preliminary work and again at noon and at supper time the reports were handed in, making a total of $10,113 for the day. The team captains were, President James C. Macpherson, Team A; Shepard B. Palmer, Team B; Frank L. Arnold, Team C; H. D. Johnson, Team D; Harold S. Burt, Team E.

When a local organization can put on a campaign of one day and secure over $10,000 for curent expenses, it was looked upon as an indication that the institution has a warm place in the hearts of the people, and many cordial compliments of the work done by the association were heard during the day and these naturally encouraged the workers.

The ladies, as usual, played an important part in providing the meals for the gathering of the workers. Breakfast was in charge of Mrs. Edwin Hill and Miss Mary Porteous, assisted by ladies of the Central Baptist church. The luncheon was in charge of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary with Miss Mary E. Richards, Mrs. L. O. Smith and Miss Marion L. Bishop in charge. The supper was served by the ladies of Park Congregational church under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Smiley and her assistants.

The ladies of the Central Baptist church furnished and served the preliminary supper last Friday evening and the ladies of the Greeneville Congregational church arranged the tables for the Monday breakfast.

Harry Hedley Smith, Y. M. C. A. state secretary, was in the campaign throughout the day Monday, giving valuable assistance, and at the breakfast and supper hours gave brief and entertaining talks which were heartily applauded.

James L. Case, who was out of town during the campaign, returned in time for the supper meeting and was called upon for remarks. He stated that he considered it a remarkable feat for any orrganization to secure over $10,000 in one day and he congratulated the workers.

Appropriate remarks by Judge Brown, Campaign Manager Cary and President Macpherson won applause, and Mr. Cary expressed for the association his deep appreciation to all the workers for their splendid co-operation. The meeting passed a rising vote of thanks and gave three cheers for the two leaders in the campaign.

On account of the very brief period of the campaign it was found absolutely impossible to see the large number of prospects and arrangements were made to follow up the campaign immediately. Indications are clear that within the next week quite a sum will be added to the amount now secured towards the goal of $15,000 which was announced at the anniversary service Sunday night at the Central Baptist church.

The accompanying table shows the results by teams on Monday:

BAPTIST MEN'S CLASS ENTERTAINS METHODIST MEN

The City Bible class of the Central Baptist church entertained the Everyman's Bible class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening as a complimentary reception at the Central Baptist church. It will be remembered that the two classes engaged in an attendance contest recently, the losing class to entertain the winners. The Baptist men's class lost out in the contest and entertained the Methodist men's class in payment of the "debt". There were about 125 men present.

With James L. Case chairman of the evening, the programme opened with music by Swahn's orchestra. The address of welcome was given by Shepard B. Palmer, president of the City Bible class, and Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, also extended a hearty wlecome to the visiting class. The responses were by Edwin B. Floyd, president of the Everyman's class, and Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

The Colonials of Norwich then provided a splendid entertainment. The artists comprise Miss Hazel Banfield, Mrs. Mabel Buckingham, vocalist, and Miss Mary Gray, pianist. The programme included:

Duet, O Moment That I Bless, Mrs Buckingham and Miss Banfield; solo, Smiles, May Magis, Mrs. Buckingham; solos, China Tragedy, and God Touched the Rose, Miss Banfield; solos, Only a Rose and Little Yellow Dog, Mrs. Buckingham; The Singing School (Leila Church), a sketch, Mrs. Buckingham and Miss Banfield; A Remarkable Thing, with local hits, Mrs. Buckingham and Miss Banfield.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott gave a short address on Living Together and William J. Banfield entertained with a remarkable magical and sleight of hand exhibition. Selections by Swahn's orchestra, and refreshments of ice cream, cookies and chocolates brought a delightful evening to a close about 10 o'clock.

DEAD BABY'S BODY FOUND IN CEMETERY

The body of a newly born white male baby, weighing between 10 1-2 and 12 pounds, was found near the Oak street wall of the city cemetery Monday morning about 7:30 by Superintendent Aubrey W. Jarvis. The wrappings about the body, which looked like pieces of an apron and a skirt were moist so that the conclusion was reached that the bundle with the dead baby in its had been there over night. The bundle was pinned together with safety pins.

When the police were notified, Sergeant Myron O. Morgan sent Officer John O'Neil and Supernumerary Joseph Gendron to bring the body to police headquarters, from which it was taken by Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve for burial in the almshouse cemetery. Dr. Gildersleeve stated that the baby had evidently been suffocated at birth. There was little about the wrappings to offer any clue as to who might have placed the body in the cemetery.

SPRING RALLY FOR NORWICH C. E. UNION

Every indication points to the greatest spring rally which the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union has had in year: which is being planned for Friday evening of this week in the Central Baptist church. The speaker of the evening is to be Rev. E. E. Sundt, Baptist pastor at South Willington. Mr. Sundt is a young man and greatly interested in young people. At the Baptist rally last spring he brought 40 young women from South Willington to the eastern Connecticut Baptist rally in Norwich. He is therefore well known to many Norwich young people whoare anticipating his coming with much pleasure.

Reports from many of the societies on tickets sold indicate a very large attendance. The final reports are to be in the hands of Miss Edith Ellis today (Tuesday). William G. The fire department was called out twice Monday for two separate fires in a pile of old lumber in the rear of No. 46 Oakridge street. Boys had set fire to grass nearby and the flames spread to the lumber pile. The first call came in at 3:54 o'clock in the afternoon and the second call was received at 8:33 o'clock. Chemical and water lines were used on the blazing lumber. The second fire was in a different spot from the first.

HUSBAND DID THE WASHING

His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.

One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the newspaper to read. Among the advertisements she noticed a letter from another sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I'll try it," she decided.

Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.

In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She has told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 5, Brownwood, Texas.

SUSIE AND HER FRIEND TAKE UP HIKING AS AN OUTDOOR PASTIME

Susie and her girl friend do a little touring on their own during the past week and Susie says its great fun but she'd hate to have to go to California that way. She also listens in on the local broadcasting station and has a few remarks to make. Her letter follows:

Dear Sports Ed:

'Tween bummin' rides from good lookin' sheiks, and some that never posed for no collar adds, and the radio broadcastin' I sure has been havin' a hectic week. Say, dkdja ever try to get some place that you wanted to go but ain't got no means of transportin' yourself except on two legs what was made to display hoisery? Well if you ain't, don't, 'cause it ain't no cinch. You ask me how I know? Well I am talkin' right from the heart and from personage experience so's I know what's what.

Well, it's this way. Me and Mabel has been to Boston to see a coupla girl friends. Mabel's a new girl friend what's good lookin' but I've come to the conclusion she ain't there when it comes to good sense. Well as I said before we had been visitin' in Boston and like all good things our stay come to a end. We was intendin' to come home on the train but Mabel says she gotta idea. Gosh, that dern near floored me thinkin' how Mabel's got a idea 'cause you know she's one of them sorta dumb but beautiful girls, while I ain't even good lookin'. Well, I says spill it, Mabel, old dear, so's it won't give you no headache. And this is what she unfolded to me. Says Mabel, lets you and me bum our way back to Norwich without havin' to pay out no money. I guess it musta been that last few words what gets me "without payin' no money." Gosh ain't them sweet soundin'. They sure is 'cause it ain't no cinch to get somethin' for nothin' these days. Well I fell for her plan and we starts.

Well you know how high hat them Boston people is so we don't have no luck at pickin' up no rides till we get out on the open road. Then we nails a feller with a neat lookin' car and when he pulls up side us we says with a smile what would put the Mona Lisa King Tut, "How'd you like company on your lonely ride?" Well, says the rustic, "I'd take you gals along but I gotta meet my wife down the road a ways so's I guess I better be alone when I meets her." Gosh ain't funny how a feller like him could be drivin' a snappy car? Well I guess I know who's boss in his house and it ain't him. Well we didn't get down hearted over that set back but we says "feet do your stuff" and we hoofs it along the dreary pike. Cars keeps passin' us but nobody don't give us no tumble 'till we'd hiked about a mile, seemed like 20 to me, when we hears a horn tootin' in back of us. I turns around and pipes a big sedan with a coupla fellers in it and I says to Mabel "do your stuff kid and don't muff it 'cause if you do I's gonna pass out on you right now".

Well Mabel sure does her stuff. She turns around and just smothers them two guys with one of them dazzling smiles of her's and them guys is lost. They's a squeal of brakes and the car comes to a stop. Them fellers is real class. "Would you girls enjoy a lift?" Well Mabel kinda hesitates like she didn't wanta appear unladylike but I gives her a shove and she barks her shins as she falls into the car. I ain't takin' no chances that them fellers might change their minds and besides my feet ain't gonna stand much more hoofin' it. Well we climbs into the rear seat and believe me Ed, when I hits them cushions I kinda just sinks down into 'em and don't care what happens. Mabel she's all excited like but I just wanta rest. We'd drove for about a coupla miles when one of the fellers says let's change seats but seein' how's I am pretty comfortable I says no. I ain't takin' no chances with no strange fellers. Well them fellers, who by the way, was a coupla doctors on a week end huntin' trip, so's they said, drived us clean into Providence, where we gets out and thanks 'em kindly.

Well we fed up in the outlet to New England and then begins to think of getting home. Gosh Providence is nearer Norwich than Boston but it ain't right under the eves of the old Rose of New England. We hikes it out of town onto the open road again and we have better luck this time We sees one of them flivvers comin' ratlin' down the road. Mabel says here goes it's better to ride in a flivver than to walk but I don't know about that, it may be tough on your feet to walk but believe me it's tough on every part of your body to ride on a flivver. Well the feller what's driving this chariot of torture is a feller what's got long whiskers with the hayseed just droppin' outa 'em when he hits a hump in the road. But that don't make no difference to us cause it ain't the clothes nor the whiskers what makes a man. Mabel flags the old boy and starts "Sweet daddyin him" and he says gol dern it gals I sure will give you a ride in my car such nice lookin' young wimen oughtn't to be walkin'. Well the old boy warn't so slow at that and he proves to be a regular feller for he stops along the road and buys us a coupla hot dogs and some ice cream. We ride with this old feller for about 20 miles when he finally rolls up in fronta a smell lookin' house that just oozed money. Here's where I hang my hat gals and the wife is expectin' me to come in right away. He invites us in to see the Mrs. but we says we gotta be goin' along. He says he'd like to take us farther but he's gotta play bridge that evenin' and the chores ain't done. Ken you beat that, that old hayshaker goin' out to play bridge. To see him you'd think tiddle de winks and the minuet was the most disappating amusement that old codger ever had. Some speed to even the farmer boys these days.

The next car what we rid in was one of the same make as the last but it was more aged and had more rattles and less springs. It had four wheels and that was all we cared. It got us over the ground so's that's all we cared. The driver was a young feller what said he was a plumber and we said we was college girls out for a lark. He was a good guy but he was cross-eyed and I was kinda scared he'd drive where he was lookin' but he kept in the middle of the highway. He tells us his life history, and how he wanted to go to college but hadda do plumbin' instead. Touch luck says Mabel. I just knowed you'd make a great football player I can see it in your eyes. I don't know what she pulled that line for but he just swelled up like a sponge in water. He says where you girls goin' and we says Norwich and he says if you wanta I'll get a friend we'll go to that village I says I don't care nothin' about his friends but I wanta get home. Well Mabel pipes up and says sure thinkin' maybe the new feller would have a coupla good eyes. Well whadda you know, I'll be darned if the second feller didn't have cross eyes too and besides one of 'em was brown and the other was blue. Gosh it was funny ridin' in that flivver roadster and them two fellers lookin' at you. You didn't know which feller was lookin' at you or whether they was both watchin' each other. Course I ain't suspicious of cross-eyed fellers and black cats but it kinda give me the creeps thinkin' of all the bad luck we was toting in that antiquated hack.

Whadda you think of that new broadcastin' station? Gosh it may be all right but I don't know I want it as a steady diet. All I can hear is "this is station WCSR Norwich Conn, the Rogues of New England," and then some feller reads a lotta names what sounds like the city directory and everybody says program is comin' in fine. 'Course there was some pretty good music and singing and talkin and talkin' but I guess if everybody else likes it I ain't goin' to be one what's goin' knock it.

Say Ed they's some fellers in this towns what nice an' polite ain't they? They is not. I'm speakin' of a feller what tends door in one of the theatres in town. I was up there one afternoon and wanted to telephone but the public phone in the lobby was outa order and the girl at the ticket office says use their phone. Well I wants to use but this feller on the door says you ain't gonna use no phone here in business hours you gotta go somewhere's else. Nice feller and I bet I go to his theatre again and I bet a lotta my friends go there too, yes sons rainy Tuesday. These accomodatin' fellers like him is a good boost for business, I guess not.

Well Ed so long 'till next time.

RICKARD READY TO SIGN DEMPSEY FOR BOUT

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 19.—(AP)—Tex Rickard arrived here today to sign articles of agreement tomorrow with Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, for a championship match next August or September in which Gene Tunney probably will be the contender for Dempsey's crown.

The heavyweight champion will arrive here from El Paso either late tonight or early tomorrow. All arrangements for the signing of the articles were conducted by wire and were completed before Rickard left New York.

"Tunney, in my opinion," said Rickard, "is the logical man to meet Dempsey. Tunney is a better fighter than Wills, and for that reason, I expect to send him in."

Rickard explained he had Tunney already under contract, and that as soon as Dempsey signs everything will be in readiness. The fight will take place August 12 or September 3 or 16 in Yankee stadium, New York city.

The first race for the Latham piloted crew will be on Saturday on the Severn against the Navy eight oared shell. The Massachusets crew leaves today for Annapolis to prepare for the race. The other crew dates are: Columbia May 15; Harvard and Pennsylvania on May 22; Harvard, Cornell and Navy on May 29.

EIGHTEEN YEAR OLD BOY SETS WORLD'S MARK IN FAMOUS BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, April 19.—(AP)—A youth of 18, running his first marathon race, set a new world record today. John C. Miles of Sydney Mines, N. S., was first home in the 30th Boston A. A. marathon in a field of 88 runners which included Albin Stenroos of Finland, Olympic champion, and Clarence DeMar of Melrose, four times winner of the event. The winner's time was nearly four minutes under the world's record set by DeMar over the same course in 1924.

It was a two man contest almost from the start at Hopkinton. Miles drew away from the field at Natick, five miles from the starting line, pounded along on the heels of the Olympic champion to Lake street, five miles from home, and in the final stretch sprinted away to finish 400 yards in the lead. The Nova Scotia youth set a pace that forced Senroos himself to clip 1-5 of a second off the old world record time. Miles' time was 2 hours, 25 minutes, 40 2-5 seconds. Stenroos covered the 26 miles, 385 yards in 2:29:40. The old record was 2:29:40 1-5.

The veteran DeMar, who won the event in 1911, 1922, 1923 and 1924, was a poor third at the finish line at the Boston A. A. club house here. His time was 2:32:15. DeMar started the favorite and was cheered by thousands at every checking point along the route, but the pace was too fast for the Melrose sprinter. William Kennedy, of Portchester, N. Y., the only other former winner entered in the race, finished in eighth place in 2.44:01. Kennedy was the victor in 1917, and has competed in every Boston marathon for years.

The Finnish-American A. C., of New York, was awarded the team trophy, given this year for the first time in connection with the race. Entries from this club finished second, sixth and seventh in the marathon. They were, in order, Stenroos, Karl Koski and Nestor Erickson.

The first 12 runners to finish were:
1—John C. Miles, Sydney Mines, N. S., 2:25:40 2-5. (New world record.)
2—Albin Stenroos, Finland, 2:29:40.
3—Clarence DeMar, Melrose, 2:32:15.
4—Albert R. Michelsen, Portchester, N. Y., 2:34:03 2-5.
5—Wallie Carlson, Dorchester, 2:40:35.
7—Nestor Erickson, New York, 2:42:35 2-5.
8—William Kennedy, Portchestre, N. Y., 2:44:01.
9—J. Foxcroft Carleton, East Sandwich, 2:44:20.
10—Arthur R. Sholes, Toronto, Ont., 2:48:14.
11—Thomas E. Quinlan, Medford, 2:53:32.
12—Christopher Bolekos, Osterville, 2:53:49.

Young Miles was the first Canadian to win the event since Edouard Fabre of Montreal led the field in 1915, was fresh at the finish. He said later that he had never before entered in a race over a course more than 10 miles. Next week he is to engage in a three mile race. Although born in Cardiff, Wales, he has spent most of his life in Sydney Mines, N. S., where he drives a grocery wagon. He has worked in the coal mines, but not as a miner. He was trained for the race by his father, John W. Miles, who formerly was a boxer. Miles had never run over the Hopkinton-Boston course, but walked over it once to study the terrain. Both of his parents were at the club house to greet him as he broke the tap at the finish.

Three countrymen of Miles finished among the first 15. They were Arthur R. Scholes of Toronto, who was tenth, James A. Dellow of Toronto, 13th and Francis T. O'Donnell, of Montreal, who was in 14th position. Boston A. A., officials remarked that the runners this year appeared to be in better condition after the race than in former seasons. This was attributed to the cool, bracing weather as well as to the training methods of the athletes.

In winning the club trophy the Finnish-American A. C., New York, had a total of 15 points. The Cygnet A. C., Portchester, N. Y., was second with 32 points, by placing Michelsen in fourth place, Kennedy in eighth and John Rosi in 20th. The Gladstone A. C., Toronto, was third, with 45 points, the Millrose A. C., New York, fourth with 74, and the Dorchester club, Boston, fifth with 84.

After the race Senroos said that the only difficulty he had found with the course was among the Newton hills, where the steep grade wore down his strength. Senpos had complained that the course was too short. At the finish today he said be believed it to be long enough.

Senroos, who broke the standing record by 1-5 of a second, said his greatest trouble had been on the hills of Wellesley and the Newtons.

DeMar congratulated the winner and then said:

"He's a wonderful runner. If at 18 he can better my record by four minutes, I don't know what he will be doing after he has been running 17 years and has reached my age."

UPPER MIDDLERS HAND BAD TRIMMING TO THE SENIORS

In an inter-class game at the Academy campus Monday afternoon the Upper Middlers of room 20, defeated the seniors of room 23 by a score of 20 to 0. Tombari pitching for the victors, hurled a no hit-no run game. Mish, his battery mate caught a nice game. There were many features in the game which included Schwartz's sensational base stealing, Disco's ballhawking and the hitting of Ed Brewer, Tombari, Sadinsky, Mish and Murphy. Room 20 gathered 18 hits off Wilcox's delivery and would now like a game with senior B division of the senior class.

He declared he was ready to meet Gene Tunney, whom Rickard has under contract for a championship bout. Dempsey prepared to leave tonight for Fort Worth, where he will confer tomorrow with Rickard.

RED SOX AND ATHLETICS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER

BOSTON, April 19—(AP)—The Red Sox and Athletics divided the Patriot's Day twin bill here today. While Lefty Grove held the Sox to three scattered hits, his team-mates touched Wingfield for seven safeties and took the morning encounter by a score of 3 to 1. In the afternoon after the annual B. A. A. marathon 15,000 fans gathered to see the home team upset the Mackmen 3 to 1. The second game was featured by sensational fielding on the part of the Hub outfit. Ira Flagstead turned in several circus catches in the outfield, cutting off two Philadelphia runs at the plate and headed a four man double play that nipped a threatening Philly rally. Bischoff's single which followed a single by Rigney and Herrera's double accounted for the Red Sox runs.

Sleeplessness

Comes from Constipation

Loss of sleep—a waning appetite—low spirits—these are only a few of the symptoms of constipation.

They warn that poisons from the waste matter are being absorbed by the blood and carried to all parts of your body. Your vitality is lowered until you become a prey to serious disease.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit, and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

As he has not been before the court during sixteen months he was allowed to redeem a promise he made that he would let booze alone hereafter.

Frank Quinn, employed in construction work at the building being erected on Bank street near Huntington street, was arrested on a breach of the peace and of intoxication. He was pushed or fell through a window on North Bank street Quinn paid for the damage occasioned and then he was allowed to return to his employment.

North Bank street is to have an other restaurant, boosting the number of such places in the city up to nearly 50.

The state teachers and parents association is to meet at this city next week when some 500 attendants are expected here.

Mrs. Emma M. Cole, about 50, wife of Charles R. Cole, died Sunday at her home where she had been ill a number of months. She is survived, besides her husband, by a daughter, Mrs. Cornelius O'Leary, and a son, Herbert Cole. Mrs. Cole formerly resided in Brooklyn, N. Y., but had lived in New London ten years.

The police have been unable to obtain any trace of the Paige sport roadster belonging to Attorney George Curtis Morgan, stolen from its place of parking on Meredan street Saturday night or Sunday morning. It is believed that the thief was many miles from New London when the theft of the car was discovered, for it was eighteen hours after the car had been stolen. If the thief took the automobile during Saturday night he could have been many miles outside the state when its theft was discovered.

George Brady, 119 Golden street, whose Ford coupe was stolen Sunday night is much luckier than Mr. Morgan, for this morning when Brady arose he found his car parked outside his residence, just where it had been stolen the night before. It is the opinion of the police that friends of Mr. Brady took the car for a joy ride.

The force of city employes engaged for several days in making repairs to the west side of Montauk avenue, between Bank street and the overhead bridge of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, have completed that task, the work having been accomplished this morning. The repair gang will now give attention to Pequot and Ocean avenues, which thoroughfares are in a condition of repair, after which a score of other streets will undergo repairs.

Mrs. Viola Glynn, 25, wife of Frederick L. Glynn, 37 Eastern avenue died late yesterday at Lawrence hospital, where she had been under treatment but a day. Mrs. Glynn had been ill several days and when her condition became critical Saturday she was transferred to the hospital.

Mr. Jeffrey was a resident of New London many years and was a member of the local Masonic fraternity. He had been ill since December, 1924, when he was struck by an automobile and sustained such injuries as to incapacitate him permanently.

The rules have been announced in the contest for the $5 gold piece offered by the New London League of Women Voters in connection with Better Homes Week. The competition is for the best menu submitted for a dinner for three adults and two children. The dinner is to cost not more than $2.50 excluding the time and fuel expended. The menu must include the cost and quantity of food purchased and the method of preparation. The contest is open to any resident of New London and contestants must submit their menus to Mrs. C. A. Carr of 767 Montauk avenue, chairman of the committee before April 24 unsigned but with the name and address inclosed on a separate piece of paper. Each copy will be given a name and the judges will publish the name of the person receiving the award and of those getting honorable mention.

BANK STREET IMPROVEMENTS NOT TO BE UNDERTAKEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 19.—The improvements which the city council was desirous of making in Bank street will not be attempted this year, if indeed they are ever proceeded with. The cost and the probability of many law suits being instituted by property owners has led to the abandonment of the scheme.

The compensation board, to which the matter was referred and which held hearings on three different occasions, this evening recommended that the scheme be abandoned, in other words that the city draw its sled and give up the undertaking. The cost was close to $50,000. However, traffic is to be regulated on the street, which is what the closest observers have concluded, after a study of the situation, was the wise thing to do. The council seems not to have taken into consideration that it would have been a physical impossibility to have done what was contemplated and to have placed two sets of trolley tracks in the street and then have anything like the space it now has for the handling of traffic.

Of 15 applications for permits to erect buildings and alter structures, two were for cottages, and nine for garages, with others for porches, additions, etc. The city voted to buy curbing for sidewalk purposes. The city manager was given authority to contract for the stretching of wires for the fire alarm whistle on Water street, the change being made necessary by reason of the occupancy of the building now used for the fire alarm whistle apparatus for other purposes. The cost of the change is estimated at $400.

It was decided that the remaking of Ledyard street, Waldo street and Denison avenue cannot be undertaken at present. The streets of the city have become so expensive that all the work necessary cannot be done the coming summer.

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS SEWER DEFERRED FOR PRESENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 19.—Riverside Heights is not to have right away the sewer which property owners there created so much discussion about. The project would be a very expensive one, the public works committee decided, and recommended to the council that the work should be deferred. That recommendation was adopted and the report was received and accepted by the council this evening as one of progress.

The city manager was requested to furnish a list of the streets of the city that have not been accepted as such that the council may be advised as to these streets so that it may be ready to go ahead with improvements or to deny requests for such.

New duties were imposed upon the commissioner of charities by an ordinance read for the first time this evening and powers which have heretofore rested in the selectmen were delegated to the city manager.

Frank Saunders asked that several assessments paid by him unjustly be refunded. The matter was taken under advisement and Mr. Saunders met with the council to consider the matter after the meeting adjourned this evening. The amount alleged to have been overpaid is $129.

Milton Sills holds the record for pugilistic conquests in the movies. Except for the The Sea Hawk, he has stared furious fistic encounters in practically every picture in which he has been filmed, and not infrequently has carried bruises and abrasions for days after, as a result.

In As Man Desires, in which Sills is co-featured with Viola Dana, he engages in two battles. As a British army captain in the Indian service, he battles his superior officer. Forced to flight to escape a murder charge later, he appears as the captain of a pearl fishing schooner and battles Tom Kennedy, one-time heavyweigh, contender. The prize here is the love of Viola, who has the role of a dancing girl of the South Sea Islands.

CONCERT HALLS SEATS FOUND INADEQUATE

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The present season of music, approaching its close, in retrospect reveals that the largest of the city's concert halls are frequently inadequate to the demands by its ever-growing music-loving public.

This, says the critics, is not the age of great vocalists, if instrumental virtuosos or of genius in composers or conductors. But box-office receipts testify that the year has been one of large, even great audiences. People have crammed into available space in Carnegie hall, the Metropolitan Opera house, Aeolian hall, the Brooklyn Academy of Music and other highly pulverized musical centers as never before.

The pressure of a sprouting concert-going public is having its inning, too, in real estate circles. The Metropolitan Opera Real Estate company, having decided the old opera house is antediluvian, as mechanical and producing equipment go, has purchased a site for a new opera house.

Carnegie Hall, New York's concert center since 1890, was sold last year by the Carnegie estate. The new owner, Robert E. Simon, said at the time that Carnegie hall would be continued as a concert hall and that there were no plans to raze it and replace it with a modern structure. It begins to look, however, as if there already is a demand for a new more spacious home in which the symphony societies and the major singers and instrumentalists may give their concerts.

From the night of its first performance of the 1925-26 year, always the official and fashionable opening of the musical season, nights at the Metropolitan Opera House have found enthusiasts banked about the large horseshoe aisle bordering the sides and rear of the red plush parquet—all standing and content to do so. Exceptional casts, revivals, or new operas invariably filled the old Metropolitan.

Two debuts in particular, those of Mary Lewis and Marion Talley, attracted such mobs that the assistance of the police was required to keep space. The initial appearance of these two American girls drew the largest crowds the opera had ever seen.

For the last two years it has been impossible to purchase seats for a concert of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra at Carnegie hall. The orchestra plays its New York concerts customarily on Tuesday nights. On these evenings begins to form early a line of people who would willingly purchase seats were they available. But Carnegie's capacity is only 3,000—shall these days—20 only standing room remains. The orchestra's standee following grew to be such a large and important element of the audiences that ticket-selling regulations were instituted for their benefit.

The New York symphony society gave most of its concerts at Mecca Temple, a new structure seating many more than the older Aeolian hall, where it played for so many years. Even there, however, sell outs were frequent and the S. R. O. shingle was hung in the foyer.

The season has seen two younger musical societies spring suddenly into popular favor. They are the League of Composers, which gives programmes of unheard music, and the International Composers Guild, which gives encouragement to and plays music of composers of all lands. The trend to modern music has given these societies audiences of unaccustomed size. Stanleys overwhelmed them. The society of Friends of Music is another reputable musical organization which may have to move to a larger hall for its programmes.

Kreisler seldom advertises his violin recitals any more. The mere hint of an appearance sells out Carnegie hall for him. The same popularity obtains for Hoffman, Paderewski and many others.

Broadway Theater

Brilliant entertainment was presented at the Broadway theater yesterday, when the Keith vaudeville offering was seen on the stage.

William Lynch and Marianne May in Tips and Taps which was a fine varied assortment of dance and song.

Harry Rappl and His Violin followed in deuce spot. This versatile personality not only amuses with his violin, but sings, dances and talks.

Bryan Lee and Mary Cranston are old hands at the game of fun. Their vehicle is called Mary, Queen of Shots, scene of which is near Carey's Glen, Ireland. It is keen edged comedy, all through.

Faber and Margie another comedy couple tore down the house with their rapid fire comedy patter that is both new and good.

The Three Danuhes closed the bill. They offer a novelty act with some good comedy for measure which pleased the enthusiastic crowd.

The Home Maker, a wonderfully realistic screen play of home life in America with its many little tragedies and comedies vividly portrayed, is at the Broadway theater today as a Universal-Jewel King Baggot release. Alice Joyce and Clive Brook are seen in the two leading roles supported by a most capable group of players. Among them are George Fawcett, Frank Newberg, Margaret Campbell, Martha Mattox, Lloyd Whitlock, Virginia Boardman, Billy Schaeffer, Maurice Murphy, Jacqueline Wells, Elaine Ellis, and Mary Gordon. The Home Maker is from Dorothy Canfield's famous story of the same name. It was directed by King Baggot.

Palace Theater

The progress of Tom Moore in the title part, through the film version of The Song and Dance Man, according to the research department of the Paramount-Long Island studio, represents a true and virtually complete history of the development of the song and dance type of vaudeville performer. That is to say, Tom Moore starts out with a carnival, works up through the black-face singing and dancing act, which was the outgrowth of Negro minstrelsey, and finally in the latter scenes of the picture appears as the modern straight song-and-dance vaudevillian.

If the role of the vaudeville dancer, played by Bessie Love, is taken into consideration, the history is complete, for she becomes the star of a musical comedy, which is illustrative of the story of many of the stars of legitimate productions of today, including George M. Cohan himself, author of The Song and Dance Man, who got his early training upon the variety stage.

The back-stage atmosphere and life of the theater is faithfully reproduced in his picture, which mirrors the pathetic trials and triumphs of a typical song and dance trouper.

Bread Theater

That is the way Frank Currier, veteran of stage and screen, describes the work of Marion Davies.

Currier spent almost a half century behind the footlights and helped train the now famous Julia Marlowe when she was Fanny Brough—a little Miss Nobody.

"Miss Davies has a natural genius that cannot be supressed," says Currier, "and she always will be as great as the vehicle in which she appears. I have always admired her screen work but it was not until I was brought into close contact with her during the filming of Lights of Old Broadway at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio that I realized her great ability.

"I believe that this picture will increase her screen following to a number not equalled by any other film star. Throughout the entire making of the picture I have closely observed her work and marvelled at her ability to take direction and to put her thoughts into expression that could be caught by the camera."

Lights of Old Broadway will be shown for the last times today at the Breed theater and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a Spat comedy.

Strand Theater

Words can only hint vaguely at the spirit of sheer comedy which breezes through Douglas MacLean's latest screen triumph, Introduce Me, which opened last night at the Strand theater and remains until Wednesday.

It is safe to say that this picture will long remain a model farce comedy for other producers to imitate but it is difficult to see how it can ever be eclipsed. It confirms the growing opinion that Douglas MacLean is the screen's most gifted light comedian. It cannot be compared with any former efforts of this youthful star, so far does it surpass any of his previous successes.

Introduce Me is one long succession of thrills, fun and love which gathers speed as it rushes to an amazing climax. The audience last night never had a chance to catch up on the laughs. Douglas MacLean has introduced into this delicious story of a would be mountaineer some of the most hair-raising adventures ever presented in a picture and this clean cut young American makes his efforts without the aid of queer clothes or grotesque actions.

The performance was marked with long-drawn applause, chuckles of mirth, staccato, laughter and sitting-on-the-edge-of your seat thrills.

The Mermaid comedy Hold Your Hat added to the fun, for this is one of finest short comedies of the year. A new Kinograms, visualizing the news of the world closed this all comedy program.

AVERAGE AMERICAN SPENDS PENNY A DAY ON CONFECTIONS

CHICAGO, Apprll 19 (AP)—A penny a day comes from the pocket of the average American to buy peanuts, gum, or some similar confection from a vending machine.

Somewhere near a million dollars a day, mostly in pennies, is pushed through narrow slots into vending devices. The machine which vends its wares for one cent almost invariably takes in larger receipts than a machine operated by a nickel, a dime or some larger coin.

There is a slot machine to every ten in the United States, and the ratio may be even smaller, according to manufacturers. More than a dozen operating companies count receipts of upwards of half a million a year.

The largest single operator is believed to be William Wrigley, who recently purchased the machines in the New York subways, where approximately 1,000 are maintained. The Pulver gum company, the Chicago Rapid Transit company, James Atkinson of Chicago, and the D. M. C. company, of Los Angeles, are the large operators.

The average receipts of a vending machine are $3 a month, though some strings average $5, and other smaller groups as high as $15.

Of a hundred or more vending devices, the newest is a radio whose dials are released on insertion of a nickel, permitting the listener to tune in for several minutes on any station he wishes to hear.

The end of the lunch basket is foreseen by manufacturers in the perfection of new types of vending machines. They predict sandwich, pie and coffee vending devices will be in every office and factory presently so that the worker may get a hotter fresher lunch than he can bring from home.

MONEY, WIVES OR EASE OF MIND HOLD OFF STARDOM

For some of the leading men of the screen are beginning to try sleepless teeth on the glittering coin of stardom. They have found that it is not all gold. Warner Baxter, who support-ed Bebe Daniels in her comedy features, signed a new three-year contract with Famous Players-Lasky. He insisted on a clause which forbids the producers making him a star at any time or advertising him as a star.

It is a financial question say those of stellar magnitude who agree with Baxter. A leading man, supporting well known women stars, is good for ten years in pictures. With relatively small increase in salary the man who is starred will average two or three years of popularity.

But it is also a question of peace of mind, for the star must share with the producer the worry of choosing appropriate stories, proper casting and production. The step between cheers and jeers is a short one in motion pictures, it is pointed out, and a star's reputation built on numerous successes may be wrecked with one poorly-chosen vehicle which "flops."

Those who take the supporting roles say they can gracefully retire to minor parts or character acting while the star who loses popularity has little place left in pictures.

Wives also have played a part in one or two instances where stardom has been rejected as unwelcome. They feared to risk the strain on husband's hatbands which sometimes results from billboard ballyhoo, publicity and the adoration of flapper film fans.

SEEKS SOLUTION OF RADIO MYSTERY—CRYSTAL DETECTOR

ITHACA, N. Y., 19 (AP)—The mystery of the crystal detector now is being subjected to an intensive study by Professor Ernest Merritt, head of the Cornel physics department, who believes important results hinge upon the solution.

Familiar to all radio enthusiasts this simple little device has been known to physicists for 20 years, but no one has been able to explain its action satisfactorily.

"Most crystal detectors," said Professor Merritt, "are natural minerals of rather complicated composition and very likely to be impure. In my study of the subject I am trying to simplify the problem by using elements which are as nearly as possible chemically pure, instead of complicated compounds.

"I have found that selenium and germanium are excellent detectors, and confidently expect that several other elements will show similar action. The most promising theory of the crystal's action now seems to be something as follows:

This Flavor

alone will satisfy you in quick cooking oats —"Quaker" flavor

IN QUICK QUAKER—the world's fastest hot breakfast—the famous toasty flavor of the real Quaker Oats has been retained.

That, to you, is important; for flavor is the big point, after all, in food.

No other brand has that flavor. It took Quaker Oats experts years to attain it, and, at the same time, give you 3 to 5 minute cooking.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced food.

That is why, in quick cooking oats as in the regular, the important point to millions is to see the picture of a Quaker on the package of Oats that they buy.

POETRY

Northern Lights

And soft they danced from the Polar sky and swept in the primrose haze;
And swift they pranced with their silver feet, and pierced with a blinding blaze.
They danced a cotillion in the sky; they were rose and silver and;
It was not good for the eyes of man;
'twas a sight for the eyes of God.
And the skies of night were alive with light, with a throbbing, thrilling flame,
Amber, and rose, and violet, opal and gold it came.
Pennants of silver waved and streamed, lazy banners unfurled;
Sudden splendors of sabres gleamed, lightning javeline hurled;
There in our awe we crouched and saw with our wild, uplifted eyes
Charge and retire the hosts of fire in the battleground of the skies.
—Robert Service.

Natural Defenses

A skunk and a porcupine met in a dale
I am told, as the story commences,
And the porcupine rattled the quills in his tail,
A part of his splendid and wonderful mail.
While he talked about natural defenses

"My quills," he declared, "are a terror to those Who selfishly want to possess me,
And the dogs and their like get a shot in the nose
And they suffer a lovely assortment of woes
Whenever they seek to distress me.

"The deer by his fleetness can baffle pursuit
For he moves with the speed of a sparrow,
And thus he escapes every ravenous brute;
His judgment is good and his scent is acute
And he dashes along like an arrow.

"Pray how do you fight when assaulted, my friend?"
He questioned the skunk, condescending.
The skunk made reply, "At my hinder-most end,
I have a contrivance, with which I contend,
The while I myself am defending."

"Indeed," said the porcupine, "How does it work?
"Believe me, I certainly doubt it."
Then the mouth of the skunk wore a humorous quirk,
And the tail of the skunk gave a swift little jerk—
And the porcupine knew all about it!
—Dr. E. F. Johnstone, in Rutland Herald.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Uncertain price movements characterized today's stock market, which failed to break out of the narrow trading area within which it has been fluctuating for the last three weeks. The average of 20 leading industrial shares showed a slight gain on the day, the average of 20 leading rails a slight loss, while total sales again barely exceeded the million mark.

Prices opened strong, sold off from the highs when bear traders launched a fresh selling attack on Hudson following publication of a report that the company had sharply curtailed production, rallied sharply when this selling failed to bring about any general liquidatio of the motors, receded again in the afternoon on speculative disappointment over the positive stand taken by Chairman Gary against any increase in the U. S. Steel common dividend at this time, and closed with more or less irregularity.

The most illuminating information on the present business situation was given by Chairman Gary at the annual stockholders' meeting of the steel corporation, when he said that present bookings of about 28,500 tons a day compared with 35,361 on the corresponding date last month and 17,179 tons a year ago while present shipments were 48,141 tons a day against 41,142 last month and 45,956 a year ago. Considering the backwardness of the season, the results, he said, were satisfactory. U. S. Steel common opened at 119 1-4, advanced to 120 5-8 and then dropped back to 118 1-4, closing at the bottom. Other steels showed mixed fractional changes on the day.

Hudson the most active issue, opened at 64, advanced to 64 7-8, dropped back to 62 1-2 and then rallied to 64 for a net gain of 1-2 on the day. The early selling was associated with the report that the company's output would be decreased from 1,500 to 900 cars daily because unseasonable weather had interfered with spring sales. Timken Arrow preferred closed 1 3-4 points higher at 82 after having touched 85 but most of the other active issues showed little changes.

Active weakness of the Armour issues, which collapsed to new low levels for the year, aroused fears in some quarters that the dividend on the A stock was in danger. The selling also was accompanied by rumors of dissension in the pool which recently took over operating in those issues.

Heaviness of U. S. Rubber common, which broke below 60 to a new low record for the year, was associated with the recent decline in crude rubber prices. Other rubbers showed slight recessions. Sulphur stocks were in good demand. Rails were rather sluggish.

The principal commodity markets lost ground. Wheat futures yielded seasonally on profit-taking. Cotton engaged 3 to 8 points with forecasts of favorable weather as the chief selling influence. Coffee jumped 29 to 45 points under the stimulus of covering by near month "shorts." Raw sugar was unchanged but futures eased 2 to 4 points.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent and then dropped to 4, closing at that figure. It is estimated that about $3,000,000 in loans was called early in the dya. Time money and commercial papers rates were unchanged.

Renewed weakness of French francs, which established another new low level for all time at 3.31 cents, featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady at 4.86 1-4 Spanish and Norwegian currencies advanced slightly but most of the other European rates showed small changes. The continued quotations of the Canadian dollar at a premium of one per cent was followed today by the announcement of a shipment of $1,000,000 in gold coin to Canada. Further shipments probably will follow if the present rate is maintained.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—Wheat values underwent a sudden set-back today toward the last, owing largely to increased selling to realize profits. The fact that the market had climbed to ten cents above prices which were current at one time last week was chiefly responsible for the reaction. Wheat closed irregular at 1 cent net decline of 3-8c advance, May (new) $1.67 3-8 to $1.67 1-2 and July $1.43 7-8 to $1.44 with corn 5-8 to 7-8c off, oats a shade to provisions virtually unchanged.

Contributing to the late weakness of the wheat market were estimates from railroad sources that the wheat yield of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Nebraska this season would total 337,000,000 bushels against 139,000,000 bushels a year ago. Indications that further amounts of wheat were being purchased in the northwest to be brought here for delivery on May contracts tended to undermine the market in the late dealings. Besides, there were predictions of warmer weather and of welcome moisture for the wheat area northwest.

Improved weather made corn traders lean to the selling side of the market almost from the start. Oats sympathized with corn.

Better eastern and foreign demand for lard steadied the provisions market.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Freed from the uncertain influences of the stock market, bond prices forged steadily ahead today. Closing quotations showed that the average of 40 representative issues stood at 95, the highest point in several years.

The day's trading, however, was not marked by any striking developments but rather a careful search for bonds which had been lagging behind the rest of the list. Second issues derived the greatest benefit from this policy of discriminating purchases.

Buying interest in the railroad group was spread over an unusually wide assortment of issues with an eye to speculative possibilities. Missouri Pacific General 4s led in activity, mounting almost a point to a new top price for the year, while the road's first 6s duplicated their previous high. Other points of strength included Chicago & Alton 3 1-2s, Chicago Great Western 4s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, St. Paul 4s of 1983, "Big Four" 4s, Great Northern 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Rock Island Refunding 4s, Seaboard 6s and Wilkesbarre and Eastern 5s.

Fewer so-called "bargains" were available in the public utility and industrial divisions, but several of the more moderately priced issues were in demand. International Mercantile Marine 6s, Donner Steel 7s, and Portland Railway 5s were active and higher in contrast to the weakening tendency of Bethlehem Steel 5s, Booth Fisheries 6s and Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues.

Price movements of U. S. and foreign government obligations were irregular with most of the French issues resuming a downward course.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Further irregularity in price movement developed in today's curb market. Public interest was against low ebb, with total sales barely exceeding 250,000 shares that the Ford Motors of Canada dropped from 470 to 452 on the announcement of a cut in prices of cars in Canada to meet changed tariff conditions, but it snapped back later to 468 for a net gain of 8 points on the day. Other motors were irregular, Rickenbacker dropping to a new low level at $4 per share.

Renewed heaviness of Electric Refrigeration was attributed to the introduction by Senator Walsh of Montana, of a resolution in congress suggesting an investigation of all mergers in the last four years. Goodyear Tire dropped over 2 points to 31, duplicating the year's low, on selling presumably inspired by the recent heaviness of the crude rubber market.

Weakness also developed in a number of the radio issues. Hazeltine, Grimes and DeForest all breaking to new low levels for the year. Canada Dry Ginger Ale showed independent strength by advancing 1 5-8 to 45 7-8.

Oil shares moved within narrow and irregular limits, with a few issues such as Ohio Oil, Standard Oil of New York, Lgao A and Salt Creek. Producers establishing new low levels for the year during the session. Public utilities held relatively steady, with moderate gains being recorded by American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction and United Gas & Improvement.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The chill and blustering weather of the past week put a stop to all plastering work in buildings now in the process of construction. Many of the buildings have been lathed and are ready for plastering but the cold weather is holding up this work to a large extent. Other buildings that have not reached the plastering stage were brought along at a good rate of speed during the past seven days.

The work of remodeling the store in the Young block on Franklin square, formerly occupied by Conant, is progressing rapidly. The partitions and walls have been torn out and the contractor is putting in new walls and a new front. The front will be of fancy brick with plate glass display windows, the glass to be set in copper.

At the Sheltering Arms the exterior work has been completed and the contractor is engaged in finishing the interior work.

The work on remodeling the building at 54 Franklin street is progressing rapidly the interior of the building having been torn out and the two stores that were formerly in the building are to be made into one large store which will be occupied by M. Peterson.

There is a very large amount of work being done in the town which does not come under the city fire marshal's jurisdiction. This is true of the East Great Plain section where a number of new buildings are being erected. One building opposite the Norwich Fair ground is being started and the foundation is now in. On Dunham street there are several buildings going up and contractors are laying out the plans for at least two others.

TAFTVILLE

A pretty spring wedding was solemnized Monday morning at Sacred Heart church, when Miss Mary Rose of School street, became the bride of Alfred S. Breault of Fishers Island, N. Y., at a solemn nuptial high mass. Rev. T. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church performed the ceremony and was the celebrant at the mass. Rev. John Mallon was deacon, and Rev. Father Conrad was one of the priests conducting a mission at the church was subdeacon. Miss Alice Brochette was at the organ, and Miss St. George sang Ave Maria during the service.

The bride was attended by Miss Blanche Lamoreux, and the best man was Leo Caron, a brother of the bride. Preceding the marriage service, the bride was taken to the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary for the reading of the act of consecration, and the insignia of her membership in the Children of Mary society was removed by Miss Lea Pion and Miss Rosanna Arpin.

The bride was charming in a gown of white satin crepe and chantilly lace. Her veil in cornet effect with pearl trimmings was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her maid wore orchid georgette with picture hat to match, and carried Ophelia roses.

For the members of the immediate families, there was a reception and wedding breakfast at Parish hall. The decorations at the hall were very attractive, the color scheme being pink and white, in both the wall and table decorations. A large display of wedding gifts testified to the popularity of the newly married couple.

The groom's gift to his bride was a string of pearls and to his best man he presented cuff links. The bride gave the groom a gold piece and to her maid of honor she presented a wrist watch. After a wedding trip to Boston the young couple will take up their residence on Fishers' Island, where the groom is employed by the Fishers Island corporation.

Mr. Breault is the son of Zepherin Breault of South A street, and was a resident of the village before moving to Fishers Island. He has a host of friends in town where he has always been well liked and popular. His bride is the daughter of Mrs. Odelia Caron and the late Joseph Caron, and has been employed in the store of Francis Beique. She is one of the popular members of the younger set of the village. Both Mr. and Mrs. Breault have the best wishes of their friends for a happy and prosperous married life.

Mrs. James Powers and son James, Jr., of New Bedford, spent the week end in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Heselton and children Kendall and Ravella of North B street are spending this week in Attowaugan.

Thomas Jarry, Delphis Jarry, Mrs. Natalie Phaneuf, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Provost and son Lawrence, Jr., all of New Bedford, have been recent guests of Mrs. Mathilde Caron and family of North B street.

The mission in French for the women of Sacred Heart parish, which has been conducted this past week by Father Constaguay and Father DeCelles came to a close Sunday afternoon. Sunday evening, the mission for the French speaking men of the parish began and will continue throughout this week.

Meyer Blumenthal of Norwich was a caller in the village Monday.

The social club had its first meeting at Mrs. Bernard Wunderlich home, Norwich avenue, last Friday evening. The time was spent at sewing and fancy work after which refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John T. F. Burns.

R. C. PLAUT'S TRAVEL LETTER COVERS SIGHTS AND PEOPLE IN THE WEST

From Tijuana, Mexico, to Seattle and Minneapolis is the scope of a letter received here from Rutherford C. Plaut on his western trip, where he has been indulging in his entertaining propensity to call upon people, whom he once knew in Norwich, and then writing home about the people and the places he sees.

April 19, 1926.

My dear Everybody:

It seems that I just finished a good long letter to you all, and here I am at it again. I tossed up a coin to see whether I'd write to you or go to the ball game and the letter won. I'll say it's rather hard times to sit in a hotel room on a beautiful spring day just to write a letter, but you all have done so well in writing to me that I am glad to do it.

You have heard me talk of Tijuana, Mexico. Well, I'll tell you all about it. Only a half a mile from the international border is Old Town or the original town of Tia Juana, Mexico. As a matter of fact, the Mexicans now call their part "Tiajuana" and the old name of Tia Juana (Aunt Jane) is given to the tiny village on the American side of the line. Tijuana, then, is a settlement of wide, dusty streets and narrow wooden sidewalks—a frontier town where the sky is the limit and the air is so clear you can look a long way up. There are blocks of buildings where every space is occupied by a saloon. Men and women line up, indiscriminately at the bars, drink their drinks, smoke their cigarettes, and solemnly discuss the situation in the old-fashioned style, as we formerly did at the "Wauregan bar." If the men have no companions, they are quickly taken in tow by the girls who are employed by the saloon keepers and they are obstinately and perennially thirsty. Grocery stores and such useful places are conspicuous because of their absence, and one somehow gathers the impression that the regular inhabitants must take their nourishment with a sponge. There are no swinging doors. In fact, there are no doors of any kind. Scattered about in the saloons are money machines, where the reckless traveler may drop anything from a nickel to a half a dollar in the slot, and, after pressing the lever and watching the wheel go 'round, may scoop out the money that rattles down into the cup if his guess fails to be a good one, he is permitted to drop in another coin and try it again.

It is noticed through the medium of the auto licenses that Lower California is in Spanish called "Baja". California, but the "Baja" is pronounced as if the J were an H. Thus, when in Mexico, one learns to pronounce it "Baha." Sometimes, when coming out one pronounces it "Haha"—Easy come, Easy go.

The Monte Carlo

Close behind the international border is the Monte Carlo—which sounds like a gambling resort—and it is. A great barn of a place, the Monte Carlo shelters a dozen roulette tables and other games in proportion—black jack, craps, chuck-luck, wheel of fortune, and any other game which is calculated to give the player more or less of a run for his money. Crowds of people throng the place, going from table to table, and, if their luck is bad, always looking for their "Lucky Table." Shirt-sleeved men saunter about the room overseeing the activity of the dealers. Above the roar of the great room, the dealers announce the winning numbers and the cash registers clang back of the bar that runs along the farther wall. When one is winning or losing, the long bar is brought into play. On the theory that 'another little drink would not do any harm'. Just across the road, with all the accompaniments of the noble art of Horse Racing. For the trifling sum of $2.50, which is five pesos in Mexican money, one may indulge his taste in horse flesh to the fullest extent. The raised voice of a woman begs some horse to come on and the good guessers throng to the ring below to collect their bets. On the outskirts of the village stands the bull ring, where picadors and cuspidors play their usual roles and the populace sits on the hard boards and watches some gold-braided spick in the act of vehemently throwing the bull.

The Universal Password

The universal password in Tijuana is "How much have you got left?" In other places, the pedestrian asks his friend how he is or what he is doing, but not so there. It's a great life.

When the traveler motors into Mexico, a grinning official taxes him about twenty cents and hands him in return a little ticket which says, "Admit One", and which was apparently intended for a moving picture theatre. If anyone displays curiosity as to the purpose of the payment, he is informed that it is to provide good roads in Tijuana. After riding over them for 20 seconds, one is inclined to agree that the money is well spent. Tijuana boasts a collection of the worst roads in captivity and the farther one goes the worse they get.

Did I tell you in my other letter that Fred Lathrop, stepson of Mr. Haselden of Norwich, has a used Pierce Arrow car that he bought from Clara Kimball Young, the actress, and he uses it in the TiaJuana service?

Many of the saloons have dance floors in the rear or "cafe" section and here the cash customers may trip the light fantastic with a partner selected from the young ladies there. On these dance floors nothing is barred except murder. So skillful have the girls become that they can start a dance in a given spot and finish it in exactly the same place, although they have been in violent movement throughout the dance. The startled partner is, of course, expected to slip his young lady a negotiable present and purchase drinks at what is known as the glistening bar.

San Diego is a suburb of TiaJuana. The man who wrote the song about "a life on the ocean wave" must have taken a look at San Diego. There is probably no place on the inhabited globe where there are more venomous little war ships than in San Diego harbor and they are so thick that they keep them in bunches like bananas or raisins. There are usually in the neighborhood of a hundred war ships somewhere on the premises and the man who is detailed to keep track of just where each ship is stationed has more trouble than a one-armed paper hanger with a bad case of hives.

Repaired After Earthquake

I went to Santa Barbara and they certainly have repaired the city after the severe quake of eight months ago. I was pleased to renew my acquaintance with Henry Swatzburg and his family and it was heartrending to hear them tell of their experience on the day of the earthquake and the days following. However, Henry and his family are happy and prosperous now. Besides being the exclusive luggage shop man of Santa Barbara, Mr. Swatzburg is delving extensively in real estate at the present time.

(I am beginning to feel a wish that I had gone to the ball game.)

As the poet expresses it beautifully and simply, "It was not like that in the olden days," and echo answers "You tell 'em." Such is so about 'Frisco. Certain it is that, in crossing Market street, the pedestrian must think of nothing but pedest trianizing. With four tracks bearing swiftly moving street cars, one is in imminent danger of being struck between Stevenson Place and Lottas Fountain, which is a bad place to be struck, whichever way you may look at it. On Market street, everything is electricity, but on other highways much of the travel is done on cable cars, which cling to the steep hills like flies. The first cable car in the United States was put into operation in this city and I think they still use it. Viewing the situation from another direction, I decided soon after I arrived in San Francisco that it is probably one of the wettest spots to be found on dry land. When I opened the dresser drawer in my room in the St. Francis hotel ten minutes after I had been assigned to it, I discovered a large bottle half full of what smelled like wine. (I said "smelled".) Do you think I'm crazy?

Chinatown in Frisco

Chinatown, situated but about a five minute ride from the hotel, is the largest in the United States, with a population of something like 15,000. Likewise the place offers to the tourist the greatest collection of smells to be found anywhere outside of China. With a length of 8 blocks and a width of probably half that, Chinatown is a real city in itself, with much of the charm and mystery of the Orient still pervading the atmosphere. The Chinaman does not mix at all with his white neighbors and the average Chinaman lives his life with little regard for the opinion and customs of the Occident. Stores of every description line the streets and on the sidewalks before the butcher shops are wire cages containing all sorts of live stock. Although a specialty is made of chicken in all stages of development, there are also cages of pigeons and even lambs, which the customer may have killed to order and bring away with him, knowing it is absolutely fresh. For the rest, it might be said that it is not as fresh as that. In fact, you can tell two blocks away that you are somewhere near a butcher shop. The stock ranges from whole pigs to jerked meat, with special reference to fish of all kinds, which is highly regarded. They have the shark, the abalone, the octopus, and other varieties, which, probably taste better than they look. A whole pig is actually roasted in one piece, after which it is given a coat of varnish, which imparts to it a very attractive gloss. In this condition, it is hung in the shop by a hind leg and one piece at a time is cut off as customers call for it.

I had a dandy time with John Fields and his wife Emily. John is with the Remington cash register people at 315 Market street. Before the war he was auditor for the Mohican company and at one time was in the Norwich store I'll bet John's mother in Norwich Town is anxiously awaiting my return to tell her all about her John and his new wife. John and his wife called for me early on Easter Sunday morning. We were going to attend a sunrise service on top of Mt. Davidson, but believe me, it rained that day as it never rained before. We took a ride all over Frisco and then some Emily is a fine driver, but I sure did some back seat driving at the way she speeded along the slippery streets, but my fear was for naught. We finally brought up at 1262 LaPlaya street, where they have bought a new home in a section which faces the Pacific ocean and the Cliff house. Both these places are famous. The best excuse for the Cliff house is the seal rocks. It is true that with one or two exceptions the Cliff house as an institution is undoubtedly the best known building in the United States.

Birthday Cake

Well, I had a fine dinner at the Fields', and to cap the climax, they brought in a large cake like a birthday cake, on which was inscribed in fancy letters "Easter Greetings to 4D."

I also called on Ed Barstow, who invited me to his home on Easter, but, as I had made a previous engagement, and as my time was limited, I was forced to promise him I would the next time. Ed is still with the Woolworth people in an executive position He has the supervision of all their stores on the Pacific coast.

I must tell you of the Fleishacker pool. John Fields and his wife drove me there. It holds over 6,000,000 gallons of water, heated to about 70 degrees and it will accommodate 10,000 bathers at one time and it is municipally owned. It is the largest swimming pool in the world.

From Frisco, I journeyed on the Southern Pacific. In fact, I started from New Orleans on the South Pacific. Did you see or read "The Iron Horse," the dramatic story of the beginning of this great system?

I'm getting tired and again reiterate that I wish I went to the ball game.

I leave here at 4:30 p. m. for Seattle and will reach there at 9:45 p. m I will hold this for a P. S. about Seattle and Minneapolis.

P. S. I've been to both Seattle and Minneapolis. In Seattle, I looked up Mrs. Albert Klein. Mrs. Klein formerly lived in Norwich Town and her name was Vollmer. Mr. Klein has been a very successful butcher in Seattle, and is one of the foremost and wealthiest merchants on the coast. Their oldest son, a boy of 30 years, is very sick at the present time. Mrs. Klein wants to be remembered to her many friends in Norwich, and she wishes that old Doctor Cassidy was alive, for she feels sure he could help her son.

Perhaps the brightest spot on my whole trip so far was the meeting up with Joseph D'Avignon and his family in Minneapolis. Joe lives at 2304 Fourth avenue, South, and both he and his wife were at the train to meet me. Mrs. D'Avignon was a Miss L'Heureux of Taftville. Her brother, Doctor Henri J. L'Heureux has opened a doctor's office for himself in the post office building at Northfield, Minneapolis. Joe's son, Alfred H. D'Avignon, is the resident manager of a chain of grocery stores. Joe is still in the grocery business directly opposite his home. I assure you, if there ever was a little sunshine spread, it was there, when I brought them "the news from their home town back east," as Joe said.

Well, I guess I have told you about all. I know they will find me O. K. here at the Mayo's, because I am feeling fine. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dodd of Norwich are here. I ran across Tom on a bus today.

Give my regards to all. I'll be home soon.

I am as always,

4D.

PROVIDENCE MAN FINED FOR LOGGER HILL CRASH

Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving, Stanley B. Mason of Providence was fined $50 and costs when presented before Judge Frederick W. Dimmock in the Waterford town court Friday afternoon. Mason was arrested by State Policeman George Sisson, after the machine which Mason was operating crashed into the automobile of George W. Steele of East Lyme and badly damaged the latter car on Logger hill, Waterford. Mrs. Steele, who was in her husband's car, sustained cuts from flying glass and was badly shaken up. After receiving first aid treatment she was able to return to her home. Mason was operating a Cadillac sedan owned by Nelson P. James of Newtonville, Mass. James was riding in the car at the time. The Steele car was proceeding up the hill and the other car coming down hill.

State Policeman Sisson, who made the arrest, stated that while there was evidence that the men had been drinking, they were apparently sober and their condition was not such as to warrant his taking them before a physician for examination. He had in his possession a bottle containing about a cupful of liquor labeled whiskey, found in the highway, under the James car, but had no evidence as to how it got there and no witnesses to establish how it came to be there.

Under the circumstances the driver was presented on a reckless driving charge, the evidence being regarded as insufficient to obtain a conviction on the more serious charge.

The men, according to the police officer, agreed to pay Steele for all damage done to his car.

Judge Dimmock handed out a $50 fine to which costs were added. Mason paid up and was allowed to go.

ASKING $40,000 TO ADD LAND AT SUBMARINE BASE

An appropriation of $40,000 for the purchase of seven tracts of land adjoining the submarine base at Groton has been asked of congress in a naval construction bill. The matter was brought up by recommendations made some time ago by Capt. E. J. King, commandant at the base, that the government should acquire several small tracts, ranging from two-tenths of an acre to two acres in the vicinity of the marine barracks so that the base could be made a continuous unit, and that several unsightly buildings now standing on the tracts could be razed. The sites named in the recommendation are owned by Newton Perkins, Pauline Peck, Edith Hill, Isaac Katz, Mary O'Sullivan, C. M. Shay and the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

As the situation now stands the marine barracks and the mine depot are separated from the base proper by several of the tracts named. Across from the barracks are several old shacks, and the ruins of a wooden building, partially destroyed by fire some time ago. By eliminating the shacks and acquiring the land separating the several units of the base, naval officials will beautify the site and make it one continuous reservation.

In addition, the state highway commission is now preparing to undertake the elimination of the dangerous right angle curves at the southern approach of the base, and if the plans go through, the road will be cut away and the base will find the old shacks named in the recommendation literally in its front yard.

GARDNER ISLAND SOLD FOR EAST HAMPTON PROPERTY

After refusing offers for Gardiners Island, said to have amounted to between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000, Lion Gardiner, 13th owner of the island has sold it to Jonathan Gardiner.

Lying off the north shore of East Hampton township, L. I., in Long Island sound, the island is seven miles long and has an acreage of approximately 16,000. It has been in the Gardiner family since the original grant to Lord Gardiner in 1639. It has been leased to Clarence Mackay as a hunting preserve until 1940. Mr. Mackay is said to have paid over $200,000 a year for lease of the property.

The property will be held in trust for Winthrop Gardiner, Jr., a nephew of the seller. Lion Gardiner will retain a life interest. Consideration in the transfer is, for the most part, deeds to East Hampton properties.

GIVEN $200 FINE WITH SUSPENDED JAIL SENTENCE

At the Monday morning session of the city court James Panciera of Westerly was fined $200 and costs and given a suspended 30 day jail sentence on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He paid his fine which totaled $212.93.

When the case was called Willis Austin of this city testified that about 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon he saw the truck driven by the accused badly damaged near the W. W. Backus hospital corner on Washington street. The driver was hanging over the wheel and later the driver got off the truck and tried to crank it. He staggered. Asked by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Telley E. Babcock as to whether the accused was intoxicated Mr. Austin said, "I should say decidedly so." In answer to a question from Judge Arthur F. Libby, Mr. Austin modified his statement by saying that the accused was either under the influence of liquor or was badly dazed.

Constable Lucius Fenton stated that the accused had told him he had taken several drinks of cider in the morning. His breath smelled strongly of liquor, the constable said.

Panciera admitted that he had staggered and that he had had several drinks of cider. He laid the staggering to loss of sleep and to being partly dazed by the accident.

A fine of $25 and costs was imposed on George Mitterer, 22, No. 23 North Cliff street, on a charge of not having an operator's license issued to him He paid $35.50.

On a charge of failure to grant the right of way, Ira R. Smith of Hartford was fined $15 and costs. He had pleaded not guilty to a charge of reckless driving and the charge was changed to failure to grant the right of way. Smith was involved in an accident at Norwich Town early Saturday evening. He paid $30.71.

The arson cases against Thomas Millaria of New London and John Vallas of this city were continued again, this time until April 29th. Both are held in connection with the incendiary fire at the New Olympia Candy Kitchen at Norwich Town February 6th last. Zesen Costules, the proprietor, is now awaiting trial in the superior court on an arson charge.

Six men were fined for intoxication. Five going to jail, the other paying his fine.

Frank Rogers of Brooklyn, N. Y. paid a fine of $25 and costs, totalling $35.50 on the charge of not having an operator's license.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Says "Goodbye Washboard"

New kind of soap makes her clothes whiter than she could rub them

I'M through with washday drudgery No more hard washboard rubbing for me. No more red, rough hands. This new way soaks out the dirt gently in an hour or two in the morning or overnight, whichever is handier for me. It makes the clothes cleaner and whiter than ever before—in half the time.

And I don't even touch the washboard. I've said goodbye to it forever. Rinso does all the work for me. The loosened dirt floats away in the rinsing—leaving the clothes sweeter and whiter than I could rub them. And now I don't boil the clothes either, because Rinso soaking whitens the wash better than boiling—and sterilizes, too.

Since using Rinso I find that my clothes last much longer because there's no wear and tear rubbing against the board. Even the most soiled spots on hems, cuffs and collars—need just a gentle rub between the fingers to make them spotless. Many of my friends use Rinso in their washing machines. They say it's better than anything else—it gets the clothes so much cleaner. Ask your grocer today for

ALLEGES FRAUD IN FRANKLIN FARM SALE

On the allegation that fraud about an orchard had been used to induce them to buy a farm from Charles and Ida Rothstein of Franklin, suit in the superior court has been brought against them by Michael Richard of Franklin. He asks $1,500 damages plus exemplary damages. It is claimed that an orchard on the farm was represented to be worth $19,000 and that Richard was induced to agree to pay $18,000 for the farm, paying over $1,000 to bind the bargain on Sept. 19, 1925.

The claim is made that the defendants declared the orchard had borne heavily the year before and was worth alone $10,000, while as a matter of fact it had never borne fruit and was practically worthless.

STARTLING REVELATIONS OF DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

District Attorney Olson of Chicago Described the Smashing of Illicit Breweries, Closing of "Black and Tan Cabarets" and Stopping of Jury Bribing in the Enforcement of Prohibition—Senator Reed Failed in an Endeavor to Have the Hearing Adjourned Pending Vote in Senate Today on the Italian Debt.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—...tory scenes and some startling revelations regarding dry law enforcement marked the sessions today of the senate prohibition committee.

As the drys approached the conclusion of the presentation of their case, there was a frequent outcropping of an under-surface bitterness with Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, the lone wet on the committee of five, standing as the central figure in the controversy.

Outvoted continuously by his dry colleagues, Senator Reed took to the senate floor his fight for postponement of the hearings until after the vote tomorrow on the Italian debt settlement but without avail.

Returning then to the committee room, the Missourian again faced objections by those in charge of the case for the drys to the consuming of time with cross examination of their witnesses and finally objections were raised by members of the committee to certain lines of inquiry.

Senator Reed then was cross-questioning Frederick C. Baird, prohibition enforcement director for the western Pennsylvania district, who disclosed that ...e now on the federal payroll at ... a month he started drawing his ... as traffic director of ... Pennsylvania, and Lake Erie railroad, ... of the United States Steel ... Mr. Barr said he had ... recommended for the federal po... by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the steel corporation, who had been requested by government officials to make recommendations at the time the prohibition unit was reorganized.

Both Baird and Edwin A. Olson, United States district attorney at Chicago, testified to increased efficiency in the enforcement of the Volstead act within their respective districts, but Mr. Olson brought an indictment against the municipal authorities of Chicago and Cook county ... which he charged to be their failure to enforce the Illinois state dry statute.

Baird appeared in the nature of a surprise witness at the request of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and was on the stand for two hours before he was called the dry ... presented William D. McDowell, one of the ranking bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, and other church leaders who urged against any watering of the Volstead act and ... instead the administration ... to put "teeth" into that celebrated statute.

Taking the stand to refute statements made by Dr. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, Mr. Baird had not concluded his direct statement when the noon recess hour was reached. Explaining that he wanted time to prepare an address on the Italian debt, Senator Reed moved adjournment until tomorrow, but Chairman Harreld and Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, outvoted him.

Senator Reed then took his fight to the senate floor where a brief, but fiery debate developed. Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, accused the committee of discourteous treatment of Senator Reed and declared he did not "expect any measure of justice from the committee, constituted as it is."

This brought a protest from Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, a member of the committee, and Senator Glass asked why he should have any confidence in the committee when a majority had opposed any hearings at all on the modification bills.

This aroused the ire of Chairman Harreld, who arose to a point of personal privilege, and remarked that Senator Bruce's declarations had shown that "all the fanatics are not on the dry side."

For a moment the proceedings got beyond the control of Vice President Dawes, but as order was restored, Senator Edge republican, New Jersey, another of the wets, offered a resolution directing the committee to postpone its hearings until Thursday. Senator Walsh objected to immediate consideration and the resolution went over.

When the prohibition committee reassembled an hour later, Senator Reed was on hand to cross-examine Administrator Baird. The questioning went on for more than an hour with Senator Walsh now and then objecting to certain questions and being assisted by Chairman Harreld.

In his statement to the committee, Mr. Baird had emphatically denied attacks made by Dr. Church on the prohibition. Enforcement agents of the Pittsburgh district. This led Senator Walsh to inquire as to what "animus" could have been behind those charges. "I am unable to say," Baird replied, "but it may be that the seizing of Dr. Church's car on the border loaded with booze had something to do with it."

Replying to a volley of questions from several committeemen, Baird said it was "common knowledge" that the car belonged to Dr. Church, although he conceded that the university president was not in it, nor was he able to say who was in the car.

Later Senator Reed produced a telegram, which was not made public, and asked if it was not a fact that two boys were in the car when it was seized and that they had a quart of liquor.

Administrator Baird said he did not know and made a similar reply in response to a question as to whether Dr. Church had not been able to recover his car by convincing the federal judge that he had no knowledge that it had been used for unlawful purposes.

Describing the smashing of illicit breweries, the closing of "black and tan" cabarets, the stopping of jury bribing and fixing, District Attorney Olson said the records of his office in the northern Illinois district during the past three years had proved that prohibition could be enforced.

"...ings that are required for en-forcement," Mr. Olson said, "are the elimination of politics and the honest, whole-hearted co-operation of federal, state, county and municipal authorities. There are too many 'goof fellows.'"

Indicting the Chicago police, Olson said there were many stills in Chicago "probably none of importance that are not known to the police."

"It would not be a big job for 5,000 policemen to pull them out by the roots," he said.

District Attorney Olson told the committee that if there were any "teeth" in the Volstead act that he and not used he did not know of them an dadded that he would welcome action by congress putting more teeth into the law.

Besides Bishop McDowell, the church leaders called by the drys included Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals; Dr. A. J. Barton, representing the southern Baptist convention; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the United Christian Endeavor, the Rev. Franklin Schlegel, executive secretary of the national service commission, Evangelical church, Harrisburg, Pa.; Dr. Charles Scanlon, of Pittsburgh, representing the department of moral welfare, Presbyterian church and Dr. J. Garland Penn, speaking for the department of educational institutions for negroes of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Laymen called included William C. Hollister, of Chicago; Truman Newhall, of Lynn, Mass.; and G. W. Briggs, of Brookline, Mass.

Because of the press of time many of the witnesses read only part of their statements and filed the remainder. They were a unit against any liberalization of the Volstead act and generally urged that congress enact the pending administration bill designed to tighten up the machinery of enforcement.

YALE VOTES FOR CHANGE IN THE PRESENT "DRY" LAW

NEW HAVEN, April 20—(AP)—Both faculty and undergraduate bodies of Yale university voted in favor of some change in the present prohibition law in the straw vote held here today, under the auspices of the Yale Daily News.

The vote was 2,093 for a change to 497 in favor of retention of present law. Government control of the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines with 993 votes had the largest number of supporters in the wet ranks.

In an attempt to determine the accuracy of the statement made by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale before the senate judiciary committee recently to the effect that although Yalemen were wet in sentiment, the 18th amendment had reduced drinking at the university, this question was put on the ballot. The vote was 4 to 1 that drinking had not been reduced. The faculty also agreed, 63 to 48, that the law had failed to reduce drinking here.

The vote of the faculty showed that only about 20 per cent., 51 votes, favored enforcement or present laws, 119 of the 238 votes favored beer and light wines, 40 government control and 28 complete repeal of all prohibition legislation.

The only department of the school that voted dry was the divinity school, in which only one man voted for a change and he for government control. The same situation occurred two years ago in a previous ballot by the Yale Daily News.

Of the total ballot 1,836 of the 2292 votes cast were wet, 992 for government control, 605 for light wines and beer, and 366 for repeal of all prohibition laws.

Compared with the results of the ballot of two years ago, sentiment has swung into the wet column, less than 18 per cent. favoring the present laws, while on the previous ballot 28 per cent favored it.

WOMEN NON-COMMITTAL ON VOLSTEAD ACT MODIFICATION

ST. LOUIS, April 20—(AP)—The National League of Women Voters, in convention here, today refused to commit itself to the minority report opposing modification of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment by rejecting a resolution to that effect by a vote of 171 to 79.

The convention, however, with only a few scattering nays, adopted a resolution calling upon federal, state and local officials, "to use to the fullest extent, the power conferred upon them for the effective establishment of prohibition," and recommending civil "merit" selection of enforcement officers.

The issue was drawn by a debate on whether the league should "meet a crisis" in prohibition and "show its colors" or to adhere to technical procedure and decline to take action affecting legislation until the question had been referred to the state bodies. Incidentally, it was felt that any action upon the Volstead act would embarrass the league's general legislative program in Washington.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park, former national president and league legislative representative before congress, led the opposition to a minority committee report which added to the general enforcement resolution, the clause: "We urge congress to resist all attempts to undermine or weaken the provisions of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

Several of the speakers against this clause indicated their sympathy for it, but declared a dangerous precedent would be established by "snap" or "hysterical" action. They pleaded against a vote that would destroy the league's prestige and power, which, they said, had been built upon its reputation for no decision without lengthy deliberation. The refusal to adopt the clause by the convention was in line with the policy of national officers to avoid so far as possible controversial matters.

The Pennsylvania delegation which introduced the resolution with the Volstead clause in it and declined to accept the committee action in striking it out, led the fight for the minority report.

A telegram from Carrie Chapman Catt, one of the founders of the league and its first president, was read. Mrs. Catt said: "I support the direct enforcement of the Volstead act. This crisis demands brave deeds."

Most of the national officers and national board voted against the declaration upon the Volstead act. The delegation from Illinois, where a wet and dry United States senatorial election impends, split its vote and some from that state were strongest among the speakers for a clean-cut outright stand in support of the Volstead act.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH MURDER OF POLICEMAN

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP) — On the strength of his own story as told to police, a youth of 17 tonight stood charged with the murder of Patrolman Frank J. Comeau of the Boston force, shot to death by automobile thieves on the night of March 24. Stanley B. Toothaker of Roxbury, captured after a burglary in Lynn, admitted that he was present when the officer was killed but denied that he fired the shot.

A special session of the Suffolk grand jury has been summoned for tomorrow to consider indictments against Toothaker and two other youths whose names the prisoner gave to the police. Toothaker was brought today from Lynn to Dorchester, where the shooting occurred, and will be held pending grand jury action.

Three boys in a stolen automobile fought a desperate battle with Comeau. Toothaker said in his statement to the police. The actual shooting was accidental, he maintained. After Comeau's death, Toothaker said, he and his two companions calmly continued their program, entering and robbing a house in Dorchester not far from the scene of the murder.

The patrolman, on the lookout for stolen automobiles, stopped a car containing three young men near the wagon house of police station 11 in Dorchester. One of the three placed a pistol against the officer's body and fired. The car was abandoned after the shooting and the youths mingled with a crowd leaving a nearby church and escaped.

Toothaker said that Comeau was the first to draw a weapon, and that he and his two companions jumped from the automobile and engaged in a hand to hand struggle. In the scuffle, he said, a pistol in the hands of one of his companions was discharged and Comeau fell.

Toothaker was arrested in Lynn on Sunday night after a house had been robbed. Two of the youths escaped. Those the prisoner said, were his companions on March 24.

BOY SCOUTS TO PROTECT FORESTS OF CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, April 20.—(AP)—In a statement given out today in connection with American forest week, J. D. Roberts, of Meriden, Boy Scout executive, points out that the Boy Scouts are being organized to protect the forests of Connecticut.

"The program of the Boy Scouts of America," the statement says, "includes woodcraft, camping and nature study. The state forest fire warden has made use of the attitude which the Boy Scouts show toward the woods, and he places confidence upon their loyalty to prevent and extinguish forest fires. His plan has proven successful where he has appointed the scout executive as the district fire warden, and has given further appointments to groups of older and experienced scouts as forest guides. The forest guides are given a distinctive badge of oxidized silver by the state fire warden, to indicate that these scouts are authorized to have leadership and control of fire-fighters in the woods.

"The forest guides serve as key-men for the district in which each resides and they are the first unit which the district fire warden calls to respond to the alarm. Each forest guide has a patrol of eight to ten scouts who are within easy call for quick mobilization. Each of these scouts keeps his own equipment ready for instant service during the season when fires may be extinguished."

"RADIO BURGLAR" HAS BEEN INDICTED ON FIVE COUNTS

NEW YORK, April 20. — (AP) — Paul E. Hilton, the "Queens "radio burglar", was indicted on five counts for first degree murder, burglary and assault today by a Queens county grand jury. Arraigned before County Judge Adel in the court house at Long Island city, Hilton pleaded not guilty to the indictments.

He confessed the fatal shooting of a patrolman, according to the police, as well as the shooting and wounding of three other policemen. He also is said to have admitted robbing 28 Richmond Hill homes.

Trial for murder was fixed for April 23.

AWARDED $6,000 FOR INJURIES TO HER TOES

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—A stenographer's toes were valued at $6,000 each in supreme court today when a jury awarded Miss Anna Caroline Cullen $30,000 damages in an action against the New York Central railroad and its subsidiary, the West Shore line.

During the trial it was testified that as Miss Cullen was boarding a train at the West View, N. J., station, last summer, the train started suddenly and she was thrown to the ground, one foot falling under a wheel and being crushed. All five toes on the injured foot had to be amputated. When the accident occurred she was returning from her parents home.

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—Loss of $1,562,035 reported by the Remington Arms company for 1925 is attributed by company officials in large measures to its recently organized subsidiary, Remington Cash Register company. The shrinkage in combined earnings resulted from heavy development expenses and keen trade competition, it was said, although other departments, arms, ammunition and cutlery showed satisfactory profit for the year.

Another Indictment Against John T. King

Charged With Evasion of Compliance With the Revenue Act in Filing 1921 Tax Returns.

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—John T. King, former republican national committeeman from Connecticut who was associated in the management of Theodore Roosevelt's bull moose campaign, was indicted today for filing an alleged false income tax return in 1921, in which he is alleged to have defrauded the government of $40,000.

It was his second indictment at the hands of the federal grand jury which is investigating the turning over of American Metals company securities seized during the war, to a Swiss corporation owned by Germans.

Today's indictment charged evasion of compliance with the revenue act in filing the 1921 tax return. The first indictment charged perjury in connection with the same return. King was not present today. He will be arraigned on the second indictment within a few days.

King's attorneys filed a motion to dismiss the first indictment after King had been arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Argument on this motion is scheduled for April 26 in federal court.

Today's indictment was based on virtually the same set of facts as the first indictment. The government alleged King filed a return showing his 1921 gross income to be $24,529 and his indebtedness to the government, based on a net income of $266, nothing. The government alleged that King's real gross income was $196,529 and his net income $137,266, making the amount due the government approximately $40,000.

Conviction of violation of the revenue act is punishable by a $10,000 fine and a years imprisonment; conviction of perjury carries a sentence of five years imprisonment.

ACTION OF R. I. SENATE ON THE MARRIAGE LAW

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 20.—(AP)—The Rhode Island senate today took steps to validate the marriage which have occurred in the state for more than 100 years contrary to the marriage laws, in force since 1798, one clause of which says that persons with a former wife or husband living cannot marry again.

The word "former" was discovered last week when a new marriage law was introduced. The new law used verbatim the clause in the old statute containing that provisions and the word "former" was stricken out before the new law was passed by the upper branch of the assembly. It has not yet come up for action in the house.

Today the senate passed a resolution validating all marriages which have occurred in the state contrary to a strict interpretation of the law giving widows dower rights and legitimatising all issue from such marriages.

RHODE ISLAND HOUSE VOTES FOR STATE RIGHTS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 20.—(AP)—A bill creating a state committee to protest to congress against federal legislation encroaching on the right of the states was passed by the house of the general assembly today.

The house passed an amendment adding the speaker of the house to the committee, and this amendment has yet to receive the approval of the senate, which passed the bill unamended.

The committee provided in the bill will investigate proposed or pending federal legislation in the nature of joint federal, state levies or appropriations: Request congress to hold public hearings on such legislation; attend such hearings, and object to such legislation of this nature as is "likely to affect adversely or unfairly the interest of this state."

The bill was drafted as the result of a fight begun by the Rhode Island Tax league against federal aid projects.

SANG "PRISONER'S SONG" CONTINUOUSLY TWO DAYS

NEWTON, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—Musical efforts of five massed quartets of prisoners singing "The Prisoner's Song" steadily from Saturday until Tuesday morning ruined the holiday week end for officers on duty at the West Newton lockup. The policemen admitted today that they were near candidates for sanitariums, and were planning to send a petition to broadcasting stations to eliminate the well-known song from future programs.

More than 20 prisoners, the majority intoxication cases, were guests at the lockup over the week end. From the time that one of them first thought of the song on Saturday night until the hour for arraignment today, the impromptu choral society wailed the mournful dirge.

Six feet of debris separated the rescuers from McDermott at 7.25 o'clock.

Senate to Vote on Italian Debt Today

Opponents of Settlement Are Continuing Their Efforts to to Amend the Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 20—(AP)—The Italian debt settlement, football of recent senate debate, comes to vote late tomorrow, with opponents continuing their efforts to amend the agreement or return it to the finance committee for further investigation.

Pleas for further committee consideration were renewed today by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, who declared the identity of the purchasers of the Italian bonds of the $100,000,000 loan obtained through J. P. Morgan company should be ascertained. He said the committee also should investigate the activities of the bondholders in the interest of ratification of the settlement.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, launched another attack on Premier Mussolini and his aims, particularly his reported plan to re-build Rome "to its Augustan splendor." Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, replied that the Italian prime minister should be praised instead of criticized for "his plans to eliminate slums," while Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, asserted that it was good government policy to effect public improvements in times of industrial depression.

Senators Harrison and McKellar, both gave figures purporting to show that Italy's national wealth increased from $22,000,000,000 in 1913 to $35,000,000,000 in 1922 and cited these as evidence that Italy's capacity to pay was greater than had been estimated by the debt commission.

Prior to the vote set for 4 p. m. tomorrow, debate will be limited to 30 minutes for each senator and several leading opponents of the measure expect to make eleventh-hour attempts to prevent ratification. These include Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee; Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri and Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska.

Senator Howell gave notice today that he would propose three amendments to the measure as it passed the house, one provides that "none of the payments made by Italy" under the present provisions "shall be deemed to cancel any of the principal indebtedness." He also contended that for the 62 years of the payments, Italy will be remitting only interest and that at the end of the payments, the United States must cancel the debt.

Ratification of the settlement was urged by the executive committee of the United States chamber of commerce in a letter mailed today to all members of the senate.

TRIAL OF WHITTEMORE UNDER WAY IN BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 20—(AP)—The legal battle in which the life of Richard Reese Whittemore is at stake opened today with the declaration of Guy B Moore, district attorney, that he would present evidence of a nature to warrant the jury in voting to send the 28-year old bandit leader to the electric chair. He stated that he will prove by reputable business men that Whittemore took an active part in the gun play that ensued in downtown Buffalo on Oct. 29 last when six bandits killed two guards and got away with a sachel captaining $93,000 currency.

In Erie county it is not customary for the defense to open its case until the last witness for the prosecution has been sworn. Accordingly, W. Bartlett Sumner, chief defense counsel, did not inform the jury how he hopes to counteract the people's case. It is no secret, however, that he hopes to convince the jury that it is a case of mistaken identity and that Whittemore was not one of the gang which perpetrated the most sensational crime in the history of Buffalo.

The trial got under way by the calling of four preliminary witnesses, who testified solely as to the cause of death of the slain men, the description of the scene of the crime, and the transfer of $117,000 to the armored bank car that was robbed and the recovery of $24,000 of that sum.

Eye-witnesses to the holdup and shooting will take the witness stand tomorrow.

The defendant, who had exhibited a cheerful appearance during the selection of the jury and have even smiled occasionally, underwent a sharp change as the trial opened late in the afternoon. His face took on a serious expression as he listened to the opening statements by the district attorney and scanned the faces of the first witnesses.

THREE DEATHS RESULT FROM EXPLOSION AT SUB BASE

Among the Dead is Theodore Holst, Jr., Chief Boatswain's Mate, of Groton—Another Man Dying—Five of Other Twelve Men Injured Are in a Critical Condition—Battery Exploded on Submarine S-49, Moored Alongside the Dock, as the Craft Was Being Made Ready For Sea —Extent of Damage to the Sub Not Made Public.

NEW LONDON, April 20.—(AP)—The death toll resulting from an explosion in the battery room of the submarine S-49 here today, was brought to three late tonight, when Theodore Holst, Jr., chief boatswain's mate, of Groton, succumbed to injuries. Two other members of the 12 injured died earlier in the night. They were Ralph Edward McCormack, gunner's mate, second class, of West Lynn, Mass., and Ollie J. Cooke, seaman, second class, of Danville, Va.

Mathiew Timothy Greenaville, quartermaster, first class of Saco, Me., was reported dying and five others are in a critical condition.

Those whose conditions are considered critical are: Frederick France Horn, boatswain's mate second class, of Freeland, Pa., Daniel Ford, seaman, first class, of East Boston, Mass.; Sylvester Erie Matlock, fireman, second class, of Charleston, Illinois; Claire Daniel Fields, electrician's mate, second class, of Reno, Nev.; Francis Leo Conway, torpedoman, second class, of Dracut, Mass.

Three others also in the hospital suffering from gas and lesser injuries are Gustave Vernon Johnson, chief electrician's mate, Groton, Conn.; Bernard Leslie Slogett, torpedoman, first class, New London, Conn., and Basil S. Morris, fireman, third class, Asheville, N. C.

The 12 men who were injured by the explosion in the battery compartment of the S-49 had just finished their breakfast. They were hurled with tremendous force against the steel overhead deck and bulkheads and showered with pieces of metal which flew through the compartment with shrapnel-like velocity. All of the men in the compartment received broken bones and many of them possibly internal injuries.

The compartment was filled with hydrogen gas and the rescue workers from the submarine S-3, which was moored nearby, and from the base fire department which was called at once, were forced to don gas masks before they could remove the victims of the blast.

As soon as the men were removed from the wrecked compartment, it was sealed to prevent the fire caused by the explosion from spreading and to check the gases from penetrating other sections of the ship. It remained sealed tonight as naval officials at the base were apprehensive of another blast when the hatches are opened. The dock at which the submarine is moored was guarded and no one was permitted to go near the vessel.

The other 28 men of the crew who were in different parts of the ship when the explosion occurred appeared to have suffered only slightly from the concussion and the seepage of gas and smoke which reached them. The four commissioned officers of the S-49 were all ashore at the time of the explosion having breakfast.

Officers at the base tonight pointed out that those batteries not destroyed in the explosion were still generating hydrogen gas and that when the hatches of the battery compartment are opened, this gas coming into contact with the oxygen of the air might again ignite spontaneously and cause a second explosion.

The board of inquiry, appointed by Captain E. J. King, commandant of the base, to investigate into the cause of the accident was in session late tonight but no indication that they they had reached a decision was forthcoming.

For the second time within a year, the submarine base was in mourning today. The previous occasion was when the S-51 went down off Block Island after she was rammed by the steamer City of Rome. A performance of "Getting Warmer" a musical comedy scheduled for tonight at the base theatre, was postponed and all other social activities in connection were ordered cancelled by Captain King.

The commandant sent personal telegrams to Mrs. Anna Cooke, advising her of the death of her son, and to Mrs. Vera B. McCormack, advising her of the death of her husband. He expressed the official regrets of the navy for the tragedy.

The battery room was located abaft the torpedo room and forward the control room directly beneath the conning tower of the ship. It contained two sets of storage batteries, each of 60 separate cells. The 120 cells were valued at about $18,000, a large proportion of which will be a total loss. The cells were stored under the deck of the compartment. Each cell was covered by a thin piece of steel decking. The crew's most commodious living quarters were located in this part of the boat.

Two tiers of pipes lined the walls on both sides, above and below which were the bunks of the men. The compartment was about 15 feet long by 8 feet wide, with concave walls corresponding to the contour of the vessel below the superstructure. Many valves and pipe lines were attached to the outboard bulkheads and all were torn away by the force of the explosion.

Nearly all the equipment above the deck of the battery room was recoverable. The deck, which contained the 120 separate pieces covering the cells was blown flying in all directions by the explosion. The mess tables and benches, constructed of heavy wood with metal legs and struts, and the steel deck pieces undoubtedly accounted for the mangling of the bodies of the men in the compartment at the time of the explosion.

EFFORT BEING MADE TO SETTLE PASSAIC STRIKE

PASSAIC, N. J., April 20—(AP)—The Passaic textile strike tonight moved toward conciliation.

Gov. A. Harry Moore appointed a mediation board of four members headed by himself and Albert Weisbord, youthful strike organizer, reaffirmed the strikers' willingness to confer with the mill owners for the purpose of settling the strike and is ready, as always, to cooperate with any outside board for conciliation."

He said that Henry T. Hunt of New York, had been retained to represent the strikers at negotiations with the governor's board composed of Henry Hilfers, secretary of the state federation of labor, Brig. Gen. Bird W. Spencer, and Adjutant General Gibson, of the national guard.

Gov. Moore made the announcement after Secretary Hilfers visited him today and offered the services of his organization to bring about a settlement. He empowered Hilfers to make advances to the strikers through the board.

Mr. Weisbord said that the strikers must decide what the settlement is to be.

"It deeply affects the lives of 16,000 workers and the futures of their children. Any plan devised by any group must be passed upon by the strikers themselves before a settlement can be reached."

ERUPTION OF VOLCANO MAUNA IS SUBSIDING

HILO, T. H., April 20—(AP)—After ten days of angry outburst the volcano Mauna Loa seemed today about to subside. The river of molten rock had ceased to flow upon the seaside village of Hoopuloa which it submerged, and for twenty four hours the rift in the mountain above the clouds has sent down decreasing waves of lava.

Clouds of smoke overhanging the island were smaller last night, but there remained a glow high up on the long slope, indicating a live patch of fire. New smoke today on the Hilo side, opposite the site of the present eruption, did not deter thousands from swarming over roads toward the cooling flow of lava.

MRS. ALFRED BROUSSEAU BOOKED TO HEAD D. A. R.

WASHINGTON, April 20—(AP)—The 35th Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution gives indications of coming at a close later in the week without the bitter factional strife over election of officers that has developed at meetings of the organization in the past. The last obstacle to the unanimous election of Mrs. Alfred Brousseau, of Connecticut, as president general, succeeding Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, appeared to have been removed with the formal withdrawal today of the candidacy of Mrs. George White Nash, of New York.

From the platform, Mrs. Nash announced she was out of the race "in the interest of harmony and unless a candidate enters the field and completes her tickets at the last minute, the balloting Thursday promises to be unusually tame."

Those on Mrs. Brousseau's ticket are Mrs. Matthew Brodrick, of Louisiana, chaplain general; Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle of Illinois, recording secretary general; Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart of Ohio, organizing secretary general; Mrs Adam M. Wyant, of Pennsylvania, treasurer general; Mrs. Herbert M. Lord of Maine, corresponding secretary general; Miss Vera Hodge McDuffee, of Michigan, historian general; Mrs. Gerald Livingston Schuyler, of Colorado, reporter general to the Smithsonian institution; Mrs. Horace M. Farnham of Vermont, librarian general, and Mrs. J. S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, curator general.

An item of particular interest in the reports which cover in detail the conditions of all banks, is an increase of $4,477,451.91 in the aggregate holdings of the banks in public utility bonds. The total in these holdings is now $78,909,429.07. The banks have also largely increased loans on real estate, nearly one half of the gain in deposits being taken up by the $8,156,206.38 placed in such loans. INDIVIDUALLY FAVOR WATER SUPPLY PLAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 20—Reports on the 1926 spring conference held at Bridgeport last week occupied the larger part of the business at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday noon. President James P. Bath presided. Orson Smith, accompanied by A. Linn Weatherhead, was a guest.

As a punishment for being tardy a quintet composed of Walter Abbe, P. D Donohue, Kenneth N. Hillhouse, Dr. William E. Hendry and A. Linn Weatherhead rendered a song. Harry W. Standish led in the singing for the day. Dr. R. Bullock Jones, chairman of the music committee called for volunteers to form a club band and receiving several responses promised the organization of such a body.

Mayor John C. Tracy, a fellow member introduced by Charles B. Pomeroy of the program committee, who gave a most enlightening talk on the proposed improvements to the city water supply system, naming the principal points of waste and danger which are to be remedied. An appropriation of $100,000 for this work is to be asked for at the next special city meeting. On motion of James B. Fullerton the club members, as individuals, went on record as favoring the project. Albert B. Smith reported for the playgrounds committee and asked for support to the $1,000 appropriation which will be asked for from the city to provide community playgrounds this year. A favorable vote was taken on this request. Dr. Michael D. Riordan, chairman of the Boys' Work committee reported progress on the arrangements for the annual Boys' Week in Willimantic.

Professor Richard E. Dodge, vice-president of the club gave the official report of the spring conference, bringing forcibly to mind the fact that Rotary in its periodic growth is becoming more and more instrumental in uniting the business element of the world and promoting world peace. Supplementary reports were given by President James P. Bath, Secretary Gerard E. Loisell, Walter Abbe and Louis A. Kingsbury. Adjournment was taken at 1:45 o'clock.

TENEMENTS WITHOUT HEAT CAUSE ARGUMENTS

WILLIMANTIC, April 20—With Tuesday morning's temperature holding a winter edge at 13 to 15 degrees there was naturally considerable thought given to the heat problem. Practically as much fuel has to be burned now as would be required during the winter months. Coal dealers are receiving a steady stream of supplementary coal orders. They alone seem gratified at the tenacity of the winter climate as they alone appear to profit by it. In business and tenement blocks the question has arisen as to whether or not the landlords are required to maintain heat. In some of these buildings the heat was shut off on the usual date of April 15 and the results have been protests from shivering occupants. Landlords in some instances state that the law does not require to heat their places from April 15 to October 15. Lawyers have been consulted and they claim that there is no such law regarding heating and that set dates for furnishing heat are to be found only where stipulated in contracts or leases. The act relative to the preservation of health by heating of leased buildings provides for a temperature of not less than 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

COMPANY C. RATED ONE OF CONNECTICUT'S BEST

WILLIMANTIC, April 20—The fifth annual banquet of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guards marking the fifth anniversary of the federal recognition of the company was held at the state armory Monday evening with about 125 officers and men of the company and guests present. During the repast a Hartford vaudeville troupe entertained with a pleasing variety of dancing and singing acts. Donald Lewis, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, sang, Show Me the Way to Go Home and made a distinctive hit. The opening remarks were by Capt. Joseph R. Morrison of Company C. In a brief review of the history of the organization he stated that it started with 35 men five years ago it now has a role of 85 men, making it the largest in the state. The company won a prize in the last membership drive.

Lieut. Ellison S. Smith acted as toastmaster of the evening. The principal speaker was Col. D. Gordon Hunter of Hartford. Col. Hunter commended the members on their cooperation and mutuality. He announced that Company C carried off high honors of the 169th Infantry in the last federal inspection. The company is one of the first in the state from all standpoints of military merit. Col. Hunter closed with congratulatory remarks.

BOYSYN SHOWED OFFICER WHERE BABY WAS BURIED

WILLIMANTIC, April 20—Harry Boysyn who is charged with abuse of a female child on the docket of the present criminal term of the Windham county superior court has revealed the place where he buried a baby born still to the 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wolak of Brooklyn, and of which he admits having been the father. Boysyn led County Detective William E. Jackson to the garage at the Wolak home a few days ago. Detective Jackson dug about two feet into the cinders used as the flooring for the garage. The remains of the child had been rapped in burlap. Dr. W. A. Tanner of Danielson examined the body. In his opinion the child had been born still due to premature birth. According to the accused the girl gave birth to the child while her parents were away. On statements of Boysyn Mr. and Mrs. Wolak were brought into court last week on bench warrants charging them with entering into complicity with Boysyn in allowing him to have improper relations with their 14-year old daughter. It is understood that Boysyn claims that he spent the night with the girl to the knowledge of the parents. Boysyn was a roomer at the Wolak home. The child was born last December. It is expected that the cases will be taken up in superior court this Wednesday.

A joint meeting of the Welfare Bureau and Visiting Nurses association was held Monday evening with Mayor John C. Tracy in charge, to discuss the feasibility of the fusion of the organizations. The possibility of consolidation was voted down, after considerable discussion. It was agreed, however that both organizations and the public which they serve would benefit greatly by being housed in the same building, although occupying separate rooms and continuing under individual management. A committee of six comprising three members of each organization was named to investigate and report on the double housing project, at a meeting to be held within a week. President John T. Carlson of the Welfare bureau and Mrs. John Reilly president of the Visiting Nurses acted as principal spokesmen for their organizations. Rumors that disagreements had arisen between the two bodies relative to municipal assistance were not substantiated. The bureau receives $350 annually from the town of Windham and a petition of the visiting nurses' association has been granted by the common council of the city to ask for an appropriation from that body at the next special city meeting.

Old Cluey Watson was over to the express office Tuesday, to send a bundle of pelts to New York. Stopping in at Tracy's store to get a supply of ammunition he told of passing several fields on his way over from camp where sheep and their young lambs were nibbling about the tree roots in apparent safety. "Down at my old home in Maine," said he, "the hungry Canadian lynxes that used to prowl about our farm in Somerset county, made it necessary to keep our flocks continually in sight. I remember the second spring we were there. We had one lamb very early, and the girls had brought it up to the house and when the snow began to go off it used to go out upon the bare spots. One noon we went in to dinner, I saw the lamb on a little knoll behind the house, not more than five rods away. While we were at dinner, the lamb disappeared. We never saw it again, but could guess pretty near what had become of it, and one of our neighbors afterwards told us that he saw a large animal crossing the fields about noon, but thought it was a dog.

I knew that the animal, whatever it might be, after getting such a nice taste, would be likely to hang around for a while. We had a large bear trap, and going down the road days I shot a rabbit for bait, and set it down in the old-growth woods with a chain.

We didn't get him that night, but the next night just as we were going to bed, we heard a terrible screeching down where the trap was, and I knew we had either got the old coon or pinched him pretty bad. It was a moonlight night and very nearly full moon, I think. We found the trap gone, and started on the trail made by the dog in the moss and grass.

My brother Dave and I were ahead, father and old John Putnam, who happened to be stopping at our house were coming on behind. Boy like, we were excited, and had a great deal more zeal than wisdom. After following for about half a mile, we came out into an open place, and were running forward on a dog-trot, one behind the other, when we were completely upset by the lynx, jumping against us with a spit and a growl. Quick as thought I was knocked fast, and went rolling over and over in the brush, with the cat top of me grabbing and scratching and the old bear trap clanking.

One pair of his long claws, had stripped my stout home-made jacket clean off me except the arms, and if the dog had not sprung upon him, and taken his attention, he would have done my job then and there.

We scrambled back out of reach pretty quick. He had one foot in the trap, and there he stood at bay, eating the chain and screeching at us. His big round eyes seemed to shoot out flashes, he was so mad. In a few moments father came up and shot him. It was the largest one I ever saw. Dave and I carried him back to the house tied across a white birch pole. Next morning he tipped the beam of our old farm balances at 36 pounds pounds.

The alarm of fire Tuesday forenoon at 9:30 was for a blaze in the smokehouse at the corner of Mathewson and Mechanic streets, owned by Stanley Abugal. People nearby the building kept the fire in check with buckets and dirt thrown on with a shovel. Chief Field and his men were delayed in arriving, on account of a five-minute hold up in starting the truck at the engine house. Half a tank of chemical did the trick with little damage resulting. Fire Marshal G. H. Prior said the origin of the fire was uncertain. The women who runs the store had been unpacking a shipment of crockery. Excelsior and straw were all about the room and no one knew how the rubbish became ignited.

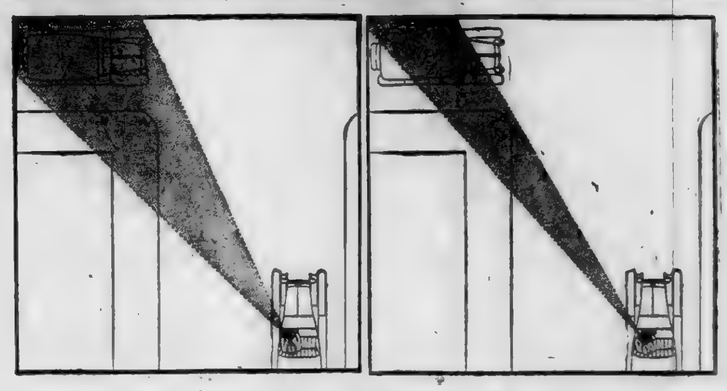
Safety demands clear vision



In the Hupmobile Six, with its narrow pillars—the result of its new composite, steel-and-wood body construction—vision ahead is improved 40 per cent over less modern construction.

A thick, broad front pillar can completely hide an object even as bulky as another motor car, as the left hand diagram shows.

And, as the right hand diagram shows, the slender Hupmobile pillar permits the driver to see the same car, at the same distance, in plenty of time.

That is safety vision—and it is but one of the superior features which you always associate with Hupmobile history and reputation.

Outstanding by reason of these definite superiorities—summed up in its wonderful performance, its beauty, its demonstrated economy—the Hupmobile Six is winning thousands away from the higher priced, as well as the lower priced, sixes.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON INN AGAIN DAMAGED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 20—A fire that threatened before the firemen got into action to destroy the Danielson inn broke out at 4:15 Tuesday morning, when an alarm came in from Box 24. Flames and smoke enveloped the roof of the structure, making the situation foreboding. Guests and employes of the hotel were driven to the street scantily clad, some of them more or less choked and considerably frightened.

The big frame three-story structure seemed doomed for a few minutes, but the firemen, stretching two streams of hose into the building quickly checked the spread of the fire and gradually brought it under control, and in doing so achieved one of the most efficient pieces of fire-fighting that has been done in Danielson in a long time. It was good work accomplished in the nick of time.

Fred J. Boisselle, a restaurant worker, reading in bed in his room on the third floor of the building, was the first to give the alarm. He said he saw smoke curling out from under the dresser and a minute later tongues of flame appeared. Boisselle, only partly clad, rushed through the corridors awakening sleeping people and thence down to the street to have the fire alarm pulled in.

Boisselle re-entered the hotel and renewed his efforts to awaken everyone and to give such assistance as any might need in making their way out through the smoke filled hallways. He learned plenty in a couple before he got out again, but managed that no so much as the loss of nearly all his clothing.

Among those who were asleep in the hotel was a ligeas vender of candies who happened to be spending the night in town. Unfamiliar with the hotel he had difficulty in groping his way out and finished dressing on the hotel veranda in a temperature that was far below freezing.

Despite the threat that the fire was causing when the firemen went into action, the damage to the hotel probably will not be more than $1,500. Holes had to be cut through partitions and much water poured into the structure to drown the fire, the water eventually coming down through the house to the lower floor.

Chief A. P. Woodward gave it as his opinion that the blaze was caused by defective electric light wires. The fire was discovered in the hotel by three Ames Sportlt after midnight of March 30, a fire broke out in a store room on the third floor of the structure and at the rear, but this fire was extinguished before it had caused any damage.

After an illness that extended over a period of seven years and that became critical a few weeks ago, Pierre Goulet, 63, died at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home on Cottage street. Mr. Goulet was a native of St. Charles, P. Q., born April 7, 1850, and lived there until he had grown to manhood and married.

He came to this country and settled at Taunton, Mass., remaining there for a time and then he went to Providence, Rhode Island, and had some made his home here. He was in the employ of the Cutlocking company at the time his health began to fail.

Mr. Goulet leaves his wife and the following children: Miss Valentine of Providence, Mrs. Delia Hart of Hartford, Mrs. Lena Bourque of Danielson, Mrs. Yvonne Bourque of Providence, Rhode Island, Mrs. Amadee, Omer, Louis, Irene, Delia and Joseph, all at home.

Box alarms—one from Box 35, at the corner of Main and Stearns streets, the other from Box 34, at the corner of Franklin and Railroad streets—gave the fire department their second and third trips of the day on Tuesday. Both were a false alarm, neither fire being needed to call out the public fire apparatus.

The death Monday at the hospital in Putnam of Mrs. Helen Tourtellot Colvin, wife of Andrew Colvin, caused no sorrow here, some of a great many folks Mrs. Colvin, a native of Fall River had spent her life in Central Village and was a very popular young woman.

Extreme danger of destructive forest fires exists at the present time, a matter that is more or less in the public mind because this happens to be National Forestry week. There has been no rain to amount to anything the past ten days, fields and woods are sear and brown, high winds are prevailing and a fire once started may do untold damage.

L'Homme street, undergoing rapid developments and having some fine homes, is to be included in the borough's street lighting system. This thoroughfare was formally accepted by the town a year ago last fall. Eventually its development will include good sidewalks and other improvements.

A message from New York to friends here told of the death in that city of Miss Dorothy Pierce, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce of Danielson. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, who have apartments in the hoenix building, went to New York about a fortnight ago with their daughters Dorothy and Mary for a visit. Dorothy developed influenza and died Monday. The body is expected here today. Mr. Pierce is a traveling salesman and the family has lived in Danielson for several years. Mr and Mrs. Pierce have a son, Harold, who is a student for the priesthood at LaSalette college in Hartford.

Henry I. Lague has resigned as a lieutenant in the Danielson fire department after 20 years of service. He became a member of Rattle Hook and Ladder company in 1902. He became assistant foreman and from 1913 to 1914 was foreman of the company. When the fire department was reorganized in 1919, he became lieutenant of the Captain Put Engine company.

Members of the Baptist church choir which up to the present time has been a volunteer choir—met recently and organized, choosing for their officers, George Gunther, president; George Clarke, vice president; Miss Harriet Sulppae, secretary and treasurer; Miss Margaret Burton, librarian. George Gunther is director of the choir which consists of about 35 members.

Plans were made for an entertainment to be given in the church auditorium by the Lotus Male Quartette and Miss Dorothy Carpenter, reader of Boston. The proceeds of the affair are to be used to remodel the choir loft. Miss Marjorie Gaffney and Mr. Gunther are the committee in charge of the entertainment.

"The Spark Plugs" of the Baptist Sunday school were entertained by Miss Florence Moran Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, this being her 16th birthday. Mrs. Moran served a salad supper and there was the usual birthday cake and other good things. Games, stunts, dancing and class songs were enjoyed. There were 16 present and Miss Moran received many nice gifts.

Up to afternoon Tuesday there had been nine fire alarms during April, seven of them since last Saturday morning.

Frozen water pipes in barns and other unprotected places were reported Tuesday morning, when Danielson had a minimum temperature of 19 degrees.

Mrs. A. L. Cundall entertained the members of the Fortnightly club Tuesday afternoon.

A meeting of the Dell club to have been held on Monday was postponed until Tuesday of next week.

George M. Greene of Cambridge Mass., has been a visitor recently with his parents, Deacon and Mrs. A. C. Greene of North Main street.

Gerard Bourgoine is a new driver in the fire department for the big pumper of the Captain Put Engine company.

Ernest Morin is slowly recovering from severe injuries sustained to his right hand several weeks ago when three fingers were cut by a circular saw about which he was working.

C. A. Hamilton, new assistant chief of the fire department, made his first appearance at the Danielson inn fire Tuesday morning since illness forced him to undergo a surgical operation a number of weeks ago, and give up his fire department duties for the time being.

Visiting Elks from many eastern Connecticut communities and from points in Massachusetts are expected here for the annual Charity ball of Putnam lodge of Elks, now held in Danielson annually. Dennis Hayes of Norwich lodge is to give the 11 o'clock toast.

The newest escape of Frank Weedon, noted Rhode Island criminal, had timid folk in this territory in a nervous state again, but they were put at ease when it was learned that he had been captured Tuesday in Westerly.

Garden work is at a complete stand-still this week, because of cold weather, frozen ground and other untoward conditions for so late in April. Only a comparatively small amount of plowing has been done anywhere hereabouts.

This day brings to Danielson a visi-tation of members of the public utilities commission to hear a petition of the Blue Ribbon bus line for permission to operate a line out of Central Village to Goodyear via Brooklyn and Danielson.

PUTNAM

FOUND OLD DOCUMENT IN WOODS NEAR STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 20.—While hunting gypsy moths in the vicinity of Stonington several years ago, Joseph S. Shepard of Oak Hill, this city, came upon a dilapidated house in the woods and there found an old trunk that had fallen apart. He picked up several papers near the trunk that were more or less frozen into the snow and ice and reported to a society in New London, interested in such things, of his find. What was done by the society, if anything, Mr. Shepard has never heard.

The oldest letter which Mr. Shepard has in his possession is one written November 13, 1767. It was written from the New London "gaol" where the writer was evidently incarcerated but for what the letter does not disclose. It was addressed to Nathanial Minor of Stonington and asks Mr. Minor's help for the writer for his cause and expressed the hope that he will be able to have a writ served against the writer abated. While the signature to the letter is in a bold hand it is so embellished with flourishes that it is difficult to decipher.

Another letter written from Springfield in 1774 is a dunning letter. This is also addressed to a resident of Stonington and shows that credit was a somewhat risk even before the Revolution.

A third letter dated December 15, 1776 is from a father who wishes to get his son an appointment as an armourer. The father writes that his son, Enoch thinks it will be to his advantage to go into camp providing he can get the desired appointment. The father also praises the son's ability as an armourer saying that the son has for many months spent his time in repairing, mounting and fixing guns and that he has done several repairs that no one else could do.

One of the documents is an agreement between master and mariners of the sloop "Little Nat" for a voyage and return to Stonington. It is signed by the ship's master, mate, and two seaman and is dated May 22, 1876.

There is also an insurance policy for 300 pounds on the "good schooner George" from North Stonington to Charlestown. The schooner is also privileged to make a trip to the West Indies but must return to Stonington within three months. The policy is dated at New London, January 25, 1786.

The annual father and son banquet under the auspices of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. will be held at the First Baptist church in Putnam on Friday, April 23, at 6:30 p. m. This will give the fathers an opportunity to spend an enjoyable evening with their sons. The principal speakers who will take part are: Harry Richardson of Moosup, chairman of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. committee; F. A. Stanley, secretary of the boys work; Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of the Putnam school, will be toastmaster.

Among the boys who will give their views of what they expect of their fathers and what kind of fathers they expect to be are: James Tatem, Jr., James Mansfield, Page Jenkins and Perry Barber. STAFFORD SPRINGS

MATTHEWS HOUSE BURNED FIRE SPREAD TO TIMBERLAND

(Special to the Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, April 20—A two tenement house in Staffordville owned by Mrs. Edith Matthews and the family of George Belcher, was totally destroyed by fire, shortly before noon Tuesday. The fire started probably from a defective chimney in the tenement occupied by the Belcher family and in a few minutes spread quickly to the roof and other sections of the house. Neither Mrs. Matthews nor the Belcher family was at home at the time. Sparks from the house ignited the dry grass nearby and it was not long until the fire, fanned by a stiff breeze, spread to the nearby brush and timber land and by one o'clock it had burned over several acres. In the meantime a call was sent to the Springs for the local fire department and the firemen with several volunteers speeded to Staffordville where a large force of men fought the fire all the afternoon. Some of the furniture in the house was removed by neighbors who quickly congregated when the alarm was given and saved what they could, before the flames reached the lower floor of the house. The fire burned over a large tract of timber and while it is difficult to estimate the damage at this time, it is known that it will be very heavy. On account of the strong wind it was an unusually bad day to fight a fire. The loss on the building and contents is partly covered by insurance.

The funeral of Mrs. Olga Schneider, 62, who died from a shock at her home on West Main street Sunday, was held at the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Levi Rees, pastor of the Congregational church conducted the services. Burial was in the Springs cemetery. RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT

In the observance of its centennial by the New York Central road there is occasion for stepping back into the past and calling attention to the conditions that prevailed in the long ago. This is one of the systems which has experienced extensive and successful growth. What was only a state affair, and not all of the state at that in the beginning is now a national enterprise.

Remarkable changes have been made for the development in the railroads during the last century has been quite as marked as has been the progress in other directions. There were of course the days when the tracks which are now steel rails were made of plates on which were nailed strips of iron for the surface on which the wheels ran and the early cars and engines form a striking contrast to the coaches, parlor cars, sleepers and locomotives of the present day. In every way it is possible to show what great advancement has been made during the century that has gone, not only by this particular century old road but by all railroads. As one of the pioneers the part which the New York Central has played in this march of progress is particularly striking.

When the road was started there was no thought of what it might develop into in 100 years, but after reading what has been accomplished in the first hundred it is not unusual for thoughts to be turned to the possibilities of the second century. What will be the situation in 2026 relative to the New York Central?

It is too long a time for anyone to venture a prediction. Much can happen and much will happen. Transportation has undergone great changes, but the end is not yet, even though it is highly probable that a large volume of it will be accomplished through the air by that time it is quite certain that there will still be used for the railroads quite the same as there will be the autos and it is not improbable that there will be a few electric cars to be seen at that time, though possibly they may be quite as much of a curiosity as the last line of horse cars was in New York a few years ago.

The mode of operation can be expected to undergo steady changes and among other things hydro-electric development can be expected to play an increasingly important part.

MILITARY TRAINING

Military training is a subject over which many people differ. They have opposite views not solely because those who favor it believe in militarism or because those who support it believe in peace at any price.

Whatever doubt it would be as to what military training could be expected with if there were no possibility of war, the fact that such training is prohibited in Germany does not mean that there would be peace, and on the other hand the fact that there is still army training does not insure war.

In the experience of mankind, however much there may be a desire for peace it has been found that more or less protection is required against the unknown and the uncertain. There is no telling when someone is going to take over the trades and do the unexpected and unexpected. Unless there is some guard established against such a situation serious troubles are likely to follow. Those who are caught unprepared through placing too much trust where it is not warranted have taught a lesson to others.

It is to be hoped that the day will come when peace will be assured and no military training will be required but the mere desire for it does not establish it.

Thus in the consideration of the question of military training it is inevitable that whatever side is being presented it can be expected that others may hold opposite views but that does not justify the breaking up of meetings in order to have both sides heard when a gathering has been called for the purpose of hearing the views of a speaker on one side.

While Dr. Cadman was speaking in New York this week on military training in schools and was expressing himself against it exception was taken to his views by certain reserve officers. Perhaps there were many others in the audience who felt even as the reserve officers did but they didn't insist upon a public debate and there was no justification for the attitude of the officers in so doing. Their conduct in fact demonstrated the difficulty of maintaining peace throughout the world quite the same as in that particular meeting.

PINCHOT'S WORK

While Pennsylvania is in the throes of a hot campaign for the senatorial and state primary it is impossible for interest in the former at least to extend beyond its boundaries.

Pennsylvania can be safely rated as a republican state so that the fight for the republican nomination is to be regarded as the equivalent of election. In the present contest are three candidates, the present incumbent Senator Pepper, Governor Pinchot and former Congressman Vare. There has been an unusually large registration which should indicate a large vote in the primary.

Senator Pepper has made an excellent impression and record during the time that he has been at Washington. He has shown himself to be a supporter of the administration policies and one who has been alert to the welfare of that commonwealth to the extent that that the state would seem duty bound to return him.

For a long time it has been evident that the ambitions of Governor Pinchot have been directed toward the senatorship. That was plainly shown during the strike period and without any special encouragement from the people of that state.

The Vare candidacy is an out and out bid for the wet vote, while the expectations are that he will get the support of the political machine of Philadelphia where the Vares have been politically strong for years.

One interesting feature of the campaign is the claim by the governor that he is a candidate chiefly for the purpose of defeating Vare, the governor being the driest of the dry. That view might be entertained were it a fact that he entered the race after Vare did instead of preceding him. But even in his desire to defeat Vare he should realize that the greatest satisfaction he could give to Vare would be to continue to remain in the contest and make it three cornered. Therein Vare sees his chance. Vare sees Pinchot get a certain amount of support that would ordinarily go to Pepper and his hopes are kept up so long as Pinchot can maintain the division. Pinchot's candidacy gives Vare his best chance and Pinchot cannot see that by trying to defeat him he is doing his best to give him the nomination. Pennsylvania's politics may be somewhat muddled but that situation seems to be as clear as crystal.

OUR TREES

Worcester puts forth the claim that it is the only city this side of Buffalo with a full time tree surgeon in its staff.

Worcester is a city of many trees, beautiful trees and that statement or boast indicates that Worcester is alive to the importance of protecting and preserving the trees that it possesses while such action is possible.

It is unfortunate that other cities do not attach greater importance to just such action. It is unfortunate, indeed that there is such a great disposition to cut down and destroy trees when such action is not necessary and when it would cost less money to put them in shape to last 50 to 100 years than it does to cut them down.

Perhaps every city has not need for a full time tree surgeon. It is probable that such an official could easily serve several cities and do efficient work either through personal efforts or directing the work of others. Perhaps it is not so much the fact that a city has a full time official of this kind as it is that it is actually doing what is required in this particular direction.

Norwich is one of the cities which ought to have the benefit of a tree surgeon's help. We need to devote more attention to the setting out of new trees, the replacement of those which have to be cut down, the proper care of diseased and pest ridden trees. We ought to appreciate the desirability of preserving trees which are already possessed. In the consideration given to the future in regard to our shade trees we must also give due thought to the immediate present. Our trees do not grow over night. We have reason to give heed to what Worcester and other cities are doing in this direction.

OUR COURT RESERVATIONS

Quite in keeping with expectations is the note which has been sent by Secretary Kellogg regarding the participation of the United States in the conference of the nations at Geneva concerning our entrance into the world court.

It is a pain setting forth of the situation and one which ought to appeal to the other nations if they give due consideration to conditions which surround this matter. The desire has been expressed by other nations that the United States adhere to the world court protocol. This country, through the senate, has answered that it will join under certain reservations and it has set those forth. That is positive action on the part of the senate and it is impossible for anyone other than the senate to change those reservations in any way.

It is therefore impossible for the president or the state department to name anyone to go to Geneva and negotiate changes in those reservations. Those reservations must be accepted by the respective members of the league, or be rejected by them. If they reject them it is possible for the senate to submit new reservations or to do nothing more about it. It might of course accept such terms as other nations might offer, but it would not be obliged to.

At the world conference at Geneva there is nothing to prevent the nations from discussing the reservations which have been submitted by this government and coming to any conclusion that they desire. The point of our note is that our reservations "must be accepted by the exchange of notes between the United States and each of the 48 nations signatory to the statute of the permanent court before the United States can become a member and sign the protocol."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Among the things something ought to be done about is the weather.

Those who are complaining of the cold will soon be numbered among those who will be of the opinion that we are getting too much heat.

Getting off to a good start in the baseball contest always brings to mind the old saying, "good beginning, poor ending," but it doesn't always prove true.

Something to worry about: It is impossible to let the heater fire go out.

ALL THAT ENDS WELL

"Lo, old thing. How's the kid?

"Same's yourself. Grand. How's the folks?

"That's good. Say, dearie, listen. George was over to supper last night.

"Say, wait till I tell you. Honest, kid, I thought I'd die. You see, for all him and me's been goin' together for quite a while, he hadn't never much more'n said 'hello' and 'so long' to my folks, account of him and me mostly goin' to a movie or somewheres evenings and never stickin' 'round the house much, see?

"So a couple weeks back I started thinkin' if he and me was goin' to—you know—get married and everything he'd ought to get acquainted with the folks see? Not so bad, huh? So I started in in to stage this here party I'm goin' to tell you about. Some party! Say! Wait till I tell you.

"Sure everything come out all right in the end, but it was terrible while the show was on. Posolootly. Wait till I tell you. You know how mean my folks is—ma and pa and my married sister Oluv and her two kids and her hubby, and my sister Esther that works over to Walsh's. Well, say kid listen. If you had ever saw what they pulled last night you'd a thought I'd—you know—maybe checked 'em all some place and drew out the wrong bunch. Seemed like everyone of 'em acted worse'n the other.

"You know ma'd walk on her ear for pa. But last night, say, the minute we sits down to the table she starts in to baw! him out, and she never quits it all the time we was eatin' see?

"Oh, like when he spilled things on the tablecloth or put his knife in his mouth—you know, just little things like that. Gee, it was awful. And after awhile he gets peeved and turns 'round and gives her a earful. Say!

"Then you know how mean Oluv and her hubby is to each other and the kids, huh? Well, you'd a thought they'd ought to be hauled into the court of domestic science or whatever they call it—the way they kep' fussin' forth and back. And then the two of 'em was pickin' on the oldest little kid about eatin' his chicken leg with his fingers and he turned around and slaps the next to the oldest kid a biff on the bean like it was his fault and then Oluv made the two of 'em beat it to the kitchen while we got finishin' their supper and then pretty near helored their heads off out there and that waked up the littlest kid who Oluv had give it its supper and put it to sleep in the bedroom and it commenced to cry. Static. Say! You couldn't hardly hear yourself eat. That's how much noise there made, see?

"Well, say kid, listen. By the time the kids quit cryin' and was back at the table and was 'tween our pie and cake Esther spoilt her boy friend. Dang if I didn't ever make an awful break with ma, but nobody knows what started her on him, that is. And then Esther, right in front of everybody, she says, 'He's tough and starts in to cost 1 dollar I

Dr. John C. Van Dyke, who reaches the age of 70 years today, has been professor of the history of art at Rutgers College since 1903 and for 4 years has held place as an authoritative writer and lecturer on art. A native of New Brunswick, N. J., he was educated by private tutors and at Columbia University and then spent some years abroad in the study of art. Upon his return he studied law and was admitted to the bar, but never practiced. Dr. Van Dyke has published many books dealing with art history and criticism. In two of his books which have attracted wide attention he has challenged the authenticity of many of the so-called Rembrandts, both in public galleries and in private collections. Dr. Van Dyke is so sure of his ground that he asserts that out of 500 or more pictures classed as Rembrandts not more than 60, at the most, are unquestionably by that master.

From Small Beginnings

Russell H. Conwell, the Berkshire Boy—Great Lecturer

Russell H. Conwell was born on a farm in the Berkshire Hills in Massachusetts in 1843. His father was a man who had his own opinions, based on principles as sturdy as the rocks on his little farm. Therefore the boy saw the Negroes, brought on what was called "the underground railroad," make the home their stopping place for a night on their flight into Canada. From such a home and from a little district school the lad drew the beginnings of power. He worked on farm, and then set out as a book agent, studying the very best books he sold by hard work, finding time for study as best he could, he prepared himself for Yale. Then came the Civil war, and off he went as captain.

Sometime after the war Captain Conwell delivered an address to the veterans of his regiment. The 46th Massachusetts, and called the address Acres of Diamonds. Into that address as into everything that he did, he put his full spirit. He touched men's hearts. Other people heard of the speech and demanded to hear it. Since that day Russell H. Conwell has repeated Acres of Diamonds in every state in the United States, has traveled thousands upon thousands of miles to deliver it, and has earned by that one lecture alone more than $4,000,000.

But giving lectures has not been Russell Conwell's only work in life. For a while he worked as a lawyer, then as a land agent, an editor, an assistant commissioner, a newspaper correspondent, a city missionary and finally as a pastor and college president of a college that he himself founded, Temple university. Practically all the money that he has earned through his publications, lectures he has given away for good purposes. Not only Temple University but also Samaritan hospital, today to his care-taking long enough to eat. She always made [illegible] about eating. She always made sure that no one was around to see her slip away, and when she returned she always came back in her most [illegible] careful way. Little Talks on Thrift

FOREGO HABITS OF WASTE

While we Americans as a people [illegible] our resources than others, we [illegible] superiors in real business efficiency.

A striking of this is shown in the building and construction industries. It takes [illegible] as long and sometimes [illegible] to erect a building in England [illegible] does here. The result is that [illegible] are there, generally speaking, [illegible] as much as they do here. [illegible] the craftsmen employed in the [illegible] work are often paid at [illegible] should be. But [illegible] must be in keeping with [illegible] there is no other way a thrifty [illegible] can be operated profitably for [illegible] to secure an adequate [illegible] Unless heavy burden is placed [illegible] employing people through lack [illegible] efficiency in the building industry.

When we look about us in this country and note the great progress being made on every hand, how our cities and smaller places are forging ahead, and how great building projects are going forward, we gain an appreciation of the value of American efficiency. Better standards of living for the people are continually being developed, education is broadened, more equable relations between employer and employee are fostered, and intelligent [illegible] citizenship are brought into existence.

American efficiency means simply the elimination of the greatest possible amount of waste, in other words thrift applied to business. And it is to be said to our honor that European countries are taking note of our methods and are beginning to follow them.

As a nation we are often criticized for our commercialism. Nevertheless it can not be denied that we have developed a type of industrial tariff that is a strong factor in solving many of our great social problems.

Let us remember that standards of individual efficiency bring the same benefits to the individual as business efficiency brings to industry. If we would make progress in the world, we must learn to forego habits of waste. Thrifty ways, followed consistently from day to day, can bring us only to successful destinations. — American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Speaking of Cheese!

Philip, aged five, is a modern lad. He is fond of a certain cheese called Radio. He asked his father recently if it had a loud speaker.

The boy then retorted: "I'll bet Limburger has one, though."

Will Know Better Next Time.

He breezed into the lunch room, gave his order and took his dinner to a secluded table. After disposing of part of it and the first cup of coffee, he decided on another and proceeded to get it.

Returning to where he thought he had left the uneaten part of the lunch, all he could discern was his overcoat and his chair. The dish collector, thinking he had finished, "cleaned up" in his absence and had made away with his lunch quicker than he was doing. After calming down the patron took up the matter with the management and his order was refilled without expense.

Joseph Richards of Pembroke, was arraigned in the Suncook, N. H., municipal court, as the man whose attempts to poison crows resulted in the death of hundreds of grackles near Pembroke recently.

Mrs. Grouse Prepares for Trouble

For trouble always be prepared,
For few from it are wholly spared
—Old Mother Nature.

Dainty little Mrs. Grouse gave considerable thought to the matter of her nest this spring. It was her very own secret. Not even Mr. Grouse was to know where that nest was. "The only way to keep a secret is to keep it secret," says Mrs. Grouse. "As long as only one person knows it, it is a secret. When two people know it, it may still be a secret, but it probably isn't a secret; and if it is, it won't be long. That is, no one is to know, if I can help it."

She spent considerable time looking about in the Green Forest in places where she had nested before. Somehow they didn't suit her this year. Finally she decided that she would rather be near the edge of the Green Forest. So, when she thought no one was watching her, she looked about near the edge of the Green Forest, until at last she found just the place she wanted. It was a very pleasant spot. The ground was covered with brown leaves that just about matched her brown cloak. There was a big tree with just the right sort of foot of it to put that nest. Some of the pine trees were standing up all around, and she felt sure that she would be quite hidden there and very much protected.

"No one will think of looking over here for my nest," said Mrs. Grouse, "because I have never been here before. It is very well concealed here. I am quite sure I cannot be seen here."

The next step was to build a nest. Of course she knew all about how to make her nest—a soft, warm place for the eggs and the baby birds that were to be. It was to be in the big tree. Of course it need not be very elaborate—it never is. It usually is made of leaves and lined with ferners. But Mrs. Grouse was not satisfied with the kind of nest that is popular with most of her feathered neighbors. She was going to have a nest that was different from any other. She was going to have a nest that was the envy of all the other birds. She was going to have a nest that was the envy of all the other birds. She was going to have a nest that was the envy of all the other birds.

She stood stock still to admire him ward where she was standing. It was quite evident that he thought himself a most important person. Suddenly Mrs. Grouse remembered her [illegible] eggs, and at just that instant Blindneck the Pheasant saw her. Right then Mrs. Grouse prepared for trouble.

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY

Without Good Health

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
823 PIERCE AVENUE, LANCASTER, OHIO

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health. I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. FRANK DINDORE, 823 Pierce Avenue, Lancaster, Ohio.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. EDWARD PERKINS, 208 Surprise Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

TALKS ON AVIATION FIELD TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING

A square tract is the preferred shape for an aviation field, but an L-shaped tract can be used, according to what Major Ira Longanecker, air officer, 1st corps area, Boston, told his audience Tuesday evening when he was the speaker at the chamber of commerce monthly supper and membership meeting at the Wauregan hotel. If an L-shaped field were to be used, each leg of the L should be 200 feet wide and at least 1,600 feet long, but 1,800 feet would be better. On such a field the expert aviator can make a landing no matter what direction the wind is blowing.

The supper-meeting had an attendance of 50, opening with the singing of America, led by Swahn's orchestra, which played during the supper hour.

In opening the speaking programme, President James L. Case spoke of the purpose of the chamber of commerce this year to bring forward matters bearing upon civic advancement and he commended the commercial travelers organization for its spirit in promoting the development of the Thames river valley. He spoke in praise of the splendid address given by Attorney Edward G. McKay before a Norwich organization last week and he asked the support of the chamber of commerce members for the sessions of the Connecticut Conference of Social Work, which is to be held here next week. President Case said he hoped Norwich could become more of a convention city and have people coming here for state meetings.

At his suggestion Secretary John J. O'Rourke spoke of the need next Tuesday of about 50 automobiles to convey the delegates attending the Social Work conference to the Norwich state hospital, where they are to have a meeting and see a demonstration of the work of the hospital. There will be about 200 or 300 delegates to be conveyed at 12:15 from the Y. M. C. A. building, the convention headquarters, to the state hospital, and be brought back from the hospital at 5:15. Mr. O'Rourke asked that those who could furnish machines for this service, which would take about an hour, would give him their names.

President Case announced that the directors of the chamber of commerce had voted to endorse the recommendation for an appropriation of $4,000 for trees which will be presented at the city meeting in June, this amount being $1,500 more than was appropriated for trees last year. He said that Norwich in time past had been noted for the beauty of its trees and that more attention was needed to preserve what we have now and restore something of our former prestige in trees.

He also spoke of the satisfaction that is felt in knowing that the bill for the Thames river improvement is before congress with approval of the rivers and harbors committee.

Introducing Major Longanecker, President Case spoke of the interest which Governor Trumbull has in the development of air fields in Connecticut. Having this in view, the chamber had named an aviation committee, consisting of Willis Austin, James Rountree, Rev. A. H. Abbott, W. F. Lester, and Charles Goodnow, who had secured the speaker of the evening.

Spoke on Air Field

Major Longanecker opened the subject by referring to the changed attitude of aviation in this country since the war and said that Norwich is on the direct route between Boston and New York. A contract has been let for an airmail service which for the present at least will probably go by way of Hartford, which has stolen a march on the rest of New England in preparing an airfield. Cleveland is proposing a million dollar bond issue for its air field project. Chicago is contemplating dredging and filling in a part of the lake. Boston has between 50 and 60 acres on made ground.

In locating an air field, the question of obstructions is an important consideration, as for each foot of obstruction the availability of the air field is decreased by seven feet. With Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Austin the major said he had looked over locations around Norwich and had found Preston Plains by far the best place as there were fewest obstructions there. An air field needs an 1,800 foot runway in three or four directions, which should be 200 or 300 feet wide.

In air navigation the terminal facilities are the principal thing. Two advantages which it offers are to be seen in quickness of time in transportation of passengers and of freight, such as valuable merchandise like money or securities. The transportation of freight, he said, was of the utmost importance to New England because of its intense industrial development, enabling its products to reach the markets of the west with dispatch.

The question of safety, he said, was one of the things that had held back air navigation, but there were two factors that would help to secure safety. One would be to know that there was a good safe landing field about every 20 miles and the other is the development of the multiple motor shift by which a place will have three motors developing 600 horse power, instead of one developing 450 horse power. The multiple motors and terminal facilities will operate to increase safety.

Because of the terrain, he said, New England cities have more engineering problems than the west in locating an air field. He spoke of the well established air service he had observed in Europe, where, he said, about 75 to 80 per cent. of the patrons were Americans.

President Case announced that the chamber of commerce would endorse the recommendation for an appropriation of $4,000 for trees which will be presented at the city meeting in June, this amount being $1,500 more than was appropriated for trees last year. He said that Norwich in time past had been noted for the beauty of its trees and that more attention was needed to preserve what we have now and restore something of our former prestige in trees.

He also spoke of the satisfaction that is felt in knowing that the bill for the Thames river improvement is before congress with approval of the rivers and harbors committee.

Introducing Major Longanecker, President Case spoke of the interest which Governor Trumbull has in the development of air fields in Connecticut. Having this in view, the chamber had named an aviation committee, consisting of Willis Austin, James Rountree, Rev. A. H. Abbott, W. F. Lester, and Charles Goodnow, who had secured the speaker of the evening.

As to the Fair Grounds

In response to a suggestion from Secretary O'Rourke, the major told what he thought of the fair grounds as an available place for an airfield.

He declared that there was not over 1,000 feet of fairly level runway there and there was no cross runway. Trees and houses around the fair grounds constituted a serious obstacle. The roads would also be obstacles. There would have to be much leveling north and south to prepare an adequate field. A runway of from 1,500 to 1,800 feet, with a clear approach is needed, he said.

It was also brought out in the discussion that the material for a five-plane steel hangar would cost $12,000 and the construction another $12,000.

Willis Austin, chairman of the aviation committee, spoke of his interest in the subject since taking a flight from London to Paris, and after President Case had expressed appreciation for all who had cooperated in the opening of the Norwich radio station, the meeting was declared adjourned.

OPPORTUNITY FOR FONTAINE WITH MUNICH OPERA

It has not been generally known among the many friends of Henry J. LaFontaine, who are interested in his coming recital in Slater hall, that a probable engagement with the Munich opera is awaiting him whenever he feels that he can take the time to accept the opportunity offered.

When Mr. Fontaine was abroad this summer with Charles J. Dyer, they were guests at the opera cycle of Baron Frankenstein, director of the Munich opera, who is an intimate friend of Mr. Dyer. As the result of an audition with Baron Frankenstein, the Munich opera director became enthusiastic over the young American and held out to him the possibilities of an opera engagement.

That Mr. Fontaine has a promising opportunity in opera is substantiated by Fedeor Challapin, world famous baritone of the Metropolitan and Joseph Schwartz, leading baritone of the Chicago opera, for whom he sang while at Baden Baden where he coached with Alfred Rose, musical director of the Vienna opera.

EXCEPTIONAL PROGRAMME BY NORWICH RADIO STATION

Chamber of Commerce radio station WCBR broadcast Tuesday night from the Hanover-Curland studio through the courtesy of George W. Kies company, the Queen Quality hour of music. Thumm's orchestra consisting of David K. Lyon, violin; Fred Thumm, piano; Royal Groover, drums, Fred Freeman, tenor and soprano saxophone, Raymond Woods, trumpet; Chester Parker, banjo; Gaylord Mattison, alto and soprano saxophone; William Stevens, bass saxophone, rendered a fine programme of up to the minute dance music. The programme began at 8 o'clock, David K. Lyon directed. The numbers played were, "I Never Knew, Who, What Could Be Sweeter Than You, Let's Talk About My Sweety.

Ray Woods varied the programme by singing Always, accompanying himself on the ukelele. The orchestra followed with, Say It Again, Sweet Child, Mighty Blue, Just a Sailor's Sweetheart, with a vocal chorus by the entire orchestra was played by request. Billy Mitchell came in with the song, Somebody's Lonely. Several requests were received to have David K. Lyons play My Wild Irish Rose, which Mr. Lyon rendered with fine enthusiasm. Fred Thumm accompanied on the piano. The orchestra continued with Indian Dawn, I Love My Baby, with vocal chorus by the entire orchestra. That Certain Party was rendered by the orchestra with Ray Woods leading the chorus. Melody in F was rendered by David K. Lyon by request, accompanied by the entire ensemble. Sitting On Top of the World was the next number played by the orchestra. An amusing way of announcing Thumm's orchestra by Mr. Meester, the announcer, was "One on each hand," which was quickly picked up by the listeners-in and many congratulations came in to "one on each hand"—one coming from New London and one from Westerly.

A saxophone solo was rendered by Gaylord Mattison of Willimantic, entitled, There Are Blues. Now Willimantic had a chance to be heard and many congratulations came in from Willimantic. A novelty number named A Darktown Strutters Ball was played next. Billy Mitchell and Ray Woods singing the chorus and Chester Parker playing a banjo solo. William W. Beckwith

William W. Beckwith, past exalted ruler of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., and former secretary of the New London County Agricultural society, died at Grace hospital, New Haven, Tuesday morning following a lingering illness. Mr. Beckwith had been a patient at the hospital for several weeks, having gone there from his residence, Lenox cottage, West Mystic.

William W. Beckwith was born in this city, June 23, 1863 and was the son of Elias H., and Jane Beckwith. His father was a deputy sheriff in this county and was jailor at the county jail. WILLIAM W. BECKWITH

A number of years ago Mr. Beckwith was united in marriage with Lillian W. Sears and they had one son, Myron Hillard Beckwith. Mr. Beckwith received an excellent business education and for some years was a traveling salesman. Mr. Beckwith was a member of the Central Baptist church and was connected with many organizations in the city.

He was a member of a Masonic lodge in Mystic and of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E. of which he was exalted ruler having held many prominent offices in the lodge. RIVERVIEW TEAM OPENS SEASON ON SATURDAY WITH TAFTVILLE A. A. CLUB

The 1926 baseball season will be ushered in at the Norwich State hospital on Saturday afternoon when the Riverview club which is under the management of Paul Zemke this season, will clash with the Taftville A. A.

Manager Zemke, an old professional league pitcher, has been putting his team through the early season paces during the past week and the boys have been traveling at a fast clip considering the extremely cold baseball weather. Last season the Riverview club had one of the fastest baseball clubs in the state and the material shows even better this season and another record of victories is expected. Manager Zemke is a player with a world of experience and his knowledge of the game should be of material benefit to the club. For years Paul Zemke has been classed as one of the foremost of the local pitchers and many is the game that has been won by his judgment rather than by his arm.

What promises to be one of the fastest semi-pro infields in the state will be at the state hospital this season if Manager Zemke's plans work out. At first base was a pretty rugged infield problem but perhaps the only improvement around the team at first base Hamill has been slated for the initial sack berth for the time being but an effort is being made to get Lefty Harrell of the Base to cover this bag and Hamill will probably be shifted to the outfield owing to his powerful hitting.

Joe Belair will do the back-stopping again this season and Belair in the hospital will be well fortified in this department as there is no better or brainy catcher in eastern Connecticut.

The pivoting burden will fall upon Steve Westine's season as Tony has retired to go into professional baseball Westine is in the best shape in recent years and big things are expected of the big southpaw this summer. To replace West of the pitching burden Manager Zemke has signed up Gionetta of the Sub Base. Gibbons pitched Hamill for the base team last year.

Wee Eddie Burns is back at Riverview again and will take care of the second base position. Fans will remember the last game that Burns played around the keystone sack when he was with the hospital team two seasons ago. Last year Burns played with the Searcy team of New London. This season if Burns is the same a player that was he from strong last season.

Mundi Normandin will work with Burns in the short field north and the combination of Normandin and Burns should prove one of the main stays of defense on the team. Normandin is fast and covers his territory with speed and ability and is exceptionally good on starting double plays. Working with Burns who is also a dash the double plays this season should mount close to a record.

Nap Lowery who is to report to the Eastern Shore league later in the season will play the first part of the season at the third base position. Nap is a fast fielder and a promising batter when Nap goes it will leave a hole in the infield but Manager Zemke has Denny Moore to fall back on.

Harry Mills one of the best utility men in the state and a fast and sure outfielder will cover left field. The beauty of Harry's playing is that he can fill in at most any position on a team and acquit himself with credit. Harry is also a very sure hitter and his average in the past few years bear out this assertion.

Dinny Moore will cover center field and the right field berth will be split between Hart and Gaudette. Schiever, a newcomer to the hospital is at the present time trying out with a New York-Pennsylvania league team but is not satisfied with his berth and expects to report to the hospital within a few weeks unless things break more favorable for him in the south.

The hitting of the hospital team has always been heavy and it is expected that it will not fall below last year's average this season.

The hospital will play a practice game with the Academy team on Thursday afternoon at the Riverview diamond.

MUCH INTEREST IN COMING DELANEY-SOLOMON BOUT

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, April 20—Jack Delaney's first appearance in Connecticut, since his sensational rise to the front rank of American boxers, is set to, Monday evening, April 26, when the clever and hard-hitting light heavyweight tights the intrepid King Solomon in the star bout of George Mulligan's second boxing show in the big State Armory at Hartford.

Delaney's coming into the state of his adoption is of itself an outstanding event and his scrap with Solomon will take rank as the blue-ribbon occasion in the history of indoor boxing in Connecticut; but Promoter George Mulligan does not intend to let Jack carry the whole show.

He has assembled to support the star bout a card that, by and large, shapes up as the best array of bouts ever arranged as a fistic feast for the action-loving boxing fans of Connecticut.

There will be five bouts with 42 rounds of milling and the card will start at 8:15, daylight saving time, the near order of things clockwise being slated for Sunday, April 25, the day before the fight.

The semi-final will be a ten-round scrap between Paul Doyle, veteran Hamah welterweight, and Irish Tommy Jordan of Brooklyn. Doyle is one of the "smartest" boxers in the ring today while Jordan is a slashing, tearing battler with a sound punch.

Three preliminaries are on the books. In one of eight rounds, Ruby Bradley, Hopkinsville colored flyweight, who recently decisively defeated Harry Goldstein, New England champion, will take on Johnny Bresin of New York, a stablemate of Delaney's.

Eddie Lord, who is new in Kid Kaplan's entourage, fights Phil Richards of England in a six-round preliminary. Eddie defeated Georgie Daw in Hartford several weeks ago and is touted as a real comer by those who know.

The opening preliminary is offered as an added attraction and is a six-rounder, bringing into action a pair of heavyweights, Murray Gitlitz of New Haven and Alex Rely of South America. Gitlitz has been campaigning with success around New York this winter while Rely has several credits to his credit, chief among them a battle with Pat McCarthy of Boston in which the Boston Irishman took a real socking from the South American negro in the first few rounds, then winning on points after he changed his campaign from punch-swapping Rely is a terrific hitter.

ACADEMY TEAM PLAYS AT PLAINFIELD THIS AFTERNOON

The Academy baseball team will clash with the Plainfield high school this afternoon at Plainfield in the third game of the high school season. Plainfield is set on winning from the local boys and the strongest available team will be thrown against the Academy. A victory over the Academy means much to the Plainfield team so it is expected that they will be fighting with all that they can produce.

Coach Brigham does not hold Plainfield as any set up but is confident that his club can hold the Plainfield boys. He is undecided as to his pitching choice for today's game as both Greene and Jarvis were working fine in Wednesday's short practice session. The remainder of the lineup will be Goldblatt or Mish, catch, Burke 1b; C miloski 2b; Tombari ss; Yerrington 3b; Sadinsky lf; Greene or Jarvis cf; Brewer or Hamil rf.

EASTERN LEAGUE CLUBS SWING INTO 1926 PENNANT RACE THIS AFTERNOON

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 21.—(AP)—The Eastern League opening its season in four cities tomorrow, will try a former great pitcher as president-manager in Providence, a former umpire as chief in Hartford and a comparative youth as leader in Bridgeport.

Perhaps the most interesting experiment is found in Hartford, where Si McDonald, who for several years has ruled on strikes and balls in the circuit, has been installed as manager, successor to Paddy O'Connor. In 1924 Waterbury took the indicator away from Kitty Bransfield and made him manager. Two straight pennants resulted.

Rube Marquard, great lefthander of the majors in the past, holds the reins at Providence and expects to pitch occasionally. He has said that he will start against Pittsfield in the opening game in the Rhode Island capital.

Frank (Buddy) Stapleton, former Pittsfield and Waterbury first baseman faces a serious problem in Bridgeport where the franchise has been tossed around all winter. Recently a syndicate of Bridgeport men took it over and the players were summoned for their first practice only yesterday. Waterbury and Springfield have helped Stapleton in forming an outfield while extensive pitching re-enforcements have been brought up, along with other new material.

Waterbury's champions appear as strong as ever although the veteran righthanders, Rush and Fuller, have gone elsewhere. Cosgrove and Yeoby will work in the Bridgeport outfield for a time at least, but a strong hitting aggregation is left.

New Haven, Providence, Hartford, Springfield and Albany are expected to furnish the opposition this season, although Pittsfield, under Neal Ball, may pop in among the contenders.

New Haven has a strong all-around combination. The pitching problem faced by Jack Flynn has been solved by the acquisition of Sam Hyman, lefthander. Up to this week Flynn had no southpaws ready for the fray.

Hartford lacks catchers of proved value but has one of the best mound staffs in the league with Owen and Johnson as its outstanding performers. The inner and outer defenses are of good caliber with three veterans in the outfield.

Providence, transferred from Worcester, will have the overflow of the Boston Braves and Marquard predicts a good season. The city was in the International League for a time last year and there is some skepticism as to the reception of Class A baseball there, instead of "AA."

Springfield's pitching squad is uncertain with several recruits to be tested. Braxton has gone to the Yankees and Mayberry and Fortune, members of the staff for several campaigns, have decided to remain in the south. There also is a gap at second base left by Herrera's departure to play with the Red Sox.

Bill McCorry's Albany team will have several veterans and with the addition of Fuller to the mound staff expects to keep up in the race.

The opening games are scheduled as follows:

Springfield at Albany.
Pittsfield at Providence.
Bridgeport at New Haven.
Hartford at Waterbury.

CUBS POUND REINHART AND BEAT CARDINALS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 20. —(AP)— The Chicago Cubs found Reinhart for 12 safeties today and vanquished the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 0 in the final game of the four-game series, thus ending in an even split. Cooper allowed only five hits and was tight in the pinches. The game marked the close of the opening home stand for the Hornsby men, who captured five of eight contests played. Score:

FILIPINO BOXER DIES AS RESULT OF BEATING IN RING BY BUD TAYLOR

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20.—(AP)—Clever Sencio, the battling mite from the Philippines, lies dead tonight, the victim of gruelling punishment administered by Bud Taylor Terre Haute, Ind., aspirant to the bantamweight championship, in their furious 10 round contest fought here last night.

Sencio died alone in his hotel room from cerebral hemorrhage as the result of the bout. The little Filipino flyweight was still on his feet when the bell ended the contest, but in need of support to help him from the ring, he was immediately taken to a hotel where physicians said his condition was not alarming and his handlers, this assured, left him to sleep. A window washer, looking into Sencio's room a few hours later, found him lying dead on his bed in a pool of blood.

No legal action will be taken against Taylor, District Attorney Eugene Wingert said. He declared that boxing was legal in Wisconsin, that all the rules of the law had been complied with, that both boxers had been pronounced physically fit by physicians examining them for the athletic commission, and that "Sencio's death was just one of those unfortunate things that may happen in any sport."

The tragic ending of last night's bout was the second fatality among Taylors opponents in the ring. Frankie Jerome, a New York bantamweight, died two days after his contest with Taylor in New York, a year ago. Jerome at that time was knocked down, his head crashing against the floor of the ring with such force that a hemorrhage developed.

By a strange stroke of fate, Sencio's death was the third within the ranks of Philippine boxers who sought to attain fortune and fame outside the boundaries of America's island possession.

Pancho Villa, the former world's flyweight champion, died in San Francisco after a contest with Jimmy McLaren. He died from blood poisoning resulting from infected teeth, having entered the ring with an inflamed jaw shortly after extraction of a tooth.

Sencios body probably will be taken to his native land for burial, but these arrangements have been held up pending the arrival from New York of Frank Churchill, the little Filipino's manager tomorrow. Churchill today said that he would immediately give up managing boxers as Sencio's death was the third tragic ending to Filipino boxers who were under his guidance.

The marvelous exhibition of gameness displayed by Sencio against the taller and harder hitting Taylor, was cheered by thousands who were sentimentally inclined in favor of the little brown skinned boxer against his American opponent.

Up to the tenth round Sencio had held Taylor fairly even but in the tenth Taylor cut loose with an avalanche of blows that left Sencio groggy and reeling, almost helpless to exchange punches. Sencio was backed into the ropes, but he gamely lashed out ceaselessly in return for the more accurate punches of his winning opponent.

Taylor scaled 117 pounds at 2 p. m. while Sencio weighed 115 3-4 pounds. The Terre Haute biond was crushed when he learned today that his game little opponent of last night had died. He said he would rather have been knocked out in the first blow of the battle himself, rather than have Sencio die. Taylor indicated that he probably would hang up his boxing gloves for at least several months. His contest with Harold Smith, scheduled for East Chicago, next Friday night, was cancelled.

CLEVELAND MAKES IT THREE OVER WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Cleveland made it three out of four in their series with the Chicago White Sox, taking the final game, 9 to 5, by hitting both Thurston and Thomas freely. All the Indians hit safely and Tris Speaker led the first rally with a circuit clout in the sixth.

Grabowski batting for Edwards after two men got on in the last frame, smashed the ball into the bleachers to bring in three runs.

Johnny Mostil, who has been ill, and out of the Sox lineup, made his first start of the season today.

COLD WEATHER HOLDS UP WESTERLY HIGH PRACTICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WEST R.I.Y, R. I., April 20.—Continued cold weather has prevented more than 30 Westerly High School baseball players from turning out for baseball practice under W. H. S. Coach "Joe" Sherman at the Westerly Athletic field off High street. A rock ledge has been in process of removal there and when the work is completed it is hoped to move the diamond so that there will not be so much water in the outfield. If the playing field could be tiled the ground would dry out sooner in the spring and earlier practice begun as the water could be carried to the brook near the railroad tracks. High school dramatics is reported as being responsible for some of the players not reporting for practice and the lack of early playing dates also is a reason why a few more freshmen have not come out.

YANKS STAGE BATTING SPREE AND BEAT SENATORS

WASHINGTON, April 20 — (AP)— Babe Ruth enjoyed an old time field day today while his fellow Yankees were trouncing Washington 18 to 5. Five Washington pitchers, headed by the venerab Walter Johnson, faced the Yankee guns and only one of them, a recruit, Lefty Thomas, came through unscathed. Johnson quit the mound at the end of the third inning, in which the visitors crossed the home plate five times.

Babe started his day by putting the ball over the right field wall in the opening inning for his first homer of the season, scoring Combs ahead of him. In five other trips to the plate Ruth bagged two doubles and two singles, and he registered five runs on his own account. The score:

BURNS WILL SUB FOR STONE AGAINST DELANEY

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Tommy Burns, Detroit light-heavyweight, will substitute for Al Stone of Philadelphia, as an opponent for Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., in a 10 round match at Ebbets field, May 26, if the state athletic commission gives its approval, Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy announced today.

Burns' name was submitted to the board for approval but the solons withheld decision pending investigation of Burns' qualifications.

Fugazy also sought to obtain sanction for a 10 round world's junior lightweight championship match between Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., titleholder and Steve (Kid) Sullivan of Brooklyn, former champion, but the commission informed the promoter that it must be extended to 15 rounds and must be billed as the feature contest. The promoter said he had both fighters signed over the 10 round route as the semi-final attraction and would have to consult Delaney's manager before subordinating the Delaney-Burns match to the title affair under the terms of his contract with the light-heavyweights. He intimated he would make known his decision Friday.

Reversing a decision it made last week, the board awarded the welterweight elimination match between Joe Dundee of Baltimore and Willie Harmon of New York to the Coney Island stadium May 28 instead of Madison Square Garden. Promoter Charlie Henderson produced signed contracts for the match and the commission have its sanction after Matchmaker Jess McMahon of Madison Square Garden revealed he was unable to obtain Harmon's name. The match will be for 15 rounds, the winner to be recognized by the board as the logical challenger for Mickey Walker's title.

Kid Socks of Binghamton, N. Y., filed a challenge for a title match with Fidel Labara, world's featherweight champion, but the board placed it on record without taking action. Charlie Cardio of Boston, manager of Red Chapman, filed a challenge for a match with Louis (Kid) Kaplan, featherweight champion, but the commission ruled Johnny Dundee has prior claim to a title match and refused to accept a certified check from Cardio. Chairman Farley announced that Harry Greb, former middleweight champion, would be ordered to appear next week to determine whether he will accept a title match with Tiger Flowers, present champion. Greb has been delaying the matter until his controversy with his manager, Red Mason, is aired before the board. The commission ruled that Greb will be allowed to sign his own contract for the match but the board will look after Mason's interests until the case is closed.

POETRY

Green Things Growing

O the green things growing, the green things growing,
The faint sweet smell of the green things growing,
I should like to live, whether I smile or grieve,
Just to watch the happy life of my green things growing.

O the fluttering and the pattering of those green things growing!
How they talk each to each, when none of us are knowing;
In the wonderful white of the weird moonlight
Or the dim dreary dawn when the cocks are crowing.

I love, I love them so—my green things growing,
And I think that they love me, without false showing;
For by many a tender touch, they comfort me so much,
With the soft mute comfort of green things growing.

And in the rich store of their blossoms glowing
Ten for one I take they're on me bestowing;
Or, I should like to see, if God's will it may be,
Many, many a summer of my green things growing.

But if I must be gathered for the angel's sowing
Sleep out of sight awhile, like the green things growing,
Through dust to dust return. I think I'll scarcely mourn,
If I may change into green things growing.

—Dinah Maria Murlock Craik.

My Guest

Gallant and gay, in their doublets of grey
All at a flash—like the dartings of flame,—
Chattering Arabic, African, Indian—
Certain of springtime, my swallows came!

Doublets of grey silk, and surcoats of purple,
And ruffs of russet round each white throat.
Garmented brave they had crossed the waters
Marthers sailing with never a boat!

Sailing a sea than the bluest deep bluer
Vaster to traverse than any which rolls
Neath bellows of warship, or bilge of trader,
Betwixt the brinks of the frozen Poles.

Cleaving the clouds with their moon-edged pinions
Wash over city and vineyard and mart:
And to what shore—Christmas his small store

FRANK WEEDEN ESCAPED LUNATIC IS APPREHENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 20—Frank Weeden, 49, the oft-escaping lunatic from the Rhode Island State Hospital for Mental Diseases at Howard, near Providence, who on some of his previous 13 trips out of custody, caused residents of Danielson, Putnam and surrounding territory uncomfortable nights, was taken into custody on Tuesday morning from the 8:15 accommodation train at the Westerly station of the New Haven road almost before the train had come to a full stop. This wide-eyed man who at times has been reported of homicidal tendencies since his first attempt to take the life of a near relative about 25 years ago when she denied his matrimonial advances, gave himself up without the semblance of a struggle.

A telephone call to the Westerly police from the R. I. State troop barracks at Scituate, when those headquarters had been notified that a man answering Weeden's description had been seen walking the tracks toward Wickford Junction early Tuesday morning following his escape from the state institution on Sunday afternoon was the first that he was about to board a westbound train. The Westerly police Chief Dennis E. Brown, Police Officers Leander Norman and Michael Curtin, together with Messenger Raymond E. Mitchell met the train at the station. Weeden was found in the rear car of the train on which students were coming to Westerly to school, and was readily identified as he sat peering out of a window at the end of the car. Handcuffs were snapped on his wrists and he was taken in an automobile to the Westerly police station to be placed in a cell. Before he was taken back late afternoon he was photographed by Police Photographer H. Russell Bentley.

Westerly probate court with Probate Judge Edward M. Burke on the bench held a short session of court in the probate court rooms of the Westerly town hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when business was transacted as follows:

Estate of Maculata Gaccione. Petition was received from Santo Gaccione, husband of Maculata Gaccione, late a resident of Westerly on March 17, 1926, leaving a husband and children, that he be appointed administrator. Sylvester Murano appeared as interpreter and explained that the deceased had lira in her name in a bank in Italy and owned postal savings bonds for which it would be necessary to file a certicate of administrator. Santo Gaccione was appointed administrator with bond set at $2,000 with surety. Leo C. Gaffney was named appraiser.

Estate of Robert Duncan Langworthy. Petition received for the appointment of a guardian of the person and estate of a minor under the age of 14 years. Continued to May 4th next at 2 o'clock with order of notice served on Albert H. Langworthy.

MARKET WAS TURBULENT

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—Curious cross currents of prices ran through today's stock market, but both industrial and railroad averages closed moderately higher on the day. Trading showed a further contraction in volume, total sales falling below the million mark for the second full session this year.

The day's news was largely conservative in character, one of the chief developments being a further easing of money rates. The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad declared an extra dividend of $1.50 and the common stock dividend of the Columbia Gas & Electric company was raised from $2.60 to $3.00 annually. The French franc sagged to another new low level despite reports that a working basis had been reached for the settlement of the French debt to the United States.

The first of the March railroad earnings statements to make their appearance compare favorably with those of the same month last year. The Union Pacific reported gross of $15,000,000 and net of $5,657,791, as compared with gross of $14,012,401 and net of $5,623,459 last year. The Kansas City Southern reported gross of $1,664,696 and balance after taxes of $544,992 as against $1,752,240 and $464,350 in March 1925.

An overnight study of Chairman Gary's remarks on dividend policy and business of the U. S. Steel corporation apparently allayed earlier fears. The common stock closing 3-4 higher at 130 after having touched 119 3-4. Bethlehem and Republic Steels each advanced a point, and the other leaders improved fractionally.

Past operations were aggressively conducted in local reactions in anticipation of favorable developments regarding bus franchises and new subway construction. A temporary outburst of strength in marine preferred was associated with rumors that negotiations were nearing completion for the sale of the White Star line assets to British interests.

Miscellaneous operations also were prominent in a number of specialties. Postum was bid up over 6 points to 90 on buying influenced by reports of a special dividend distribution. Revival of activity in Consolidated Distributors reflected the announced extension of the company's radio and automobile supply business with recently obtained new capital.

General Mining and Smelting common broke 16 points to 7... a new low record for the year on a Delaware court decision overruling the company's demurrer to a suit brought to restrain the company from paying a special dividend of $10 on that issue. The preferred stock rallied six points to 54 on last nearly half its gain. Substantial net gains were recorded by Consolidated Cigar, Du Pont, Air Reduction, American Water Works, Conference Packing, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Cuba Company, May Department Stores and National Lead, all up 2 to 4 points.

Crude rubber sank to a new low level for the year at 53 1-2 and then rallied 6c for a small fractional gain on the day. Weakness also developed in Goodrich Company, the commercial issues, Remington Typewriter issues, Burroughs Adding Machine, some of which made new maximum prices. Fluctuations in the motor issues narrowed considerably. General Motors, Jordan closing about a point and the others showing fractional changes.

Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern and Texas & Pacific moved 1 to nearly 2 points higher, while other active rails showed little change.

Specialties in the markets were irregular. Woolworth dropped two points to a new low for the year but the other options showed narrow changes. Cotton futures were quiet, with final quotations 1 point lower to 7 points higher. Sugar prices were unchanged. Coffee prices were irregular.

Sales were renewed at 4 per cent. early in the 1-4 yesterday and held at that figure all day. Loans on the "outside market" were reported as low as 3 and 3 per cent. Time money was quoted at 4 to 4 1-2 per cent. with 90 day loans reported as low as 4 per cent. Prime commercial paper rates unchanged.

Announcement of another new low record for French francs at 3.30 1-2 and a drop of a half a cent in sterling to 4.84 cents featured the foreign exchange market. The Canadian dollar was at a premium of 5-32 to 11-64 of 1 per cent. Despite the shipment of $5,000,000 in gold to Canada.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—Weakness of the small packing company stocks, practically all of which established new low levels for the year featured today's irregular curb market. Swift & Co., sold down to 110, Swift International to 14 3-4, Wilson company common to 8 1-8 and the preferred to 42 5-8, the net losses ranging from fractions to 1 1-2 points. The selling of the issues is believed to represent the "back lash" of the recent drive against the packing issues on the "big board."

Oils displayed a slightly firmer undertone despite the announcement of a small increase in crude production last week. Net gains of a point or two were recorded by Chesebro, Solar Refining, Standard Oil of Kentucky, Gulf and Reiter-Foster but the turnover in each case was small. Lago issues improved slightly on the announcement that stockholders would be asked to approve plans to extend voting power to both classes of stock.

Ford Motors of Canada was run up 17 points to 485 on a few odd lot sales. Other active motors showed fractional improvement. Goodyear Tire was hammered down two points to a new low record at 53 1-4 but recovered all of the day's loss.

Coal company shares recorded moderate gains on buying influenced by the increased demand for anthracite as a result of unseasonable weather. A run-up of over a point each in the Servel issues featured the electrical refrigeration group. Continental Baking A and Gillette Safety Razor also were in good demand.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—Improvement was general throughout the bond market today but most of the price advances were limited to fractions. Indications of an easier money situation, with call funds reported available below the official stock exchange rate, contributed to a marked broadening of activity.

The most consistent display of strength was given by the low-grade traction issues, which responded readily rallies to the announcement that the personnel of the transit commission had been reorganized and to favorable quarterly earnings reports. Interborough Brooklyn-Manhattan and New York Railways liens were bought in large blocks on advances of 1 to 2 points.

In the face of the steady decline of the French franc to record low levels, considerable interest was aroused by the ability of French government and railway bonds, to attract buying support. The advance today was attributed to reports that a working basis had been reached for funding the war debt to the United States.

Another strong point in the foreign group was the Uruguayan 8 per cent issue, which was bought up in anticipation of tomorrow's offering of $30,000,000 six per cent. bonds at 96 1-2. The underwriting syndicate, headed by Halsgarten & Co., announced that a substantial portion of the loan had been withdrawn for placement in Holland and other European countries. The proceeds will be used for refunding and improvement purposes.

Price movements of railroad liens lacked significance although several new high prices for the year were established. Frisco 4s A moved up a point to 83 and a good demand developed for the various classes of Northern Pacific bonds.

Skelly Oil 6 1-2s, Cuba company 8s and Murray Body 6 1-2s displayed independent strength in contrast to the heaviness of Warner Sugar 7s and the American Writing Paper issues.

MEMORIAL FLOWERS SUNDAY FOR MRS. GEORGE R. HYDE

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, the floral decorations on the platform and around the pulpit were given by Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro and Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott, of Norwich and Miss Mary B. Hyde of New York. These included beautiful flowering plants, roses, Easter lilies and other blooms, which, at the close of the service were distributed to the sick and shut-ins in the parish.

The pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, in referring to the floral decorations spoke as follows: "It seems but yesterday that Mrs. Hyde was with us in the pew yonder. Some of you can recall how constantly she was in her place in the House of God, with her husband and children. She gave her children the nurture of a religious environment, and that nurture has matured in lives of devoted service for the Master. It is most fitting to refresh our memory of her with flowers. She was appreciative of nature in all its varied forms, and the whole world was a garden to her."

The minister then read a poem entitled, A Garden Hymn, by Molly Hurley. This poem was a favorite with Mrs. Hyde.

CONSTANT CURLING, WAVING DRIES LIFE FROM HAIR

Girls just must curl and wave bobbed hair to appear their prettiest. But constant curling and waving burns and dry the luster, vitality and very life from the hair.

To offset these bad effects, just get a 25-cent bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug store or toilet counter and just see for yourself how quickly it revives dry, brittle, lifeless, and fading hair.

"Danderine" is a dependable tonic and will do wonders for any girl's hair. It nourishes, stimulates and strengthens each single hair, bringing back that youthful gleam, glint and rigorous luxuriance. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears. "Danderine" is pleasant and easy to use.

BOY IN HOSPITAL WITH FRACTURED SKULL; STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Arthur Higgins, eight, of No. 251 West Thames street, struck by an automobile driven by Charles Oppenheim, 35, of Boston, Mass., on West Thames street, Tuesday afternoon, is unconscious at the W. W. Backus hospital, suffering from a fractured skull. The boy was hit by the machine near the junction of Spring Garden avenue and West Thames street, shortly after 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He was rushed to the hospital in an unconscious condition. Doctors operated on him Tuesday evening in an effort to save his life.

Mr. Oppenheim made a report of the accident at police headquarters and then went to the hospital to learn the extent of the boy's injuries.

From what can be learned of the accident Mr. Oppenheim was driving towards New London on the right hand side of the street. The boy darted directly in front of his machine and in an effort to avoid striking the child Mr. Oppenheim shot his machine directly across the street and over the sidewalk on the opposite side. Witnesses of the accident indicate that no blame could be attached to the driver.

Mr. Oppenheim remained at the hospital until about 9 o'clock in the evening after which he went to police headquarters at 9 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. He is employed as a salesman for the Canada Dry Gingerale company.

The little boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Higgins.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL SERVE DELEGATES DINNER

At the regular meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American legion, held Monday night in the legion rooms on Shetucket street, plans were made for the serving of the dinner next Monday noon at the local Y. M. C. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. William L. Bogue, and reports were made concerning the poppies which are to be purchased from disabled veterans and sold during Memorial day week to raise funds to carry on the auxiliary work among the disabled veterans in local institutions. Mrs. Frank N. Kimball was named chairman of the committee to secure the poppies.

It was voted to invite the state president, Mrs. Lucy Edwards of Shelton, to attend the auxiliary meeting to be held on June 7th and it is expected that many members will attend the meeting and meet the state president.

The welfare committee reported that in addition to individual gifts of flowers and cards to disabled veterans at Uncas-on-Thames, a plant was sent to each ward at the Norwich state hospital on Easter day, to cheer the disabled veterans in that institution.

The meeting closed after Mrs. Bogue had been appointed delegate to attend the state dinner at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, on May 26th.

PETITION FOR REPAIRS OF WEST MAIN STREET

A petition for the town to make repairs to West Main street west of the Maple street corner was decided upon at the Monday night meeting of the West End Community association, which was held at the Elizabeth Street schoolhouse with a good attendance. President C. Edward Carpenter presided at the business meeting at which Miss Mary E. Coughlin, assistant secretary, kept the records in the absence of Secretary Frank I. Rogers.

The matter of new sidewalks was discussed and it is expected that there may be a number to be laid this spring.

Dr. Charles Solomon, Charles W. Parsons and Ernest L. Latimer were named as the committee to take into consideration the suggestion made a month ago in regard to placing a marker on the Indian battlefield at East Great Plain.

The entertainment which followed the business meeting opened with musical numbers by the Sadinsky boys on the piano and sapophone, and was followed by a one-act farce. The West Side Shakespeare club, which was especially well given by the following cast: Marion Murtagh, Grace Murphy, Alice Parsons, Ruth Sadinsky, Catherine Brooks, Celia Carashick and Molly Markoff. A pretty solo, Sometime I'm All Alone, was rendered by Miss Alice Parsons, with an encore, and there was community singing by the audience.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT BY ARCHITECT

Judge Charles E. Waller in the court of common pleas in New London Monday took the papers and reserved decision in the $800 damage suit brought by George E. Pitcher and Elmer E. Pitcher, civil engineers, surveyors and architects, of this city against Abraham J. Agranovitch of New London and Norwich.

It is alleged in the papers that on or about August, 1924, the defendant employed the plaintiffs to make a survey of a building lot owned by the defendant in Colchester; to draw plans and specifications for the erection of a one-story building and to supervise its construction; which building was to cost $12,000 to $15,000. The defendant agreed to pay the plaintiffs five per cent of the cost of such erection for their services.

The plaintiffs alleged that they surveyed said building lot, drew up said plans and specifications for the erection of said building; but before the contracts for the construction of said buildings were signed the defendant sold said building lot and the plans as prepared by the plaintiffs. Said services were claimed to have been reasonably worth $450.

JUDGMENT FOR $9,000 IN CROCICCHIA'S SUIT

Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court at New London found all the allegations in the complaint of the plaintiffs, to have been proven and awarded judgment in the amount of $9,000 with interest from June 8, 1922 in favor of Dr. Antonio Crocicchia, Isabella Crocicchia Murray and Emma B. Crocicchia all of New London, against Theodore Henes of New Haven. Atty. C. Hadlai Hull represented the plaintiffs, while Attorneys Martetz and Salzman, both of New Haven, conducted the case for the defendant.

The suit arose over the sale of a number of parcels of land in Haverhill, Mass., and Salem, N. H., the plaintiff claiming that the defendant who handled the sale of the property fraudulently represented his financial status to the plaintiffs.

FORMER NORWICH BOY WRITES SECOND BOOK

The Mystery of Mind is the title of a new book which has been recently written by Leonard T. Troland professor of physics and psychology at Harvard university and is a book which digs through the crust of commonplaces to the astonishing details which underlie our every day mental processes and which reveals the fundamental workings of our minds.

Professor Troland has designed it primarily for those who have not made a special study of modern psychology and the volume of 253 pages, including a carefully arranged index and numerous illustrations, will acquaint such a reader with the nature of the problems which the science is considering and the importance of their relation to human life. It carries also a message of inspiration to the professional psychologist as it enables the visualizing of the science as a whole. The volume is one that should awaken much appreciation since, as is pointed to by Professor Troland, the simplification of statement is not entirely unwelcome even to a sophisticated reader in his leisure hours.

Prof. Troland shows himself thoroughly versed on the subject. The volume is the result of much study and thought and is a highly meritorious presentation of a problem in the solution of which the author indicates he is thoroughly at home.

The book is one that should prove of extreme value to all those who are interested in the subject or seeking enlightenment in that direction, and there is particular interest in it locally for Professor Troland is a Norwich boy.

He is the son of Edwin and Abbie O'Brien Troland of Malden; both formerly of this city. He was born here but has held a chair at Harvard for several years and this is the second book which he has written. He is a grandnephew of John Troland of this city.

GLEANERS CLASS GAVE PLAY IN THREE ACTS

A clever three-act play was given by the Gleaners class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Sunday school Friday night before a fair sized audience. The scene of the play, The Farmerette, was the old Wellington homestead. The three acts covered a period of about a year, showing how the five Wellington orphan sisters made the old farm pay, even amid great difficulties.

The following is the cast, each seeming particularly suited to her particular role and winning merited applause; Jane Wellington, sixteen and still unkissed, Grace Murphy; Jocelyn Wellington, fourteen, the little bugologist, E. Fay Hill; Elnora Wellington, nineteen, a born homemaker, Henrietta Frink; Nan Wellington, the farmerette, a blonde of twenty-two, Evelyn Wheeler; Minnette Wellington Lawson, older than Nan, an admirer of soulful eyes, Reita Greenlaw; Mrs. Beckwith, an unfriendly neighbor, Mary Phillips; Gracious Ann Bean, a believer in "Calicothenics," Mrs. E. WINDHAM MEN'S CLUB APPLAUDED CHIEF STANTON

When the Windham Community Men's club held its April meeting in Guilford Smith hall, supper was served by members of the Good Will circle of the church.

A correspondent writes:

Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich fire department was the speaker. His subject was "Fire Prevention," and he was followed with the closest attention by the 50 men present who realized that they were listening to one who is an expert in his profession.

Chief Stanton is not a stranger to many residents here, especially to members of the local department. He has taken a very active interest in the South Windham fire department giving freely of his time and knowledge gained through years of experience in the equipment of the local department, and the people of South Windham and Windham Center as well, owe him a debt of gratitude for the interest he has taken.

Chief Stanton gave further concrete evidence of his interest in this respect by stating that if at any time in case of fire the village was in need of outside assistance he stood ready to render aid. It is a source of much satisfaction to feel that in addition to the efficient local department and Chief Larkham, South Windham could be assured of immediate assistance in time of need from the city of Norwich, through its fire chief and his men.

The appreciation of thosep resent of the practical thoughts contained in the chief's talk was manifested by a rising vote of thanks and hearty applause.

PETITION FOR PARDON PRESENTED FOR FINN

George A. Finn, formerly cashier of the Bankers' Trust Co., of Norwich, and now prisoner number 11144 at the state prison in Wethersfield, is seeking a pardon from his sentence of not less than five years and not more than nine years. He was sentenced by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at Norwich on Jan. 6, 1925, after he was found guilty of embezzlement in the amount of $93,104.64 from the bank in which he had been employed. The board of pardons meet May 3.

Finn was arrested Oct. 26, 1924, and was under bonds of $50,000 from then until the time of the trial. It was largely through Finn's testimony that the state recently convicted Gabriel C. Berker of embezzlement and for which the latter received a sentence of from two and one-half to five years in the state prison. During Berker's trial it was brought out that Finn intended to petition for a pardon. Finn was married and had two children, Mrs. Finn and the children now being residents of Greenwich.

CONDEMNS THE ATTITUDE OF LABOR ON PROHIBITION

Charles Stelzle of New York, Appearing on Behalf of Himself Only, Declared It Has Been Almost Impossible For Any Labor Leader Who Values His Job to Come Out in Favor of Prohibition Enforcement—Rev. J. J. Curran of Wilkesbarre Denounced Testimony of Father Francis Kasaczun Regarding Conditions Among the Anthracite Mine Workers.

WASHINGTON, April 21— (AP) — Fiery assaults on the wets in general and some of their witnesses in particular, including the leaders of organized labor, furnished the high spots of today's presentation of the case for the drys before the senate prohibition committee.

Incidentally, United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein of Cleveland, took issue with Lincoln C. Andrews, dry enforcement chief, that the sale of non-intoxicating beer for consumption only in the home might aid in making administration of the prohibition laws more effective. He asserted that every place where such beer was sold would become a potential dispensary for hard liquors, thus increasing present difficulties in law enforcement.

Attacks on labor leaders, some of whom have appeared before the committee to urge the sale of light beer, were launched by Charles Stelzle, of New York, who said he appeared on behalf of himself only. He declared that during the past few years it has been almost impossible to have a labor leader who valued his job come out in favor of prohibition enforcement, no matter what his personal convictions might be.

Prohibition has been made a political question within the ranks of labor, he said adding that as a result, "it has been impossible to secure a fair line in any labor convention regarding the prohibition question."

Many pictures came in for attack from Canon William S. Chase, of the International Reform federation, who declared that then and not prohibition are responsible for the crime wave in this and other countries.

Testimony recently given before the senate by Father Francis Kasaczun of Sugar Notch, Penn., regarding conditions among the anthracite mine workers was denounced by Chase. Others to criticize Father Kasaczun were the Rev. J. J. Curran of Wilkesbarre.

"I know that the citizens of Sugar Notch are not drunkards. Much less are their children," Father Curran declared. "And I am not afraid to repeat this statement; whether made in public or off record, be the witness a friend or a cattle thief."

Father Curran also took a pot shot at the wets, declaring he knew them well and knew them to be "a bad set." During the two days' sessions the committee has called additional expressions of opinion that the dry laws are being enforced and also received testimony from the National Grange against any weakening of the Volstead act and in favor of more effective enforcement of the constitutional amendment.

Assistant Attorney General Lowell Mellett told the committee the dry law could be enforced if only it had been demonstrated to the wets attending efforts to enforce it have been Ohio. He urged failure of enforcement to effectively use all means of transportation for conveying liquor traffic.

The matter was referred to the committee, which was handed over to the senate judiciary committee. Senator Harreld, Governor of Pennsylvania, declared that conditions were improving in that state, that the law could be made effective in time, government officials would get behind it, and a partisan plan for the dry law. Mrs. Ida Crouch-Hazlett, of the national committee of conference on the prohibition question, refuted the statement of Director Attorney Buckner of New York. Assistant Attorney Buckner of New York, who approximately 60,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol found its way into legal channels last year. Asserting that only 37,500,000 gallons in all were released in 1925, Dr. Doran estimated that no more than 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 gallons reached the bootleg trade.

Whether the hearings are to be closed tomorrow still is problematical. The drys made formal requests that they be given an additional three hours because of the inroads into their 4 hours made by the cross-examination of their witnesses by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the one wet member of the committee. This request was taken under advisement.

Senator Reed was not present at the session today and in his absence Judson Codman of Boston, counsel for the wets took over the cross examination, devoting himself largely to a volley of questions at Strivings and Rheinstein, conceding that under the Volstead act the farmers had a right to make cider and fruit juices for home consumption. Strivings insisted that the workingmen had the same right. Codman, however, said they had not the facilities, to which the witness retorted they could easily obtain them.

"Are you in favor of repealing the section of the Volstead act allowing you to make cider and wine?" demanded Codman.

"No," replied Strivings.

"Do the farmers want it repealed?"

"No."

Later statements as to improved conditions under prohibition and against changes in the law were read to the committee by Oliver W. Stewart of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, and Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of Boston, representing the Scientific Temperance federation.

Similar statements were filed by R. H. Rolofson, executive secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition society and the Rev. S. E. Nicholson, of New York, chairman of the Prohibition Board of Friends.

LIQUOR SEIZURE ILLEGAL OUTSIDE THREE-MILE LIMIT

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP) — The high seas liquor deadline established by treaties between this country, Great Britain, Norway and others one hour's sailing distance from shore was erased in the United States circuit of appeals today.

In dismissing seizure proceedings against the Norwegian vessel Sagatind and the British ship Diamantina three judges concurred in ruling that the treaties do not make law extending this country's territorial jurisdiction and that despite the treaties coast guard vessels have no right to seize other outside the old three mile limit.

The judges made it clear that they were not passing on the power of congress to establish what is commonly called the 12 mile limit, as no such action has been attempted by congress, but it ruled that no such limit was validly established by the existing treaties, although those documents purport to do this.

The Sagatind and the Diamantina were captured by coast guard crews several months ago, one 15 and the other 23 miles off the Long Island coast. They were brought to New York and libel proceedings begun against them under the treaties with Great Britain and Norway.

GOV'T. TO DEPEND ON CONGRESS RATHER THAN SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP)—The government will resort to congress rather than the supreme court to overcome legal obstacles to forcing forfeiture of liquor vessels seized outside of the three mile limit but inside of the 13 mile treaty boundary.

The decision of the federal court of appeals at New York in holding that the treaties with other nations permitting search and seizure outside the three mile limit did not permit forfeiture without the support of specific law was viewed today at the department of justice as practical and no appeal will be made to the supreme.

Anticipating such legal difficulties, Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, already has asked congress to enact a law giving full power to the coast guard inside the new territorial waters prescribed by the treaties.

NO PROGRESS AT PASSAIC IN STRIKE SETTLEMENT

PASSAIC, N. J., April 21.—(AP)—While Adjutant General Gilkyson, a member of Governor Moore's mediation board, today announced at Trenton that textile mill owners in the Passaic strike district with the exception of Forstmann and Huffman company, accepted his plan to arbitrate, the United Front committee of textile workers said no invitation to meet with the owners had been received. The Forstmann and Huffman company has maintained that no strike existed in its plant and that the owners would deal only with the workers.

Brigadier General Bird W. Spencer, member of the mediation board, conferred with hosiery mill officials and the other mills held meetings to consider the proposal of Governor Moore.

Henry Hillers, secretary of the State Federation of Labor and a member of the board, said that his organization was leaving it up to the governor to settle the strike. He said that the American Federation of Labor would send no representatives into the mill district to organize until after the settlement of the present dispute and the return of the workers to the mills.

Albert Weisbord, youthful strike organizer, said that the United Front committee, an independent organization, would be glad to co-operate with the American Federation of Labor in a settlement plan.

Weisbord said he welcomed the governor's overtures but doubted that he was interested in securing a settlement that would meet the needs of the strikers.

He charged that General's Gilkyson and Spencer were unfair to labor and that Hillers seemed the only excuse for the appointment of the mediation board.

HARTFORD, April 21.—(AP)—The story of the successful efforts of a Connecticut woman to prove title to a 167 acre island off the coast of Florida, after the homesteading plans of her husband ended in his death by drowning, was told today by Judge Francis A. Pallotti, secretary of the state, on his return from that state.

Colonel Louis Hitchcock, of East Hampton, homesteaded the island, near the town of Stuart, about ten years ago, when the land was opened to public settlement by the government. Fourteen months continuous residence was required before ownership claim swould be recognized. For various reasons, Mr. Hitchcock was unable to stay at the island for the required period during the following years and about two years ago he was drowned while crossing to the mainland.

His widow Mrs. Carrie Hitchcock, took his place and on April 15, at a hearing before government officials, when she was represented by Judge Pallotti, was able to show continuous residence of 14 months on the island. Her claims have been forwarded to Washington and decision on the matter is expected soon.

NEW FLOW OF LAVA IS THREATENING RANCH

HILO, T. H., April 21.—(AP)—A new and big flow of lava from the volcano of Mauna Loa which has been in eruption for over a week, broke out this afternoon on the line of the 1916 flow. The lava moved faster than any of the recent flows and headed directly for the McWayne ranch house.

HONOLULU, April 21.—(AP)—Robert McWayne, owner of the ranch threatened by the latest eruption from Mauna Loa said the flow of lava had already destroyed the ranch stables and would undoubtedly destroy the house. The flow was only three-quarters of a mile from the McWayne house, flowing through the rich ranching country of the Kona district.

WHITTEMORE IDENTIFIED AS ONE OF BANDIT GANG

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 21.—(AP)—Richard Reese Whittemore, who today heard himself thrice identified as one of the bandit gang that killed two bank messengers and stole $93,000 in a robbery here last October, tomorrow must face another witness prepared to name him as one of the armed gangsters. District Attorney Guy B. Moore plans to complete the people's case in the morning after calling two or three other witnesses to the stand. He is satisfied that he has built up a strong case, designed to send the 23 year old bandit leader to the electric chair.

Whittemore who muttered sullen defiance as he heard positive identification of himself, was marshalling his forces tonight in hopes of shattering the people's case. Eight or nine witnesses will take the stand in his behalf, including one or more women.

The defense fought hard today to discount some of the evidence presented by the prosecution. Witnesses, who unhesitatingly said Whittemore was on the scene just before the first shot was fired, ran down the street with a revolver in one hand and a satchel of currency in the other and hung on the running board of the bandit's car as it fled the scene, were subjected to lengthy cross-examination.

Witnesses who swore that Whittemore was one of the bank bandits, were Harry G. Russell, president of the Russell Printing company, Leslie V. Kraft and Alfred Bluemberg.

There was a discrepancy between this testimony of Mr. Russell and Mr. Kraft, each of whom swore that Whittemore was one of two bandits they saw on the running board of the robbers' machine as it was leaving the scene of the crime. Mr. Russell said that Whittemore was at the rear of the running board while Mr. Kraft was positive that Whittemore was on the front of the running board with the second bandit behind him.

The case will be resumed at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

OFFICERS NOMINATED AT CONGRESS OF THE D. A. R.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP)—Daughters of the American Revolution in congress here placed in nomination today their one candidate for president general and prepared for the quietest election in years tomorrow. The balloting, which will take all day, will mean only one office. Mrs. Alfred H. Brosseau of Greenwich, Conn., and her staff of national officers.

Late today the 2000 delegates were received at the white house by President and Mrs. Coolidge. Since the death a month ago of the president's father, the Coolidges have made no social engagements, but it was said they felt that today's reception should be held because it had become an annual custom.

Other interesting contests in the office of vice president general are to be filled at the election tomorrow, with ten women competing for them. They are Mrs. John M. Beavers, District of Columbia; Mrs. John Brown Herbst, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Read Barker, Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. James Y. Talmadge, Atlanta; Mrs. Frank Fuller, Indiana; Mrs. Lyman Stanley, California; Mrs. Eugene H. Bay, Kentucky; Mrs. Henry Hyman, Texas; Mrs. Edgar Henry Lovejoy, Minnesota; Mrs. Benjamin C. Cushman, Maine; Mrs. George H. Fowle, Rhode Island and Mrs. George H. Warren, New Hampshire.

PONZI APPEALS SENTENCE OF YEAR AT HARD LABOR

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 21.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, former Boston "financial wizard" tonight was at liberty under a $1,500 supercedeas bond pending an appeal to the state supreme court from his sentence in criminal court here today, to one year at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Raiford. He was convicted for violating the Florida law regulating the direction of business under a declaration of trust, through his operation of the Cherpon Land syndicate in which he promised investors immense profits.

Judge James M. Peeler denied Ponzi a new trial but granted 60 days in which to perfect his appeal to the supreme court.

Ponzi's attorneys contended the declaration of trust involved was simply a power of attorney and not included in the act under which prosecution was made.

Similar indictments against Mrs. Rosa Maria Ponzi and Mrs. Emma Alviti were nolle prossed on recommendation of state's attorneys. Calcedonio Alviti, partner of Ponzi in the realty venture, will not be tried until after the state supreme court hands down a ruling in the Ponzi case.

YOUTHFUL BURGLARS PLACED ON PROBATION

NEW HAVEN, April 21.—(AP)—Raymond and Robert Brouker, of Bristol, were placed on probation by Judge E. M. Yeomans in criminal superior court here today after they had admitted robbing a store. On March 27, last, the two youths, one of them armed, entered the store of Felix Teaite at 39 Butler street, and took $49 from the cash register. A few days later, Robert Brouker returned to the store and handed over the $49 to the proprietor. He was placed under arrest. His brother Raymond was arrested later in Bridgeport. Counsel for the two young men said that it was their first offense. Judge Yeomans suspended execution on a one year jail sentence in the case of Raymond and a reformatory sentence in the case of Robert.

10 TO 12 INCHES OF RAIN IN CLOUDBURST AT PHELPHS, TEX.

Heroic Rescue Work By Crew of the S-49

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 21—(AP)—A working crew today cleared up wreckage and disconnected batteries in the compartment of the S-49 in which yesterday an explosion occurred claiming three lives and seriously injuring nine others of the submarine's crew.

The board of inquiry went ahead with its task of determining if possible the cause of the explosion.

A board of inquest, headed by Lieut. Charles F. Waters, identified the bodies of the three victims from official records, and will determine whether the men met death in line of duty.

Only one body, that of Seamon Ollie J. Cooke, was claimed, his mother, Mrs. Anna Cooke having requested that it be shipped to her at Danville, Va. It will be accompanied by a guard of honor after services have been held at the base.

The navy department up till late today had not been advised as to disposal of the bodies of Chief Boatswain's mate Theodore Holst, Jr., of Groton Conn., and Ralph Edward McCormack, of East Lynn, Mass.

Many stories of disregard for personal safety in the rescue work by others of the crew of the S-49 were told at the base today. Lieut. H. F. Gearing, engineer officer of the submersible, who was at base headquarters when the explosion occurred rushed to the craft and labored with others in bringing out the injured. One chief petty officer said: "The lieutenant is the kind of fellow to be to. He brought proper leadership for the men to follow in the rescue work."

All the rescuers worked heroically, entering the wrecked compartment in the dark and groping around for the injured men who were caught beneath lockers and covered with debris. Lieut. Gearing said that groans could be heard from the men but after they were reached not a whimper came from them. He asserted it was almost miraculous that the men were not blown against the low overhead which might have resulted in fatal injuries to most of them. Several of the victims were hurled beneath the lockers on the star-board side of the compartment, the heavy our panels pinning them down.

Albert Holland, ship's cook, who was lying in a bunk in the wrecked battery room when the explosion came, was one only certain there to escape uninjured. He made his exit through a forward door into the torpedo room.

Dewey C. Rife, fireman first class, a survivor of the S-51 which was sunk last September, had just left the battery room. He had joined the S-49 crew but a few days ago. His only comment of the accident was: "It all comes in in submarine work."

Louis Sacora, first class engineman, who was in the engine room and received a dose of gas, was a member of the crew of the R-27 when it sank in a fresh water pocket off Panama several years ago and was on the S-19 when it grounded off Nauset, Cape Cod in December 1924.

When the battery compartment was first entered today, it was found to be considerably wrecked. In a pile on the starboard side of the compartment were the oar boards and the torn tubular canvas which had covered them. The debris had been piled there during the frantic efforts of the rescuers in releasing the men who had been caught beneath the lockers.

The mess table which always hangs suspended by overhead supports on the port side was down at one end. Just forward of the mess table was the wreck of several bunks which are used at the anchor watch when the vessel is in port. It was from the second from the top one of these bunks that Holland made his escape through the doorway into the torpedo room. The doorway is but a few feet from the pier.

Only the last cell in the forward row of the many comprising the 120 cells which make up the two storage batteries that operate the boat under water was spitting when Lieut. Gearing and other members of the crew began to dissemble the batteries. Occasionally the gas which made rescue work difficult yesterday swirled up around the men. Once a prolonged sizzling similar to that caused by sudden grounding of an automobile battery cell hurried the workers toward the hatchways. When it ceased, the dismantling was resumed. Just how many of the cells were ruined in the explosion will not be known until they have been removed and tested.

The S-49 was visited by virtually every officer at the base today, after the compartment had been opened. Many enlisted men also gathered on the dock along which rides the craft, and went on deck for a look down the hatchway at the wreckage.

He has practiced here ever since, and in 1913 was elected president of the Massachusetts Bar association. For six years, beginning in 1897, he was district attorney of Hampshire county. He held various offices of a semi-public nature.

President Coolidge entered Mr. Hammond's office soon after his graduation from Amherst college, and studied there for about a year.

Regal Celebration of the Founding of Rome

Intense Fervor Apparent in All Ceremonies in the Eternal City.

ROME, April 21.—(AP)—For the first time since the hordes of northern invaders crushed its world power, well over a thousand years ago, Rome celebrated its birthday today as the capital of a "modern Roman empire." There was an intense fervor apparent in the ceremonies, announcing to the world that the Italian people are imbued with faith in the 20th century resurrection of the power and glory which were Rome's when she was mistress of a large part of the globe.

Underlying every one of the ceremonies, which occurred not only here, but in every city and town in the nation, was a message of allegiance to Mussolini as inspirer of the new Italy's spirit and protagonist of the great struggle which is yet to be won before his dream of empire can be realized. The fascist insignia—symbol of the new empire—was outlined tonight in electric bulbs upon the Colosseum, the arch of Titus, the forum and other relics of the Rome of Emperor August which Mussolini desires to see live again within the brief space of five years.

It is doubtful whether any Roman emperor returning from warlike conquest in the colonies ever attained the popular acclamation accorded to Mussolini on this, his first great public appearance since his triumphal and peaceful advance through Italian North Africa.

The premier sat this afternoon on an improvised throne like platform, between the arch of Constantine and the imposing ruins of the Colosseum, reviewing 12,000 school children. It was an impressive sight, for there were no cheers, and in many eyes there were tears. The premier's seat was surrounded much after the fashion of the Roman emperors of other days, by trophies, which included gilded crowns amid pieces of the ruins from the temple of Venus.

Grouped around him, symbolic of the strengthening ties with the continent beyond the Mediterranean, which now Italy knows as "our sea", were detachments of black and brown troops from Tripoli, Erythrea and Somaliland-Zeptles on foot, Savaris and Spahis wearing the brilliantly colored burnooze and mounted on horseback, and Meharis on fleet dromedaries.

While primarily devoted to the birthday of ancient Rome, the day was also a celebration of two important festivities of modern Rome—colonial day and labor day, which had been transferred from May 1 as a sign of the termination of the idea of class struggle and the beginning of an era of industrial cooperation for the benefit of all classes.

The streets and squares were beflagged and replete with posters and proclamations exhorting the population to remember that today's complete cessation of all regular activities was intended to show that beginning tomorrow the parade epoch was over and the work epoch had begun. The work of restoring the monuments of old Rome, now hidden behind medieval and modern buildings, many of them ugly and squalid, was begun with inaugural ceremonies at Trajan's forum, the Marcellus theatre, the villa Colimontanus, and the tomb of the Scipios, at each place a tablet with a Latin inscription being erected.

The war dead, who more than all others contributed to give Italy a new national consciousness, were also remembered. King Victor Emmanuel laid the cornerstone of a monument, and hundreds of wreaths were laid on the tomb of the unknown soldier where throughout the day incense was kept burning.

Sports, in which the fascist government places great faith as the developer of the physical strength of the youth of the nation, occupied the major part of the afternoon. Football, swimming and other competitions were held in Rome and various other cities, and the king presided at the opening of the Campanuelle race track, which is considered the best in Europe.

This evening with the entire city lighted up, a brilliant torchlight regatta was held on the Tiber, reminiscent of similar events under the ancient empire.

SENATE RATIFIED ITALIAN DEBT SETTLEMENT 54 TO 33

Vote Was Taken After Four Hours of Bitter Debate—Senator Reed Voted For the Measure in Order That He Could Present a Motion For Reconsideration, Which Action the Opponents Have Served Notice They Would Move—Pending Final Action the Debt Settlement Measure Will Be Withheld From the White House.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP)—The two billion dollar Italian war debt settlement was ratified today by the senate, 54 to 33, but opponents served notice they would move for reconsideration.

They want time to discuss an amendment by Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, by which Italy would agree to issue bonds in the value of the debt payable annually in the amount that Italy agrees to pay on account of interest and principal each year.

Administration leaders are hopeful that the motion to reconsider, which Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, gave notice he would offer, will be voted down. Long discussion is in prospect, however, and meantime, the debt settlement measure will be withheld from the white house.

Both the house and the Italian parliament have ratified the agreement and it had been the expectation that the bill of approval would go to President Coolidge tomorrow for his signature, which would serve to bring the debt agreement into full force.

Negotiations for the settlement of the French, Jugo-Slavia and Greek war debts to this country have been retarded pending senate action on the Italian agreement. Whether they will be renewed before the senate disposes of the action for reconsideration remains to be determined.

Immediately after the senate voted and before it got into a half hour's spectacular row over the question of reconsideration, the treasury announced that the American debt commission would meet "shortly" to begin negotiations with Senator Henry Berenger, the French ambassador, who has been given full power by his government to negotiate a settlement.

Ambassador Berenger and Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American commission, have discussed the settlement at length. But the treasury secretary said today that there could be no agreement until the American commission passed upon any offer made by France.

The senate vote came after four hours of bitter debate, and after the rejection of a motion to send the settlement back to committee for further investigation had been rejected, 56 to 33, the exact vote by which the agreement was ratified.

After this action, the senate rejected the Howell amendment, 55 to 34. This amendment was presented after debate had been closed by the unanimous consent agreement to vote at four p. m., and was unexplained. Senator Reed, of Missouri, voted against this amendment and later for the debt settlement, explaining that he did so in order that he could present a motion to reconsider. On the roll for ratification, 13 democrats joined with 41 republicans in approving the settlement. Nine republicans, 23 democrats, and one farmer labor voted against approval. The roll call follows:

For ratification—

Republicans: Bingham, Butler, Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Couzens, Curtis, Dale, Dineen, Edge, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillette, Goff, Greene, Hale, Harreld, Jones of Washington, Keyes, McLean, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norbeck, Oddie, Pepper, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Shortridge, Smoot, Stanfield, Wadsworth, Warren, Watson, Weller, Williams and Willis—41.

Democrats: Bayard, Broussard, Bruce, Copeland, Edwards, Ferris, Gerry, Glass, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick, King, Ransdell and Reed of Missouri—13.

Total 54.

Democrats: Ashurst, Blease, Bratton, Caraway, Dill, George, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Stephens, Swanson, Tranmell, Tyson, Walsh and Wheeler—23.

Farmer-labor: Shipstead—1.

The climax of the long and bitter senate fight, during which Premier Mussolini was subjected to vigorous attacks by opponents of the settlement, came with galleries crowded.

Plenipotentiaries of European governments present included Leonardo Vitetti, the secretary of the Italian embassy.

Immediately after the result was announced the senate was thrown into an uproar by a motion of Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, to reconsider its action immediately while "practically the full membership is present." This brought a proposal to lay that motion on the table, and charges of "bad faith" against the Ohio senator, who was accused of trying to head off Senator Reed, of Missouri, in his move for reconsideration.

A volley of interchanges followed and there were frequent calls for order, but Vice President Dawes found himself almost powerless to control either the senate or the galleries.

Finally Senator Fess withdrew his motion and thus left Senator Reed free to present his motion to reconsider tomorrow or Friday. Then the senate agreed to make the Belgian debt settlement the unfinished business and recessed until tomorrow.

During the hubbub of discussion, Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and the democratic leader, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, served notice that if the senate was to "resort" to the tactics of laying motions on the table there never would be any more unanimous consent agreements.

Senator Borah said he always had opposed such motions, which would serve to cut off debate, and that his record on the point could not be challenged. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and Wadsworth, republican, New York, challenged it by producing the official record to show that the Idaho senator had voted for such motions during the league of nations fight in 1920 and again in 1925. Before these records could be brought into play, however, Senator Borah had left the chamber.

During the one-hour discussion Senator Fess insisted that his motion to reconsider had been made in "good faith." When he made this profession a roar of laughter ran around the senate chamber and the galleries and he blocked a recess until he could make an explanation of his position.

Expressing gratification over the senate's action, Secretary Mellon in a statement deprecated the attacks made in the senate on Mussolini, adding:

"I know that expressions made in the heat of debate against a friendly government and people do not represent the views of the American people, and I feel sure that these expressions will have gone and that the approval of the Italian settlement will further cement the bonds of friendship between that country, ancient in history, and America, to which so many of her sons have come and are now a part of our citizenry."

FORMER COLLEGE ATHLETE CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP)—The trail around the world which Alexander Reilly Hodges, 26 former star athlete of the University of Kansas and son of a prominent Kansas City family, contemplated as he worked his way to New York was abruptly halted today when he was held without bail on short affidavit charging suspicion of robbery.

Hodges' arrest and his subsequent revelation of his identity followed the holdup of a West Side street restaurant last night. A chase through theater crowds in which the patrons of the restaurant participated ended when Patrolman Schoby hurled his nightstick at the fleeing figure. The club hit its mark and halted the pursuit.

Taken to the police station Hodges first gave his name as Frank Baker, changing it during his story to Alexander R. Hedges, then William Baker, then Hodges. He later said that fear of disgracing his family name caused him to attempt to hide his identity.

In telling his story Hodges said that his father died a year ago that he has a sister teaching school and a brother teaching law.

He said he came here last Friday with $17 of $25 borrowed from my mother. In order to escape paying carfare, he said he worked as a cattleman on a train.

When arraigned in court under the name of Baker he was represented by an attorney who offered to defend him when he heard that the man was a college graduate. Before the arraignment Hodges recovered from the wash room in the police station a medal which proclaimed him as the 158-pound champion boxer of the University of Kansas. He hurled the medal and a fraternity pin away before he acknowledged to having been a member of the university football team and a baseball player.

The police charged Hodges with the holdup and supported their complaint with the statement that they found a metal cigarette holder shaped like an automatic pistol and $240, the sum reported as stolen from the restaurant, in the prisoner's pockets.

Hodges said that he had failed to find employment in New York and that after his capital had been depleted through expenditures made in taking a girl to the movies, he purchased a peaked cap and a cigarette holder shaped like an automatic pistol.

Hodges' mother sent word from Kansas City that he had left there on April 12 with $200 and the assurance that he could get more if he needed it. He has money coming to him from his father's estate, she said. She expressed the belief that the man arrested was someone else who had falsely identified himself as her son.

GOV. SMITH OF NEW YORK SHY OF REAL LIVE TIGERS

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.—(AP)—Tigers as political emblems and real animal are in a vastly different class, Governor Smith decided today, when a group of admirers from Astoria, L. I., came to the capitol to present him with a 12 weeks' old cub, just in from South America.

"Get a little closer," urged a cameraman, as the governor, posing with the tiger for a photograph on the front steps of the capitol, very obviously shied away from the frisky little animal.

"Not on your life" exclaimed the governor, moving a step farther from the beast. "This suits me."

The cub, which came as a gift from the Astoria Tammany club, will be added to the governor's famous zoo, the seven or eight inhabitants of which live in a wire-screened space at the rear of the executive mansion.

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1181-3

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 21—The criminal side of the Windham county superior court was resumed here Wednesday with Judge Alvin L. Brown on the bench, the session lasting until 4.25 o'clock in the afternoon.

The first business was the disposition of four probationary cases, two of which were of local interest. In regard to these two, which were Walter Nowak of this city and William Edgar Lincoln, charged with theft, State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford stated that the men had been abiding by the terms of the probation. They were ordered discharged with judgment suspended indefinitely.

John C. Bartlett and Joseph N. Noyes of New London and Groton, both charged with misconduct as railroad servants causing death, were discharged from probation. These two men were members of the engine crew that figured in a railroad wreck in Putnam over a year ago. They were sentenced to one year in jail and a few months ago were placed on probation. Both have had a good record of promotion and having lost their jobs with the railroad are said to be having a hard struggle to support themselves and their families.

A recess was ordered to consider the cases of Harry Boysyn, charged with abuse of a female child and of Albert Antonia Wolak, charged with complicity to this crime. The Wolaks are the parents of the 14 year old complainant in the case.

The girl gave birth to a still born child last December. Boysyn was alone in the house with her at the time and during the dead infant he buried the body in the back yard with a garage on the premises in Brooklyn. As stated in an article in The Bulletin Wednesday morning Wolak showed County Detective William E. Jackson where the body had been buried and it was dug up for examination.

The case resumed at 2:15 o'clock following the noon recess. Genevia Wolak, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wolak was called to the witness stand. She was questioned at length [illegible] this one witness had [illegible] and both sides rested. Judge Brown announced that he could see no sign of a deliberate attempt on the part of the parents to commercialize their daughter and the case was ordered put on.

Boysyn was then called to the stand when he was put to [illegible] of assault and abuse of the child. Boysyn admitted the [illegible] but claimed that he was under the influence of liquor at the time. Upon cross examination by State's Attorney Bradford, Boysyn admitted that he had been convicted of intoxication three times and once of theft. At 4.25 o'clock court recessed indefinitely.

The cases tried in the superior court Wednesday morning, that of Boysyn on the charge of abuse of [illegible] and that of General Wolak revealed many [illegible] of a pathetic nature which commanded the undivided attention of a group of spectators in the gallery.

On the afternoon of December 3, while both her parents were at work, the girl gave birth to the child which was immediately buried by Boysyn who was alone in the house with her. The girl placed the room in order and said nothing about her recent sufferings at that time. Later her father and Boysyn got into trouble, when, according to the girl, he accused Boysyn of kissing his wife. After Wolak had threatened to shoot the state police were notified and Wolak spent some time in jail. Her father later had her examined by a physician and she was committed to the Long Lane farm, February 19. The girl said that from the time of the childbirth until she was sent to the institution her mother often struck her with a razor strap because she cried so much. She said that she was glad to be taken away. At the conclusion of this testimony State's Attorney Bradford agreed to have the case nolled.

Look First

The only quick-cooking oats with this flavor is "Quick Quaker"

FLAVOR is the all-important point in food. In oats it is probably more important than in any other.

That is why people who once taste the toasty richness of Quaker Oats are spoiled thereafter for all others.

Quaker flavor is unique, toasty and delightful. No other oats offers it to you. Some 50 years were spent perfecting it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

For your own sake, say "Quaker" when buying oats. Two kinds now at groceries: Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes) and Quaker Oats as always.

Unwithered religion was the topic considered in the sermon at the Goodyear church last Sunday morning, the text chosen being Psalm 1:3 "His leaf also shall not wither." Reclothed nature in the springtime is fittingly emblematical of the overflowing ambition, hope and sympathy of youth. The Godly person is represented by the Psalmist as one who retains a strong grip on youths religious excellencies. In the face of a powerfully adverse world atmosphere. Life denuded of the green leaves of hope spells pessimism and the life whose foliage of sympathy has withered becomes purely formalistic. This poor old world is sweetened and preserved by the existence of unwithered religion humanly expressed, and unwithered religion is rooted in Christ.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM LIKELY TO GO ON DAYLIGHT TIME
(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 21—Putnam will probably follow the lead of the other towns and cities in this section of the state and go on daylight saving time next Sunday. At a meeting of the city council last night the managers of several mills and representatives of retail merchants appeared and made statements to the effect that unless Putnam adopted the change it would probably be the only city in the state adhering to standard time.

Alderman-at-Large Charles Richard introduced a resolution recommending that the city of Putnam adopt daylight saving time and it was passed by a viva voce vote.

The mill men who were at the meeting said that their mills would be operated on the earlier time in any event. The merchants have taken no concerted action as yet but it is believed that the great majority if not all of them will follow the council's recommendation, and if they do the banks of the city will probably open and close on the new time.

The schools are on standard time and it will require action by the town school committee to make any change in their schedule.

VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT DIED IN PUTNAM HOSPITAL
(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 21—At the Day Kimball hospital last night there was another death from an automobile accident, Frank Ell, 75, of West Gloucester, R. I., a former resident of this city, was the victim. The accident occurred near his home in Rhode Island. The machine that struck Ell was being owned and driven by Arthur Brissette of May street, Putnam. After an investigation the state police of Rhode Island decided that Mr. Brissette was not to blame, that the accident could not have been averted.

Mr. Ell has no near relatives here nor in this part of the country. Two brothers whom he had not seen for 30 years live in California and a sister, Mrs. Paul Luke, lives in Washington.

NEW HAVEN ROAD COULD NOT GRANT THROUGH CARS
(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 21—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has been obliged to refuse the request for through service from New York to Boston by way of Willimantic and Putnam after giving due consideration and making an investigation to the several petitions sent them by Herbert W. Bowen of Woodstock, one of the prime movers behind the petitions. J. P. Thorndike of Providence, district passenger superintendent of the New Haven, called on Mr. Bowen recently in regard to the petition and stated that the amount of traffic did not warrant the railroad company granting the request.

Mr. Bowen had asked Mr. Thorndike to consider the granting of one of the following requests:

1—Through car service instead of through train service.

2—A through car two or three times a week.

3—Through parlor car from New York on Fridays, returning Mondays.

Mr. Bowen says that "Mr. Thorndike felt obliged to decline all of these. The railroad company, I am sure, would favor us if it could do so without a serious financial loss. We must put the blame, then, not on the railroad company but on existing conditions operating under the law of supply and demand."

Petitions for the through service were circulated in Woodstock, Thompson, Pomfret and Putnam, and were signed by a large number of people. The petitions were sent to the railroad officials by the Putnam Chamber of Commerce, and an acknowledgment of the receipt of the petitions was followed by a statement that the matter would be investigated. The railroad agents investigated at once and found that, based on the tickets sold, the service asked for could not be given without a loss.

A number of people from Putnam expect to attend the special meeting of the Quinebaug Pomona grange, which is to be held with the Brooklyn grange in Unitarian hall, Brooklyn, Conn., on Saturday, April 24, with a supper served from 5 to 7 o'clock. 300,000 ESSEX OWNERS

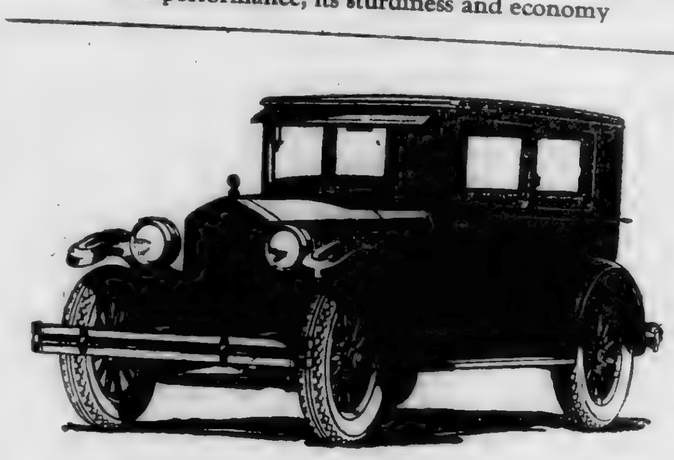
They know its time proved value, its rare smoothness and performance, its sturdiness and economy



OF COURSE YOU WANT A "SIX" THAT IS TIME PROVED

Essex proved that everyone wants a "Six." But low price is not the only reason why 300,000 owners are praising it so highly nor does price alone explain the reason for its continued sales leadership.

Time proved qualities are what owners talk about. They speak of the little attention Essex requires and of how infrequent and small is the service cost. They tell of economy in fuel, oil and tires. And they praise Essex smoothness in performance, its nimbleness and its power.

They are the greatest sales influence we have.

Just see how Essex meets your desires. It is the ideal family and utility car. It is easy to steer and can be handled in traffic or backed into small parking spaces without effort. It is easy riding and possesses unusual roadability. The motor is built under Super-Six patents that gives a performance and quality exclusive to this famous principle. It is the best Essex ever built and because of its vast production and the constant development of economical and precision methods of manufacturing it is priced lower than ever before. The cost is less than for most fours and little more than the lowest priced car on the market.

Can you ignore such facts in the choice of your car?

TACKLING DISARMAMENT

When Secretary Kellogg, in his address at the Associated Press luncheon, spoke upon American policies on outstanding international issues his reference to the disarmament conference and the position of this country was thoroughly in keeping with what has been said before. And yet it is well that those points should be kept to the front.

No one knows what will be done at Geneva concerning disarmament. It is possible for an elaborate program to be put forth which will meet so much opposition that it will accomplish nothing. It is possible that nothing will be done and it is possible to make several bites of the problem instead of trying to do the impossible in one fell swoop. It is believed Secretary Kellogg is correct when he says that "Every definite move toward disarmament, small though it be, is of greater value for the promotion of world peace than ambitious and all-inclusive projects which may be excellent in theory, but which fail to take account of existing world problems."

This country appreciates the benefits of the Washington conference, but it sees the importance of extending that agreement so that it will include some of the things that were omitted at that time. Provision has been made for the restoration of capital ships, but there is nothing to prevent a race in similar unwise construction with regard to cruisers and other naval vessels which were not included in the Washington agreement.

Even that sure is a better proposition than an effort at some great splurge that a complete breakdown is caused and the preliminary conference for the completion of a program has a good excuse for giving heed to the attitude of the Secretary before. What we would like to see put off for a few more years if there is some progress in other directions than in the matter of battleships, armored cruisers and the future undesirable.

PLANTING FORESTS

As all the indications of success in any fine undertaking is that it should be a matter of slow growth, the plan of the Connecticut Forestry Association to plant forest in keeping with a plan outlined by the state forestry department is a commendable one. The Association is a member of the Connecticut Forestry Conference which has as the object the planting of forests in the state. The Association has been active in this work for a number of years and has planted a number of trees. It has received a hearty endorsement and there is no reason why clubs and individuals should not adopt the idea on a large scale.

TIME FOR AN ADJUSTMENT

It is now eight years since the United States declared war against Germany. As the result of the war the property of German Americans, Germany and there is which the claims commissioner has approved.

The protection of just such claims property in this country belonging to residents of Germany was seized and has since been held under control of the government. It has always been maintained that private property could not be taken for Germany's acts, and for that reason there is a desire to close this matter up, return the property and funds held and get an adjustment of the claims against Germany as quickly as possible.

With that in mind several bills have been introduced in congress, but as yet they have got no where. Claims are made that under such provisions as have been made that someone, corporations and individuals, are going to benefit. There is no denying the fact that their claims have been approved so it doesn't appear that anyone would benefit any more than what he is entitled to. He would simply be getting what belonged to him, and under the proposed law would get it sooner than might otherwise be the case, or before the expiration of 50 years and thus within his lifetime.

Because Secretary Mellon has been endeavoring to get this situation cleared he has been criticised for having an interest in some of the corporations that have claims. Secretary Mellon declares that he is committed to no particular scheme. He will endorse anything that is as good or better than what has been offered. His aim is to end the present situation of inactivity, and while the present congress may do nothing, it should not be subjected to endless delay. No one is getting what belongs to them under the present situation.

OBJECT LESSON FOR CONGRESS

The senate lost no time in telling the shipping board that its acceptance of the $4,500,000 bid for five Pacific coast liners should be rescinded.

Bids received for the Admiral Oriental Mail Steamship line some time ago were refused by the board because they were too low. More recently new bids have been made and despite the advice of the president of the emergency fleet corporation the shipping board voted to accept the four and a half million offered. Similar ships had only a short time ago brought more than $200,000 more a ship than these five would be sold for.

When the senate declares that the bid is too low and the board should reject it there would seem to be advice offered which the board could not disregard.

Perhaps this matter could not have been brought to attention at a better time than now. The shipping board is answerable to congress and this instance is bound to show congress the wisdom of the demands that are being made for the placing of that board under the control of one of the government departments. If congress were in session all the time it might be possible for it to exercise control over the board in a manner that is needed, but it is not and yet the board can go on and do what may or may not be in accord with the sanction of congress or the administration.

The numerous instances where it has been shown that the board was operating all out of sympathy with the administration indicate that the control is not where it should be for the best interests of the country. Congress ought not to want a better object lesson in this respect than the one it has just witnessed and the second has been rejected. Sometimes those are what carry greater weight than the references to numerous cases of like character. The shipping board may be a necessary evil but it should be handled at all times hand in hand with the government and on a sound basis.

DEBT SETTLEMENTS

For a number of weeks ratification of the debt funding arrangement that has been made with Italy has been held up before the senate committee on the senate committee on foreign relations. Senators who have opposed it and who have manufactured all kinds of reasons for opposition to it, and who have predicted the Secretary Mellon would make a wreck of the finances of the country today, have been silenced by the good work that has been done in the senate committee on foreign relations, the committee on finance, and the committee on banking and currency. The senate committee on foreign relations was considering the debt settlements with the conditions as they are in the country today and in the future, it was not considering the settlements as they were in the past. The committee on finance was considering the settlements with a view to funding them in such a way that they would be paid. The committee on banking and currency was considering the settlements with a view to the effect they would have on the currency and credit situation.

With the Italian debt payment passed by the senate, the senate committee on foreign relations has reported favorably the debt settlements with Belgium, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. The senate committee on finance has reported favorably the settlements with Belgium, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. The senate committee on banking and currency has reported favorably the settlements with Belgium, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. The senate committee on foreign relations has reported favorably the settlements with Belgium, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. The senate committee on finance has reported favorably the settlements with Belgium, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. THEY CHOSE THE MOVIES

"I think it would be nice to go over to the Grampuses this evening," began the sociable wife, just as her husband established himself in an easy chair with six magazines and a library book. "Ella Grampus and her husband have just got back from their wedding trip and we can hear all about it—"

"And see their photos!" broke in her alarmed husband desperately. "Sometimes, Ideala, I feel that you haven't got a lick of sense! Any ordinary couple going away on a trip is bad enough, though you can sidestep them by using brutality and by talking fast about the league of nations or South American coffee trade, whenever they pipe up with the start of an account of their journey. But you can't handle a bride and bridegroom that way because they are totally obvious to the likes and dislikes of the rest of the world.

"The only reason that they acknowledge your existence by rehearsing their trip to you is so they can hear each other's voices. They just love to hear dearie telling how sweet duckie looked in her blue organdy standing on the tip of Pikes peak—see, here is the snap — now where on earth did that picture slip away to, I had it just this minute—never mind, here is the cutest view of angel, rowing a boat all by herself. Yes, the light is sort of blurred across her face, but if you study it you can see her just as plain as anything.

"Don't you recollect the time when we stumbled onto the Curlew boy and his bride, who were starting in on the old [illegible] their flat was ready? Do you mean to say you have forgotten that evening? Now, dearie, don't show that awful picture of me! Ettamine would cuddle fondly her arm about Tommy Curlow's neck. 'You can't imagine how dreadful I look! My hair wasn't fixed or anything. That was the day we went for that long walk—don't you remember darling? Across the hill and down—'

"'Oh,' says the bridegroom fondly, patting her shoulder, 'that was the day you distinguished yourself. What do you think I found Ettamine doing when I came into our room after breakfast? Darning a pair of my stockings, yessir! Exactly as though she had always darned them! And she blushed so prettily—yes, you did, Ettamine! Look, here's a photograph that shows her blushing! She has the loveliest color!'

"'Now, Tom!' Ettamine protests, shaking her head as though outsiders were interested. Oh, Mrs. Swisk, here is a picture I want you to see! Doesn't he look darn—I mean, don't he look darling? Yes, you do, Tom! I adore a man in knickerbockers and golf hose, and I think he looks utterly grand in it. His brow looks so noble, don't you think, Mrs. Swisk? Turn your head, dearie, so she can see your profile—go on! There! Don't you think he looks exactly like Rudolph Val—'

"'Aw, Ettamine!' Tom had the grace to stutter, 'nix! Say, Mr. Swisk, I just want to show you this snap I got of Ettamine picking daisies! Right in the middle of the field! I'm going to have it enlarged and framed, yes I have it enlarged and framed, yes I am! It is a wonderful picture of you, am! Here's another view on the left side of her face—that's our window there. OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas J. Dodd

Following an illness of several weeks Abigail Margaret O'Sullivan, wife of Thomas J. Dodd, died Tuesday morning at St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, Minn. where she had gone for treatment. Mrs. Dodd was a native of Norwich and was the daughter of the late Jeremiah and Bridget Mahoney O'Sullivan and a sister of the late Rev. Patrick J. O'Sullivan, S. J., for many years a professor in Boston college.

She graduated from St. Patrick's school and was a graduate of Mt. St. Joseph seminary, Hartford. Before her marriage she was a teacher in the Greeneville school. At St. Mary's church, April 3, 1902, she was united in marriage with Thomas J. Dodd, by the late Rev. James J. Smith. She was a devoted member of St. Patrick's parish and belonged to the Rosary society and the Catholic Women's club.

Surviving Mrs. Dodd are her husband and four daughters, Catherine, Helen, Margaret and Mary Dodd and one son, Thomas J. Dodd, Jr., all of this city. Mrs. Dodd was well and favorably known and her death is a source of deep regret to her many friends and acquaintances.

Miss Delia A. Rogers.

Early Wednesday morning, Miss Delia Augusta Rogers died at her home, 49 School street. Always in frail health, Miss Rogers became ill with grip a month ago, an affection of the heart making her condition serious from the first.

She was the eldest child of Andrew and Ellen Maloney Rogers and the family home for fully 70 years has been at the Washington street end of School street. Since the death of her parents, over 30 years ago Miss Rogers had been virtually head of the home, although her ambition was greater than her strength and she was obliged to forego all outside interests. For this reason she was best known chiefly to relatives and intimate friends of the family, who recognized her many fine traits and the gentleness and sweetness of her character. Her special delight was in her flowers, in growing which she always had marked success.

She was a member of St. Patrick's parish. Surviving her is her brother, John Edward Rogers, also four sisters, Misses Mary E., Ellen T., Margaret C., and Frances L. Rogers, all of 40 School street.

Mrs William T. Ward

Following a short illness, the death of Mary L. Haggerty, widow of William T. Ward, occurred Wednesday morning at 1 o'clock at her home, 191 West Thames street. Mrs. Ward was taken sick Friday of last week and was apparently on the road to recovery but Wednesday morning she was seized with a sudden sinking spell from which she failed to rally.

Born in Willimantic, Nov. 27, 1862, Mrs. Ward was the daughter of John and Mary Haggerty. At St. Joseph's church, Willimantic, Nov. 22, 1886, she was united in marriage with William T. Ward, whose death occurred several years ago in this city. Since her marriage, Mrs. Ward had made her home in this city. She was a member of St. Patrick's parish and a true Christian throughout her life. She was of a kindly, cheerful nature, devoted to her family and a kindly friend and neighbor ever ready to lend a helping hand wherever needed.

Surviving Mrs. Ward are four children, Anna F., Mary E., Auretta E. and William P. Ward, all of this city. There is one sister, Miss Julia Haggerty of this city and there are also two brothers, James Haggerty of Willimantic, prominent and well known Civil war veteran, and Joseph Haggerty of Philadelphia and three grandchildren.

BROWN TROUT FOR SEVERAL BROOKS IN BOZRAH TERRITORY

A meeting of the Norwich Fish and Game association at the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening at which the vice president, Louis Ortman, presided, had explained to it the reasons why the state fish and game commission consider it advisable to stock certain brooks in the Bozrah neighborhood with brown trout. The explanations were given by Dr. C. K. Stillman of Mystic and John H. Titcomb, state superintendent.

Some protest against the stocking with brown trout had been expressed by the directors of the local fish and game association and the two speakers came here to explain the subject in detail. At the close of the meeting, after a number of questions had been asked Superintendent Titcomb, the vote was passed to leave the matter in the hands of the state commissioners.

The brooks which it has been determined are no longer possible places for the support and propagation of the ordinary native brook trout, but are suitable for brown trout, which can live in warmer water than the brook trout, are Pease brook, Gardner brook, Bartlett brook, West branch, Peck Hollow brook and Yantic river.

It was stated in the meeting by Secretary W. W. Ives of the fish and game association that 50,000 small trout have been distributed in brooks around here in the last few years, without any appreciable improvement in the fishing conditions.

Superintendent Titcomb said that the state did not want to and would not go on wasting money in placing fish where no results could be expected, but it was the desire to put the brown trout in streams where it was known that conditions were against the survival and increase of the brook trout. The streams under consideration, he and Dr. Stillman said, were in that class.

Dr. Stillman Describes Conditions

Dr Stillman, who had made a survey of the trout streams, named the various evils which are accountable for injuring the public streams of the eastern section of the country. These include encroachment of the fish and game clubs, posting by individuals, absorption of streams by water supply companies, which bar the anglers, damming of the streams by water supply companies, thereby raising the stream temperatures below to the detriment of brook trout, pollution of streams and deforestation.

Dr. Stillman spoke of Deep River as the one good sized cold stream which feeds the Yantic river and showed how the building of the Deep River reservoir would result in raising the temperature of the stream from a present summer temperature of about 68 degrees to a temperature too high for trout to thrive in. It is generally admitted that the brook trout cannot be expected to live in water above 75 degrees. In the case of Deep River we may be pretty sure that instead of a cool flow of 68 degrees joining the West branch with its 74 degrees summer temperature, we shall have instead a discharge water at 75-79 degrees or higher from the surface water of the reservoir. Conditions will be very bad for brook trout.

The only remedy that occurs is the introduction of brown trout.

It is I believe the policy of the commission to give priority to the brook trout, to save the native species wherever possible and no one who has fished our streams for a generation can but feel some regret to see a strange fish taking its place.

But the brown trout is better than many persons in this section realize. It is fortunate that there is a trout of hardy type and pugnacious acter to replace the brook trout in those streams in which the brook trout can no longer do well.

For those who do not know the fish it may not be out of place to recall some of its qualities:

It considerably exceeds the brook trout in size. I have seen specimens weighing over 3 1-2 pounds in various pools in the Catskill region. Four, five and six pound fish occur.

While it grows slowly the first two years, thereafter it has a very rapid growth.

It is a tougher fish than the brook trout and can stand warmer water. It gets along fairly well in streams having temperatures of 75 to 77 degrees and in general it can endure temperatures eight or ten degrees warmer than the brook trout.

It is a fish eater to a greater extent than the brook trout and is the deadly foe of all pickerel. This is a good point as the Browns will many times clear a stream of pickerel in a few years. It enjoys a diet of fall fish (dace) and thins them out rapidly. Minnows and insects of course, also.

Also it usually will destroy the brook trout. In the Catskills as a rule the Browns have chased the brook trout out of the creeks into the smaller tributaries. One catches brook trout where the stream is small but going farther down one begins to pick up Browns which colonize the heavier waters and the small rivers. They do not always wipe out the brook trout. At Windham in the Catskills is a stream which is prolific brook trout water for seven miles, with good mixed brook and Brown trout water for seven miles more below which are big browns only.

We have a stream near Mystic which has had a few browns in it for about ten years but it is still about the most prolific brook trout water on our list. The brown trout will usually extend its range much farther downstream than the brook trout, so that there is good fishing for them in what would ordinarily be poor brook trout water.

In most cases however the two species will not exist side by side and the rule is to plant browns where the streams are not satisfactory for the native species or below high dams that will prevent them from invading brook trout waters above.

Brown trout prefer open sunlit streams particularly such as have riffs and dashing waterfalls. The Yantic just above Bozrahville and above the pond at Fitchville looks like ideal brown trout water, suitable for flyfishing.

In open streams they are very ingenious at hiding out of sight under rocks or by crawling into holes under the banks. Sometimes fifteen or twenty will be seen lying motionless close to bottom giving a very good imitation of a school of suckers. If disturbed they will move like flashes of light. They have a very wicked set (or rather several sets) of curved teeth and bow only to the black bass in eastern waters. In appearance they are not equal to the brook trout being more powerful looking but not so handsomely colored. Their meat is white, rather soft and not equal to that of the brook trout in flavor.

But as fighters they greatly surpass the brook trout and will give a harder longer battle and break more tackle. In short they are a larger, stronger, hardier and more savage fish. Also they are more prolific. When introduced into a stream they may not be caught until their numbers have multiplied into the thousands and it is thereafter practically impossible to exterminate them by fishing. One charm of brown trout fishing is the feeling that one has of these interested but the difficulty has still to be gotten over that the fish may not like the waters to which he is consigned.

The unfortunate fact is that it is impossible to predict that the brown trout will adapt himself to the streams in which he may be played—attempts to plant browns in New London county are experimental. Certain kinds of brook trout water they do not care for and other kinds which we think they might like we can not be sure about until after a trial.

EXPECT CAPACITY HOUSE FOR LAFONTAINE RECITAL

Reports of delegates to the spring conclave of the 30th district of Rotary International at Bridgeport last week were given Wednesday at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel. In the absence of President Edwin A. Harris the meeting was conducted by Vice President Nelson J. Ayling. Reports were given by Lincoln Crawford, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, Dr. Alfred Richards, James Roantree and Secretary Edward W. Jewett. The reports were very comprehensive and the delegates brought back a very inspiring message to the home club. Included in one report was the fact that Rotary is steadily growing and that at the present time there are 2,307 clubs in the world with a total membership of 113,000.

Much interest was manifested in the report of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell regarding the song recital by Henry J. LaFontaine on Friday evening at Slater hall for the benefit of the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work fund. Dr. Campbell said that the club was out to have a crowded house for the recital and that he fully expected that a capacity house of 800 would be at the concert on Friday evening. Not only is the Rotary club interested in the success of this recital but all music lovers in Norwich are anxious to hear Mr. LaFontaine since his return from Europe where he studied last year.

Attention was called to the Conference of Social workers to be held here next week and support of the Rotary club was urged in this work.

P. J. RAFFERTY'S FRIENDS MANIFEST THEIR SORROW

Coleman, president, assembled at the home of Mr Rafferty where prayers were recited for the repose of his soul. Through hundreds of students the name and fine qualities of this genial, kind-hearted man had become known in families in and about Norwich; and many facts relating to his universal friendliness toward the student body and his patience and unfailing courtesy were recalled. Above all, there was that about him which commanded the profound respect of every one of the thousands of persons whose lives touched his, during his long and honorable term of usefulness and faithful service.

ACADEMY TEAM BEATS PLAINFIELD IN HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE, 5 TO 4

Fighting every inning of the game the Academy team won a hard-fought ball game from Plainfield high Wednesday afternoon at the Carpet Grounds in Moosup by a score of 5 to 4. The game was an up-hill fight for the Academy from the first inning up to the seventh and even then there was nothing certain about the outcome of the game.

Anticipating little trouble with the Plainfield team the Academy struck a tough nut to crack and the Plainfield boys were in the game from the start. Continually threatening to break up the game Plainfield was always a menace and it was only the superb pitching of Johnny Greene and the heavy hitting of himself and his teammates that pulled the local boys through to victory.

Greene drew the pitching assignment for the Academy and he came through in a style that reflected credit on the judgment of Coach Brigham in selecting the big boy for the job. Johnny worked an inside ball continually and with the most remarkable control he was shown, fanning 11 of the opposing batsmen and allowing only one to go to first on a free ticket. Johnny's inside curves broke with a sharpness that had the Plainfield boys wondering what it was all about. In fact the curves broke with such speed that two of the Plainfield boys were unable to get away from them and were hit.

Plainfield used two pitchers. Long Bill Baker and a rookie by the name of Williams. Baker lasted just five innings and then Coach Rice of the Plainfield squad gave the assignment to Williams. Williams a slim lad of tender age had plenty of stuff and come to spare for in the four innings he pitched he fanned seven of the Academy batters. Williams looked exceptionally good and worked in fine shape and had he started the game a different result might be recorded here.

In the first half of the opening inning things looked rosy for the Academy team for Cimikoski the first man to face Baker landed safe on first when Burton muffed a thrown ball. A wild pitch put Cimy on second and he went to third when Sadinsky was being thrown out by Stevens Lloyd Jarvis, slugging outfielder and pitcher, came through with a slashing triple to left center. He died on third however as Terrington was an easy infield out and Tombari popped out to French.

In Plainfield's half of the first inning Stevens was an easy out. Tombari to Burke. Tetreault, however, duplicated Jarvis' feat and drove a long fly to deep left for three bases. On the next play Tetreault scored on a bad move by Tombari Gilbert hit to Tombari and the Academy infielder had Tetreault trapped between third and home but elected to throw Gilbert out at first while Tetreault romped home unmolested Tombari threw out French, ending the inning.

In the second inning the Academy threatened to score and Burke got as far as third only to be stranded there. Plainfield, however, in their half of the inning scored three runs putting them well in the lead Peterson popped up a weak fly to Greene that Johnny juggled and dropped Baker slammed one out to centerfield but Peterson was nailed at third on a beautiful throw from Jarvis to Terrington. Misura singled to center and Baker pulled up at second While Garvey fanned Baker and Misura worked the double steal then both scored when Burton doubled to left field Tetreault grounded out ending the inning and also closed up Plainfield's scoring for the afternoon.

In the third inning Jarvis caught another one of Bakers fast ones and drove it to left for three bases but was caught at the plate when he tried to stretch it into a home run. The fourth inning was uneventful.

In the first of the fifth with one down the Academy got into action with a vengeance. Mish drew a walk and advanced when Greene singled to left. Both advanced on Cimikoski's strikeout when the Plainfield catcher dropped the ball. Hemple Sadinsky came to bat in the crisis and lined up to the ball in the same manner as he did in West Warwick game last Saturday. Hemple nailed it so far and what he wanted and when drove the ball to left field for a single scoring Mish and George Field, batter went to second on the throw-in after Jarvis entered the hall of fame when he poled out his third hit in as many times at bat this time a double to left and Sadinsky came in with the run. Terrington fanned.

Then was the last of Baker and Williams took the mound in the sixth and inaugurated his appearance by striking out the first three men in the last inning with Johnny Greene found himself in difficulty Gilbert flied out to Jarvis but French dropped a Texas leaguer over short that the batter got safe and Peterson promptly doubled and Tombari seeing to make the catch found the ball in one of his rooted pockets proceeded to the next sack. Misura and the bases were full Misura popped to Tombari and Johnny pitched himself out of the box by fanning Wells who hit for Garvey. Thus was Plainfield's last stand.

In the first of the seventh Mish led off with a double and Johnny Greene won his own game right there when he slashed out a single that brought Mish home with what proved to be the winning run. Williams fanned the next three men leaving Johnny stranded on the paths.

Jarvis Greene and Sadinsky were the batting heroes of the day and their timely hitting was largely responsible for the victory.

HARDWICK MAY TAKE HOCKEY LEAGUE FRANCHISE

BOSTON, April 21.—(AP)—Huntington R. ("Tack") Hardwick, one of Harvard's greatest football players of all time. Probably will be owner of a Chicago franchise in the national hockey league next season. This was the announcement today of Charles F. Adams, president of the Boston national league hockey club, following his return from a league meeting at Montreal.

Adams reported that Hardwick had applied for a Chicago franchise in the league with the backing of large financial interests which insured a strong team to represent the windy city if the franchise was granted. In the opinion of the Boston hockey magnate, the application of Hardwick stood the best chance of favorable consideration of any in the large number received by the league officials.

It is the plan of Hardwick, Adams said, to use the new Madison Garden in Chicago, which has a seating capacity of 20,000 if he is given a franchise.

Some 2,000 service and ex-service men took part in the opening ceremonies and Mayor Nichols threw out the ball.

DEMPSEY'S CONTRACT WITH RICKARD DOES NOT STATE PLACE OF THE BOUT

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 21.—(AP)—Tex Richard's contract with Jack Dempsey for a heavyweight championship bout in September signed here today does not place the promoter outside the rulings of the New York state boxing commission, although it leaves the way open for him to ignore the commission if he choose.

Rickard made this statement tonight in a reply to word that Commissioner Chairman James A. Farley had announced Rickard would be called before the board on his return to New York to explain his action in signing the contract.

"I have no present intention of opposing the rulings of the commission," Rickard said, "and my contract with Dempsey contains nothing in contravention with its rulings. At any rate, Farley is not the commission. There are two commissioners besides him."

The articles of agreement to which the world's heavyweight champion and the famous promoter signed their names today merely require that Dempsey fight a championship bout in September with an opponent of Rickard's choosing and that he fight no one in the meantime.

While Rickard reiterated that he was inclined to match Gene Tunney, rather than Harry Wills, negro challenger, against Dempsey, the contract does not specify where the bout is to be held.

Chairman Farley declared that the New York commission would insist that Dempsey defend his title against Wills and that if Rickard attempts to stage a Dempsey-Tunney bout, he would be disciplined.

Tunney is already under blanket contract with Rickard to fight the champion.

The promoter's New York license will be revoked, Farley asserted, if he seeks to hold a championship bout in New Jersey with Tunney as the challenger.

Rickard has no license to conduct bouts at the Yankee stadium, where he indicated he expected to hold the September battle, but on the other hand, he could ignore the New York body and stage the fight in Jersey City, risking his standing in New York as a promoter.

Dempsey will receive around $450,000 for defending his title, Rickard said.

The champion will leave here tomorrow for Hendersonville, North Carolina, where he has established training camp and proposes to go into active training immediately. Mordie Farrell, Tillie (Kid) Herman and Joe Stoessel are already installed as sparring partners while Farmer Lodge is expected to reach there soon.

Rickard will depart tomorrow for Henrietta, Tex., where he spent his youth, and where at one time was town marshal. He will return to Ft Worth Sunday night to leave for the east, he said.

With Dempsey were his attorney, Kenneth Grant, of Los Angeles and three friends, Gene Normyle, Floyd Fitzsimmons and Frank Jones. He denied that Fitzsimmons had any official connection with him and stated that he has no manager.

Dempsey said that his present ambition is to retire as champion, after which he hopes to get into some successful business.

Dempsey and Rickard were entertained at a luncheon today by Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Ft Worth Star-Telegram, in whose private office the articles were signed and together with Mayor Meachan were his guests again at a dinner tonight.

SYNDICATE CLAIMS DEMPSEY IS BOUND TO AGREEMENT

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 21.—(AP)—Andrew C. Weisberg, head of the local syndicate which last September obtained signatures of fight articles from Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Harry Wills negro contender, today declared that Dempsey is still bound to carry out that agreement.

"Jack Dempsey is held by contract to meet Harry Wills any place in the world except within the state of New York in September, 1926. The contract is binding and cannot be broken," Weisberg said, when advised that Tex Richard, New York promoter, had obtained Dempsey's signature at Fort Worth, Texas, today to a contract to fight an unnamed opponent this summer.

ACADEMY PLAYS RIVERVIEW TEAM THIS AFTERNOON

The Academy and the Riverview club will engage in a practice game at the State hospital this afternoon. This is the first game for the Riverview club before the opening of the season on Saturday. Lloyd Jarvis will draw the pitching assignment in this game and the fans will see two left-handers pitted against each other as Tony West will be on the mound for the Riverview team.

This game will not go down in the records of the Academy team as they are going far out of their class when they tackle a team like the Riverview club However if they win it will mark them as one of the fastest high school teams in the state. The game is scheduled for 2.45.

SLAGLE'S HOMER WINS GAME FOR PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., April 21.—(AP)—Jake Slagle pinch-hitting in the seventh inning when Princeton was one run behind in the game with Columbia, today banged out a home run with two men on base. Two runs later in that inning ended the scoring and Princeton won 10 to 7.

Score by innings:

Kaplan Knocks Out Roy

Kaplan weighed 130 1-4 and Roy 130 1-2.

In the initial exchanges the Canadian gave as much as he received and had an edge on the champion at the end of the first round. Kaplan showed good judgment, however, and as the fight progressed steadily overcame Roy's resistance. His trip-hammer blows had the local man bleeding in the third and in the next round Kaplan displayed great superiority.

The champion widened his margin of points by pounding away and keeping the fighting at close range. In the seventh Kaplan landed often. Roy went down once for a count of two and had no more than gained his feet when Kaplan was upon him with a shower of drives to the head A right to the jaw sent the Canadian down for the count.

Room 20 Not to Play Today

Room 20 of the Academy interclass league will be unable to play the manual training department team this afternoon but will play them on Friday afternoon instead.

COMMISSIONER DONOHUE SAYS BIG HOUSE FOR DELANEY

State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue in a telephone conversation last evening said that if Norwich people wished to be sure of seats for the Delaney-King Solomon fight at Hartford Monday evening they had better get busy and get the pasteboards. Commissioner Donohue said that all tickets in New London had been sold and that Holyoke was sending down a special train of fight fans from that city. It is expected that between 10,000 and 12,000 fans would see the pride of Connecticut in action. He also guaranteed that all purchasing tickets would get the seat their pasteboard called for.

Among other things that Commissioner Donohue said last night was that he predicted another world's title for Connecticut before July 4th provided Berlenbach could be drawn into a fight with Delaney at Madison square garden. Commissioner Donohue is of the opinion that Delaney will not be denied the title and that Berlenbach will fnid a different Delaney in the ring when he meets him next.

Young DeForest Changes Name

Young DeForest of Danielson will hereafter be known to the ring as Al Moreno. The boxer was signed to meet Young Coulon at New London this month but the fight fell through. Moreno has been keeping in shape by working out with Young Major and Sunny Mays at Danielson.

Modified Mutuels for Chicago

CHICAGO, April 21.—(AP)—Modified mutuels will be the form of wagering at the new Washington park race course at Homewood, Illinois, twenty five miles south of Chicago, it became known today. Racing will begin July 3, ending August 7. The track, a mile and an eighth oval, was completed last fall.

Room 23 Wins

Room 23 team of the interclass league at the Academy defeated the team from Room 15 Wednesday afternoon 5 to 6. The victory was due largely to the heavy hitting and sensational fielding of Sullivan, Louis, Greene and Marcell. Polsky also featured in the field.

Broadway Team Wins

The Broadway grammar school team annexed another victory Wednesday afternoon when they defeated the Klondikes at Mohegan park 8 to 6. It was a fast and close game.

Twelve hundred dollars a year was the top-notch salary for ball players in the early day of the National League.

The Boston Red Sox start the 1926 season with more new players in the lineup than any other of the major league teams.

The Naval Academy track and field team meets six opponents this season, closing with the annual match against the Military Academy on May 29.

A Raw, Sore Throat

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

What 30 Years of Cooking taught Mrs. Rorer about Stoves

By MRS. SARAH TYSON RORER
Philadelphia Cooking Expert

"I PREFER oil stoves to any other kind. I speak from the fullness of 30 years' experience with them. Oil is clean, economical, and dependable. It saves a world of work. No coal or wood to carry in, no ashes to carry out. And no dust.

"I have just completed a special experiment on the 1926 model Perfection Oil Stove, testing it under all possible cooking conditions. I cooked many meals in my own kitchen. Every dish was deliciously cooked.

Immediate Cooking

"Steak began to broil and my molasses cake began to rise almost as soon as I lighted the burners. There was no waiting for the heat to 'come up.'

"The bottom of every utensil used in the experiment was as clean as a china dish. No scouring was necessary. Those long Perfection chimneys certainly are insurance against sooty kettles.

All at the Same Time

"I cooked many things at once. For boiling beef I used a very low flame. I French-fried potatoes over a hot flame with yellow tips about 1½ inches high above the blue area. I cooked white sauce over a medium flame.
